The Phillies have lost three straight games and they'll be in the National League dungeon if they lose as soon as Cincinnati Reds move out.

Both clubs probably would have finished there anyway, Greenberg's going means a change in position for Detroit—possibly a drop into the second division.

The severity of home-run hitter was the most valuable player in the American League last year, Tigers can lose that kind of a keystone and go ahead as though nothing had happened. Besides the Tigers are week at the outfield services. Mank, highest salaried player in baseball, is believed to earn about $2,000 a week—probably will get $7,000 before he is inducted.

In the meantime the races in the two leagues are muddled in more than the usual early season turmoil.

Giants Undefeated

In the National League New York Giants are undefeated and on top and the world champion Reds are on the bottom without a single victory. Boston Red Sox are unbeaten leaders of the American League while five clubs are tied for second with an even split of their games to date.

The Reds were routed by Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday in spite of the fact that they sent Bucky Walters, old dependable, out after their first victory. Walters went until the six inning. Then in the seventh Maurice Van Robays opened with a homer and Vince Dimaggio followed with another with two teammates on base. The result—a 6-3 win for the Pirates. Max Butcher held Cincinnati to five hits and the only run he allowed was a homer by Rookie Dick West.

Cards Suffer First Defeat

St. Louis Cardinals suffered their first defeat when Chicago Cubs got rough with Slaver Mize in the seventh inning on three extra-base blows, the last a homer by Bill Nicholson, for a 6-4.

New York Giants made peasoup of the Phillies 7-3, starting Hubbell in a five-run third inning when Mel Ott homered with the bases loaded.

Brooklyn's baseball Dodgers who hadn't won a game previously had one given them in Boston's Braves field. Bees blew up with six errors and handed over an 11-9 decision. Fireworks among Brooklyn's 14 hits was a three-run homer by Pete Reiser.

Boston Red Sox stayed unbeaten with a runaway 10-3 win over Philadelphia Athletics. Lefty Grove held the A's to two hits for seven innings, but one of these was a two-run homer by Sam Chapman in the fourth. He was removed for a pinchhitter and young Herb Hash finished with two hitless innings.

Decent Hits Homer

In the seventh Bob Doerr hit a home run for the Sox to put them back in the running and in the ninth he came through with a mate aboard to win the game.

Home runs decided Detroit's 4-2 triumph over Cleveland Indians. Each team got six hits. Jeff Heath of Cleveland was a roundtripper by Ken Keltner. Two of the Tigers' were homers by Charley Gehringer and Rudy York, the latter with a man on. Al Benton relieved Tommy Bridges on the mound for Detroit with the bases loaded in the ninth and saved the game.

Washington revenged its opening-day defeat by New York Yankees by shelling lefty Marius Russo for a dozen hits in four frames and won out 9-4.

Old Ted Lyons led Chicago White Sox to a 6-3 verdict over St. Louis Browns.

Orval Grove

An outstanding pitching prospect, Leroy Orval Grove, rookie right-hander, comes up with the Chicago White Sox this season.

Grove, a 200-pounder, has looked good in spring training. He was Oklahoma City last year he won only 10 games, but was improved in several. He has excellent control.

Although he is only 21 years old, Grove has been playing pro ball for several years. He was pitched for St. Paul, Dallas, Lang-view and Oklahoma City.

Northern Ball Heads Organize

Sudbury, April 18.—Chester McConkey, of Falconbridge, was re-elected president of the Nickel District baseball league at the annual meeting here last night. Bert Flynn of Copper Cliff was returned vice-president, while Gordon Soucie of Creighton was given a second term as secretary-treasurer.

At least three clubs announced, at the conclusion of affiliating with the N.B.B.L. this year. They were Frood, Falconbridge and Copper Cliff. Due to the departure of a number of players for active service duty, on, with only eight players available from last years squad, it was decided that operation be adopted for a combined club to be picked from Sudbury and Creighton. Should they make a definite decision not to enter this year, it will be the first time in over twenty years that Creighton has not been represented in the Nickel Belt Baseball League.

The treasurer's report revealed a balance of $210 on hand from last season.

ROYALS TO PLAY WITHOUT THREE IN FIRST GAME

Farmer, Morrison and Ritchie Will be Absent Due to School Work

HAVE TO TAKE CHANCE

By JACK MITCHELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
Montreal, April 18 (CP).—As only fitting for Quebec's history-making chance at a Memorial Cup, the weight rested today on a home-brewed band of Montreal Royals who overcome obstacles with the form of a hurdler.

The Royals, all recruited from the Montreal district save one, showed they worked best under handicaps in the Ontario-Quebec Arterials for the eastern Junior hockey title. They get a further chance to prove it in the Dominion final against Winnipeg Rangers.

With Buddy Farmer, high-scoring centre, shelved for the season in the last game with Ottawa, Coach White plans on starting the best-of-five final with the western champions at Toronto Monday without the services of two other stars — goalie Ross Ritchie and winger Grant Morrison.

"Both Ritchie and Morrison have examinations at McGill University Monday and Tuesday," said White, leading a Quebec team into the final for the first time in cup history. "We'll take a chance on the first game without them—and that doesn't mean we're just kicking it away."

White based his hopes on "something good" in the way of replacements—sub goalie Lleth Dickie and John Horodyski.

Being groomed for the netminding chores, the 19-year-old Dickie has made a good showing whenever called upon to replace the brilliant Ritchie. Horodyski, another player dropped from the team after playing all season, has also been very forced to cut to twelve men for the playoffs.

To Play Second Game.

Both Ritchie and Morrison, who commuted between Montreal and Toronto by air during the five game series with the Toronto Ice Hawks, will definitely be back for the second game at Montreal Thursday—but the only one definite for Montreal, with the teams returning to Toronto for the rest of the series.

White refused to make any predictions on the series, but said "they'll have to be good to beat us." For backing, he pointed to the way Royals walloped Ottawa early playoffs and outfought the highly-favored Greyhounds, twice-successful Memorial Cup champions.

On the heavy side for a Montreal junior team, the Royals are fast and shifty. All but four are near the limit of 160 pounds limit for Junior players.

Lloyd (Bunny) Glover, brought from Toronto Native Sons late in the season under the Canadian replacement rule, is the only "import" on the club. Glover, a left-shooting right winger Bobby Carragher, centre Ken Mosdell and defenceman Bill Morrison are the second-year Royals.

Farmer On Injured List.

The main offensive strength of the club in the absence of Farmer has lain in the first-string forward trio of Carragher, Farmer and Morrison, who have piled up 61 points in the last fourteen matches. With Farmer's fractured ankle keeping him out for the season, Coach White intends to use utility man Glover-Jones as the centre spot on the line while replacing Morrison with Horman for the Toronto games.

This way the second line of Mosdell, Wright and Glover-Jones and left winger Jim Planche could be kept intact. Wright and Mosdell with Allan Hall working as utility wingers in the first game.

In front of either Ritchie or Dickie, White has a staunch three-man defence in Bill Gilbert, veteran of the team, Bob McFarlane and Horodyski and are expected to be in good shape for the rearguard duties.

Merry Mike Kaplan is Uncrowned Welterweight Champion by Victory

Boston, April 19 (AP)—Merry Mike Kaplan, Boston battler who has lost but two of his 49 ring starts, ruled uncrowned welterweight champion today as a result of his decisive 10-round victory over champion Fritzie Zivic in an overweight battle.

While admitting that he was out-classed by the merry Kaplan, who netted a 9.092 score of the Boston Garden last night Zivic expressed confidence that he would soon be on the way to get a return bout. Jerry Arnstrong.

"Kaplan fought a smart fight and did pile up enough points to win the decision," Zivic said. "But I'm confident I'll be able to stay in escape me over the 15 round route with Kaplan and would like to try it when I put up my title".

Promoter Rip Valente said assured Kaplan he would give him a shot at the welterweight title in a summer bout here if he could beat Filadelphia in about 10 months ago expressed himself as satisfied with the decision both if the terms were satisfactory.

WINNIPEG COMES EAST TO BATTLE MONTREAL JRS.

Rangers Score 7-3 Victory Over Montreal Quakers in Seventh Game

A HEAVY TEAM

By MARSHALL BATEMAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, April 19.—(CP)—Winnipeg Rangers, one of the heaviest junior clubs ever to represent the west in the Memorial Cup series were optimistic today as they prepared for the best-of-five series final against Montreal Royals, opening in Toronto Monday night.

Shortly after the inspired Winnipeggers trimmed Eastern champions 7-3 last night to win the best-of-seven western championship series 4-3 in games, Coach Lorne (Babby) Northcott predicted they will take Royals.

The former Montreal and Chicago National League star said he based his forecast on the way Rangers played last night.

The club, inspired by the brilliant defence of Bill Mortimer and Bill Hlenidj, who returned to the lineup after injuries kept him out of league games for two months, used different outfit last night from the one that took a 10-2 drubbing at Saskatoon Wednesday.

Sent on Offensive

In the 7-3 victory, Northcott sent his charges on the offensive from the opening of the puck, banged a goal in little more than a minute and two more midway through the first period.

As the red Rangers, who will carry Manitoba's 10th bid in the Memorial Cup final in an effort to bring the seventh national title to the Red River Valley, were stirred lot.

Rangers completely bottled up the Windsor brothers Eddie and Harry, two of the most dangerous Quaker wingers, and tagged Bob Shabaga, ace Quaker centre, effectively. Shabaga, Sammy Paiva collided with the pivot star and Bobby Kinnaird, during the game early in the third. Shabaga suffered a knee injury.

Harold Layzoe, Quakers' rushing defenceman, was robbed of more than one golden chance by the fine performance of Goalkeeper Hal Thompson.

Coach Russ McQuarrie had no alibis for the Quakers' defeat last team won." was his only comment.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Bob Feller, Red Sox pitching ace, all Boston's runs with two homers to beat Athletics.

Ernie Bonham and Charley root, Cubs—Former drove in three runs with single and homer and later pitched shutout ball against Cardinals after fourth inning.

Al Benton, Tigers—Came to mound with bases loaded in ninth inning and choked Cleveland rally to one run.

Ken Chase, Senators—Held Yankees scoreless in seven of nine innings on eight scattered safeties.

Mel Ott, Giants—Hit home run with bases loaded against Phillies.

WIDE-OPEN STYLE EXPECTED IN TONIGHT GAME

Regina Rangers and Sydney Millionaires Meet for Dominion Senior Title

EAST TEAM FAVORED

Calgary, April 18 (CP)—Hockey Western style is expected to be the men when Regina Rangers and Sydney Millionaires tangle here tonight in the first game of the best-of-five series for the Allan Cup and the Canadian senior amateur title.

The Eastern champions from the Saskatchewan capital always have played a speedy game since Rich Prodey Metcalfe organized the squad last Fall.

Then Bill Gill the Brookfield, Sask., boy who coaches the Eastern champions from the Dominion Steel mining town brought into town yesterday, announced his team will play "wide open" against Rangers and proceeded to devote 30 minutes of an hour workout to Millionaires' power play.

The fans who saw Millionaires admitted they will be one of the few teams to compare with Rangers for speed this season, and chiefly because Millionaires have Johnny McCreedy, Dick Kowcinak and Mel Snowden, all shooting for their fourth championship in four years. They installed the Easterners as slight favorites.

Team Appeared Alert

The team appeared about ever in defensive strength. Any edge that Sydney's first forward line had over Regina's No. 1 trio was made up by the margin Regina has in goal with Ken Farrell against Jim Henry.

Rangers last Saturday's game here between Rangers and Lethbridge Maple Leafs, 2 to 1, Saturday in Kingston, Ont., led eliminates to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association championship in wide-open hockey with a minimum of body-check-line and interference.

"It was the best game I have seen in 10 years," said Mr. Sather's lord.

The referees for tonight are Lee Hicks of Montreal and Dick Davis of Winnipeg.

Guelph Minor Ball Is Bright

Guelph, April 19—Although prospects for senior baseball in Guelph appear none too bright, the Guelph Minor Baseball Association is laying plans to provide fans with plenty of entertainment during the coming season. Officials of the association announced today that applications would be entered in the junior, juvenile, midget and bantam series in the Inter-County League and a meeting will be held next week to complete organization plans for the season. Guelph minor teams had a splendid year in 1940, the juveniles winning the Ontario title as well as the Inter-County championship, the midgets also capturing honors in the inter-county loop.

DICK FOWLER'S TWO-HITTER BEATS ORIOLES

Toronto Hurler Did Not Allow a Hit Until the Ninth Frame

SCORE IS 3-0

(By The Associated Press)
International League rookies, like the flowers in Spring, are in full bloom.

Five of them played major roles in yesterday's games, impressing fans and vindicating the faith of their managers.

Most notable achievement was 20-year-old Dick Fowler's two-hit pitching effort in hurling Toronto Leafs to a 3-0 triumph over Baltimore Orioles. Runner-up honors went to Chet Kehn, whose brilliant relief pitching helped Montreal Royals edge out Newark Bears, 3-2.

Johnny Sain, Boston recruit in the Texas League, delivered a timely single in the Little Giants and Jersey City to a 13-3 decision over Rookie Rube Fischer a 2-1 victory over the champion Rochester Red Wings, while Virgil "Fire" Trucks limited Syracuse Chiefs to five hits in fashioning a 5-2 victory for Buffalo Bisons.

Fowler, a towering right-hander, never was in trouble and had a no-hitter until the ninth, when Harrelson led off. Sisling singles to left to break the spell. But Hamilton beat out a hit to Al Rubeling for the only safety. Joe Dobson relieved Toronto by Connie Mack, sparked Leafs attack with a double, a triple and single off Clyde Smoll, former Philly.

Quelle Uprising

Bears were just beginning to get to Steve Rachunok of Hollywood, when Kehn stepped in to quell the uprising at Newark. In the ninth inning, with two outs, the 19-year-old right-hander from Elmira came through with a pinch double, allowing only one hit. Each club garnered six safeties apiece, and three each of theirs to score all three runs off Rachunok in the fifth.

Although Davis' single was the only hit off Sain in 10 innings, his classy hurling played a big part in the Little Giants' victory over Rochester. Sain toiled for Clinton of the Three-Eye League last season, but this year he has been called it up in the ninth with two out on a single by Johnny Cucinello's double. Hugh East and Roy Hershaw stopped Rochester from scoring in the eighth, but Hershaw receiving credit for the decision. Lefty Brumbeau was on the distance for Rochester and gave up 10 hits.

Buffalo Bisons continued their unsuccessful mastery over Syracuse, downing out 11 hits off Les Iltchuk to make it two straight. Trucks struck out six and walked three.

New York, April 19 (AP).— A hockey player who is known as Freddy Corcoran, hustling P.G.A. tournament promoter, has signed to put the golf ball of fame across. Is booming it and he's hard to stop. Roy Weatherly, who got a $500 bonus last season, is trying to convince baseball he's worth the price.

Out in front the Giants are loping. And the Brooklyn Dodgers, can't. When, according to the gloppy, Leo Durocher is going to be sherry And we sing his praise in verse.

Here's how it happened:

HEARD AND SEEN:

Things got so serious in Flatbush that Larry MacPhail skipped the Dodgers' opening game with the Newark to see his Montreal farm team play. Today's game is important. What pitcher has been a member of Cincinnati Reds and St. Louis Cardinals? Why, Lon Warneke, who never wore the uniform of either club. Which proves that baseball doesn't believe the $2,900 fine the Cubs' pitching ace received from Judge Landis was a little different. Warneke always gauged the distance, trying to pitch a few feet from the winter vaudeville. Now he's a no-hitter. Walter Hagen, one of golf's all-time aces, soon will be 50, but he can still shoot a great game.

Bill Tilden is another bordering on 50. And another broken-down baseball star, Charles Root, of the Cubs is ready for his 16th season.

It must have been with malification the members of the Curling Club heard that their treasurer, R. C. Sisler, announces the sale of curling memberships for $5.00 on its year's activities in 1941. This evidence of optimism is a credit to Belleville, as it is only proper that there be adequate recreation for its youth. Only the other day Hank Greenberg told sport reporters he was not receiving $50,000 per year salary from the Detroit Tigers. "But I am a $100 contract," added Hankus Pankus. The early spring this year has set the softball addicts all agog and anticipating a great season opening. However, they should not become too optimistic as Victoria Day is still more than a month in the offing. The new system of play in the men's series is being accepted more amicably, since the moguls studied the situation from all angles, and the fans, players, fines and pitcher's distance will doubtless open the game up and make it more attractive. As far as concerned, more particularly the batsmen, they will have a real fighting chance fielding hard-hit balls, which in the past has always seem to think the new pitching distance will be of material assistance to Con Harris, whose previously high pitches will now zoom in plain view of the batsmen. With Johnnie Bawden it may be a little different, as Bawden always gauged the distance, trying to pitch a few feet from the winter vaudeville. Now he's a no-hitter. Walter Hagen, one of golf's all-time aces, soon will be 50, but he can still shoot a great game.

Little Benny's Note Book

We were sailing breakfast and ma said to pop, I hope you've made a mental reservation to be home before 7, you know we expect Maud Perkins Hews for dinner and I told Maud asiently that a fine dinner you're going to order a big tea bone steak, I hope you don't mind, Willyum. A steak is the only kind of meat that arouses a little flicker of intrist in Yewisee Hews, she said.

It arouses a mighty bonfire of anticipation in me, so why should I mind? pop said, and said But I mind? now you like your steak as well as a steak can be, and said well done as a steak can be,

GRECIAN KING

The scholarly banker, Koriziz, whose cabinet yesterday resigned, was announced to his countrymen late last night, had succeeded the late Alexander Koryzis as premier of wartime Greece.

Thus within within 48 days death had disrupted Greece's Government at a time when the nation fought desperately for life.

Koryzis, who toyed to lead on undaunted in the fight with Italy and Germany, killed himself when Koriziz had pledged his nation to stand firm now against the military might of the Axis.

Cause of Death Not Given

The Athens Military district visited Koryzis as declaring in a radio message to the nation tonight that this stand would be an example to the "Xenocrat Greek troops, who have covered themselves with honor and glory for six months and who continue to fight on the mountain under the most difficult conditions to fight a modern conditions battle."

The government did not disclose immediately the cause of Koryzis' death, first announced to the Greek people last night.

The government announced that an Investment would be held today at the Athens Cathedral with all honors of a state nature. At the same time another announcement declared Greece's resistance would be carried on under the full authoritative source added:—

"Various rumors have been put into circulation by malicious elements serving treacherous aims and foreign interests. It can be stated categorically that the struggle against the Axis for the salvation of the Fatherland is going on unabated in all parts of the country's disposal and with none shandoning his post."

Koryzis Biography

Koryzis, 56, only last Jan. 29th, succeeded Premier Alexander Papagos, 70-year-old builder of the Greek army which successfully stopped the Italians but finally gave way before the German blitz.

Koryzis, who died of a throat infection, was said to have personally directed Greece's defense as its successor, and the scholarly financier of the nation's defense against George II.

Koriziz, tall and lean, was not a military man but took up the work of one, assuming the portfolios of war, air, navy, colonies, navy and education which Metaxas had held before him.

"We Have Only Name to Follow"

Koriziz familiar with those policies as a veteran "behind-the-scenes" adviser of Metaxas.

He was born on the Island of Corfu, near Salonika, studied law, but entered the banking business and rose to be president of the Board of the Independent Agricultural Bank of Greece and also governor of the National Bank of Greece. He first came into the cabinet as Minister of Welfare when Metaxas became premier in 1936.

Koziziz, however, is a military man. His most recent assignment was Governor of Thrace to which he was sent to carry out the government's policies in the weeks just before the German invasion from Bulgaria. Before that he had been Military Governor of Athens a post taken over today by Koriziz. Kavrakos. Koziziz first came to power as Metaxas cabinet in 1937, but earlier had conducted negotiations which led to the return of King George II from exile to Britain.

FLANKS

It was understood the King himself had assumed wartime control of the government as head of the Council of Ministers.

(Informed sources said the monarch earlier had asked Konstantinos Logothetopoulos, former governor of Athens, to form a cabinet, but that he had failed to do so.

Koziziz last night appealed to the people in a radio address to stand firm as an example to their fighting army in Albania, British and Imperial forces "fighting on our soil at the side of our troops."

Enemy Pressure Repelled

On the fighting front, the Greek High Command said all "enemy pressure" had been repelled by the Allied defences around Mount Olympus on the eastern end of the defence line, in the central valley of the Aliakmon River and around Grevena in the central sector fortress area.

"On the Albanian front" the communique said, "our operations on Albanian soil were carried out calmly."

A Greek spokesman said Italians attacking the Greek rearguard in the Chimara sector of Albania "are chased every time."

Chimara was taken by the Greeks Dec. 22, in 30 miles north of Porto Edda and 12 miles north of Argyrokastron which the Italian High Command claimed to have taken yesterday.)

Reviews Fighting

The Greek Press Ministry, in a review of the fighting last night, declared:

"The situation is serious in view of increasing German reinforcements from Bulgaria.

"The struggle continues with great violence all over northern Greece. . . . Our resistance is increasing . . . so far no excess has been achieved by the enemy and the battle is by no means decisive.

"Greek forces are steadily realizing inflicting increasingly heavy losses on the enemy. Their assault has been stemmed . . . but does not mean the situation is not serious.

"Particularly heavy is German pressure to the south of Mount Olympus where Greek troops are holding out ten German divisions and Italian Alpine detachments at point. The Germans are sacrificing men regardless of number."

SUGGESTED

Ottawa, April 19 (CP)—The number of prisoners who broke out in an internment camp in the Petawawa, western Ontario may be as high as 30, internment authorities said here today.

First reports were that 26 had escaped during the night after the evening roll call.

"The number may be as high as 30," an official said, "it is around that anyway. We are trying to get more information."

Previous escapes of civilian prisoners from internment camps, internment authorities numbered 32.

It was another break from behind the camp east of Port Arthur had been engineered by Commissioner Hitler's birthday which is tomorrow. It was felt here the escapees planned to consider a break for freedom a particularly defiant gesture on or near the Fuehrer's birthday.

For this reason 8 super-watch on all camps had been planned for the week-end.

The Secretary of State Department spokesman said all prisoners in the camp had been accounted for at 8 p.m. when the usual nightly check-up was made.

Each Thick About Camp.

It was 1 a.m. when the escapes were discovered.

"The camp from which the wholesale escape was made is situated in isolated camp in Canada," said the spokesman.

"The bush is thick and extends on all sides of the camp for many miles and there are few roads to speak of and the only quick means of moving through the country or the country is on the Canadian Pacific Railway's right-of-way."

The spokesman said there was no settlement in the area. Therefore the escaped prisoners could obtain food or other aid.

"All these men are heading for the United States border as other prisoners have done they will have to travel some 500 or 600 miles around Lake Superior to get into United States.

If a wholesale break had to come it could not have come in a better place from the point of placing the men in country that is difficult to travel through," he added.

The camp commandant notified the department in charge of internment operations, of the escape. The first brief word gave no details of how the break had occurred.

Col. Stethem was absent on business in Toronto. But his assistant confirmed the report.

"We have no details as yet," said the official. "We merely have been advised that twenty-eight men have escaped from a Northern Ontario camp."

The break raises to 61 the number of escapes known to have been made from custody of internment authorities in Canada since war started.

Nurses Go Guests Hazarded

The official added that of course guards were sent out immediately to try and track down the escaped prisoners.

He would not hazard a guess as to how the escape, took place.

But in the past it has been determined that the German prisoners of war usually planned for some time before making any attempt to gain their freedom.

One civilian internee is said to have showed great skill and ingenuity at thinking up means of breaking away. Quite often one or more prisoners have shielded the actions of their fellow prisoners in order to aid an escape attempt.

The civilian internee in his mess broke away during the night is ruggedly built, and is remembered in the area where the one prisoner who has been held for trial for his escape attempt died under the fire of an internment guard.

The civilian internee who, with a companion, was located by the search party several miles from the camp he left and, when ordered to surrender, he charged the guard and died almost immediately under the guard's fire.

Of the 28 prisoners who previously escaped only one remains at large. He is Joseph Ferdinand Fox, who escaped from a prison train taking him to the interior from an east coast Canadian port.

The Baron, a German air force officer made his way to the United States and now is free there on bail on a charge of illegal entry.

British, Greeks Withdraw To New Positions

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington April 19 (AP)—The fact that the British and Greek British forces have withdrawn to ranks a new line south of the present battle front in Greece can cause no serious embarrassment from British Middle East Headquarters in Cairo, military experts here already was apparent so far as the British and Greek general line was concerned.

An Italian claim of two days ago that Greek troops in Albania and Northwestern Greece were in retreat, also appeared to be in evidence of a sweeping Greek withdrawal from the Albanian front, the whole line westward from the Kalamas River to the Adriatic Sea, which American near Klmara formed a perilous salient, has been straightening. They were faced by even graver perils than before the circle of the Nazi vise. A German-Italian break-through westward from Salonika to the Aegean Sea's base region might have trapped the Greek forces in the north and the British in the east with their backs to the sea.

Gravity Admitted

The British announcement of another general withdrawal along the whole front might mean that the Greeks in the north have succeeded in falling back out of threatened danger. That was not admitted in Cairo as yet, however. With Rome claiming that Greeks are in full flight, if not yet in possession, of Koritza (Korca, Albania), Italian harbor on the extreme southern coastal tip of Albania, it may be that Greek divisions south and southeast of Koritza have still to fall back separately. Athens and London make no secret of the gravity of the situation.

The withdrawal brings up anew the question whether a new stand might be made on the "shorter line" in Greece mentioned in the Cairo announcement. The shortest possible line from the Albanian to the present Allied front is at the Greek waistline from the Gulf of Arta, on the Ionian Sea, to the Gulf of Atalanta, is a possible eastern anchor. From there the Allied line would front still covering Athens and a possible line of defense would run north of the Straits of Corinth.

Cairo has given no indication that if the Axis bombs either Athens or Salonika, Britain will retaliate against Rome. Further suggests hope for an Allied stand in Greece is the fact several yielding defense front. Abandoning the Greek mainland would mean to open the great central valley lands to the Germans, whereupon Greece would bring Nazi-Fascist air bases to Britain's doorstep.

Dangers in Retreat.

There are grave dangers in a retreat. There is no wide a front through those open lands to the mountainous region to the west. Once the Allies leave behind them the mountainous region they will now passes in which the fight has been fighting, they would be exposed to the full impact of Nazi blitzkrieg tactics.

Study of recent auto road maps of Central Greece discloses the possibility that the Greeks have provided thrusts to cut through and get behind mountainous Metsovo Pass, always traverse Greece, running north and south.

For the moment the western flank of the Allied line seems to touch the sea, the Ionian, not the Aegean. Should the Greeks and the Greek' - Albanian border, in the vicinity of the Ionian Island of Corfu, be forced back the Greeks have already evacuated Albania and have the Adriatic Sea coastline south all the way from the Ionian coast to Koritza as a possible line of retention. Retirement from Albania does not offer Greece any greatly shortened front to defend nor can they hope to contract their lines substantially by withdrawal to the Albanian border.

A different retirement for the British forces in Greece, however, is also in prospect.

If the Allies negotiate it, however, and reach a front from the Yonitza vicinity to the west in the Ionian region in the east, they would have only about 100 miles of mountainous bulkwark front to hold, protected by water on both flanks.

Heavy Explosion At Collegiate Says Fire Chief

Complete mystery surrounds a terrific explosion, that was not only heard, but seen by Fire Chief Wm. Lynch at the Belleville Collegiate Institute on Friday night.

Chief Lynch was proceeding along Chisholm Drive, when he says he observed what appeared to be a small flame coming from the south side of the Collegiate building. Being in charge of the Belleville Fire Department, Chief Lynch immediately started across the school grounds to ascertain the cause, evidently there was a terrific and deafening explosion.

"The flames leaped as high as the roof of the building and the concussion was quite noticeable," Chief Lynch later told police authorities.

Later Sergeant Arthur Harman and Constables Taylor and Arnott joined Chief Lynch and despite the fact a thorough search of the premises was made, no evidence or any debris was found. Attendants at the night lunch counter across in progress in the basement at the Collegiate were also questioned, but denied any knowledge of the explosion.

"I saw the form of a man, carrying a flashlight, disappear around the south corner of the building just prior to the explosion," Chief Lynch told police authorities today. No explanation for the blast could be brought forth by the authorities today.

JAPANESE TAKE PORT OF NINGPO

Nine-Hour Offensive Staged by Army and Navy Before Fort Falls

Shanghai, April 19 (AP)—Approximately 100,000 Japanese troops are making supply channels of the Chinese government in Chungking, Kiangsi province, suspended by warships and aircraft, were reported today to have taken the Chekiang province port of Ningpo in a nine-hour offensive.

Ningpo, one of the first Chinese ports opened under the treaty of treaty of 1842, is 100 miles south of Shanghai and has been serving as important communications link between Northern Chinese and the chungking government, neutral observers said.

A military spokesman said the Japanese carried out several successful surprise landings on the coasts of Chekiang and Fukien Provinces. Ningpo had not previously been molested during the 2½-year war in China.

Advices reaching here said occupation of the treaty port culminated a week of Japanese bombing raids during which at least 1,000 persons population of 200,000 were removed. These reports said the Japanese army had captured Shaohing, a town inland from Ningpo on the Hangchow-Ningshow-Shanghai railroad.

Belleville Motor Car Company Well Equipped to Take Care of All Kinds of Servicing for Cars

Firm Is Also Belleville Agency For McLaughlin-Buick, Pontiac Cars and G.M.C. Trucks

A. C. REYNOLDS, MANAGER

Complete servicing of motorcars, including every phase of operation from a minor grease job to a major motor overhaul by a staff of expert mechanics is offered to the local motoring public at the well-equipped garage of the Belleville Motor Car Company, corner Bridge and Coleman streets, of which A. C. Reynolds is the manager.

Nothing but the most modern equipment, all of which has passed the approval of the automotive trade, is used in the servicing department of this popular garage. A complete motor overhaul offers no obstacle to a crew of competent mechanics when aided by the latest trouble-shooting gadgets with which this garage is equipped. The motor analyzing equipment quickly determines the trouble and the mechanics do the rest.

Earl Anderson, with fifty years experience as a garage worker, is foreman of the servicing department which includes body service, complete lubricating, and general overhaul. Included on the mechanical staff are the two Foley brothers, Wilfred and Tobias, while Tom Barbour is a recent addition to the crew. James McClusky has complete charge of the parts department while accountant for the firm is George Hall.

Although comparatively a newcomer to Belleville, Mr. Reynolds, the manager of the company has a wealth of experience in the automotive field, having been in the business for a period of twelve years. He entered the business in Brockville and after a period of five years in that city moved to Kingston. Two years ago he came to this city to take over the agency of C. B. Farnham. Mr. Ted Green is his head salesman.

The Belleville Motor Car Company handles products of General Motors, selling Buicks, Pontiacs and G.M.C. trucks. B.A. products are used exclusively in their service department, while they also handle Firestone Tires. The used car department which has been a major companion section of the company has established itself in the minds of local motorists as being a reliable and safe place to purchase a used car.

MR. A. C. REYNOLDS,

Manager of Belleville Motor Car Company, dealers in McLaughlin Buick and Pontiac cars.

Greater Safety by Simplification of Driving Seen

Chrysler Chief Points to Advances Which Reduce Operations

Substantial contributions toward greater safety on the highway, through simplification of driving operations, are being made this year by automotive engineers, according to C. W. Churchill, vice-president of the Chrysler division of Chrysler Corporation.

An outstanding example of this trend of giving the driver less work to do and more time to attend to the business of piloting his car safely is Chrysler's simplimatic transmission, comeasin feature to fluid drive, said Churchill, pointing to the fact that with these two advances, the motorist can, under all normal conditions, start, stop and go all day without touching gear-shift lever or clutch pedal; yet, without removing his hands from the steering wheel, he can control gear-shifting at all times, simply by using his "accelerator toe."

Created by Thrusts

"It's obvious that this controlling of gears through use of the accelerator pedal is an important contribution to safer driving, said Churchill.

With simplimatic transmission, he explained, the "high" position in which the shift-lever is left at all times for all normal driving is actually "high range." It consists of two separate and distinct speeds. One is the power, or accelerating gear; the other the cruising gear. The start is always made in the accelerating gear. But when the car reaches a speed of 15 to 20 miles an hour, the new transmission makes a shift into cruising gear when the accelerator pedal is released momentarily.

Safe, Extra Power

It's just as easy, Churchill pointed out, to go from cruising gear to accelerating gear. This is done simply by stepping all the way down on the gas pedal, thus providing safe, extra power for passing other cars on the road or in other cases where extra pickup is needed. When the speed of the car in cruising gear slows down to 15 miles an hour, the new transmission automatically shifts back into accelerating gear.

There are only two occasions upon which the clutch is needed. One is when the driver wants extreme power—for instance, to take abnormally steep hills from a standing start or to pull out of snow, mud or sand. Then he uses the clutch and puts the shift-lever into "low range," which like "high range," has two separate speeds. The other occasion is when it is necessary to go into reverse.

Eighteen Years Of Courteous, Efficient Service Completed By The J. B. Boyce Garage

Greatly Increased Business During The Years Forced Firm To Move Three Times Huge Amount Of Repair Work Taken Care Of Yearly

NO JOB TOO SMALL, NO JOB TOO LARGE

Approaching the culmination of eighteen years of efficient courteous service to the motoring public, the J. B. Boyce Garage today exemplifies the forward march of progress in the automotive industry in this city.

The hub around which a great deal of district business revolves, the well-known Front street organization today occupies an enviable position in its particular sphere. Maintaining in all its efficient departments, the last word in modern equipment, it has forged steadily ahead through the medium of expert work and service and the appreciation of thousands of motorists that form a satisfied clientele.

Efficient mechanics, courteous salesmen, a highly capable administrative staff, the high quality of its workmanship, and the products it handles, has earned for the garage a reputation that borders on a tradition in automobile circles.

Carry Huge Parts Stock.

With justifiable pride, the staff will say: "We handle only genuine General Motors parts." Salesmen point with pride to General Motors cars. The spacious Parts Department in which is included over 5,000 various parts, is a clearing house and a depot for district garages within a radius of forty miles. Annually thousands of dollars worth of these materials find their way to these garages.

Its Service Department handles everything from the smallest adjustment to the almost complete wrecked car or vehicle. Eight thousand jobs passed through the hands of expert mechanics last year. Modern equipment in this department is one of its outstanding features. Here are available frame and axle straightners which do an efficient job without heat, a special paint section, and automatic hoists that greatly facilitate the work of the staff. Special tools are hung conveniently on large wall racks.

Operates Sinnoco Station .

In connection with its sales and service departments, the organization operates a service station, that like its accompanying services, is the last word in up-to-date equipment.

Popularity of Sunoco gasoline, handled by the service station, situated directly across the street from "headquarters" is seen in the fact that 100,000 gallons of this product were sold last year. Monthly averages for 1941 indicate that this figure will be surpassed this year.

A feature of the service station is its outstanding equipment for housecleaning motors, and giving them "internal baths". Here, modern lubrication pumps which force cleansing oil through the motors, facilitates this service. Over two thousand cars were completely lubricated and cleaned last year, and this particular phase of the service station business is definitely on the uptrend. On the spacious lot which surrounds the station is the Used Car Department, a phase of the business that has added to the reputation enjoyed by the organization as a whole.

The J. B. Boyce garage was organized 18 years ago and was housed at that time in the building now occupied by the Deacon Shirt Company. Later it was transferred to the location that is now the Belle Theatre, and some years later was removed to its present site on the west side of Front street.

Highly Trained Staff.

Highly trained efficient mechanics, salesmen and clerical workers staff the various departments. In the sales division are Messrs. Ray Zufelt, William Harrison, Eugene Morden and Clifford Murphy.

Norman Mantle is the service manager and under him is the staff of mechanics. This includes Messrs. Albert Hare, Lloyd Gerow, Fred Vickers, Frank O'Connor, John Garratt, Percy Parliament, Harold Regenberg, Jack Fitzpatrick, A. H. Powell, Ross Boyce, Ray Keighton, M. Burkholder and Jack Sproule.

Ross Boyce is in charge of the Used Car Department and Cameron Macdonald, the Paint Division. Parts and Accessories Department is capably handled by Eric Mundy and George Wright. The administrative part of the business is in charge of Miss Teresa Donohue, the firm's accountant who is assisted by the Misses Gertrude Fleury and Lenore Wilkes.

The service station is under the management of Jack Sharland, under whose work A. G. MacAulay, Eugene Harrison, Jack Moore and Frank Moore.

TRAINING EMPIRE FLEDGLINGS

Wing tip to wing tip three North American Harvard trainers zoom into the clear Canadian winter sky. The pilots at the controls of these planes are studying advanced military flying at a Service Flying Training School of the R.C.A.F. at London, Ontario. These planes, equipped with retractable landing gear and capable of a speed of 200 miles an hour, are now manufactured in Canada.

New Chevrolets Feature Greater Stability, Roominess, Riding Comfort

Generous dimensional increase all around, resulting in greater roominess, stability and riding comfort are among the new features of the Chevrolet line of passenger cars for 1941.

Front and rear seat widths, elbow and shoulder room, wheelbase and bumper-to-bumper length, all have been noticeably increased, while lower frame and body-floor complete the impression of low-slung strength. This trend is further heightened by new massive bumpers and an entirely re-designed front end.

Two series—the Master De Luxe and the Special De Luxe—comprise the Chevrolet line. Concealing of the running-boards under each door is one of the features of the new styling. The fenders are larger and heavier. Usable trunk space is increased by placing the spare tire in a vertical fore-and-aft position, and also by the provision of greater width between the wheel housings. Interior refinements include, in addition to the wider seats, an entirely new and striking instrument panel, adjustable sun visors, two windshield defroster openings and artistic plastic control knobs.

The Special De Luxe is available in sport sedan, town sedan, five passenger coupe and business coupe, while the Master De Luxe is offered in the sport sedan, town sedan, five passenger coupe, and business coupe. A wide range of solid colours and two tone combinations is available.

Rubber Synthetics Used in Cars Greatly Expanded

War Vehicle Usage Creates New Needs

Mounting Production is Forecast as Work For U.S. Army Gains Headway; Tire 'Filler' Patent Granted

Faced by a prospect of declining supply of crude rubber due to war conditions and curtailment of import from the Far East, American industry especially in its automotive divisions, is developing synthetic substitutes for many products as fast as they can be perfected, states E. V. Watson in Detroit News. There are now said to be about 30 different varieties of rubber synthetics including those developed in Germany and Russia. Among the American-made kinds are the duPonts' neoprene, the Goodrich company's koroseal and ameripol, the Union Carbide and Carbon company's vinyon and Dow Chemical's thiokol; also Standard Oil's control of buna as produced in Germany. Such products in this country at last available report built up to around 2,000 tons a year which is negligible compared with consumption here.

Cost Comparison

In 1939, the United States imported 600,000 tons from which was made 57,000,000 automobile tires and 51,000,000 inner tubes. Supplementing the imported raw material supply, plants in this country reclaimed 200,000 tons from scrap.

The cost of natural rubber usually is around 20 cents a pound as compared to 35 cents to one dollar per pound that the synthetics run into, but it is stated that in spite of this manufacturers find the newer man-made types to be preferred because of resistance to heat, acids, oil, gasoline, ultra violet light and strong chemicals.

As pointing toward further steps in development of rubber production technique, two recent developments may be noted. One concerns a new process of making cotton tire cord said to be of 35 per cent greater strength and 200 per cent longer flex life than conventional cotton cords of the same gauge.

This development has been made known by the Cotton Research Foundation from Memphis, Tenn., and is officialy vouched for by the Mellon Institute at Pittsburgh, Pa. For tires it is said to give lower susceptability to heat and moisture under severe service. Prospective application to Army trucks and gun carriers will make the process valuable to national defense, is was asserted.

'Sponge' Filler

Another future cnange has been forecast in a patent issued at Washington to Alfred H. Ranyan of Indianapolis and assigned to the United States Rubber Co., has to do with sponge rubber-filled tiney tubes for Army vehicles. The inventor claims that such tires even when punctured do not go flat. As a result, a puncture does not halt manoeuvering of a gun since the sponge rubber will support it. Except for not going flat, the tire is said to function like a conventional pneumatic tire.

To get the rubber-filled inner tube in the tire casing, air is first drawn out by a vacuum pump. Thus constructed, the tube becomes smaller in size. As a result it can readily be slipped into the tire casing. Once in the casing, the rubber filler expands when air is pumped into the tire.

What modern automotive science is doing in the way of producing rubber compounds, to build up durability was disclosed in a summary contributed by George W. Lampman and C. W. Smart, engineers of the Pontiac Motors division before an assembly of rubber chemistry technicians some months ago. They showed how the laboratory men are devising and standardizing mixtures of rubber and other substances to serve specific purposes for which a wide variety of parts are required to serve.

Among problems to be worked out are included bonding to steel for engine supports, internal lubrication (a caved) sqeeaks, surface finish of exposed parts, non-staining of car finishes, weathering resistance, matching of colors, uniformity of sponge rubber and control of odor.

Lampman and Smart listed 172 uses, and 432 pieces for which rubber is utilized in a Pontiac car.

Goodrich Lists Synthetic Properties

In a scientific summary on specific characteristics of synthetic rubber, the B. F. Goodrich Co. has disclosed that the man-made product excels natural rubber in four service properties, equals it in six and is only slightly below natural standards in three.

Results of testing show that ameripol, a synthetic rubber which the company's scientists created from petroleum, natural gas and salt, can be used to bat for natural rubber 709 out of 1,000 times in the field of mechanical rubber goods, according to V. I. Monteny[illegible], in charge of the B.F.Goodrich's synthetics division.

In various compounded states, the synthetic is already being used in airplane de-icers, aviation and gasoline hose and in other mechanical applications where it is in contact with acids, oil and grease, kerosene and carbon tetrachloride, he said. In showing that the synthetic resistance excels natural rubber in resistance to aging, oxidation, heat and air, can and oil, which are enemies of nature's product.

It equals natural rubber in range of hardness elongation, tensile strength, permanent set and in resistance to abrasion, acids and alkalies, and is only slightly below natural standards in elasticity, tear resistance and reaction to shivering temperatures, and even these, can be remedied by skillful compounding.

Similar in appearance to natural crude rubber, the ameripol can be tubed, calendered, frictioned, spread, milled and vulcanized like natural rubber. Cements have been developed which will permit vulcanization and adhesion to metals, including brass, provided the metals can be roughened by sand or shot-blasting.

Riggs Motor Sales Oldest Car Agency In City Was Established In 1913 By The Late W. B. Riggs

Was First Ford Agency In Belleville—Sales Department Looks For Greatly Increased Sales

HARRY MOORMAN, GENERAL MANAGER

With the recent re-appointment of Riggs Motor Sales as exclusive Ford agents for this city, the oldest automobile agency in the city of Belleville once again offers the product of the Ford Motor Company to the motoring public. Established in 1913, twenty-eight years ago, by the late W. B. Riggs and now owned by Leo Riggs, Riggs Motor Sales were the first Ford agents in this city, and have had long association with the automotive industry in this district.

Their infallible record of fair dealing has won them an enviable reputation in local motorcoach annals and the confidence the public has placed in this well-established firm in the past is assured for the future. Mr. Harry Moorman, general manager of the firm, is confident that from a sales standpoint, the future will see vast strides made in the motor industry. "If the exigencies of a wartime Canada do not make it essential that the government curtail the production of automobiles, all indications point to vastly increased sales," is the opinion of Mr. Moorman.

Modern Building.

Modern and up-to-date in every minute detail, the building occupied by Riggs Motor Sales on Pinnacle street is one of the largest and best equipped garages in Central Ontario and offers a complete service to the motoring public. Its spacious showroom is one of the largest and most appealing in the city and displays the latest models to the best possible advantage. The sales department is in charge of Mr. Jack Snodden whose pleasing personality is a welcome sign to prospective motor-car purchasers.

The servicing department of Riggs Motor Sales garage, under the foremanship of Gordon Craig, offers the expert service on all makes of cars, many members of the mechanical staff having had complete and thorough factory training. Jack Sherry heads the body and fender repair department, while all vulcanizing is capably looked after by Gerald Dafoe. In charge of the parts department with its thousands of parts is Lyle Storrie. Jack Maiher is accountant for the firm.

Besides handling Ford cars and tractors the firm retails Supertest gasoline and motor oils and is also agent for Dominion tires.

Ford's Gigantic River Rouge Plant Symbol of U. S. Mass Production

The River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company is the largest integrated industrial unit in the world.

It is a symbol of American mass production at its extreme development.

Until the spring of 1941, River Rouge had never been forced to shut down because of labor trouble. The strike just ended focused attention on the heart of Ford's fabulous industrial empire.

The world's largest factory stands near the confluence the common near the confluence of River Rouge and the Detroit River in what was quiet rural country when Henry Ford was a boy on a nearby farm. It is five miles west of the heart of Detroit.

The plant covers approximately 1,100 acres—as much as a half-dozen or more Michigan farms.

The number of regular employees exceeds 85,000, equivalent to the entire population of such cities as Schenectady, N.Y., Lincoln, Neb., Rockford, Ill., or Berkeley, Calif.

Factory floor space totals 7,250,000 square feet. There are 100 miles of railway tracks, 125 miles of conveyors and 14 miles of roadways.

From many parts of the plant a workman would spend all his hunch period travelling if he should attempt to go outside to eat. Long trains of food carts are trundled into the plant at mealtime.

Electric power is generated within the plant in quantities sufficient to light all the homes of Saginaw. Water is pumped from the Detroit River in a volume equal to the requirements of all the homes in Detroit plus enough for another city of a million inhabitants.

A paper mill, a glass factory, a tire factory and a cement plant are units within the bigger factory. The paper mill and cement plant are for the utilization of by-products. The glass and tires go into finished cars.

Within the gates are blast furnaces where raw ore is started on the several routes leading to finished iron and steel automobile parts. It is possible for iron ore unloaded one morning to go rolling off the assembly line as part of a finished car by noon of the following day.

From River Rouge pour steady streams of automobile parts to the Ford assembly plants scattered over the country. A shutdown at the central plant can mean shutdowns at outlying assembly points.

Ford holds defence contracts amounting to more than $150,000,000 and these have resulted in construction and machine installations which are expanding the capacity of River Rouge.

Stewart-Warner-AlemiteCorporation Plays Important Part In Canada's War Effort By 'Delivering The Goods'

·Belleville's Largest Industrial Firm Turning Out Huge Quantities War Supplies—Most ·Of Important Units Of War Equipment Are Designed By Corporation's Own Engineers

400 PERSONS EMPLOYED

Research and development of special products arising from the exigencies of war, commensurate with the rapidly increasing tempo of war and commercial activities, is crescendoing the Stewart-Warner-Alemite Corporation of Canada here, to a peak of production hitherto unknown in its history.

Fitting with all its modern mechanical facilities into the war-production machinery of the Dominion, it is the Corporation's job to provide hitherto unknown products, including gun-carriers, trucks, boats and aircraft.

Living up to the corporation's slogan: "Delivering the Goods", specially designed aeronautical appliances, developed in the Stewart-Warner-Alemite laboratories, flow daily from the plant to ultimate destinations in the fighting services of the Empire, as well as to many commercial sources.

These include special aircraft oil filters for engines; aircraft parts; a new departure in aircraft radios which are a special development of the corporation's heaters, controlled gasoline-operated types for automobiles, aircraft, boats, ambulances, and other mechanized units, and in addition specially developed portable units; bomber heaters designed with a special supercharger for altitudes up to 38,000 feet, and with a heat output up to 100,000 British Thermal Units.

Casters for every purpose from tea wagons to 10-ton trucks including hospital equipment, industrial trucks and furniture are made. A special bearing lies at each caster for exclusive use in explosive manufacturing plants are featured in this phase of production.

Portable Water Filter.

A war development of the corporation is a simply designed water filter used to convert water derived from any source into fresh clean drinking liquid for the troops. Water taken from a murky swamp can be transformed into a clear palatable drink.

Under high pressure the water is forced through the filter which contains only one filtering agent, a substance called Diotomaceous Earth, three ounces of which will filter between two and three hundred gallons of water. This agent forms a body like ice-cream or heavy frost on a cluster of seven elements inside the filter. A feature of the filter is the fact that water pressure can be reversed for the purpose of cleaning out sludge and other residue.

Another development of the Stewart - Warner - Alemite Corporation is a new electric tachometer, designed for the purpose of registering, with a full degree of accuracy, the revolutions per minute of any motor. A small lightweight magnetic, which has only one moving part and is economic do manufacture, is attached to the rotating part of the engine, and it in turn is attached by electric wires to the tachometer. The magnets and the tachometer can be separated as far as sixty feet. It will be especially useful in marine craft where in a number of cases the engine is situated aft the stern of the boat. In addition to the regular working dial for indicating r.p.m., the tachometer has a red-tipped needle for the registration of total revolutions per minute over a period.

Mobile Heating Unit.

A mobile heating unit has also been developed by Stewart-Warner. This can be used to heat tanks, aircraft or other mechanized units that have not the benefit of hangars or sheds. This unit can develop the heating potentials of a cottage furnace, and is but 26 inches long. It is indispensable in places where other methods of heating are not available.

Special aircraft heaters, equipped with superchargers are the answer to heating problems in heavy bombers especially in high altitudes. They can be connected in the fuel, and heat to heat various parts of the interior of the planes. Other heaters range down to those as big as a man's fist. Special fuel pumps are also under construction as well as air filters. The corporation will specialize in the heating of military mobile offices, and other mechanized units.

400 Employed.

The plant is a hive of activity. Four hundred employees work three 8-hour shifts for six days a week. There is no hitch in production. Work goes on in a smooth precision-like manner, each man and woman or girl a perfect cog in a perfect machine that is now approaching its utmost capacity in production. Each one knows his or her particular place in the scheme of things. They have a job to do, and with machines and tools that are one hundred per cent perfect they enter into their jobs, each one is turning out a like job. There is no tedium, routine-like displeasure. The plant is operated on an efficiency basis, and production is maintained at its allotted level.

Each contributing department dovetails perfectly with another. Parts and material move in steel baskets from one floor to another along conveyors. One operation follows another in perfect sequence. There are no unnecessary delays, and the entire plant functions as smoothly as the expensive machinery that daily and nightly by a miracle of mechanical perfection, turns out hundreds of metal necessities, from steel bars, that are vital to the production of the country's needs.

Large Production Grease Guns.

Hundreds of grease-guns, specially constructed for military and other needs leave the machines of the plant daily. Small individual oil cans for use in the Air Force are made by the magic of machinery each day.

A new departure in the manufacturing activities of the plant is an air-raid precaution sirtrup pump designed especially for the reducing of fires caused by incendiary bombs.

As the name suggests, the pump has a handle shaped like a stirrup, a foot-pedal and can be operated by one or two hands. It has thirty feet of garden hose and is effective at a range of seventy feet. A rapid-change nozzle arrangement converts the water from spray to stream with the flick of a finger.

Perhaps the magic of Stewart-Warner efficiency and co-operation is seen in the manufacture of radios. A piece of steel travels approximately sixty feet, and during its journey is converted from a dull piece of metal into a thing of shining mechanical beauty. Owing women are the principal performers in this radio-manufacturing drama, and according to plant officials have achieved a polpi of mechanical perfection that was previously only found in expert male artisans.

Women Radio Inspectors.

In this part of the plant's activities young women perform the duties of skilled precision workers. The inspectors are young women selected especially for the job and trained for it. Others do their work equally as well, parts of a whole that fairly shouts efficiency to the casual observer.

An important development in aircraft radio is the radio beacon mechanism, a product of Stewart-Warner engineers that is the last word in simplicity of operation. By the twist of a dial on the portable machine, a pilot can put his ship on any designated radio beam, and bring the plane to its destination safely. Any deviation from the beam results in a make-and-break sequence on the beam monotone. These radios are being made in a portable size that a man can easily carry, while a smaller size which can be strapped to a pilot's belt are also being developed.

Careful Inspection.

Inspection in the—plant is one hundred per cent. Everything is as perfect in the finished product as the human plans it is in the raw material state when it enters. Every piece of material, even to the office stationery, enters one room in a corner of the plant where it is minutely inspected before being passed for factory, plant or office use. This rule has not deteriorated from the gradual stepping-up of production.

Like other plants of its nature, the Stewart-Warner-Alemite Corporation is devoting the major part of its activities to war production purposes. But the importance of commercial production has not been forgotten. This is being carried on, but is gradually being overcome by increased war activities. Today the corporation is one quarter of a million dollars behind in commercial orders.

But in an effort to alleviate this condition, and to keep step with the daily increasing wartime demands for its products, the corporation is transferring heavy storage stocks from a warehouse to other locations, and making preparations for the installation of machinery for the stepping-up of production.

Evidence of the large output of mechanical and steel products is seen in a large pile of steel shavings piled outside one part of the plant. These shavings are carefully washed in oil and put through a machine that works on the same principle as a cream separator. They come from the maw of the almost human lathe machine, that almost instantly convert bars of drab steel in shining parts for the many products. These machines can reverse their rotary action while going at full speed so quickly that it is barely noticeable to the naked eye.

Plus Working Conditions.

The staff while working under close conditions are one big happy family. As has been before mentioned there is not the bugbear of overwork. Production must be maintained and is being so under conditions that are more conducive to the well being of the personnel and to the consistency of production. The staff owns and operates its own recreation booth. A shop committee looks after its administration. At any time in the day or night, employees may leave their posts and secure refreshment in the form of coffee, sandwiches, soft drinks, chocolate, ice cream, etc. Substantial meals may be secured for a nominal sum at meal time. It is an investment in the comfort and well-being of the staff of oneshat is paying dividends in happier working conditions and consequently the maintenance of important production.

Administration of a business is as important as its actual operations. Heads of the various departments must be men of intelligence, foresight, business acumen or mechanical ability as the case may be. And in this respect the Stewart-Warner-Alemite Corporation is not lacking.

At the helm of the Stewart-Warner ship here is President L. Arthur Young, well-known service clubman, and sports enthusiast. The secretary-treasurer is Mr. H. C. McKay. Mr. Stanley D. Hagerman is in charge of the Special Products Division. Mr. George Robson is sales manager for the Alemite division and .E. M. Bassingthwaite, sales manager for the Radio and Electronic Divisions, and V. J. White in charge of casters.

Mr. George Dixon is the advertising manager and H. E. Brown the corporation's purchasing agent. The general superintendent of manufacturing is Mr. William Maunder, with Mr. A. W. Seymour, the superintendent of merchandise. R. J. Evans is the service manager.

BUICK ROBE EAIL

All closed sedans in the 1941 Buick line has a new robe rail designed as an integral part of the front seat back trim panel.

The Buick water pump is lubricated for life and is sealed by a resin-impregnated fabric against leaks.

IN PERFECT BALANCE

All rotating and reciprocating parts in Pontiac engines are balanced and the crankshaft is 100 per cent counterweighted.

LIGHTING ADJUSTABLE

The intensity of the indirect lighting of Chevrolet's instrument panel for 1941 may be varied by rotating the headlamp control knob, for a rheostate makes available any adjustment from "full on" to "out".

SALESMEN LEAD

Salesmen today constitute the largest single group of customers for new automobiles. Reports collected by Studebaker motors show they acquired nearly 14 per cent of all new passenger cars sold last year.

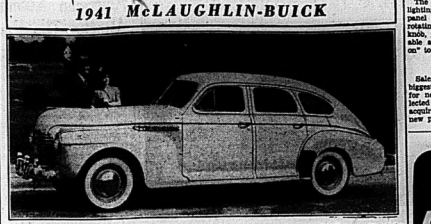
OLDS INTERIORS

Interior measurements of the body of the club sedan in Oldsmobile's new Dynamic Cruisers show an increase of more than 11 inches in length compared to the 1940 club coupe which it replaces. Head room in the rear is two inches greater than before.

BUICK SUNSHADES

The utility of the sunshades on the 1941 Buick has been greatly increased by supports which make the shades extendable to cover a wider area.

1941 McLAUGHLIN-BUICK



Incorporating such advanced features as aerodynamic streamlining, "fireball" engines developing 115 125 and 165 horsepower, and new Compound Carburetion on Super, Century and Roadmaster models, McLaughlin-Buick for 1941 is presented in five new series on three wheelbases, and offers a wide choice of different body types. Illustrated above is the Special six-passenger, four-door sedan, built on a 121-inch wheelbase.

McLaughlin-Buick Triumph of The Designer's Art

New triumps on the part of designers and engineers are reflected in the graceful aerodynamic lines of the 1941 McLaughlin-Buick cars, offered in five new series.

Outstanding among a hundred major new features are Compound Carburetion and the advanced and distinctive restyling of bodies. The massive new radiator grills are unbroken by painted lines, while the new fully chromed centre strip imparts a one-piece appearance to the whole front end, near the top of which is the attractive McLaughlin-Buick crest.

Wheelbases of the five new lines are as follows: Series 4200, 118 inches; Series 40 Special and Series 50 Super, 121 inches; Series 60 Century and Series 70 Roadmaster, 126 inches.

The new aerodynamic bodies featured in the Series 40 Special and the Series 60 Century provide luxurious seating comfort for six passengers and adequate luggage space in the streamlined tail. The new Sedanet body is a coupe-sedan of the two-door type, accommodating six passengers.

Compound Carburetion involves the use of two dual carburetors per engine with a resulting step-up in horsepower, yet a marked improvement in fuel economy. Used in combination with the valve-in-head straight eight engines, which are of "fireball" design, the result is reported to be a marked improvement in performance—particularly in the lower speeds.

The new McLaughlin-Buick engines develop 118, 125 and 165 horsepower. Improvements in the front end suspension of all series are designed to assure still greater riding comfort, ease of handling and greater safety. New coil springs, whose action is controlled by double-acting shock absorbers with new valve settings and linkage, also contribute to a more comfortable ride.

BAD NEWS FOR THIEVES

Automobile thieves will not welcome the news that Chevrolet's new door handles can be twisted entirely off without unlocking the doors. The door locks are separate from the handles, being located just beneath, under a protective plate in the side of the door.

RIDING COMFORT

The crack cities-fare trains in the United States feature hydraulic shock absorbers and mail-away shuttlers, first perfected for automobile riding comfort and standard on millions of private motor vehicles.

Varied Crafts Offer Courses To Army Pupil

Men Train to be of Greater Use in the Several Departments of the Mechanized Services.

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Military Correspondent)

Toronto, April 19 (CP).—In the same classrooms where reinforcements for the Dominion's industrial front line are gaining skill and knowledge a reserve force of trade specialists is being developed to meet future needs of Canada's expanding active army.

In common with many other centres in Canada facilities in Toronto's vocational and technical institutions are being utilized to build up from material within the ranks of the army this potential force of workmen skilled in the various trades.

Many of the men have been "combed out" of their units to undergo refresher courses in trades and crafts they followed in peacetime. Others are starting from scratch. And while the most acute demand is for recruits to enter the general field of specialties, the soldier-pupil has the privilege of learning almost any trade that may appeal to him.

With the prevailing shortage of available skilled or semi-skilled tradesmen, the choice is virtually unlimited. In the Toronto schools alone the following courses are available: carpentry, blacksmithing, plumbing, tinsmithing, fine instrument making, wireless, arithmetic and the various branches of the electrical and machinist trades. These and other courses are conducted in similar schools throughout the Dominion.

Train At Night.

As priority is given at present to civilians being trained for vital war industries, the soldier classes are almost exclusively confined to night shifts. Most of the courses begin around 11 p.m. and keep the school plants humming till 7 a.m.

By lectures, instructional films, diagrams and practical demonstrations the students are first taught the rudiments of their new trades. From this introductory stage they pass on to the more simple practical work, are instructed in the proper handling of tools, care of lathes and other machinery, elementary assembly and repairs.

The men, with all the modern facilities and latest training equipment at their disposal, are next given tests in creative work and gradually projects are introduced similar to those tradesmen may encounter on active service, calling for skill and resourcefulness.

In the fine instruments class being conducted at Central Technical School, a select group has already reached the intermediate stage of making delicate aviation instruments. The men, however, can apply their skill to any other instrument field. Some of the pupils have turned out parts for air-speed indicators, altimeters, compasses, range-finders and sighting devices for field guns.

Not one man in the class had any previous knowledge of this intricate craft but all displayed a keen desire to go on. This spirit was exemplified in Gdsmn. R. Riddell of Montreal who said he was so interested in his new-found work that he regretted the passing of time in the class-room.

Twelve Weeks Courses.

This phase of their tuition extends over a period of twelve weeks with a more advanced course to come at the army trade school to be opened in Hamilton early in May. On graduation some of the men may be sent back to their own units or other branches of the service to do specialized work. A few who show outstanding aptitude will be sent to plant schools to gain further knowledge of the art and ultimately be assigned to units or schools as instructors.

In another section of the school weird squeals and noises issued from a class-room where a small group of youngsters in shirtsleeves huddled about benches littered with electrical strange gizmos. It was the wireless class in the midst of its tuning equipment, radio tubes, wires and and coding tests.

Out of this class will come the experts of the future for the signal sections, armored vehicles and some for air co-operation work. Of course takes the student through the problems of theory down to the practical, utilitarian work of building receiving and transmitting sets.

Intensive and Thorough.

Among the soldiers taking this course is Gdsmn. R. J. Walsh of Chariot, N.B., who was engaged in the fisheries business before the war. As a hobby he operated an amateur radio station.

"The course we are getting here is so intensive and thorough that I doubt if we could get more in two years of apprenticeship," Walsh declared. "There was much to learn, but the task of the class was made easy, he said, as all the essential facilities for training were available while the standard of instruction was high.

The classes are studded with men adjusting themselves not only to army life but to new occupations. Among them is Pte. V. J. Bylsgion of Kenora, Ont., who formerly prospected in the northwest., Wt. Pte. J M Fishertert of Perth..N.B., former farmer, he is learning to become a blacksmith.

L/Cpl. J. K. Hossack, employed in an Oshawa porcelain-enamel factory in peacetime, is being transformed into an electrician. With him are Pte. Rene Larochelle who worked in a Montreal clothing plant and Gnr. C. D. Culter, erstwhile Montreal milkman.

All take the attitude—"If we can be of greater use to the army in some other trade we'll gladly try it."

Car Sales Make Jobs For Millions In U. S.

Employment in the sales and service of military training equipment, according to U.S. Bureau of Census figures, covering the year 1939.

The employment count released just recently by census officials shows that 440,536 jobs existed in automotive retail establishments where cars, trucks or parts are sold. Service establishments account for another 178,262 jobs, filling stations employ 467,000 men, and other automotive wholesale and retail functions require the services of 222,621 individuals.

The above totals do not include workers engaged in automobile manufacturing, where 394,000 were employed in 1939. That figure increased to 447,400 workers in 1940, according to Census of Manufactures data for motor vehicle, body and parts firms.

Employed in motor transport today are an estimated 6,500,000 workers. This figure includes men and women in the above classifications, highway workers, and commercial vehicle drivers.

THE NEW 1941 PONTIAC

All styled in the Torpedo manner, Pontiac for 1941 offers three series of cars—the Fleetleader, the Fleetleader Special and the De Luxe Six. The new models are graceful and arresting in appearance, longer in wheelbase and designed to provide outstanding all-round performance. Shown above is the striking new low priced Fleetleader 4-door sedan.

Pontiac's Fleet Lines Portrayed by Torpedo Body

Continuing its pioneering in the field of aero-dynamic styling, Pontiac for 1941 has adopted the Torpedo type body for its entire range of cars.

Three distinct price groups are covered by the distinctly designed cars, which are offered in the low-priced Fleetleader, the Fleetleader Special, and the De Luxe Six. All are replete with mechanical advancements achieving increased power, comfort and safety, and all are powered by the celebrated Pontiac L-head engine.

The Fleetleader and the Fleetleader Special are offered on a 116-inch wheelbase. Them comes the De Luxe Six on a 119-inch wheelbase. Overall lengths of these are respectively 198 inches and 201½ inches.

The new models feature concealed or built-in running boards which are visible only when the doors are open. The front axle width has been increased 2½ inches over the 1940 dimensions, and now measures 57½ inches. Widening of the rear seats has been achieved by widening the rear tread. Other features include a variable instrument panel light; a safety hood lock which operates from a control just below the instrument panel to the left of the steering column; a rolled lower edge of the dash which contributes to greater rigidity; new type of adjustable sun visors which not only tilt up and down or pivot from side to side but slide sideways; a new disappearing ash receiver located below radio grille; spacious and readily accessible luggage compartments; re-designed piston pins, aluminum bronze piston pin bushings, and improvements in the hydraulic service brakes and the mechanical emergency brake.

American Automobile Association Attacks The Parking Problem

Broad-gauged attack on the parking problem, not only to provide additional facilities for motorists, but also to stabilize and preserve property values in central business districts and to bring more orderly urban development, was urged in a report presented at the 38th annual meeting of the American Automobile Association by the A.A.A.'s Parking and Terminal Facilities Committee.

The report, submitted by Wm. A. Stinchcomb of Cleveland, Ohio, Chairman of the Parking Committee, declared that with legal curb parking space having shrunk by fifty per cent in many cities and with privately owned off-street parking facilities often less than half-filled because of high parking rates, growing inaccessibility is a significant factor in the decline of values in central business districts and urban decentralization.

In its three-year study of the parking problem, the committee found that some fifty cities, mostly under 100,000 population, operate parking facilities as municipal enterprises but very little is done along this line in the larger cities.

"It is recommended that more attention be given the provision of parking facilities off the street, rather than continuing to place major emphasis on curb parking, as is done in many places," the report said. "While it is recognized that full and appropriate attention should be given to curb parking, and that curb use can and should be improved, the ultimate solution to the downtown parking problem, particularly in the larger cities, lies in the use of space other than on the street."

The committee also recommended that city officials develop plans for dealing with the problem created by incomplete utilization of off-street parking facilities because of charges higher than motorists are willing or able to pay.

Other recommendations included:

1—Careful study by all cities of their individual parking problems, giving due consideration to short-time parking, all-day storage, loading and unloading, parking demand created by new buildings, mass transportation, and so on.

2—All plans for city development, particularly as to street and highway development, should include consideration of necessity for providing adequate parking facilities.

3—Ordinances should be enacted to require either off-street loading or non-peak hour loading.

4—Merchants whose business establishments attract customers who come by automobile should provide, individually or collectively, off-street parking facilities for such customers.

An extensive report giving results of the committee's three-year study is to be published and widely distributed to serve as a guide for motor clubs, city officials and others engaged in seeking relief of America's parking problem.

NEW 1941 OLDSMOBILE

Acclaimed as the finest cars presented in Oldsmobile's 43 years of progress, the 1941 models, in two new Series, feature the Special and the Dynamic Cruiser. These striking cars incorporate many advancements in engineering and design, including the sensational Hydra-Matic Drive, which is available on all models. Illustrated above is the low-priced Special Series 4-door sedan.

Sound-Deadening Stressed in Cars

Drivers, today are positive in their demands for quietness of operation and ride, and engineers have paid particular attention to new and more efficient types of insulating materials in the development of sound-deadening.

For example, Buick dash mats are a combination of exploded fiber and jute, providing a sheet of better sounding treatment. Buick furthermore is using rock wool for insulating applications, for the first time on 1941 models, around the lower half of the shroud. The material not only effectively insulates against sound, but likewise is a barrier to heat, thereby protecting occupants of the car against noise and heat both from within and outside the car. The rock wool is specially treated against dusting.

Elsewhere, body insulation is more completely and scientifically placed according to scientific determinations to key areas. Cornu-gated and plain insulating boards are used throughout the car, sections which cannot be covered with insulating board or pits are sprayed with plastic sound deadener. Trunk trim is backed up with a layer of insulating board. Roof, door and trunk lid panels are insulated with sound-deadening and insulating material.

New Oldsmobiles Wider and Longer

Oldsmobile for 1941 introduces two Series of automobiles. In the low price field, Oldsmobile offers the choice of the six-cylinder Special Series and in the new Series 78 the six-cylinder Dynamic Cruiser.

The exclusive Hydramatic drive that eliminates clutch, clutch pedal and gearshift, is this year optional on the entire Oldsmobile range. Important mechanical improvements of recent years have been refined and incorporated along with scores of new advancements in the new 1941 models.

The entire front-end design is rendered more attractive by the use of heavier chrome bars and grille work. Stainless steel sparkles round the windows and accentuates another feature—the concealed running boards.

The new models are definitely larger. The Special Series wheelbase has been extended to 119 inches and the Dynamic Cruiser has been brought up to a 125-inch wheelbase. On all models the widened rear tread of 61½ inches—2½ inches wider than on the 1940 models—provides greater width in the rear seats.

The horsepower of the six-cylinder engine has been stepped up from 93 to 100.

The six-cylinder Special Series offers a 2-door touring sedan, a 4-door touring sedan and a club coupe, and the Dynamic Cruiser Series includes a 4-door sedan and club sedan.

Mass Produced But Order-Built

Every Car in Oldsmobile Assembly Line Custom Built for Either Dealer or His Customer

Although mass production and automobiles has come to be virtually synonymous, every car in the Oldsmobile assembly line is custom built and manufactured to the exact specifications of either a dealer or one of his customers, according to E. E. Skinner, general manager of the Oldsmobile division of General Motors.

"In normal times Oldsmobile has facilities for manufacturing as many as 1,200 cars per day," said Skinner, "yet each one of these 1,200 cars, from the number of parts start moving toward the final assembly line, will amount to a built-to-order Oldsmobile.

"In the matter of closed body types, alone in the Oldsmobile Special, dynamic and custom cruiser series it is possible to obtain as many as 1,358 different combinations. Add the convertible models to this group and the combination reaches a total of 3,648. Body styles, color options, upholstery choices and standard accessories groups in both closed and convertible models in all three series of Oldsmobiles combine to make these many options possible."

Roominess and Comfort Features of New Cars in Ford, Mercury Lines

Windsor, Ont. — With longer wheelbase, much roomier bodies and improved riding qualities, three new Ford cars for 1941 are presented by Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited. Also announced is the redesigned Mercury 8 which also is larger, more comfortable and smartly styled.

Named the DeLuxe, Super DeLuxe and the Special Series designed to fit wartime budgets, the Ford cars represent the most complete change in body design and chassis engineering made in Ford cars in the last five years.

The wheelbase on the Fords has been lengthened by two inches and overall length to slightly more than 16 feet. Riding qualities have been greatly improved. New long, softer springs; improved shock absorbers and a newly-designed stabilizer to smooth out rough roads and maintain balance on turns, combine to provide a new riding sensation described as a "gliding ride."

The new Ford cars have the size and the roominess generally associated with cars of higher price. The bodies are longer and much broader—so broad, in fact, that running boards are partially concealed. Seating widths have been increased as much as seven inches, and there is greater shoulder room and head room.

Much greater vision is afforded both driver and passengers in the new Ford cars. Glass area has been substantially increased, the increase being as much as 33 per cent in the coupes. The larger rear window, of one-piece curved tempered glass, permits greater vision of the road behind.

The new wider seats are built with a soft "floating" edge and individually pocketed cushion springs. Springs are covered with a thick, rubberized pad. The driver's seat, in the Ford cars there are five body types in the DeLuxe, seven in the Super DeLuxe lines, and three in the Special Series. Available in both DeLuxe and Super DeLuxe are the Fordor and Tudor sedans, coupe with auxiliary seats, business coupe and station wagon. A convertible club coupe with automatic top, and a sedan coupe, new this year, are also available in the Super DeLuxe. The Special Series body types are Fordor, Tudor and coupe.

This year a station wagon has been added to the list of Mercury body types which includes a sedan with two doors; a town sedan with four doors; a six-passenger sedan coupe; a coupe, with or without extra folding seats, and a sporty club convertible. The latter features an automatic top actuated by two electric motors which operate under any condition regardless of whether the engine is running.

'Newport' to Pace Indianapolis 500

One of the largest crowds ever assembled for a sports event in the United States will have a chance to see the "car of the future" at Indianapolis on May 30, when Chrysler's aerodynamic "Newport" will pace the first lap of the annual 500-mile race. A. B. (Tobe) Couture, chief experimental engineer of the Chrysler Corporation, will drive the car and in it will ride race officials.

The "Newport" has created a sensation ever since it made its debut at the New York auto show last October. Since then it has been used in caravans that have covered a large part of the country and at scattered hundreds of thousands of persons to dealers' showrooms. Between now and the date of the race, a caravan will cover the principal cities of the Midwest section, including Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland and Indianapolis.

The car is of the phaeton type, with a new and radically different body design.

Chrysler Builds Car No. 100,000 For '41

A 100,000th Chrysler car of the 1941 model rolled off the assembly line on Friday, April 4. This is ready in the largest number of cars that Chrysler ever has built of one year's model in the history of its six- and eight-cylinder business. As the manufacture of the 1941 line will continue for several months, the total production of this model will far exceed anything previously recorded by this company.

President David A. Wallace of the Chrysler Sales Division, put his O.K. No. 100,000. Arthur E. Tongue, director of advertising; A. M. Fleming, works manager; and Charles L. Jacobson, vice-president in charge of sales.

Specialists In Car Lubrication, Hastings Motors Ltd. Is Provided With Every Facility For Service

"Ride Improver" Equipment And Motor Analyzer Enable Staff Men To Give Quick And Efficient Service At All Times

DISTRIBUTORS FOR HUDSON CARS

Hastings Motors Limited, district distributors for Hudson motor cars and purveyors of Cities Service gasoline and oils, boast of one of the most modern service stations in the city and feature two lines of automobile servicing equipment that are not duplicated in any other garage or service station in the city.

The equipment item, greatest to the interest of the owner who takes especial enjoyment in the ridability of his automobile is the "Ride Improver", a special high pressure greasing equipment that is used exclusively at Cities Service stations. The "Ride Improver" is a special grease gun, the first such gun manufactured to be built strong enough to withstand the tremendous pressure necessary and at the same time give complete satisfaction. This gun uses a special grease which is guaranteed not to wash off through the action of water.

Special Power Washer.

Besides offering a complete lubricating service the personnel of the station have been specially trained to give prompt, efficient service in the washing on customers. Their wash rack is another feature of especial service to the company as here again they are exclusive in the use of service equipment. A special "Power washer" steps the water hydrant pressure up to approximately 300 pounds per square inch and hardened mud adhering to the car's running gear simply melts away.

Their service department is equipped with a complete line of repair tools for Hudson as well as the necessary equipment to handle all makes of automobiles. The use of the motor analyzer which is part of the garage equipment provides an efficient way of adjusting modern motors.

The service department is in charge of Frank Sherman who has thirteen years' experience in the repair field, while all mechanics have had upwards of ten years' experience. Body and fender bumping is also work in which the staff specializes. Complete 24 hour towing service is provided.

Mr. T. R. Scott, manager of Hastings Motors, has had 20 years' experience in the automotive field, 15 of which were served in Toronto before coming to Belleville five years ago with Mr. George Stanton, secretary-treasurer of the firm, founded Hastings Motors. Mr. Scott is a native of Toronto while Mr. Stanton was born near Brighton and came to the city from Lindsay eleven years ago where he has since been associated with the automobile trade. Genial Bob Redner, a Belleville boy, is head salesman for the firm.

Hastings Motors are sole distributors for Hudson in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties. They handle Cities Service gasoline and oils and are agents for Goodrich Tires.

SUPPRESS REVOLT IN PARAGUAY

Action Has Full Support of Armed Forces and Public Opinion

Asuncion, Paraguay, April 18—(AP)—A revolt has been suppressed "with the full support of the armed forces and public opinion," the Paraguayan Ministry of the Interior said in a statement today.

Calling the incident a "new subversive movement," the Ministry said the "revolters" tried to "take the armed forces by surprise" but the authorities "learned of the movement in time."

The government was declared to be in full control and "complete tranquility" has been said to prevail throughout the country.

While the statement did not identify those responsible for leading the attempted revolt, informed sources said they were supporters of the exiled former president, Rafael Franco, who is in Montevideo, Uruguay.

TICKETS SEEN AT KINGSTON

Kingston, Ont., April 18 (CP)—Carrying large placards, members of the Canadian Seamen's Union late Thursday evening began picketing the ships of the Keyspout Transports Limited docked here.

No seamen will be allowed aboard and the ships will not be permitted to leave until the company has signed a contract with our Union," said Galen Bowers, business agent for the C.S.U.

Chevrolet Power Plant Stepped Up

Chevrolet's six-cylinder valve-in-head engine for 1941 has been stepped up from 85 to 90 horsepower without impairing the economy for which Chevrolet is famed. The improvement was gained through redesigning of the combustion chamber, without increasing bore or stroke. Piston displacement remains as before, 216.5 cubic inches.

ECONOMICAL SPEED

The most economical speed to drive a car is 35 miles per hour, according to exhaustive tests conducted by Pontiac at General Motors Proving Ground.

Oil required to lubricate machinery in the Pontiac Motor plant this year would provide a six-quart filling for 383,333 motor cars.

IT COULD BE

"Pull over to da coib" a command that has frightened motorists for years, may soon be a thing of the past. Rutgers University has added a public speaking course for police officers. Unofficially officials expect the result will be a mild: "Won't you please pull over to the curb?"

FORD WATER PUMPS

Owners of 1941 Ford cars can forget about water pumps on the engine, as far as tightening, packing and lubrication are concerned. Ford pumps are packless and are lubricated automatically from the timing gears.

OIL ECONOMY INCREASED

Oil economy has long been a strong point of Chevrolet. It is heightened in 1941 by introduction of cover caps on top of the intake valve springs. They prevent excess oil from running down the valve stems and being driven off in smoke by the heat.

Trudeau Motor Sales, With Three Out-of-Town Branches and 2 in City, Largest Agency in Eastern Ontario

Mr. Jack Trudeau, Head Of This Progressive Firm, Started His Car Business In Tweed In 1926—Over Fifty Employed On Staff

HANDLES CHRYSLER AND PLYMOUTH CARS

Operating a total of five branches in the Hastings-Prince Edward district, including two in Belleville and one each in the neighboring centres of Picton, Tweed and Stirling, Trudeau Motor Sales serve one of the largest areas and cater to a greater percentage of the motoring public than any other dealer-service agency in Eastern Ontario. Offering complete servicing of motor cars including reconditioning, paint jobs, body and fender work, electrical repairs etc. the firm employs more than fifty workers in all of its branches. Trudeau Motor Sales are local agents for Chrysler and Plymouth motor cars, Fargo trucks and are district distributors of John Deere Tractors and George White tillage and threshing equipment.

Although one of the newest-established automotive agencies in the city, Trudeau Motor Sales have nevertheless had considerable experience in this field, having had its inception in Tweed in 1926. Mr. Jack Trudeau, a native of Tweed, is the proprietor and owner of the firm, and after operating in that village for a period of seven years, moved the firm's headquarters to Belleville and ultimately established branches in other centres, all of which are controlled from the local office.

Business Quarters Increased

The increasing volume of repair and reconditioning work done by the firm during the past few years had made their present quarters on Lower Front Street, incapable of handling the business and to assure their customers quicker and more satisfactory service, the reconditioning and car appraisal department has been moved to Station Street. Here a modern service building has been constructed and equipment installed to handle all reconditioning and paint jobs and special cleaning work, as well as the complete rebuilding of used cars. The Station Street department is in charge of Mr. Martin Trudeau.

In the repair department of their Front Street locale, their shops are equipped to custom work of any nature, no matter whether the job be small or large. All work is done in their own shops as mechanics are trained to specialize "in every phase of automobile repair work. The repair department is in charge of Jack Doyle and Jack Dow is parts manager.

O. M. L. Station

Prompt, efficient and courteous service station attendants dispense Imperial gasoline and oil at the firm's service station which is affiliated as an Ontario Motor League station, with complete 24-hour towing service being provided. The service department which in addition offers washing, battery and tire service, is in charge of Mr. Eddie Young.

In addition to his position as proprietor Trudeau Motor Sales, Mr. Trudeau also acts as sales manager while assistant manager of the firm is Mr. Joseph Lee. Residing Fred. Lee, John Kelly, John Morrison, Stanley Aikens and Morley Ward. Office manager and accountant is Carl Casey, who has for his assistants, Miss Dorothy Peck and Miss Margaret Bateman.

Army's Trades Early Schools Great Success

Graduates Will Return to Their Units Well Equipped to Serve in Vital Technical Posts

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Military Correspondent)

Toronto, April 18 (CP).—An experimental class established in the local plant of the International Harvester Company for skilled army mechanics instructors has proved so successful that the Department of National Defence has decided to extend the scheme to twelve other centres in Canada. The possibility of still further expansion is under consideration.

The last class was inaugurated on Feb. 17 as part of the general plan adopted by the army to train its own skilled and semi-skilled workmen rather than tap sources supplying vital war industries. Facilities in the company's plant were offered to the service by F. M. Morton, and W. C. Herald, respectively vice-president and manager of motor truck sales in Canada.

"The results attending the first class in Toronto have been phenomenal," said Lt.-Col. Spencer Ball who has charge of the Dominion-wide organization responsible for the training of cadres for army craftsmen.

Col. Ball said that for the present additional plant schools for the development of instructors would be confined to the International Harvester Company with classes to be organized in the following centres: Montreal, Quebec, Ottawa, London, Hamilton, Winnipeg, Kingston, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge and Vancouver. The Toronto school will also be retained.

Gradual Expansion.

Offers of similar facilities have been received from other Canadian firms and garages but any expansion, Col. Ball said, would be gradual to avoid the possibility of overlapping.

Ten officers from different units making up the Canadian armored division, now in training at Camp Borden, were assigned to undergo the test course. In civilian life they had followed varied professions including the brokerage business, inhad been students while two were members of the permanent force. None had any prior knowledge of mechanics.

At the end of the six weeks course the entire class graduated with a high rating in theoretical examinations and practical work.

"The course these men have taken is actually equivalent to 2½ years of normal apprenticeship," said M. L. H. Main, assistant plant manager of the company. The graduates would return to their units well equipped to serve as instructors of specialists on whom the smooth functioning of the army's mechanized wing depends.

The new plant schools will be operated on lines similar to those governing the experimental class with ten officers or N.C.O.'s attending each six weeks' course. Training facilities, tools and instructional personnel is being supplied by the company without cost.

Plant instruction will be in charge of Mr. Main and Maurice Smith and two weeks takes the men through the elementary stages of gas engines, military supervision will be undertaken by officers in each military district in accordance with plans drawn up by Col. J. K. Lawson, director of military training.

The training syllabus for the first practical work such as replacement of component parts, complete dismantling and re-conditioning of the various units of a motor, brake adjustment and relining, piston fitting, adjustment of electrical equipment, carburetor adjustment, transmission and rear-axle repairs and assembly.

The final week is devoted to an oral review of the entire course followed by written examinations.

"I don't think anyone who has taken this course need have any worries about motor problems that may come his way," said Lieut. Jack R. Wilkins of London, Ont., member of the graduating class.

Others to graduate in this first class were: Lieuts. O. Fuller, London, Ont.; R. H. Harrison, Montreal; D. Carmichael, Winnipeg; H. Hawes, Calgary; C. J. Gray, Montreal; J. L. Dubreuil, Montreal; L. J. Knowles, Oshawa, Ont.; D. M. Irwin, Oshawa and H .W. Gauthier, Timmins, Ont.

Making Military Trucks Is Complex Job

Approximately 40 distinct raw materials, drawn from all sections of America as well as from abroad, go into each one of the thousands of military trucks, scout cars, reconnaissance cars and other military vehicles which are coming off the production lines of the motor industry at a steady clip.

A great many of these materials do not come in their raw state to the automotive assembly plants, but are gathered by the scores of companies, widely scattered through all industrial sections, which must manufacture not only regular vehicle parts but the special equipment demanded by military operation. The capacity of these plants to get materials and produce in the great quantities needed has become of paramount importance to army truck production.

Heavier than commercial vehicles of comparable capacity are the military cars, since they are built to do in cross-country work more than ever is demanded of an ordinary truck on highways. Yet by careful planning on the part of both army men and automotive engineers, the number of changes from standard specifications have been held to a minimum to permit military production on the assembly lines without interruption to normal production, and at a rate of output almost as fast as that of commercial vehicles.

The outstanding departure has been all-wheel drive for virtually every size and type of military vehicle, making possible climbing of grades of 40 to 50 degrees, and operation across territory that the average vehicle simply could not negotiate at all. Results have been such that Major General E. B. Gregory, Quartermaster General of the Army, recently said: "In every case the result of the all-wheel drive has been performance far surpassing the expectation of the engineers."

The all-wheel drive greatly increases driving parts such as drive shaft and axle assemblies, both as to material used and operations required in machining all the extra gears, pinions, shafts and housings.

A list of the materials going into a military truck, approximately 40 distinct raw products, spans the alphabet from aluminum and antimony to zinc. Not all makes are exactly alike, since each producer tends to follow established practice in his plant, and there are many optional metals and methods of construction.

Typical, however, is one make of the 2½-ton capacity, a truck ordered in large quantities by the army.

With a shipping weight under 9,500 pounds, this truck requires more than 11,800 pounds of carbon steel, alloy steel, gray and malleable iron in its production, indicating the large allowance for scrap that must be made in the machining and processing of such a unit.

Four hundred and fifty pounds of natural rubber, plus half a pound of synthetic used in hose-linings, pump seals and other special parts, go into the truck along with 32 pounds of lead.

More than thirty pounds of zinc, 70 of copper, 20 of aluminum, 55 of manganese and eight of nickel also are contained.

Even platinum and tungsten are represented, though in the most minute quantities.

Looks are not a military objective, but such a truck consumes 86 pounds of paints, which are all important both as weather protection and to reduce visibility of the vehicle in the field. The truck contains 200 pounds of cotton, more than one pound of wool and two of curled hair. Only the latter goes for seat padding.

Magnesium, molybdenum, chromium (which, again, is not for looks but is alloyed into working parts of the vehicle) take their place along with tin, asbestos, cork, sulphuric acid, jute, shellac and graphite.

The 2½-ton military truck has 300 pounds of wood, 40 of glass and 18 pounds of paperboard and other paper and pulp products. It uses only four pounds of plastics, in knobs, distributor and generator, starter and instrument parts.

The grease and oil required to equip it for shipment weighs 64 pounds. In the finished job also appears slightly over a pound of castor oil, used as brake fluid.

King George Of Greece In Dual Role Of Monarch And Premier Asks Army To "Fight To End"

CABINET CUT TO 10

Athens, April 21 —(AP)—Emmanuel Tsouderos became Premier of wartime Greece today, succeeding Alexandros Korizis who committed suicide last Friday.

The new government was announced as the Greeks acknowledged that the German drive had forced an Allied withdrawal and King George called upon the nation to fight "to the very end."

Tsouderos had been named Minister of Foreign Affairs and Finance in the cabinet formed yesterday by Admiral Alexander Sakellarian as Vice Premier and the King in the dual role of Monarch and Premier.

Tsouderos, in his fifties, has been active in Greek public life for more than twenty years. He is a native of the island of Crete. He has held cabinet posts previously as minister of finance and communications and more recently served as president of the Bank of Greece.

On the front meanwhile the Greeks said that the Italians were being stemmed on the west flank of the Allied line but that elsewhere the fronts gave way under the weight of Nazi pressure.

27 Millions Spent By U.S. Red Cross On War Relief

Washington, April 21 (AP)—The American Red Cross has expended almost $27,000,000 on war relief since the invasion of Poland, Norman H. Davis reported today, with Britain the largest single beneficiary.

Davis, Red Cross chairman, told the opening session of the organization's annual convention that the relief extended to Britain exceeded $12,000,000 and that approximately 20 ships a month were carrying Red Cross supplies to Britain.

Davis said it was probable that Red Cross services to the armed forces there would probably call for a minimum outlay of more than $5,000,000 during the coming year.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, April 21 (CP)— The weather has become more settled in Ontario and thundershowers occurred yesterday in southern and eastern districts. Temperatures in Prairie nowadays have occurred farther north. It is cool in the Prairie Provinces, with scattered showers in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

1,000 U. S. Doctors Urged By Roosevelt To Help Britain

Hyde Park, N.Y., April 20 (AP)— President Roosevelt last night urged young American doctors to volunteer for service in military and civilian hospitals of "our British friends".

He said that the British Red Cross had appealed through the American Red Cross for as many as 1,000 young United States doctors to help it meet "an acute shortage" of physicians in British hospitals.

Bad Weather Grounds All Planes Searching For Missing Plane

North Bay, Ont., April 20 (CP)— A steady downpour of rain that threatened to turn to snow grounded all planes in the area today, hobbling up the search for a Royal Norwegian Air Force fighter plane believed to have crashed near Maitawa, 40 miles south of here.

The plane left the Toronto base for an altitude test-flight Friday and has not been heard of definitely since. Search parties are centred in this area after bushmen reported seeing a plane disappear in the bush Friday.

Handful Of Tough East Africans And Australians Harasses Italians

Written for The Canadian Press by Godfrey H. P. Anderson with the Ethiopian army, April 12 (Delayed) (CP)—The spirit of Lawrence of Arabia lives again in the men who are leading the irregular bands of Ethiopian warriors now pressing towards Addis Ababa under the banner of Emperor Haile Selassie.

Since the slender little monarch returned to Ethiopia early in February this handful of tough Australian and East African has lived constantly in the field with their shaggy warriors, bedding down in one daring raid after another on the Italian lines of communication.

Traversing what seems to be impossible country with tough mules plodding along precipitous mountain tracks they move around the Fascist Gondar positions and install themselves far behind the lines.

And soon another big convoy of Italian trucks unsuspectingly rolls into an ambush.

I met one of these band leaders, an Australian Lieutenant, as he led his men back from a raid that spent 27 Italian trucks to their doom. He looked like a figure out of the old wild west. A great black beard covered the lower part of his brown face. An Australian slouch hat was on his head, two guns hung from his belt and he wore cowboy chaps over his baggy khaki drill trousers.

His long legs hung almost to the ground from his small black pony which carried a painted wood Ethiopian saddle.

Later in the hut where he slept we sat down on ammunition boxes to a meal of chicken and beans. We talked by candle light and as we sat there I could see through the door the dark forms of the men outside and the crouching of mule

"What planes, ships, guns, can you spare?" Owen asked American friends, waste not a day, nor an hour, nor a minute. Britain is racing against the clock and the fate of the world hangs on the minute hand."

Japanese Press Says New Pact Concluded Against Jap Advance

Sir Frederick Stewart of Australia Flatly Denies Japanese Report That Britain, U.S., China, India, Australia and the Netherlands Have Concluded Pacific Defence Agreement

New York, April 21 (CP)—The New York Times, in a dispatch from Tokyo, quotes the Japanese press as saying today that Britain, the United States, China, India, Australia and the Netherlands East Indies have made a military and naval pact to strengthen their defences in the Far East and to oppose Japan's southward advance.

A second dispatch in the Japanese press quoted the Times as published in Japan under a Vichy date, says that Russia is demanding the right to occupy the Northern Provinces of Iran (Persia) in order to protect the oil fields, as well as to obtain a possible outlet on the Persian Gulf in the event of a German drive on the Dardanelles.

Claims Russia Concentrating Troops

To back these demands Russia was said to be concentrating troops around Tiflis for "manoeuvre purposes."

(Dispatches from the Far East to the Associated Press out that all passenger traffic on the Trans-Siberian Railway had been halted for one month and it was assumed troop movements were under way.)

The Times' dispatch from its Tokyo correspondent, Otto D. Tolischus, said these reports were published in the Osaka Mainichi and the Tokyo Nichi Nichi's English language edition. These papers, he said, so far as could be ascertained, are the only ones carrying the reports in Japan so far.

Claims Roosevelt Pledged

As regards military and naval pact to halt Japan's southward advance, the dispatch reported that the six powers had pooled their military and material resources in the East, including those of the Philippines. The end in view, it is added, is the protection of the communication lines linking South Africa, British India, Singapore, Hong Kong, Manila, Australia and the United States.

Under this pact, Mr. Tolischus Air Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, British Far Eastern Commander-in-Chief, is supposed to assume supreme command of combined land and air forces, while Admiral Hart, United States Commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, is supposed to assume supreme command of the combined naval forces. Headquarters of both would be in Singapore.

3-CAR ACCIDENT

H. E. Sharpe, Deseronto gasoline station proprietor, received fatal injuries in a three-car rear end motor crash about 11 o'clock Sunday night on Highway No. 2 late Sunday night. So severe was very little damage resulting to the cars the motor cars involved, authorities are inclined to believe that Sharpe may have struck the steering wheel of his car with considerable force, as he died soon after being admitted to the Belleville General Hospital as the result of internal injuries. Dr. C. Bretney attended.

British Forces Falling Back To New Positions

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

With the British forces in Greece, April 21 (AP)—British forces are falling back to new and fortified positions in the face of a powerful German drive coupled with unceasing air attacks.

The Germans poured into the plain of Thessaly from three directions, occupied Larisa and then continued southward.

British, Australian and New Zealand troops are effecting the withdrawal skilfully, it is said, and their losses are comparatively low, as repeated German efforts to outflank and encircle the British units failed.

Karditsa, 14 miles south of Trikkala, is in German hands.

The armored descent of the German divisions from the mountains came at dawn Friday after they had been held in the precipitous passes for almost two weeks.

Their first advance was through Grevena, where they pushed back the Greek defenders with an overwhelming mass of troops and armament.

The British Command rushed some armored units to this region to check the advance temporarily and then, because of the danger of being outflanked, they began moving their forces to the units back.

They left light covering forces behind, however, and these held the Germans several days and inflicted immense casualties in violent fighting.

WOODLAND ACRES IN EIGHT STATES IN CHARRED RUINS

Hundreds of Homes Devoured as Flames Sweep Tinder-Dry Trees, Shrubs and Grasses

SOLDIERS FIGHT FIRES

New York, April 21—(CP)—Thousands of woodland acres in eight Eastern States are charred ruins today, aftermath of a devastating series of forest fires that consumed sun-dried countrysides "to cordwood."

Tiny sparks became raging conflagrations, driven by fatal winds before which neither brooks and tinder-like trees, shrubs and grasses could withstand, hundreds of homes as well as factories and farms.

A fortnight of unseasonably warm dry weather was blamed for the seriousness of several hundred individual blazes that felled dozens of firefighters and resulted in at least two deaths.

Hardest hit was central and southern New Jersey, where six homes were destroyed and damage was estimated up to $1,000,000. In Lakewood, a winter resort, 46 homes were lost in a series of flames.

SOLDIERS REQUIRE MAXIMUM OUTPUT

Production Cannot be Held Up Says Army Minister Spender of Australia

Melbourne, April 21 (AP)—Army Minister Spender, returning today in a survey of the Australian industrial situation, said that her soldiers depend on the maximum output of essential industries, "and unless there is a more earnest realization that production cannot be held up while strikes are settled, there will be a great possibility of Australia going under as a nation."

Acting Prime Minister A. W. Fadden, commenting on the position in Greece had further deteriorated during the past few hours but the new British line was intact. He said the Australians in Greece were reported in excellent spirits, although engaged in heavy fighting. Apparently they had acquitted themselves with great distinction and their courage and initiative were major factors in the operations in their sector, he said.

GERMANY AGAIN FEELS MIGHT OF ROYAL AIR FORCE

'Objectives in Western Germany and Invasion Ports' Heavily Attacked

BERLIN ADMITS RAID

London, April 21 (CP)—Bombers of the Royal Air Force started large fires in Cologne last night, the Air Ministry said today. The R.A.F. also raided Dusseldorf and Bresl docks, on the German-occupied French coast.

The ports at Rotterdam and the docks at Dunkirk and Ostend also were bombed, the Ministry said.

A heavily laden ship of 3,000 tons was hit and damaged in the mouth of the shrdenne near Caen.

Although visibility was poor, the Air Ministry said, bursts were observed on the quays and near the drydock at Ijmuid, and large fires were started at Cologne.

The Germans admitted the R. A.F. had raided western Germany but claimed that only "minor" damage was done to residential sections.

Strong shrieked an alert in London at mid-morning today but the all-clear signal sounded after 30 minutes and no incidents were reported.

In the only activity over British territory, some bombs fell in east and southwest England during the night. Two civilians were killed and two Scottish towns were strafed during the day. A three-year-old boy was reported killed by machine-gun bullets in one Scotch town.

During the day, the R.A.F. struck at German shipping in the north sea and at Brest and other points on the German-held French coast. A 5,000-ton Axis ship was reported sunk and an Italian destroyer hit. One Nazi plane was reported destroyed and the Admiralty announced today that two others had been sunk down by mine sweeper Bassett yesterday.

German cannon on the French coast fired on the British ship Exeter Strait Sunday.

Italians Give Lame Excuse For Recall Of U. S. Army Attache

Rome, April 21 (AP)—An authoritative source claimed today that the Italian government's request for the recall of Brig.-Gen. Charles D. Herron, United States assistant military attache in Rome, was necessary because of his activities in Italy.

The Italian request was made, April 9, it was indicated the action might have been in reprisal for an American request for the recall of Admiral Alberto Lais as Italian naval attache at Washington.

It was charged today, however, that the Italian request for Herron's recall was not merely in reprisal but because Capt. Bentley's activities "exceeded his mission" and even surpassed his duties as a neutral guest of a foreign country".

British Resistance To Axis In Libyan Desert Gains Time For Reinforcements

London, April 21 (CP)—Successful British resistance to Axis counterattacks in the Libyan-Egyptian desert is gaining valuable time needed by Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell to rush reinforcements from other fronts, military quarters said today.

The beleaguered British garrison at Tobruk, Libya, still is holding out.

In the Salum area, just inside the Egyptian border, British mobile columns harassing Axis forces "again caused the gaining various losses." (The Germans claimed they took Salum last week).

Meanwhile, cautious references began appearing in London as to the possibility of German drive raid on Siwa Oasis, which is 200 miles due south of Salum and which served as the base for an unsuccessful German attempt to attack the Nile Valley and the Suez in 1940.

British said it is a glittering enough prospect to tempt the Nazis to defy seasonal sandstorms and treacherous desert conditions, for Siwa is but 250 miles west of the Axis Oasis, from which roads and railways lead to the Nile Valley points down the Nile Valley to Asyut, where a dam supplies middle Egypt with water.

Britons also hope a close eye on developments at the two ends of the Mediterranean—the British landing in Iraq and a two-day Spanish Cabinet meeting which the British press generally viewed with suspicion as possibly having a bearing on the fate of Gibraltar.

Four Are Killed And 16 Captured In Extensive Hunt

Possibility Some Of Those At Large May Have Died Of Exposure

TUNNELLED WAY OUT

Peninsula, Ont., April 21—(CP) —A report came in from the bush to this railway point early this afternoon that the last six of the 22 Germans who escaped from their internment camp Friday night had been cornered 15 miles from here.

The prisoners were reported to be divided into parties of three each.

"It's just a matter of time now," said one of the guards here.

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Peninsula, Ont., April 21 —(CP)— The capture of three escaped German prisoners of war who were found with their clothes dry and showing no signs of the bitter cold raised the possibility today that those remaining at large of the 28 who tunnelled to freedom Friday night had found a hide-out.

It was believed here that the new captures meant that only six of the prisoners were still in the snow-covered bush into which they fled from the isolated Northwestern Ontario internment camp.

Three of the escaped Germans were brought in early today from Mrs. Frank Benson, Formerly Of Belleville, Helps To Entertain Canadian Soldiers At Beaver Club

(By FOSTER BARCLAY)

London, April 21 (CP)—Vivacious Marguerite Benson, former Belleville, Ont., income tax office clerk, came to London to be near her absent husband. Now she helps the Canadian soldiers FAY and caffeine during idle moments in the capital.

"Rita," as the soldiers call the fair-haired lady who is known in the "slings of a half-fin," fills about the recreation room in the Beaver Club, playing billiards, chess, table tennis or ping-pong.

She's not on "hot" at chess, but puts up a good front at any of the others. Frequently she's matched and paired and don't need a partner. But that doesn't keep her idle. She crawls under tables to retrieve fleeting ping-pong balls, "ahitaes," or alle in a corner, unnoticed by the soldiers.

"The boys are a grand gang," she puffed after losing a rousing game of table tennis. "We have a lot of fun. I'm the old mother but they don't seem to mind being beaten by a lady."

A husky artilleryman approached, waving a large pot. "Say, about that," he challenged. "I'll spot you twenty-five and still win."

"Ooooo listen, later," she waved him away. "I'm all out of breath." Then turning to another opponent, the stinging challenge suddenly gone: "Now you've got to get that spotting stuff?" she demanded. "Here are your hands" with one hand tied behind my back."

Somebody shoved a cup of tea in her hand and she stood sipping for a moment before plunging into her retrieving duties again.

"It's like old times to be able to mingle with the boys again," she said as her eyes darted from one soldier to another. "I married in a flight sergeant in the R.C.A.F. and when Frank came over last year I just had to come. I've been following him from place to post for the last three years."

The Bensons have a London were few and far between, however, and time began to drag.

She looked for some way to spend her spare hours.

"I volunteered to work in the Beaver Club and was assigned to the dining room," she related. "There wasn't enough action so I asked to be placed in the recreation room. Now there's action any moment."

Former Marguerite Stephens

Mrs. Benson, who was the former Marguerite Stephens of this city was employed at the Belleville District Income Tax Office, prior to her marriage to Flight Sergeant Frank Benson. According to Belleville friends, Mr. and Mrs. W. Gilmore, Mrs. Benson was an efficient and loyal staff for a period of ten years.

Flight-Sergeant Benson is also well known in the city and was a member of the Royal Canadian Air Force prior to the war. He served as instructor at the Trenton and Ottawa bases of the force as well as many other centres prior to leaving overseas with a crack Canadian fighter squadron.

TRIBUTE PAID TO TRUE SERVANT

Rev. G. G. Wright, Christ Church, Speaks of the Fine Qualities of Late Rev. A. L. Geen

Tribute to a true and faithful servant of his God, church and fellowmen was paid to the late Rev. A. L. Geen during the evening service at Christ Church in this city by Rev. G. G. Wright, rector of the parish, on Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Wright took for of the 11th chapter of Hebrews: "Who through faith subdued kingdoms." Rev. Mr. Wright opened his remarks, speaking upon the subject the occasion, in the death of the late Rev. A. L. Geen, "A man of faith." Rev. Mr. Green before I ever heard tell of Christ Church Belleville the late Rev. was known and highly respected as an example to both the layman and the clergy for many years in Ontario diocese but also in the Ottawa diocese where he was known first heard of the late Mr. Geen and his fine qualities as a friend and fellowman."

"Rev. A. L. Geen was a member of the first Confirmation class I ever presided over. That was located on West Moira St. and also a member of the first choir of that church. That church was connected with St. John's Church under Rev. Mr. Forneri was rector. Mr. Geen was ordained a permanent Deacon in the Anglican Church by Bishop Lewis in the year 1883 and was known in the surrounding parishes where he served faithfully until ordained a priest and continued Mr. Wright as he extolled the many qualities and faithfulness of the late Rev. Mr. Geen, erable gentleman during his 56 years' service in the church.

"When I arrived in Belleville to hold my first morning service in February, 1932, Rev. Mr. Geen was awaiting me in the vestry. He was very church and he continued to assist in the services until ill health forced his retirement from the work he loved so well. Even after being laid aside by this abnormal banquet, celebrating half a century of church service in our Parish Hall six years ago, Rev. Mr. Geen continued to do church work at St. John's Church and on the Provincial Board of Religious Education until the age of 76 and served the past 56 years of his life as a God-fearing personality and an example of faithful service," Mr. Wright as he added a eulogising note of the splendid business integrity also possessed by the late member of the church.

Christ Church feels keenly the loss of one who has so long materially assisted that parish.

"Bill" The Stack-Eating Steer Back In Custody

"Buffalo Bill" fence-jumping steer of the Amelialsburg pampas has surrendered himself.

Tired apparently of dreaming of herds of contended "Elsies" in his marshland paradise, the shaggy-coated steer left the fields to live a cafeteria style, and unconcernedly walked into the stable of Donald Ketcheson, Amelialsburg farmer, Night now he is living at the point of origin on the farm of William Bedford.

"Bill" made a spectacular getaway last November when he escaped from the Ketcheson farm on Mile Road while conveying him and other potential performers beneath the Belleville butcher. "Bill" waited until the opportune moment when the human enemy had his attention diverted, and leaped through a door way available, and by five-foot fences with the greatest of ease while the humans stared at him in surprise, stopped and believed his disappearance into the marshy swamps of that particular district.

The search for "Bill" was fruitless, and all attempts on the part of hunting parties to locate him. He lived in the marshes by day where plenty of water was available, and ate midnight snacks from the Bedford alfalfa stacks.

He was "scared to death" of human beings and galloped whirlwind across open fields whenever clearing high fences in his stride, whenever human or enemy came in sight.

Yesterday he eventually gave up the chase, insofar as "Bill" was driven into the stable by a chilling meale from their haystacks. Now for the past few months, "Bill" has lived the life of Reilly dwelling in his manshy home, feeding on the fat of the land, apparently had no mean appetite for the number of tons of the finest alfalfa stack owned by the Bedfords and a few pails of oats for "bones."

What a change of menu was declared by the three-year-old steer, and he craved a bi' cf grain. The Bedfords, owners of the farm he was not a human brag was in sight and he was forced to live on fare of a stable meal. He calmly strolled into the Ketcheson stable, and walked sedately into the stable mingling with other cattle.

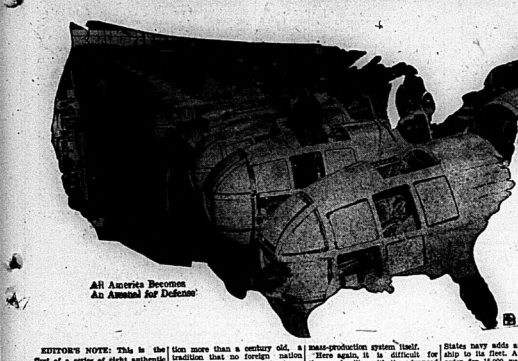
World Amazed by Speed Of U. S. In Converting Nation Into Arsenal



EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of eight authentic exclusive daily articles on the plans and progress already made by the U.S. for the defence of the Americas. The articles are prepared with the collaboration of the U.S. Council of National Defence.

By DON GLASSMAN

Written Exclusively for The Ontario Intelligencer and Central Press Canadian

New York, April 15.—In this land of traditional peace—now turned into an "arsenal of democracy"—many schools, offices and factories display this notice:

"Dollars Don't Buy Yesterdays."

At once this slogan drives home a lesson, a warning, and a reminder that times flee, and once flown, no power can bring it back. That thought burns the consciences of over man and woman who wastes a moment of the time allotted for a given defence task.

The United States of America, a nation of 132,000,000 inhabitants, who have always preferred peace, now defers manpower for its armed forces and converts its vast industries into armories of war.

In one year the country has changed from a passive spectator of events abroad into a super-charged dynamo that animates countless men and machines, shaking off a 12-year slalemate, the nation aims to meet a threat which it feels may come suddenly from land, sea and sky.

The People Agreed

The government drafts men, spends unheard-of sums, taxes poor and rich—for common consent. The most discussed topic in the United States today is the interdependence of the republic and defence of the western hemisphere.

To the average United States citizen, an attack on any part of the western hemisphere constitutes an attack on his vital interests and calls for swift retaliation. The notion that to the United States falls the duty of defending the western hemisphere did not originate recently; it actually rests on a tradition more than a century old, a tradition that no foreign nation can revoke or violate without provoking a challenge from the United States.

The tremendous preparedness program now under way merely reflects the republic's fierce determination to back up with all its strength and resources any attempt on the part of outside powers to endanger the independence or freedom of any nation in the Pan-American Union.

Moreover, the United States is so vast and the preparedness program so immense, few people outside the country comprehend the dynamics of this gigantic effort to turn a land of 3,026,789 square miles into an arsenal of democracy.

Production Speeds

Day by day, the tempo of production mounts. Records of the industrial effort during the war years of 1917-1918 have already gone by the board, months before new plants have hit their stride . . . the eight-hour workday gives way to the three-shift 24-hour day . . . the diversion of men and materials to the armed forces has in many instances surpassed early estimates . . . for the first time in America's history, as a result, the sight of men in military uniform is commonplace . . . flourishing towns with soldier and civilian populations of 1,000 to 50,000 have sprung up from swamps and cornfields . . . small industrial towns are mushrooming into cities . . . unemployment dwindles . . . tens of thousands of youth enlist in the armed forces . . . countless technical schools teach the military crafts and trades . . . most of the 22,000 occupations practised in the United States are, in one way or another, affected by the emergency.

Never in history has any nation armed so speedily and so determinedly. With appropriations that may soon add up to the staggering sum of $25,000,000,000, the United States plans to surpass in two years the armed preparedness that required seven full years on the part of the Axis powers, and in addition to see this materialize, a republic has drafted the specialists who conceived and organized the mass-production system itself.

Here again, it is difficult for those unfamiliar with the advance of state of United States technology and the extent of her resources to realize what can be done to accelerate production. Once tooling is completed and forms are set, the finished machines roll off in an unending procession.

Immense stores of strategic raw materials from the four corners of the earth are piling up in warehouses. These include rubber, nickel, graphite, manganese, tin, and antimony. Further steps have been taken to develop substitute sources of supply for these same materials in the western hemisphere.

Tin, formerly purchased in the Far East, will be imported from Bolivia and smelted in the United States. Cuba, Mexico and Chile are co-operating in the production of rubber. Peru and Chile will ship copper, and other countries in this hemisphere will send chromium.

About $20,000,000,000 worth of contracts and $4,000,000,000 in authorizations had been let up to March, 1941. Defence money flows out of the United States treasury at about $25,000,000 per day or $750,000,000 per month, and promises to reach $900,000,000 a month average during 1941 and $900,000,000 a month average during 1942, or $10,800,000,000 in war outlays during 1917-18.

The Job Being Done

Including British orders, United States industry is now straining to produce 50,000 airplanes, 130,000 engines, 120,000 tanks, 11,000 trench mortars, 32,000,000 shells loaded, 2,200 tanks, 800,000 machine-guns and ammunition; 400,000 automatic rifles and ammunition; 180 naval vessels, 200 mercantile ships, 219 cantonments and camps, 40 government factories.

Also to be produced—clothing and equipment for 1,400,000 men; the first mass-production tank factory in the world; five smokeless powder and high explosive plants; shell, bag and cartridge ammunition loading plants; five new machine-gun plants and 50,000 motor trucks.

Every 10 to 12 days the United States navy adds another fighting ship to its fleet. A supplementary order for 15,000 warplanes, plus about $2,500,000,000 is in the offing for the army.

All records or electric power production have been shattered by the mounting demands of industry. In 1940, national consumption skyrocketed to 142,000,000,000 kilowatt hours. Despite huge power dams in the east and west, new power plant construction costing $700,000,000 is being pushed night and day but even this will not satisfy the increasing demands.

The Four Freedoms

It took much more than the mere threat of physical attack to rouse a nation of 132,000,000 out of complacency. This burst of preparedness for hemisphere defence stems from a realization that the obstacle mean to abolish the four freedoms for which the United States stands—freedom of speech, freedom of press, freedom of worship and freedom of opportunity.

In Tis opening message to the congress now in session, President Roosevelt said he "looked forward to a world founded upon four essential human freedoms." That seems to be the common hope of the people throughout the nation and the menace to these traditional liberties stirs the spiritual fires which unite the nation in striving for the swift completion of defence preparations.

Representatives in the congress have granted the government authority, in the lease-lend bill, to sell, lend or lease the materials of any nation whose defence the president deems vital to the defence of the United States; to manufacture war materials for friendly foreign governments in federal-owned factories and shipyards, and other practical measures designed to help those whose liberty and independence are menaced by power-ful aggressors.

The portrait of the United States today resembles a giant forging a suit of armor that is to be large enough to accommodate two continents and thick enough to repel invasion from any quarter.

HOUSEHOLDERS! THESE ARE YOUR WAR WEAPONS

Save them, Give them, and help WIN THIS WAR

We cannot all march into battle—but we can march into the attics, the cellars and store-away places in our homes.

There are war weapons in these places—and in your household waste, which can be turned into a valuable contribution to Canada's war production and the funds for war auxiliary services.

Many local volunteer organizations have already completed plans for a Salvage Campaign in their districts. More will follow. Quickly, we hope, all Canada will be organized to "clean out and clean up on Hitler"!

Every day of every week until this war is won, every scrap of material which can be profitably salvaged in this area in which you live must be saved, collected and turned into war production material and money.

A careful study and survey is being made throughout Canada by this Department as to the type and class of salvage which will realize the greatest possible return in your community. If this information is not now in the hands of your local Salvage Committee or your Municipal Council, they have been requested to do so. Inquiries to National Salvage Campaign, New Supreme Court Building, Ottawa.

The complete facilities of the Department are at the disposal of local community organizations to aid in making their Salvage Campaigns a success.

When the Campaign starts in your community, we ask that you give it your unqualified support.

CERTAINTY OF VICTORY

General Jan Smuts is confident of victory for Britain and her allies, perhaps in another year or eighteen months. The Premier was praising the work of South Africa whose effort he said is not for the war alone but for the years and generations to follow. "It will be one of the chapters in the development of South Africa."

General Smuts, one of the most brilliant men in the Empire, a military leader as well as statesman, is a man of vision and qualified to weigh the elements which enter into the present day struggle.

South African troops have done noble service in the cause of the Empire and the preservation of freedom in the campaign in East Africa. The Union is today writing a chapter not only for South Africa, but for the Empire and the world in the days that will be.

General Smuts' view is the same as held by the great leaders of the Empire, that victory will come for Britain. It is realized that there will be hard fighting but that the close of the war will see democracy triumphant and liberty preserved.

TRIBUTE TO BRITAIN

St. George's Day will be marked this week in Canada in a way the Dominion has never before observed the anniversary of the British patron saint. In the old days the cry went forth, "With God on our side, England and St. George," and this week the people of Canada are offering a salute to the British people on their courage, faith and resolution. Not one but only but the nations will be given over to celebration of the time. The week opens with a broadcast tonight (Monday) with the famous actress, Madeleine Carrol, reading the "Salute to Britain," and the Mendelssomn Choir and the Toronto Symphony Orchestra rendering Dr. Healey Willan's setting of Alfred Noyes' "The Trumpet Call."

The national chairman of the nation-wide celebration, Major F. J. Ney, says that the purpose of the national observance is to bring home to the merchant, the factory worker, the farmer and the housewife the great debt of gratitude owed to Britain and all who help defend the Isles, to give the people an opportunity to join in offering a composite "thumbs up" gesture and a hands-across-the-ocean tribute to a nation and people who are undergoing great trials and will be victorious.

The churches, patriotic societies, the schools and other bodies are out to make the observance an impressive tribute to the British people.

NEW YORK TIMES' VIEW

Under the heading "The Course is Forward" the New York Times says editorially as to the course the United States has "chosen to pursue in taking our stand with Britain," "beyond question our choice has narrowed to fighting Hitler on this side of the Atlantic, possibly in South America or seeing to it that he is decisively defeated on the other side of the Atlantic. We are too much the enemies of every ambition he expresses, too much the possessors of all he covets, to be permitted to live in freedom in a world in which he is victorious. For our own protection we must now go far enough to make certain that he is not victorious."

The Times goes on to say "In practical terms this requires us to do whatever may be necessary to bring our productive equipment into contact with the battle lines. If this cannot be insured without convoys by American warships, we must convoy. We are under no obligation in international law or ethics to concede a megalomaniac the mastery of the seas.

"This is not the time to hesitate in the fulfillment of our pledge of all-out aid to Britain. It is rather a time for thanksgiving that we do not stand alone and friendless in the face of hostile powers, that we have at our side a courageous and resourceful ally, which, with our aid, will win this war. The course lies forward."

The British and American democracies when they reach their full stride will write finis to the aims of the German dictator and his associates.

He is not great that is not greatly good.—Shakespeare.

OURSELVES AND OTHERS...

BY

The trim young aircraftman with the insignia of the Royal Air Force gleaming on his rakish service cap, halted the inquiring reporter on Saturday afternoon. "Pardone, chaire," he smiled in the well-known English Midlands dialect, "could you tell he if I can change this anywhere here?"

In his hand was a piece of white paper. Closer examination revealed it to be a "quid" (a pound note.) The I. R. jingled the family plate in the reportorial pants, and discovered he lacked about three bucks of the required amount.

However, the transaction was arranged, and the I. R. heard a story of human interest that would cause a Sphinx to clutch at its heart if it had one.

The youngster, he is only 19, is Harry Brown, of the R.A.F., now stationed at Picton. Harry has been in Canada roughly seven days and is a very homesick young man. Although he went through the hell that was Coventry, he still yearns to get back to his war-shattered home city. He carries with him the memory of the ruin, a pile of shattered ruins and debris, and of family and friends killed when the Hun hordes swept out of the sky. He remembers that evening when, with his sweetheart, he had been to a dance a few miles out of the city, and of the lingering farewell kiss when they parted.

It was a farewell caress in all senses of the world. A few minutes later a bomb crashed down, leaving the little English girl a bleeding corpse.

"Canada is all right y'know," Harry smiled, "But you blokes can have your lights and grub, give me good old England."

If you, by any chance, happen to see Harry on the street, you will note perhaps that he walks with a peculiar gait and wears a special shoe on his left foot. And if you press the point he will tell you of the day a few miles from Rouen, France, before Dunkirk startled a war-torn world.

Harry is an aero-mechanic and was on duty with his camouflaged squadron of Hurricanes. Out of the blue sky came the enemy, brilliant sunlight flashing on their wings. Down they roared straight for the British squadron. In Harry's words, "They got one of our kites, y'know." But the British fighters soon "climbed the stairs" and sent the Messerschmitts reeling home, leaving two of their machines bullet-ridden wrecks on French soil.

Right in the thick of the bombardment was the 18-year-old English boy, going about his work with his comrades as calmly as though nothing was occurring. "I felt a jab on my left foot," he said, "but felt no pain. Then my foot gave way and I went over. I took my boot off and found it full of blood. A piece of a bomb had split my big toe as neatly as a button. It was nothing, merely a scratch. But the bloke that dropped it won't split any more toes. Right now he's pushing up popples in a little field near Rouen."

Harry's squadron has seen plenty of action. It seemed to follow the crack Canadian fighter unit wherever it was sent. "But, Lor lumme," Harry will smile, "that's what we were in there for, isn't it?"

He thinks the Canadians are tops as pilots, with the exception, of course, of those heroes of the R.A.F. "All the Colonials are dashed fine fighters," he says. But for actual ferocity in aerial combat, the "Poles take the bloomin' cake."

"Our chaps and your fellows," Harry says, "recognize certain rules of sportsmanship, even in war, but the Poles just don't bother. God help the Hun pilot that falls before the flaming guns of a Pole, because, to use the only Canadian expression I know, he is what you call a dead pigeon. The Poles follow them clear down to the ground, sending burst after burst of bullets into them."

"But, after all," Harry says, "one can't really blame the blighters, can they?"

The Deadly .22 Rifles

Once more we have had tragic evidence that the .22 rifle is not a plaything, not a toy, but a deadly weapon. Because that gun is small and cheap and easily carried it has a fatal fascination for boys. With a .22 they can hunt for birds and rabbits, can play at being soldiers, can make themselves feel grown-up. What they so often fail to realize is that they can kill death for human beings in those small bullets.

These rifles, usually are carried by inexperienced boys who have not quite innocently, cause pitiful tragedies. That means that the real responsibility rests upon parents. Obviously no child under 16 years old is to handle a rifle until he is old enough to understand the danger of mishandling it, and he boy of say years until the safe use of a gun has been driven into him as a soldier is taught safety in such matters. And the parent himself competent, have a duty to make certain that proper precautions are enced leads are not permitted to borrow their guns or play with them.

It is against the law to discharge a firearm in an built-up community, but the law of common sense and public safety should be observed. That not even a .22 rifle should be fired close to buildings, in the summer settlement, or in any spot where the danger of the bullet is not perfectly clear.

Famous Tavern

The Journal's London Bureau.

Permission has now been given to mention that Jack Straw's Castle, the famous tavern, is the headlead on the borders of the Heath, has been requisitioned by order of German bombers. This place has long been closed, but it is hoped and he often enjoyed there "A redhot chop and a glass of good wine."

Further back there is not much to date that is known about it. It was pretty grim highwayman associations, but in recent years, and even in the days of the bare-knuckle prizefights, it was a favorite training centre for well-known pugilists. Many a time, indeed, even there just before the present war, and Tommy Burns and other famous boxers before he left for South Africa and encountered his ring nemesis in the form of Jack Johnson.

The old tavern and the cottages opposite it were full of souvenirs of famous boxers and sportsmen, and the tavern has long been a favorite resort of Hampstead and visiting Hampstead Heath. The Heath behind the tavern was also for long ago as a racecourse before the Derby or Ascot were known as popular events.

One Woman's Answer

News of Norway.

An automobile containing two high-ranking German officers stopped at the home of Mrs. Engelhart. One of the officers asked a Norwegian woman questions as to the route to them the way to the airport.

"May I ride with you, English?" she asked in turn.

At this the German growled with obvious displeasure but finally agreed to receive information of that language.

Whereupon the Norwegian woman gave her answer: "I don't know."

A Distinction

Leonard Lyons in New York Post.

STILL HOLDS TRUE.

Sir Archibald Hurd, author of the British Fighting Fleet and Merchant Navy in the War.

Three hundred years ago, when the British Empire, as we know it, was in the making, Sir Walter Raleigh wrote words which apply even more forcefully today than they did then. "Whosoever commands the sea commands the trade of the world; whosoever rules the trade of the world commands the riches of the world and consequently the world itself."

Within our time man has conquered the air, but, so far as international trade is concerned, the carrying of cargoes of heavy raw materials and manufactures—nothing has happened to invalidate Raleigh's testimony to the supreme importance of sea power.

OUR TOURIST BUREAU.

Toronto Financial Post:

American dollars derived from tourist revenue are a valuable factor in our war effort that we should seek to conserve and husband in fact in travel promotion with the utmost efficiency and intelligent thinking. We should make use of every existing agency and convenience that can lend support to the effort. The effort should be handled as a business-like sales promotion job. The Department of Trade and Commerce from long experience, and because its staff is trained in such matters, can do this better than the more technical Department of Mines, manned as it is by engineers and technicians.

On War-Mongering

I hear it is charged against me that I am a "war-monger."

What is the meaning of war-mongering?

Was it war-mongering to warn years ago that a national organization and philosophy of life had risen on the continent of Europe that would eventually threaten the powers and institutions of the whole world, and threaten them by offensive totalitarian wars and wars by revolution as well?

• • •

Was it war-mongering to beg this country years ago to reform its life, put personal pleasure and security aside, and with devotion and patriotism prepare itself for the great role it must play in history?

• • •

Was it war-mongering to urge a universal system of collective security to maintain peace by a united preponderance of power on the side of peace and of peaceful adjustments?

• • •

Was it war-mongering to urge the President, as I did a year and a half ago, before the invasion of Holland, to call together the countries, to adopt a policy of "dynamic neutrality," giving the United States at the head of all their neutral rights, greatly strengthen their economic situation and their defences, and work out with these countries a program for a just peace, to be propagandized throughout the world, morning noon and night?

• • •

At that time — when most of Europe was neutral — I wrote that "neutrality must be dynamic. They must not be passive or disinterested observers but an active force, working for a peace in the future world that will have any stability — a peace, moreover, whose policies are based on reason, intelligence, realism and humanity."

Was it war-mongering to propose at about the same time that a permanent conference be called in America, of representative men of all nations, including the neutrals —not representatives of governments — but representative men, the scientists, geographers, publicists, economists, poets of the world, to prepare a peace based upon world needs and contemporary realities which would obviate the attempt to revise ancient wrongs and create new and worse ones by force?

• • •

Those who are quick to scream war-monger have offered not a single constructive proposal to peace.

They have bitterly opposed any system of collective security.

They conceived an idea on isolationism in Norway, and decided the ice hands and feet and render its impotent in the presence of any active force.

They hoped to maintain peace for America alone in the midst of a highly integrated world tied intimately together by economic relations that grow faster every day, and by immediate communication, by common ideas, common aeroplanes, common institutions, common and correlated economies — a world vulnerable at every front and in every field.

They have insisted that somehow the Americas are isolated from the planet nor quite a part of it.

• • •

They are actually in the very centre of the planet, where the great oceans join in the Panama Canal, and their position is the quintessence of humanity, a cross section of all the races of the world who die daily over and over again, as the lands of their ancestors, the cradles of their memories are blotted out, and the great destructive forces of the world find a ruthless refuge of the heart and mind of man.

• • •

Peace has to be, created, in order to be maintained. It is the product of Faith, Strength, Energy, Will, Sympathy, Justice, Imagination and the triumph of principle. It will never be achieved by passivity and quietism. Passivity and quietism are invitations to war.

• • •

Those in our land who have wanted peace have not wanted it at even any price. They have not wanted it for nothing. They have not wanted it for humanity but as a special gift of God for America alone, to be delivered by doing nothing. They have not wanted Peace at all. They have wanted to be spared war — as though the absence of war was the same as peace.

• • •

If a nation wants prosperity more than freedom, wealth more than dignity, leisure more than strength, brilliance more than character, it considers that all the creative sacrifices have been made to the gods of comfort; if it forgets that the individual holds his freedom as a trust from his nation, and the nation exists in service to humanity, individual responsibility is hatched-lived and so will the free nation.

• • •

The Book of Revelations, prophesies that there shall arise a place of locusts "like unto horses prepared unto battle" with "breastplates of iron" and the "sound of their wings was as the sound of chariots of many horses running to battle," and "they had tails like unto scorpions" and the sting of the bottomless pit."

And that even then the rest of men which were not killed by these plagues yet repented not the works of their hands that they should not worship devils, and idols of gold, and of silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which neither can see, nor hear, nor walk."

• • •

We have the power for peace and for humanity if we have it in trust for twenty years. No one can foresee the past, nor is there time for useless recrimination. The future still belongs to those who live with the clearest vision for humanity and the greatest will for the human future. But "future" can be a long time.

THE JAPAN-RUSSIA PACT

Washington Post.

From the point of view of the Allies and of the United States the conclusion of the new Russo-Japanese pact lies in the belief, implicit in the Soviet-Nazi alliance, that it is going to be successful. We should be foolish to view its signature with either complacence or with fear and interest. Two great states, with very important stakes in world affairs, have signed a pact with Great Britain. Their reasoning may be bad, their conclusions faulty, but they have, we blind, we would understand and appreciate that that belief behind the position they are now taking.

SHRAPN EL SHELLS

That the cases of shrapnel shells are filled with high-explosive is not a popular fallacy.

Certain high-explosive shells and grenades are designed to burst into many fragments.

But shrapnel shells are designed not to burst.

The shrapnel shell was invented in 1784 by a 32-year-old British army officer named Henry Shrapnel.

It was not adopted by the British army until 1803 when it was used in fighting the Dutch at Surinam in South America.

This type of shell was used with great effectiveness by the troops under Wellington in the Peninsula wars, the name given to the war carried on between 1808 and 1814 by the British, Spanish and Portuguese against the French.

The shrapnel consists of a case or shell loaded with an explosive and hundreds of bullets and exploded in flight by a time fuse.

Generally the interstices between the individual bullets are filled partly with a resin and partly with some smoke-producing substance.

The chief purpose of the shrapnel is to carry the bullets to a given distance from the weapon and discharge them in cone-shaped formation with great energy.

If the shell case itself were to split into fragments when ignited the bullets would scatter in all directions and defeat the purpose of the shrapnel.

Henry Shrapnel also improved the construction of mortars and howitzers and invented the brass tangent slide.

But Shrapnel died in 1842 at the age of 81 without ever suspecting that his name would go into his dictionary as the name of the shell that he had invented.

It was not until 1852 that this type of shell became officially known as the shrapnel.

Shrapnel was one of the most widely used of all-time fuse shells during the Great War of 1914-1918.

The invention of shrapnel fought with the British army in Flanders and retired from active service in 1835 after having risen to the rank of lieutenant general.

The minie rifle and the conical lead bullet known as the minie ball used during the American Civil War were invented by and named after Claude E. Minie (1804-1879) of the French army.

TRAFFIC OFFICER TO LEAVE CITY

Charles Siple Will Exchange Posts With Hugh McKellar of Port Hope

Effective May 1, Highway Traffic Officer Hugh McKellar will exchange with H.T.O. Charles Siple of Belleville. Officer McKellar came to Port Hope from Lancaster six years ago and in that time has become well known in sporting and military circles. He is an officer in the reserve Midland Regiment.

Patrolman Siple was assigned to the Belleville detachment of the motorcycle patrol of the O.P.P. in September 1940, Belleville being his first appointment since joining the department nearly a year ago. Inspector Frank Gardiner, in charge of District No. 8, O.P.P., with headquarters at Belleville, made the announcement of the changes today.

German Gains In The Bálkans Appraised

(By KIRKE L. SIMPSON)

Washington, April 21.—The full effect of these tragic days in the Balkans on the trends of the main battle in the Atlantic are still beyond accurate appraisal.

But even a rough estimate provides a startling picture of German achievements in the last fourteen days. Some offsetting items tend to relieve British gloom, but generally speaking the balance has been distinctly unfavorable in German favor, both militarily and politically.

These entries on the war books can be noted:

The Yugoslav Army, more than 1,000,000 strong, has been liquidated.

The back door to essential Nazi-Fascist war supplies of Italian oil and food, once held vulnerable, has been closed. A German threat to British Mediterranean bases has been created.

Boost for Italy

Italy has been bolstered against the chance of internal collapse; virtually all of Albania is restored to her control. The Italian coastline across from Italy given into Italian hands. Greece is knocked out as possible active or even passive British base. Her army has been demobilized, if not worse.

The effect of the Nazi blows in the east on British morale at home cannot yet be gauged.

It is one that factor alone that German hopes to a complete victory in Europe within months during this year, must hinge. There are already definite indications of a possible German halt in the East and a turnabout to Hitler's full Nazi power against Britain. Ruthless "retaliatory" bombing of London was a foretaste.

And there are indications that a Nazi-Turkish pact of non-aggression is brewing.

Indeed, this possibility that Turkey might stand aside for an Axis thrust south-eastward if the Italian barrier falls—spurred British to hurry strong Imperial forces into Iraq. In that little desert State, where three days ago there was a coup against the Government are the great oil fields from which comes much fuel for British Mediterranean Fleet.

British return bombing of Berlin within hours after a devastating Nazi raid on London speaks of her determination to fight on to the bitter end. Nor have the Axis successes in the Balkans influenced the United States help-for-Britain program—except to quicken it.

African Scene Brighter

Current developments in North Africa and the Mediterranean do something to lighten the Middle Eastern war picture for British eyes. Even Berlin admits the Axis Libyan-Egyptian thrust is now on the defensive, not the attack.

British crippling of the Italian Fleet in repeated actions is another asset item. Except for the situation in Greece, shifting of British naval forces from the Mediterranean to the Atlantic, where they are desperately needed, would be possible.

In Greece, however, the British situation is grave: The collapse of Yugoslav resistance released new Nazi hordes for use on the Greek front.

A general backward movement of the whole Greek-British line is even now in progress. It will be a dangerous withdrawal under the relentless pounding of Axis shock divisions and clouds of planes. It is nearly 150 miles from general Allied positions to the water-flanked Greek valeline from Thermopylae to the Gulf of Artea where a new stand might be made.

To reach that point Allied troops would have to cross the wide valley floods of Central Greece which offer opportunity lacking in the mountain terrain northward for high-speed mechanized warfare.

Rome Communique

Rome, April 21 (AP)—The Italian high command claimed today Italian forces had re-occupied the entire Jordan coast of Albania as far as the Greek frontier.

In the Mediterranean, the war bulletin claimed, Italian planes torpedoed and sank a 15,000-ton oil tanker and an 8,000-ton auxiliary cruiser from an Allied convoy.

(There was no British comment on these claims.)

ARMCHAIR CRITICS HIT BY ALEXANDER

First Lord of Admiralty Says it is Easy to be Wise After Events

ITALIAN LOSSES LARGE

London, April 21 (CP). — The First Lord of the Admiralty, A. V. Alexander, today attacked "armchair critics" of Britain's decision to send troops to Greece and declared to his London audience that Italian transports destroyed by the navy run into "six figures." The First Lord did not divulge what the figures were.

(The First Lord's figures were apparently in tonnage, the total being more than 100,000 tons. It will be recalled that the most spectacular success against Axis military convoys occurred last week when British raiders destroyed three supply ships, an ammunition vessel and two transports, a total of 20,000 tons, between Sicily and Tripoli).

"There are some who can be wise after events and who criticize strategy and military dispositions," he said, "I ask them to realize the vast change in the situation since last June when France collapsed and the assassin Mussolini entered into the war thinking he was going to get something cheap.

"There were many people then who doubted our wisdom to last many weeks."

Mr. Alexander enumerated Britain's African victories and said:

"It seems wrong in the circumstances for an arm-chair critic to tell us we ought not to have risked our position in Libya to go to the aid of Greece . . . I do not think the Government has any need to apologize for its decision."

He said Britain's burden in the Battle of the Atlantic is "grievous and heavy," but he predicted an increasing toll of German submarines and long-range planes.

He declared Britain would have to go on struggling "to get back to Scandinavia the secret position we had in the last war when we worked not only as a single fleet, but had five powerful allied fleets and five times the number of destroyers we have now."

"The amazing thing," he said, "is that the navy has kept the lifeline open."

The First Lord said one of Germany's best submarine commanders, Schepking, the knight's cross holder Otto Kretschmer, credited in Berlin last December with having sunk more than 250,000 tons of shipping, is a British prisoner.

Kretschmer, Mr. Alexander continued, was "strolled in Germany as the result of the navy's fight to keep the lifeline open."

The Press Press story reported two prisoners were shot dead and another seriously wounded Wednesday night within a radius of 3 1-3 miles from the centre of Verdun, together with a fifth, they were ambushed by heavily-armed soldiers. The fifth came out with his hands high in the air, thereby avoiding the fate of his companions.

The story says the dead are a German airman and a member of a German submarine crew. It added that authorities at Colmar rushed to a surgeon to the camp after learning of the shooting to remove a bullet from one of the prisoner's lungs but "there was little hope of saving his life, camp officials said."

"A brief outline of the daring break was given newsmen by Major Linder, Friday evening, as in the nightly custom, the men were counted and all were found to be present. In explaining how the escape was accomplished, Major Linder said that a guard heard a suspicious noise. He called to a companion and the pair investigated. What they discovered caused a fast check-up and 28 of the prisoners were found missing.

"He declined to state exactly how the prisoners escaped but paid tribute to the speed with which the guards worked.

"We were very fortunate in discovering the escape so quickly," he said. 'We were right on them before they had a chance to get very far."

Newsmen Covering Prison Break Had Cameras Confiscated

Winnipeg, April 21 (CP) — Newspapermen coming into the area where 28 Germans escaped from a northwestern Ontario internment camp Friday "were promptly placed under temporary arrest and their cameras temporarily confiscated," the Winnipeg Free Press says today in a dispatch from the internment-camp district.

Earlier following an interview with Major C. B. Lindsey, commander of the guard and temporary camp commandant, the cameras were returned, the reporters released and escorted to the train," the story says.

British A.-A. Gunners Have Shot Down Over 1,000 Planes Recently

London, April 21 (CP) — The Ministry of Information said today records of anti-aircraft gunners of British gunners brought the total of enemy planes downed by fire from the ground to "over 1,000."

Five hundred planes were said to have been shot down over the British Isles, the rest over Malta and the Middle East.

Cape Breton Miners Now Back At Work

Glace Bay, N.S., April 21—(CP)—Cape Breton miners reported for work today at seven a.m. EDT, marking the end of a strike which kept 13 miners and 10,000 men idle since Wednesday.

The decision to return to work was made at a convention held Friday, with 13 local unions of the United Mine Workers of America endorsing the decision through their representatives.

The strike, Nova Scotia's greatest labor tie-up since 1925, was called in protest against the action of the U.M.W. district executive in signing wage contracts with provincial companies before submitting them to the rank and file for a referendum vote.

The convention of 13 locals which advised that the miners return to work today will re-convene this morning to receive petitions demanding the resignation of District President D. W. Morrison and Secretary-Treasurer Alex McKay. Decision to send out the petitions was made Friday.

The President, who branded the strike "foolish," denied that he would resign if the rank and file demanded it.

The miners went back to work today under new contracts, signed for one year, giving to most of them a modest wage increase, retroactive to Feb. 1. The retroactive pay totals about $180,000.

Toronto, April 21 (CP)— When Thelma Foulkes, 17-year-old Toronto High School student, wrote to General Charles De Gaulle, leader of the Free French movement, asking for a definition of Democracy she received a reply from his press relations officer saying simply "it is for that that we are fighting." The officer indicated that to give a definition of democracy other than this would be engaging in politics.

Easter may mean eggs and new clothes to many folks, but to boys and girls it means vacation. And to boys and girls who are members of the various clubs and groups at the Y.M.C.A., it means a week of special program, special days of tournaments in the social lobby and gym, special events on the gym floor and in the swimming pool; there will be something doing every minute of the day and evening.

The tournaments were won as follows: Junior's boys, table tennis, John Rollins; checkers, John Rollins; chekers, Campbell Cameron; crokinole, John Rollins.

Girls: Bowling, Joan Reed; horse shoes, Kathryn McKay; table tennis, Beatrice Zebedee; crokinole, Leslie Kalbfleisch; checkers, Beatrice Zebedee.

Wednesday the boys had an indoor picnic lunch to punctuate their gay activities and not to be outdone, some of the girls did the same thing Saturday.

Much of the week's activity centred around preparation for the Inter-Association Display which is to be held on Wednesday April 30, and the boys were working hard to get their drills in shape.

Friday morning the Junior Gymnastic Club spent the morning on the floor working out the graded gymnastic tests, and made very creditable showings.

Alleged Attempts To Evade Training Charge By Police

Montreal, April 21 (CP)— Royal Canadian Mounted Police today told two men on charges laid under national war service regulations and said they had questioned a number of others in connection with alleged attempts to evade compulsory military training.

Those arrested and held for court action were Jean Marie Lesage, 19, Montreal, and A. Philip Stanilis, 24-year-old resident of adjacent Outremont, Que.

Police said they were informed several weeks ago that men ranging in age from 21 to 24 had paid sums of money for exemption of their military training or for complete exemption as a resident of Montreal, Outremont, Ottawa, Shawinigan Falls and St. Hyacinthe were named but more than a score of persons questioned here this weekend. Police did not indicate how the alleged evasions were affected.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

ALTHOUGH the auguries for this day may be read as of eventful and lively important, with the mind and the energies keyed to high purpose and definite objectives, yet there is a possibility of such high pressure being carried to excess and possible in the wrong direction. Positive or impetuous attitudes of mind, expressions or acts of a very undesirable if not dangerous or disastrous nature. Conservative considerations and conservatism might turn the balance against loss and misery. The support and suggestions of superiors, elders or the domestic circle might be worthwhile.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year in which their own restraints, keen insight into the situations and conditions backed up by sound sense, might prove profitable in the important way of a new direction. But there is a tendency to be carried into foolish escapes by self-tension and impetuosity because of over-accentuated mental and physical energies. Treacherous and unpredictable situations may be averted by giving head to superiors, elders or the home front, else there is some sort of public danger or calamity.

A child born on this day should have much initiative and ability, with probably a temperament "ready to go" but this very pressure of mind and energy may be its undoing unless given early direction.

POSTUM

When Baby "Won't Take It"

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

My doctor advises that my daughter five years old should have a teaspoon of cod-liver oil every day. But she gags and cries and struggles as soon as she sees the bottle. It's been such a fight that I have given it up.

Now, you are not a weakling, Mother. You will not run away from such a little problem as this one. Choose a time each day for giving her the cod-liver oil when Dad or some other assistant will be on hand. Have the oil into the spoon so the child does not see it. Keep it out of sight until ready for action. Then, as the assistant firmly but quickly seizes the child, you will put it into her mouth, pushing the spoon back (or enough into her mouth so she will have to swallow). It might be well to have a trained nurse or a public health nurse on hand once to talk you in this skill. It must be done quickly and well. And don't pinch the child's nose.

As soon as the job is over, say nothing about the oil or the child's resistance. Keep wholly quiet or talk of something which will appeal to the child's interest. The oil may be less repellent to the child if it is kept cold. Proceed in like fashion on succeeding days until the child volunteers to cooperate. The less emotion and more skill you bring to the better your results will be.

Fever

My baby is 17 months old. He has developed awful fright at the sight of a needle.

Be sure someone is with this little child when the syringe is operating, and keep him fast enough even. Then he will feel pretty safe. When it is not in use, put it near where he plays most and let him see it. He will learn to be comfortable with it when it is still. He might even be induced to touch it, or push it or to push the button which operates it. Maybe it is not sensitive.

Next time it is turned on, be sure the baby is at a comfortable distance. Gradually, during several secret days, he might be induced to come closer and closer to it. And the time will arrive to it. And the time will arrive to it. And the time will arrive

All-Round Play in the Major Loops Not of High Calibre Due to Weather

YANKS CLUB DEAN

By BILL BONI

Associated Press Sports Writer

This, making the start of the second week of the major league baseball season, should by rights bring pause for reflection, a check-back on the pre-season estimates and how they are holding up under the early flying.

In the light of Sunday developments, however, this corner defies anyone to come up with a reasonable, logical analysis.

In the National League there were four games. These produced, 42 runs, 100 hits, 14 errors and 27 pitchers, or an average of 10½ runs, 25 hits, four errors and seven pitchers per each. There were three games in the American League. These turned up 53 runs, 87 hits, 12 errors and 15 pitchers, also an average per game of far from the usual.

In both leagues there was only one pitcher able to go nine innings. He was the Yankees' Red Ruffing, who gave Philadelphia Athletics 10 hits but got ample batting support from his mates. This support took in three homers, two by Joe Gordon and one with the bases full by Joe DiMaggio.

The score was 19-5, and the victim Chubby Dean, who had humbled the Yanks in their home opener.

Harder Pitches Well

The best pitching, however, was a two-hit, six-inning job by Mel Harder and Joe Heving, who heaved the Indians to a 4-0 verdict over Detroit Tigers. The other American League game was a mailing match which the Red Sox won from the Washington Senators, 14-4.

In the senior circuit things were even better, or worse. The Dodgers and Giants drew a record Polo Grounds crowd of 56,314, and each man got his money's worth, what with five homers, a triple play, nine pitchers, and the whining run scored from second by Dolph Camilli after he had walked. Babe Young had hit Alex Kampouris in the head with a batted ball from the Brooklyn infielder at second.

There were at least two honors in each of the other National League games. The Phils got two, but one in the 10th by Danny Dahlgren paid off for Boston Bees in a 7-5 victory; Lloyd Waner and Harry Craft hit for the circuit in the Reds' conquest of the Pirates, and the Chicago Cubs needed three to beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 11-10, though it was an outfield fly that finally drove in the deciding run in the 10th inning.

New Ball League In Ottawa Valley

Ottawa, April 21 (CP)—Groundwork for a new Interprovincial Senior Baseball League was laid here Saturday at a meeting attended by Hull and Ottawa baseball leaders and at the same time the way was cleared for the new organization by suspension of the Hull and District Baseball Association which had operated for five years.

Charles D'Aoust, sports editor of Ottawa Le Droit was named President of a provincial executive for the new league. The executive will report back next week when it is expected a six-team loop will be organized.

Teams from Ottawa, Hull, Buckingham, Que., Carleton Place, Ont., and Smith's Falls, Ont., are expected to compete.

Coast fight clubs use a red canvas so the blood stains won't show, and Illinois referees wear maroon colored shirts for the same reason.

TORONTO LEAFS SPLIT TWIN BILL WITH THE CHIEFS

Walter Lafranconi Turns in Thriller in Nightcap to Win 2-0

BEAT IN 11 FRAMES

(By The Associated Press)

The International Baseball League standing probably won't be like today's again this season, but the lineup at the first turn of the campaign that only got under way last Thursday indicates that predictions of a 'close race may have been well founded.

Buffalo and Baltimore sharing the lead, have won three games and lost two each. Toronto and Syracuse are all the bottom with two victories and three losses apiece. The four other clubs are in between with .500 records.

Yesterday Buffalo Bisons outhit the Orioles in both games of a doubleheader, but came out with only two runs to show for the last inning decided each contest. Buffalo batters drove off Ken Trinkle in the ninth inning to win the opener, 7-6, while Baltimore scored all its runs in the sixth and seventh to take the nightcap, 7-6.

The winning run in this game came when Earl Cook relieved Frank Trinkle with the bases filled and two out, let fly a wild pitch on his first effort.

Toronto and Syracuse also split a Sunday doubleheader. Syracuse rolling out a 8-0 victory in 11 innings and Toronto winning 2-0 in the nightcap. Newsom pitched for Toronto, 11-1, polling out 15 hits, including two homers, to back up the three-hit pitching of Russ Christopher. Jersey City turned back Montreal, 2-0, in the other game. Hal Feldman bested Mac Macon in a second game pitching duel, 1-0, in 10 pitches, stranded 11 Montreal runners.

Toronto's Walter LaFranconi turned in another of the fine pitching performances that have made the Leafs box leader, Dutch Meyer, and Bill Burkart in the eighths to tie the score, 2-2, with a double and Burkart their winning run in the 11th on two hits, the first by Meyer, an error and two sacrifices.

BOSTON NATIONAL BALL CLUB SOLD

C. F. Adams and Syndicate Buys Boston Bees for Undisclosed Sum

Boston, April 21 (AP)—President Bob Quinn, of Boston Bees Sunday night announced the successful completion of his five months' campaign to find a syndicate to purchase C. F. Adams' controlling interest in that National League baseball club. Adams represents about 78 per cent of the stock.

Quinn said that the last two of his new associates are New Englanders, the owner of Boston, Joseph Maney of Somerville, Louis Perini of Framingham, and Guido Rugo of Natick. The latter four are engaged in the contracting business.

"It took a splendid set-up, and I am delighted to be associated with such substantial men who have such a keen love for baseball," Quinn said. "We could have taken in many others, and probably will have at least two more in our ranks within the next few days. During all of our negotiations Mr. Adams was extremely sympathetic and displayed great patience.

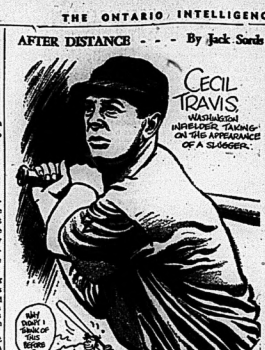
"I am proud to announce that the Boston National League franchise is almost entirely New England-owned for the second time since it became a charter member of the National League back in 1876. It has not had home ownership since the presidency of Arthur S. Soden, back in 1906."

Price Not Divulged.

Quinn refused to divulge the price the syndicate paid for Adams' controlling interest. In the past, however, it has frequently been mentioned that the latter's price was around $350,000.

In addition to putting up enough funds to pay Adams in cash, Quinn said that the members of the syndicate also intend to provide the club with new working capital. Recently Johnny Cooney, the club's veteran player-coach, was named as one of the syndicate.

"Johnny wanted to come in with us and had his money up," Quinn explained, "and I would have been glad to have him with us but for a technicality which would have the effect that an embarrassing situation could be created by a player with a financial interest in the club."



SIMPSON GRADS TAKE MONTREAL

Toronto Team Only One Goal Away From Trip to Coast to Battle for Cage Title of Dominion

By WILF GRUSON,
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 21—(CP)—Dreaming of a trip to Vancouver for the Canadian Senior Basketball Championship series has come about the only pleasant thing Simpson Grads of Toronto have been able to do between their struggle to hurdle financial difficulties and keep going throughout the playdowns for a berth in the Dominion title series with the western champions.

Saturday night they practically placed one foot on the train as they whipped Montreal Rocklands 29-27 in the first game of their best-of-three series for the Eastern Canada crown. And unless Rocklands can come through with a surprising reversal of form Grads will be ready to put the other foot on after the second game tonight.

Grads showed great scoring punch, good passing and fast-breaking plays that baffled the Quebec outfit's efforts to take a lead from the opening whistle which they never relinquished. Coach Moe Brenhouse of Rocklands was the first to admit that Grads had outclassed his club throughout and that Rocklands never had come up against a club that handled the ball so quickly.

Gasp Park paced Grads' attack, scoring 12 points by sinking four field goals and four free shots. Don Bloomfield was high man for Rocklands with eight and shared the runner-up for scoring honors with Brendon and Axon who picked up the same number.

FOUR OF ROYALS WILL NOT PLAY

Biggest Part of Team Will be Writing Exams at McGill and Cannot Leave

By ROBERT CLARKE

Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Toronto, April 21 (CP)—The mystery letter of algebra found a number of its class in all Memorial Cup calculations today as Montreal Royals and Winnipeg Rangers squared off for the start of their National Junior Hockey final. Even to the most learned of hockey mathematicians the letter was baffling.

The best-of-five game series is due to get underway here tonight with various circumstances making it likely that the westerners will be favorites to take the opening contest.

One of the factors that makes the Rangers slight favorites to take the first game is the fact that Royals will be missing four of the men who bore the heaviest loads in their triumph in the eastern final over Oshawa Generals, the Memorial Cup championships of the past two years. These men are goalie Rose Ritchie, defenseman Bruce Ward and forwards Grant Morrison and Bud Parmer.

Parmer has been lost to the club for the remainder of the season, due to the fact that he is a first-year check-bone about four minutes from the end of the final game with the Generals. The others have taken up summer positions and are writing college examinations and were forced to remain in Montreal.

While wam't alone in having player problems to contend with for coach Lawrence (Baldy) Northcott of Rangers said before leaving Winnipeg that two of his stars—Stan Mikery and Bill Robinson—were miss the opening game. The two men could play if needed badly but Northcott wants them to rest because of hip injuries they suffered recently.

SYDNEY DISPLAYS TOO MUCH POWER FOR REGINA TEAM

Millionaires Take 7 First Games for Canadian Senior Hockey Title 8-6

PENALTY SHOT WINS

By LORNE BRUCE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Regina, April 21—(CP)—Sydney Millionaires have too much power for Regina Rangers — that's the consensus after watching the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey Championships Rangers 8-6 in Chalmers Saturday night in the first game of the Allan Cup finals.

Both teams reached the Saskatchewan capital today for the second game of the best-of-five series for the Canadian Senior Championship to be played here tonight. The third game is scheduled for Saskatoon Wednesday.

The effective ganging attacks of the Lynch Millionaires line was responsible for five goals Saturday and most observers here look for results in that power-play style of hockey left Regina with little chance of regaining for the west the Allan Cup won by Kirkland Lake last year.

Saturday's game gave about-8,500 fans one of the most thrilling hockey battles they have seen in years. A third-period flurry made by Remi Van Daele scored the winning goal. Babe Dye, Millionaires five goals for Sydney, and the wide-open style of hockey at its best.

Jim Henry, rookie netminder who has been spectacular in all Regina games so far in the playoffs, was not outstanding as in previous games but he gave a second performance that he was not to blame for Van Daele's penalty shot goal.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or protruding piles, don't delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning that you have piles and should be secured at once.

For this purpose a package of Hem-Roid from J. S. McKeown or any druggist should be used as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine, easy way is open to all such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Nice Girl?"

Long before Deanna Durbin achieved her present record of eight straight hits, questions about the quality of her next films were abundantly asked.

The only argument which remains is "which one was the best?"

A likely choice for the answer to that query was found Sunday midnight at the Capitol Theatre, when "Nice Girl?" began its current run.

Starring Deanna Durbin's inimitable vehicle, and one of her most entertaining, the new picture has moments of romance, hilarity and music as moving as any in all her eight previous starring hits.

Credit to Producer

Producer Joe Pasternak, who gives further proof that he is Hollywood's most consistent producer of sheer entertaining values, and William Seiter, who expertly directed the cast and story, deserve all Miss Durbin what is easily her most versatile performance to date.

So many stand-outs were marked up in the cast through audience appreciation at yesterday's initial performance that it is difficult to list them all.

For this picture, which is a small-town New England "nice girl," daughter of Robert Benchley and sister of Ann Gillis and Anne Gwynne, Robert Stack is Deanna's boy-friend. The "boy next door" is the one interested in automobile engines than in romance. Stack for the "nice girl" role, Deanna recklessly goes on an exciting romantic adventure with a young New Yorker portrayed by Franchot Tone. Her actions make her subject of a town scandal, and it is only through a combination of hilarious circumstances and situations that her name is "saved."

Distinguished Players

Walter Brennan and Helen Broderick are important members of the cast, as town postmaster and hotel keeper for Deanna's family respectively. Others in the list are Elizabeth Risdon, Nana Bryant and Tommy Kelly.

No member of the cast was ever better, which is sufficient to say of any line-up that includes so many popular figures.

Short subjects, four numbers, including Stephen Foster's "Old Folks at Home" and four newsnoes: "Perhaps", "Love At Last" "Beneath the Lights of Home"

AT THE BELLE

"Road to Zanzibar"

Loaded with belly-shaking gags and several brand new hit tunes, Paramount's new comedy with music, "Road to Zanzibar" commences today at the Belle Theatre. Starring Bob Hope, Bing Crosby and Dorothy Lamour, three of the screen's best entertainers, this film is a worthy sequel of the funniest that has come along this season.

First since that ginstillating Preston Sturges film, "The Lady Eve" our wag tells this reviewer laughed so hard and so often. Crosby in the romantic role and Hope livening a gag line that is just perfect, this new Paramount hit is still one of our favorite eyeful with an extremely pleasant voice and better actress than the doctor's ever a sarong in this film fans, but Dorothy Lamour does with assurance thing even more exciting—a dress made of fern leaves.

Victor Schertzinger, who directed the witty, first collaborative hit, "Road to Singapore," also directed "Road to Zanzibar." Incidentally, both pictures are the products of the same brilliant writers, Frank Butler and Don Hartman.

Getting off to a lively and hilarious start, the new film presents Bing and Bob as a pair of carnival men traveling around Africa with their acts, trying to raise enough money to get back home.

Dorothy Lamour is the act in which Bob is Fearless Frazier, Bing is the lion, he is shot out of a cannon, frozen alive, electrocuted and made to perform sundry other Invented by the Weavers especially for their new picture, now at the McCarthy Theatre, the original Opry house, this old-fashioned fire bellows attached to a pair of skates without wheels. Worn by two persons, operating feet and operate as pedals. The first person to the left would blow and the keyboard is set up on wooden chairs with the second person the shoulders with a belt.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking to himself in his private chair and ma said, Can you imagine an immense crowd, a real big mob, black with people, jamming and crowding outside the Narcissa this afternoon just to catch a glimpse of Grover Rafferty of no people? It seems he was making a personal appearance there, she said. Pop grunted, time seems to mean nothing to the great majority of people, pop said.

It's a shame how they treat waist it, and ma said, A fuss like that over Grover Rafferty, can you imagine? They say he drinks like a fish out of water, and the English language as he uses it is a steady stream of awful words and bad grammar, because his entire education began and ended in reform school, and he's not even read by an actor at all, I mean when they found him he was fastening a big building together with a pneumatic machine, and they put him in a picture because they just happened to want an unknown man with prominent mussels for an object lesson in art, and ever since then he's been playing the part of beefy gangsters and other objectionable characters, ma said, and pop said, Well such is fame.

I don't know how I came to get caught in that mob, but as long as I was there thought I might as well edge my way up to the front, although I almost lost my hat and my bag in the process and some uncouth woman started a run in one of my new stockings with her heel, but the real joke of the story is, I was the only woman in all that seething crowd that he actually gave a smile to, and he took my little memorandum book right out of my hand and dashed off his autograph in it, ma said. Really willing to do anything, if serious glances could kill, I'd been stabbed beyond repair, she said, and pop said, Yes gods it's a woman's world and there's no relief in site.

And he got in back of the sporting page and stayed there.

Butter Prices Fractionally Higher

Toronto, April 21.—Butter prices took a fractional turn for the better onto open produce market Saturday and offerings at the important points appeared to be cleaned up. Egg receipts were fair to moderate.

There was a good demand on the butter market Saturday, buyers finding it difficult to fill their requisites. No. 1 grade Ontario creamery solids graded 29 cents to 30c per pound.

Quotations remained unchanged on the egg market in the face of very large receipts in the face volume of fresh receipts.

Montreal Produce

Montreal, April 21—(CP)—Produce market prices here Saturday as reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, follow:

Butter—First-grade prints, jobbing price, 31c to 31 1-2c; first-grade solids, jobbing price, jobbing price, 30 1-2c to 31c. Receipts for the week, 10,611 boxes, compared with 4,764 a year ago.

Hog Quotations

Toronto, April 21 (CP)—Dressed-weight were down 19 cents at Peterborough, Saturday's trading, while in a cattle at London and prices were unchanged at other markets. Receipts totalled 1,000 at this morning.

Liveweight: Chatham $8.

Dressed-weight: Chatham $10.35; plus transportation, Kitchener $10.60 plus transportation, either $10.35 delivered, Peterborough $10.85 plus transportation, Stratford $10.50 plus transportation, Hull $10.30.

Chicago, April 21 (AP)—The hog business, rounding the bottom of a short drop in the production curve, once again is on a profitable basis. Not only is the market price favorable for a high and birth-rate, but the government has taken unprecedented steps to encourage production to make pork and lard for relief at home and shipment abroad.

The latest action was to raise nine cents a pound for a nice corn fattened hog, which put the price is far below the 21 cents hog men received after the ceiling was lifted in May. War, it is far better than the five cents a pound quoted a year ago and the four cents of 1932, the worst year of the depression.

The government has announced it intends to hold the Chicago hog price to at least $9.50, Toronto basis, and lard purchases in order to stimulate production.

Livestock

Toronto, April 21 (CP)—Cattle trade was fairly active at prices stronger and steady to strong at the session on the livestock market here today. FOUR ARE KILLED the bush a few miles north of this railway point between Schreiber and White River and escaped unhurt. Officials here said that with 18 of the prisoners back behind the barbed wire enclosure, but three others killed resisting capture, only six still remained at large.

Others captured near here during the night were found huddled from the cold and the rain and snow. Among the latter group were the three captured during the night were reported to have been without food and have suffered some ill fill from the severe weather. Searchers found them in the open ground and it is even deeper in the bush.

Search intensified at Daybreak. The area, with policemen, civilians, soldiers and Indian trappers participating, was intensified at daybreak in the area where the three Germans were captured during the night. Searchers who brought the trio in from the bush reported that two or three other men had been found in the snow three miles south of Peninsula.

The searchers had been unable to find the men in the dark but saw the marks remained clear for the searchers on the ground. The first rays of light broke over the desolate country-side.

Fall Leads to Discovery

Reports here said that a camp guard climbed a tree in a good discovery of the tunnel through which the prisoners made a rock to cut nearly where they are believed to have climbed down, using their clothes into civilian attire.

It was believed here that the men would be unable to have supposed only to cache food, then return to the camp and gain entry in order to escape Sunday. Hitler's 52nd birthday. The 21 men at Ottawa Sunday, but the Ottawa authorities had planned to strengthen the prisoner-of-war camp in which against any possible break the Germans might attempt to escape on Hitler's birthday.

The 28 were said to have gone ahead with escape on their own when they were outside, then discovered the tunnel entrance near the camp and gone on their own. The Germans scattered into the bush.

The Fewest Escapes

The shooting that led to the death of three of the escaping prisoners was said here to have been necessitated when five Germans, discovered in a hut, refused to surrender and used by highway-construction workers, rushed through the hut and made a second search of the cabin, after having locked in once and found nothing wrong.

The cabin was one of a group used by the men who have worked on the highway and when finished will be occupied by highway workers. By chance or a hunch, were said to have returned and gone back into another look. The Germans, it was reported here, apparently had crept into the cabin through the hiding places in the bush after watching the guards leave the cabin on their inspection.

The possibility that even more of the prisoners may have died from exposure in the bush and that those who trickled into the station here from their winter's work in the woods were also found in Lake Superior's north shore. These men said they had been without food and have to remain alive in the snowy desolation of the bush.

A prison guard advanced the theory that the Germans had been without food for days and they ran pelled their way out of camp.

The last two weeks were sunny and Friday night's downpour-like rain then the northern winter took one last fling and covered the bush country with a foot of snow. A biting wind whipped it into drifts and even the hardiest of the men in skin coats and woollen helmets were miserable as they left the trail in search of the Germans who were captured submitted to their captors without resistance, it was learned reaching here. Five were caught on the highway, two in a motor and without a shot being fired.

Two of the men caught near here were seen running through the snow by Mrs. Hugh McDonnell, whose husband and two sons soldiers ran out from the shelter of the station and overpowered them. Mrs. McDonnell said one was grim-looking and apparently "ready to do or die boy". They were both wet through.

Mike Kopcak, section foreman, who is reported to have captured three others with the aid of a rifle and shot, is swung it and the Germans, who were unarmed, threw up their hands ago, surrendered.

There were indications that others did not give themselves up meekly. Three were reported shot fatally. A fourth was said to have escaped and had stopped bullets before they were taken into custody.

Ordered To Use Force.

Soldiers have orders to shoot on sight if necessary. Col. H. E. Stethem, director of internment operations, said here that the instructions when he was advised of the break, "Shoot immediately to use any force necessary" to capture the Germans.

Reports here from a Canadian correspondent for the Port Arthur News-Chronicle, said she had heard that the Germans were still at large Sunday and five more were taken on Monday. The correspondent said that all five of the prisoners recaptured Sunday had been wounded by gunfire. One of Saturday's group had also been wounded, she said.

Mrs. Duncan said she had learned that the Germans broke out some food from a cache indicated Hitler's birthday. They had left dumbbells and their beds to fool the camp guards and it was believed they escaped about midnight.

ITALIAN ATTACKS

A Greek communique declared a new stand had been taken after the week-end withdrawal south of Mt. Olympus and said the Italians in action not specified—had doggedly against violent attacks and somewhere was broken.

(The Nazis, describing the Greek campaign as entering its final phase, claimed yesterday the fighting had developed into a retreat of British and Greek forces across the Plains of Thessaly and that the Germans were toward the port of Volos, and claimed of the capture of Larissa, directly west of Larissa and 45 miles south-east of Olympus.

Contested Greek Statements.

The Italians countered Greek statements their attacks had been repulsed in southern Albania with declarations their forces had fought their way to the Greek frontier in most places despite stiff Greek rear guard action.)

Once-exiled King George stepped into a government breach caused by what was officially announced as the suicide of Premier Alexandros Korizis last Friday. Yesterday he set up a cabinet under Admiral Alexander Sakellarious, naval career man, as vice premier and King Haakon became president of the cabinet "for the time being".

Cabinet Reshuffled

The cabinet, cut sharply from 21 to 10 ministers, included seven new members but did not change the portfolios held by the men under Gen. John Metaxas, Greece's strong man who died early in 1941. There were two changes.

British forces, as well as the Greek, continued to receive reports of new defences, described only as a "considerable" force.

British military sources termed the situation "serious" but said the Allied forces retreated in orderly fashion, maintaining an unbroken front.

Ancient Athens had seven air raid alarms during the day and two yesterday, but no bombs fell within the city. Five bombers, however, struck near the airfield on the port of Piraeus, five miles southwest of the Hellenic capital, and machine-gunned Elevsis, ten miles up the coast from Athens, and Megara, 25 miles west of the capital. Five of these raiders were reported shot down.

The Royal Air Force reported 10 Nazi planes down in dogfights elsewhere.

Fire Destroys Cheese Factory At Wallbridge

Fire originating in the insulation of the curing room from a stove, which had been lighted to keep the damp compress, completely gutted Sidney Town Hall cheese factory at Wallbridge late on Saturday afternoon. Only the concrete walls of what was the cheese factory and the factory today remain standing with loss estimated at $10,000 partially covered by insurance.

According to Mr. Sidney Johnston, cheesemaker at the factory, the fire broke out during the curing of the curing room and apparently had been smouldering for some considerable time before it was discovered. Insulation used in the curing room was composed of sawdust and shavings and is thought to have ignited from the overheated stove. Mr. Johnston stated that the make for the day was almost completed and when taking the temperature of the curing room at 5.30 the cheese, Glenn Hancock, to the house only to have him come running back with smoke pouring through the ventilators in the factory roof.

Room Filled with Smoke

Calling up to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnston immediately climbed into the attic of the house and found the room was filled with smoke and flames. Realizing the situation at once it was impossible to determine where the seat of the fire was. A general alarm was sounded although a call to Belleville asking for the assistance of the Belleville Fire Department was put through, but before the apparatus left the city was refused. Later calls to Trenton and Picton and to the Frankford brought fire - fighting equipment from both places but were late to be of any assistance.

Lieutenant Fire Chief Gerald Vance of the Belleville Fire Department and several members of the men who went to see the scene of the blaze stated this morning that the fire department were able to take equipment from the city, the factory could have been saved as even at the time of their arrival the fire was under control extinguished with the aid of the booster tank. With assistance arriving from Trenton and Frankford arrived on the scene the building was doomed but these were valuable assistance in saving adjoining buildings.

Mr. Clem H. Ketcheson, Secretary, of the Sidney Board stated this morning that a meeting of the patrons would be held immediately to determine and discuss plans for rebuilding the factory. Undoubtedly shippers will send their milk to other factories in the district.

CANADA AND U. S.

Statement Issued

A statement issued after the conference by Mr. Ralston's Hyde Park host, Mr. Roosevelt's press secretary, Stephen Early, said that which Canada is producing for Britain and which involves materials purchased in the United States.

These two policies should have a beneficial effect on the Canadian financial position in the United States, Mr. Ralston was told, and thus relieve the steady drain on the Dominion's American dollar resources.

If Canada is able to utilize United States $50,000,000 or $60,000,000 in munitions and raw materials such as aluminum, the year, it has been estimated the deficit of the American dollar account in the Canadian national year had about be covered.

The joint policy enunciated by the two leaders was regarded as vital to the war effort because it will prevent interference by ever-lapping in industrial effort and has the effect of conserving labor and raw materials of the two nations to a common advantage.

Canada to Be Assisted

Whether the President and the Prime Minister discussed other topics than those given out officially from the combat zone established by Congress and related subjects was not disclosed but the battle of the Atlantic was not known.

There was little doubt here that the general policy of harnessing the productive capacity of the continent to the general war effort—looking to the problem of defence as a whole rather than a continental rather than a national viewpoint—would have a beneficial effect on the war.

There also was little doubt here that the position of Canada materially. In the present fiscal year, Canada has $1,000,000 to $400,000,000 or $400,000,000 on American account because of the purchase of war materials in the United States. The general policy of harnessing the productive capacity of materials to help the American defence program would help the deficit and place the finances of the Dominion on a basis more favorable to the United States, on a sound basis.

Extend Lease-Lend Act

The extension of the Lend-Lease Act to Canadian purchases in the United States which ultimately are to be flown to Britain was regarded as of vital assistance to the Dominion.

Part of the Dominion's war facilities in the United States spring from the $1,000,000,000 agreement between Canada and the United States on the co-ordination of defence industries and the $1,150,000,000 of British orders in Canada for which British Empire has had to pay. All these materials involve transactions in the United States which the Canadian that Ottawa must not only find the Canadian dollars but the United States dollars.

This may be illustrated by plans of Sir Frederick Phillips, British finance minister, to meet the Dominion's expenditures in the United States during the present year. He has estimated that $1,150,000,000 of materials will be purchased in the United States during the year, of which $400,000,000 will be paid for in Canada and $750,000,000 in the United States.

Of the $750,000,000 to be paid in the United States, $400,000,000 will be met by the Canadian dollars which Britain has received from the sale of Canadian securities in the United States and $350,000,000 in United States dollars.

Get Engines in U. S.

Under the Hyde Park declaration however, Britain will obtain from Canada in the United States under the Lease-Lend Act and forbear the $400,000,000 of expenditure in the Canadian-made frames. This will help to relieve the strain on Canada's dollar resources and will give Canada $400,000,000 in United States dollar resources with which to purchase engines in the United States.

The declaration contained a hint, at least, that extra factories would be built in Canada to meet the American defence orders.

The declaration issued by the inclusion of the word "ship" was unknown but it might mean the building in Canada in terms of light anti-submarine and patrol vessels or corvettes rather than merchant ships.

Mr. Sharpe was proceeding easterly in a line of traffic when the motor car directly in front, driven by Mr. Wood and aged 69, Donington Ave., Toronto, was forced to slow down at the traffic retarded. Sharpe's car struck the rear of Wood's automobile, driven which bounded ahead into a third car. The only damage to the rear of Wood's car was a dent, damage to the grills and bumpers of the other two cars. Sharpe emerged from his car after the impact and walked to the roadside, evening, when he suddenly was forced to sit down on the curb in front of the car, showing signs of having been injured he was taken to the hospital by two members of the Trenton R.C.A.F. base, W. E. Thomas and G. E. Smith, where he succumbed to internal injuries soon after admittance. Sir Frederick's statement, issued by the Australian Broadcasting Corporation, said flatly there was no truth in such a report. He described it as typical Axis bait."

"As a result of the lessons learned from this study unanimously by Dr. Burke, the Medical Defence Services have put into effect, along the lines suggested, measures which have already saved vast sums, and which will result in still greater amounts," the statement said.

John Hassell, 13, English Schoolboy, Enrols As Student At Albert College; Was On Liner That Was Torpedoed

Unperturbed by a series of adventures, the highlight of which was the midnight torpedoing of the ship bringing him to America, 13-year-old John Hassell, English schoolboy, arrived here on Saturday and is now a student at Albert College.

He came from Canada "a husband and child out of the tremendous Gulf," where he had spent the time since the outbreak of war with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hassell. His father is a member of the Gulf Oil Company in the Dutch West Indies.

John is one of those clear-cut British lads, whose composure and fortitude in emergencies have elicited the admiration of the civilized world. Today, in an interview with a representative of The Ontario Intelligencer, John told of the torpedoing of the liner "Volendam" in the Irish Sea "about midnight of the night."

Bound for a big armada in the young Britisher's demesnour. Serenely, with never a trace of emotion in his voice, he spoke of the midnight experience as though it were one of his daily routine matches being played on the pitch at Bloomfield. Then, with a twinkle in his eye, he received his English breakfast.

"It was a bit awkward," he said, "when the torpedo struck the starboard ship was at the head of a convoy and the rest of the ships knew about the ship being hit was the sound of a violent explosion."

"There was no excitement or panic," said Jackie. "Five Norwegian British children and three hundred Norwegians were aboard. Wife-beaters" and coolly walked to their particular stations."

The only casualty was the chief steward who was washed overboard by a huge wave.

"It was nothing to become excited over," say this remarkable Britisher. "Everybody was very self-possessed. I was rather surprised how cool I was. I was not afraid when a large wave washed over the ship when it was in dock, there at "Mr. Grimshaw" as the eagle was named, still alive and very angry at his footless loneliness. He was given back to his master.

Picked up in Short Time

"We were picked up in the boats for roughly one and one-half hours. The arrangements for getting the children were quite cool about the whole thing. We had a very good seasick, and that really affected us more than anything else.

John is looking forward to sports and will likely miss his cricket and football. He is also very interested, "your Canadian football, which is very different from that of England."

His father was born in Ireland and his mother in India. He received his education in his parents prior to their removal to the Dutch West Indies, and was sent to the British public school at Taunton after their departure. His father is with the Gulf Oil Co. and is now on his way to meet them when he completes his present experience.

"I have only been in Canada a few days," he said "but I am perfectly happy here. I left New York by John arrived on Saturday to get acclimatized before classes at the College start.

THE WAR TODAY

By DON GILBERT

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Retreat of the British and Imperial forces from the Thessalian plain, together with a corresponding Greek withdrawal in the western Macedonian mountains, left the leaving the Allied armies holding a line which perhaps will be the last of the abandoned line running west from the Aegean.

The new front presumably stretches from the Gulf of Corinth, in peninsula territory which was a key air base, northward to Mount Attica from invasion.

Between these points lies the superior numbers of the enemy, are called upon to turn back the fresh troops the Germans are able to send up from their great reservoir of manpower down through Yugoslavia and Bulgaria.

London newspapers conceded that Britain may be compelled to give up the unequal battle in Greek country and continue on other fields the Mediterranean struggle. But with one accord British newspapers said the fight in Greece has been worthwhile and that the soldiers from the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand have covered themselves with new glory.

Britain at the same time prepared for the next blow on Hitler's fortress empire in the air, with reinforcements arriving in the North African sector, where the rapid and far advance across Libya, but British officers reported the arrival of the Germans direct their armored forces against Tobruk, Britain's Mediterranean naval gunpower can be brought into effect, to a southeasterly dash through the Suez Canal to threaten the Nile valley and the Sudan.

Informed quarters believe that in Spain and news that Germany has been negotiating with Spanish leaders in large quantities also aroused fears that a storm may be developing in the western Mediterranean. A march through Spain to lay siege to Gibraltar, a move against French North and West Africa, or an attempt to seize Portugal and her island possessions lying across Britain's trade route, from the south Atlantic are possibilities in this sphere.

In the eastern Mediterranean the landing of a British expeditionary force in Crete, which has been regarded as good insurance against a German thrust toward the oil fields in the northern part of that country, was finished in the early part of March and the prospect of British forces there has brought expressions of satisfaction from Turkish sources.

"The Battle Of Britain" Booklet Tells Of Heroic Defence By R. A. F.

By H. M. PETERS

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The German war machine had as its avowed objective the early decision in the war by the autumn or early winter of 1940 and to achieve this an invasion of Britain was evidently thought to be essential, declares the booklet "Battle of Britain," a booklet issued by the British Government describing the mass German air attacks which began the end of last August, September and October.

Preparations for invasion, the readers were pushed forward "with great energy and determination throughout the early days of June, the month of July and the first week of August, the period when immediately following the collapse of France the evacuation from Dunkirk by the British Expeditionary Force.

By July 8 the enemy felt himself ready to begin the opening phase, the summer of which Hitler plan depended," relates the booklet.

"Before the German army could land it was necessary to destroy our coastal defences, the aim of Hitler's air offensive was to destroy our air forces, our air bases and our aerodromes.

There were four phases in the battle, the first from 8th-18th August, the second from 19th August-5th September, the third from the 6th September-30th October, the fourth from the 30th October.

Proceeded on General Plan

The German command based its general plan of seizing and exploiting full mastery of the air which had done in the Polish campaign, in the attack on Norway and the Low Countries and to a large extent in France.

To obtain a general plan, the Germans began their daylight attacks against the Royal Air Force, Britain's method of defence, which the booklet naturally does not discuss in all its detail, was based on the "governing principle that a sufficient strength of fighters must be assembled at the required height over a given place at a given time to overcome the incoming enemy raid and break it up before it can reach its objective."

The account continues:

"There is general agreement that the principle of employing standing patrols is impracticable owing to its wastefulness. To keep a sufficient strength of fighters always in the air for hours on end over shores from any attack would be beyond the power of the largest air force imaginable. The fighter force must be retained on the ground in the interests of economy and effort and only ordered off the ground when raids appear to be imminent.

"Information regarding the approach of the enemy is obtained by a chain of radio location posts ordinated and passed to 'operating rooms' in the counties of Britain is divided into sectors each with its own fighter aerodrome and headquarters. These sectors are groupings of sectors under the immediately situated group headquarters which in turn come under the general control of headquarters, fighter command.

Three States of 'Preparedness'

"Squadrons are maintained at three different states of various states of preparedness." The most usual state is 'released,' which means that the squadron is not required to be ready for any specified hour. . . next comes 'available,' which means that squadrons must prepare to be in the air within so many minutes of receiving the order. Squadrons in this state do a minimum and is the most advanced state normally ever reasonably stand-by' is employed which means that pilots are seated in their aircraft, with the engines off, but with pilotting into wind ready to start up, and take off, the moment the leader gets his orders.

"The 'enemy sighter' signal, the 'tallyho', is at once transmitted to group H.Q. and recorded . . . the red letter day for any group was when it got its first kill. A group 21 squadrons out of 21 ordered, up were able to report 'enemy sighted.'"

NEW LINE HOLDING

Athens, April 22 —(AP)—British and Greek forces fell back to new defence positions in the Lokris mountains some 100 miles northwest of Athens today and indicated they might make a stand against the Germans at or near Thermopylae Pass, where Spartan King Leonidas put up a heroic defence before the Persian legions of Xerxes in 480 B.C.

The British Command announced that Imperial troops had occupied the shorter line south of Lamia, a town on the lower side of the Othrys Mountains and on the northern edge of a narrow plain.

The strategic Pass through the Lokris Mountains, whose forbidding peaks rise to the south and command the Lamia-Greek coast, The Pass, a few yards wide in Leonidas' day of Thermopylae is width from 1¼ to three miles. Literally Thermopylae means "the hot gates."

U. S. Ambassador Says States Determined To Help By Action

London, April 22 —(CP)— John Winant, United States ambassador to Great Britain, told the American Chamber of Commerce today that "we are determined with words—we are determined to help by action to ensure total victory over totalitarian aggression."

He said that between Americans and "The free and unconquerable people of this island" there exists a partnership of common sympathy and understanding, of common purpose and of co-operation which will live long after Nazi tyranny has been broken and destroyed."

Mr. Winant declared that American business men and manufacturers residing in Britain could do much to "hasten the day of complete victory over Nazi tyranny" by sharing their knowledge of production methods with British industry.

Machines and tools to make them, he said, are vital needs.

"This war has already demonstrated the man-for-man superiority of the soldier of freedom over the soldier of oppression wherever there has not been an overwhelming inferiority of mechanized equipment," he added.

Churchill Is Silent On Military Operations, Asks 'Forbearance'

Announcement by Prime Minister of British Bombardment of Tripoli Drawn Cheers of House of Commons Members—Churchill Says It is 'Not Unlikely' Germans Have Occupied Greek Island of Samothrake Near Dardanelles

By HAROLD FAIR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, April 22 (C.P. Cable) — Silent on the progress of the critical military operations in Greece and North Africa, Prime Minister Winston Churchill had good news and bad for the House of Commons today.

He declined to discuss the military position in Greece where operations of many kinds are going on and we have others to think of besides ourselves." Nor would he say what was going on in Libya generally.

But cheers greeted his announcement that the Mediterranean fleet had bombarded Tripoli for 42 minutes at dawn today, inflicting heavy damage in the harbor. He added that fleet air arm planes shot down four or five troop-carrying planes.

Not Unlikely' Samothrake Island Occupied

Mr. Churchill spoke gravely when he said he thought it "not unlikely" that the Germans had occupied Samothrake Island near the Dardanelles, gateway to the Black Sea. Samothrake is a mountainous island about fifty miles northwest of the Dardanelles.

He declared Britain's "difficult" operations in Greece "have been of the most complicated character and carried out with extraordinary skill but even the government have not received from day to day full information from the commanders engaged; that has not been any hindrance to the course of the operation."

Asks Forbearance

Asking "forbearance" as "on so many occasions and anxious occasions" in the past, Mr. Churchill pointed out the situation "practically as a momentary or temporary affair, a full statement" will be made.

He said the government were "very accurately informed about what is going on in Libya" but "I do not think that any statement on Libya would be appropriate at the present time."

A member who shouted "Greece is much more important!" was drowned out by shouts of "nonsense" from other members.

Reply to Leslie Hore-Belisha, former War Secretary, who asserted Britain's defence policy was "rife with the lack of subtantial news," Mr. Churchill said he thought it "not unlikely" the Germans had occupied Samothrake Island near the Dardanelles.

Cheers are the only tidbit the announcement already issued by the Admiralty that the navy had bombarded Tripoli for 40 minutes.

No Statement on Eden's Trip

Questioned about relations with Spain where an anti-British note was noted in the press, and where the Axis countries were reported "active," Mr. Churchill refused to discuss the X-Dardanelles gateway to the Black Sea. Samothrake is a mountainous island about fifty miles northwest of the Dardanelles.

He declared Britain's "difficult" operations in Greece "have been of the most complicated character and carried out with extraordinary skill but even the government have not received from day to day full information from the commanders engaged; that has not been any hindrance to the course of the operation."

Asks Forbearance

MARMORA

H. J. Clarke Pays Official Visit To Marmora Masons

Marmora.—(Special)— Owing to illness Right Wor. Bro. Arthur L. Hill, D.D.G.M. of Prince Edward District, was unable to pay his official visit to Marmora A. F. and A. M. 222 on Monday evening, but his place was ably taken by Right Wor. Bro H. J. Clarke, P.D.D.G.M. district and a number of visiting brethren from Belleville, Stirling and other lodges made the gathering as auspicious as in all former years.

A departure from the regular custom was noticeable in that the banquet preceded the lodge session. The catering was in the hand, of Bro. Stanley Reid and the Fife and Parish Hall was the venue for an excellent meal which received favorable comment from the brethren in general. Wor. Bro. D. F. Marett, Master of the lodge, was the toastmaster. That of "The King and Empire" having been duly honored, Right Wor. Bro. C. H. Husband presented Bro. Clarke in a very neat speech in which he referred to the fact that as this was "Salute to Britain" week, Freemasonry in this country might well salute Great Britain and England for its benevolent endeavours occasioned by the War.

Right Wor. Bro. H. J. Clarke, in response, mentioned his regret that Marmora Lodge was not privileged to be visited by the present D.D.G.M. and followed with a splendid dissertation on masonry and some of its early contemporaries. The toast to the "Visiting Brethren" was presented by Very Wor. Bro. W. L. Rigg and replies to this were left to the lodge Tyler and Inner Guardian Warden's toast proposed by Bro. Gordon Jarvis, the brethren adjourned to the lodge room where, after the exemplification of the initiatory degree, excellent speeches were again heard from the acting D.D.G.M. and visiting brethren.

War Services Campaign In District Exceeds Objective By Over $4,500

Belleville Collects $17,800, Trenton $6,472 And Hastings County $8,696

OFFICIALS PLEASED BY RESPONSE

Officials of the Hastings County War Services Organizations Campaign Committee were broad smiles today.

For with the exception of a few straggling collections yet to be made, the total collected in Hastings County and Trenton for the campaign is $33,260.17, or roughly $4,500 over the $28,800 quota originally set to it.

Belleville has collected $17,800.00 or $2,800 over its quota; Trenton, $6,472.11, or $472.11 over, and the rural districts of the county $9,068.96, or $868.96 over the allotment.

Collections yet to be made in all parts of the district, it is expected, will bring the surplus over the county quota of $29,800, to nearly $5,000.

Officials Pleased

Officials are justifiably highly elated with the general response of the public to the drive to raise the appeal for funds for the War Service organizations, and feel that they acquired poorly for the ultimate success of the campaign was wiped out with the gradually increasing response about the middle of March. This continued until towards the end of the campaign, the quota seeming to be a fluctuating blaze of collections gray.

Trenton showed the best in this respect. Down two or three hundred dollars a few days before the campaign drive on official close, canvassers and officials of the neighboring town redoubled their efforts and the above mentioned result was attained. Campaign Chairman Sherrit stated this morning that of the two Trenton committees all $1,337.46, will be turned in.

Splendid Response

As equally fine response was the response from the city. Residents rose to the occasion with a willingness and generosity that surprised even the most optimistic official. Toward the latter part of the campaign, returns came in in an increasing flow that put the city well "over the top". Private citizens and organizations brought in their contributions voluntarily.

Officials stated that the rural districts towns and villages of the county a congratulatory pat on the back. While the county quota of $8,000 was paid by the taxpayers through the medium of the Catholic Committee of the County Council, which was responsible for the eighty-three per cent. of the allotment assigned for this purpose, final returns came forward generously of their own volition and contributed the rest of it $868.96.

According to a statement issued by Mayor Thomas Short of the General Committee, a meeting of all officials will be held within a day or so and a general statement issued to the public. Meantime acceptance of the campaign being audited so that a true picture of the entire campaign can be presented.

NEW PICNIC TABLES

With the early advent of Spring, repairs to all Parks' property and the preparation of City parks for floral and shrubbery displays commenced this week, when at Monday night's fortnightly meeting of the Belleville Parks Commission.

The Board has already commenced Spring work on the Victoria Park and both shrubbery and floral plants have been purchased. Park Superintendent Charman W. A. Woodley announced, as he added that the shrubbery and trees to be planted throughout the park will be labelled with botanical names.

On a motion of Commissioner C. B. Colling it was voted to repair and paint the Lookout Shelter and also to the Exhibition Park in order to beautify that portion of the property. The track will also be floated fortnightly all season as well as the rest of the Exhibition Belleville track free from obnoxious weeds.

Douglas Palmer, Belleville, who has commenced the operation of the Victoria Park open application at the last meeting, appeared before the Board this evening he would be unable to accept the position as Park Superintendent. Commissioner Pinkston moved that the Board advertise for a Park Superintendent at once.

New Picnic Tables Ordered

Five new combination picnic tables for the accommodation of picnic on Riverside Park, the cost of which will be borne by the Corbin Lock Company, through the generosity of Mr. L. E. McLean, General Manager of the company, was ordered by the Board.

Mr. McLean assured me the employees of the Corbin Lock Company appreciated living in a city like Belleville and that they were also appreciative of the Belleville company would be willing to pay for the cost of the additional combination tables." Chairman Woodley told the Board. Prices are now being sought by the Board.

One delegation was heard when Mr. E. E. LaBarr, representing the Bonnie Carnival Company of Montreal, approached the Board relative to permission for the use of either Victoria Park or the Exhibition Grounds by that amusement company. Chairman Woodley suggested that LaBarr procure stipulated contracts as to the requirements of the Company and their intentions of operation.

Those present were Chairman W. A. Woodley, and Commissioners G. Pinkston, A. Baird, C. Symons, C. B. Colling and M. Callaghan.

POLICE BLOTTER

Complaints that petty thieving has resulted in the destruction of property at the Quinte Skating Club house on Dufferin Avenue, resulted in Detective Fred Lizard investigating the trouble yesterday. Entrance to the premises was gained through - very small window, indicating teen-aged youths were responsible. Electric fixtures and wiring were torn from their fastenings and taken from the building. As the premises have been closed for some considerable time it was impossible to ascertain, when the break-in and robbery might have taken place.

One lunch-kit and 14 tranisters shared the cell block at the police station last night, the largest single number of transients to seek shelter in Belleville during the month of April.

Talented Young Artists Featured In Band Concert

A splendid crowd was present on Sunday evening at the Band Concert held in the Capitol Theatre under the auspices of Minerva Chapter, No. 136, O.E.S., with the Belleville Municipal Band and young artists providing a very fine program. Mr. Harold Wright was in the chairman introducing the various numbers and also read the splendid work of Minerva Chapter while his steady accomplished so much for the war effort.

With Bandmaster Fred Johnson conducting the band gave a fine program as it is finest on Sunday evening and the audience which was present did them by a delighted audience. It was a thrilling moment when the chairman introducing the various numbers announced "Land of Hope and Glory" March, "Down Memory Lane" March, "Morning, Noon and Night," "Bonnie Sue" Waltz, "Down in Dixie" Medley, "Dear Old South," "Hills March" with the finale "Strike Up the Band" and the band preceding the playing of "God Save the King" and "O Canada" a program which was acclaimed by all present.

Miss Ethel Smith, gifted young Belleville pianist, who commenced her lovely soprano voice and is most generous in her response to an encore, let was heard in several selections which completely won the audience whose applause brought her again and again to the footlights. Master Ronnie Moorman who is gaining a wide reputation as cornetist also took part in the band concert and his numbers displayed a mastery of his instrument for one of his years.

The appreciation of the audience and of the Chapter to Miss Smith's part in the program was ably expressed by the chairman, Mr. Duff, who also conveyed the chapter's gratitude to Mr. Mascaro, manager of the Capitol Theatre for his generosity in donating the theatre free of charge, and to Mr. Bell-Irving for the donation of manager and staff which added to the success of the evening.

The sum of $35 was realized for the work of the Chapter's Patriotic Association.

Dr. R. M. Anderson To Build New Home On John St. Church Site

With the sale of the old John Street United Church property by Edgar Rogers to Dr. R. M. Anderson, estate agency with the ultimate purpose intended to raise a new building to provide building lots, residents of the John St. district will look forward with expectancy to the disappearance of the property which, since the destruction of the church by fire several years ago, has been an eyesore, due largely to the fact that the half-burned building has been a detrimental sight in the locality, high winds making thereof in the building and rattling loose tin, etc., has caused considerable annoyance to neighboring residents.

Dr. R. M. Anderson, who has purchased the property, stated this morning that he intends to raise the old church in the near future and will build a residence on the property.

Magician, Blindfolded, Drives Car Along Crowded Main Street

To drive a motor car through the heavy evening traffic of Belleville streets while possessed with the full sight of all the senses and hearing ordinarily takes all the concentrated energy of the driver of the trip is to be negotiated without mishap, but to accomplish the feat while blindfolded would be short of miraculous.

However, this seemingly impossible feat of driving was accomplished by the Great Gardini, startling magician staging last evening's program at the Capitol Theatre stage. Through the peak of the evening traffic, Gardini last night traversed a circuitous route from the Collegiate, Bridge street and up Front and Victoria Avenue, keeping the traffic well regulated and never sending a fender, all the while blindfolded far beyond all possibility of seeing. Gardini was not preceded by any special car clearance the way but proceeded through the normal traffic, much to the gratification of many curious onlookers.

Ton for Ton, U.S. Navy Already Biggest Two-Ocean Plan to More Than Double Size

By DON GLASSMAN

(Written exclusively for The Ontario Intelligencer and Central Press Canadian)

New York, April 19—On scales of balance, the tonnage of the United States war fleet now surpasses that of any other nation's navy.

Roughly, that indicates how the United States navy has fared under the Roosevelt administration, but it does not reveal the story of expansion in progress.

While U.S. naval tonnage (exclusive of 190 non-fighting auxiliary vessels) adds up to 1,330,415 tons, against 1,306,019 tons for Britain and 1,016,574 for Japan, naval construction now under way will increase the United States fleet to 690 fighting ships totaling 3,430,415 tons, ample for the projected two-ocean fleet, each component of which will be capable of engaging the full strength of any potential enemy.

To the United States navy falls the heavy responsibility of patrolling hemisphere waters and keeping the wars in Europe and Asia at a safe distance; to this same fleet falls the task of defending the vital interests not only of the United States but of neighboring republics.

Bigger in Every Way.

The size, striking power and tonnage of the fleet have been augmented to insure peace on American shores and also to prepare for any contingency that may unbalance the present world naval power. Although it appears very remote, the United States must calculate a defensive strategy in case the British fleet falls into Nazi hands or there is a coalition of the Japanese, Nazi and Italian fleets. In times of war, new reckons with every possibility, however vague or remote.

In mid-1940, the congress voted and President Roosevelt approved the most comprehensive and far-reaching naval program ever undertaken. The dream of a two-ocean navy now emerges as a positive reality that affords little comfort to potential enemies.

What is a two-ocean navy? To the United States, virtually an island in two great oceans, it means a navy equal to two great fleets, one capable of defending the hemisphere on the Pacific side and the other capable of defending it on the Atlantic side.

Why So Big?

Why must the United States maintain a two-ocean navy? In order to avoid being stabbed on the opposite coast should the navy be engaged with an aggressor; also to prepare for the remote possibility that the Panama Canal might be disabled.

The cost of the building program —not counting shipyards and plant —is around $6,810,000,000 and when all construction is complete, the United States will have 32 superdreadnaughts (battleships), 18 aircraft carriers, 91 cruisers, 364 destroyers and 185 submarines — 690 fighting ships against 323 at present. Several hundred auxiliary vessels will also be in commission.

The navy's 1942 supply bill provides another $3,645,595,144 for extra-navy, against 1,306,019 tons for Britain and 1,016,574 for Japan, naval construction now under way will increase the United States fleet to 690 fighting ships totaling 3,430,415 tons, ample for the projected two-ocean fleet, each component of which will be capable of engaging the full strength of any potential enemy.

Several hundred auxiliary vessels will also be in commission.

The navy's 1942 supply bill provides another $3,645,595,144 for extra-ordinary expenditures, adding, among other fighting ships, six ultra-modern high-speed battle cruisers of 20,000-25,000 tons displacement, each costing $43,000,000.

The battleship Washington, 35,000 tons, will go into commission in May, 1941. A sistership, the North Carolina, joined the fleet in March, 1941, two months ahead of schedule. Four other 35,000-ton men-of-war will be completed next year.

Troop Transports.

The navy maintains a fleet of 14 troop transports, while the United States army maintains another dozen.

Next year will see a huge increase in the commissioning of ships, for many of the vessels laid down in the 1938 and 1940 program will be ready for active sea duty.

Here are other significant data: Strength of the fleet now stands at about 205,000 enlisted men and is steadily increasing. Many shore stations and bases are being enlarged. Seventy-five thousand skilled workmen are employed on new ship construction and work on eight new Atlantic naval bases acquired from Britain is being pushed to early completion.

On the Atlantic side there is at present no hostile power with a navy able to pierce even the outer defences of this hemisphere. On the Pacific side Japan is, of course, the only power that might entertain a hostile thought of engaging the United States navy.

The best available information indicates a substantial superiority for United States naval armament over Japan's.

The United States fleet boasts 24 16-inch guns against 16 such guns for the Japanese; the Americans have 15 battleships in the Pacific against 10 in the Japanese fleet; the battle radius of the American fleet is 8,500 miles against 4,500 miles for the Japanese. The Maryland class battleships have 16-inch armor; at amidships waterline against 14-inch armor for Japan's class. The United States fleet carries 600 war planes against 280 for the Japanese, and so on.

A modern battleship is 93 per cent steel. The other 7 per cent is copper, aluminum, lead, zinc, wood, cork, plaster and dozens of special alloys. Besides doors, shutters, ovens, cables, heating and ventilating equipment, optical glasses, gauges, instruments and 10,000 other things, all of which must be in place before a battleship sails against the enemy, the building of such a complicated mechanism as a battleship requires so many skills and so much money that few nations can maintain airable navies.

Fighting ships are not the only drain on the treasury, for a navy without the aid and support of airplanes is blind. Besides observation systems and numerous auxiliaries would be unable to fulfil its responsibilities.

The United States navy's air arm can range up to 5,000 miles from a base of operations and carry out reconnaissance missions over a vast area of ocean. Again, a fleet commander depends upon his aircraft to direct the fire of the fleet's big guns, otherwise the enemy can relire out of sight and defy all attempts to reach him.

The Navy's Chiefs.

The new commander of the U.S. fleet is Admiral Harold R. Stark, 58, one of the youngest in the history of the navy. But the commander-in-chief of the entire navy is President Roosevelt, whose lifelong interest in naval affairs has been responsible for the unparalleled expansion in the past eight years.

Actively in charge for the President is Col. Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy, formerly a newspaper publisher.

The chief of naval operations is Admiral Harold R. Stark, who oversees the activities of nine naval bureaus. His words can be radioed to any United States ship on any ocean. To his desk comes the confidential intelligence information from abroad and the globe. Also the navy's war plans are entrusted to him.

The rear-admirals in charge of the nine navy bureaus assist Admiral Stark in running the navy whose present duties carry it into the Arctic seas, the south Pacific and the Atlantic ocean.

Men Of All Stations In Life Pay Tribute To Late Rev. L. Geen At Impressive Funeral Service

Before the flower-studded altar of St. Thomas' Church, associations he loved from his early manhood, the body of the late Reverend A. L. Geen, veteran and highly respected Anglican minister of this city, who died at his home on Saturday, lay in state for four hours on Monday while a large cross section of the city in which he was born and lived all his life paid a last tribute to a beloved friend and spiritual adviser.

The funeral proper was held from the church at 2 o'clock in the afternoon with the Right Reverend John Lyons, Lord Bishop of Ontario, and the Reverend Stuart Dean at the altar, jointly conducting the services. A brief committal service was held in Belleville Cemetery with the Rev. A. R. Payne reading the sentences and pronouncing the Consecration of the Grave, and His Lordship Bishop Lyons reading the Committal service.

The body of the late Rev. Mr. Geen was taken from the home to the church at ten o'clock Monday morning where the celebration of the Holy Communion was held. During the interval between the two services, different clergy of the district took turns in the vigil of intercession. Celebrant at the celebration of Holy Communion was the Rev. A. R. Payne and the Rev. E. N. Grant, Wellington, as sabitant.

At the simple, impressive service in the afternoon, the congregation representative of all walks of life in the city and district, assembled in sorrowing whole for a final earthly tribute to a man they knew and loved. Those from the high places mingled with the humble and meek. Members of Parliament sang the simple hymns, "Abide With Me" and "Lead Kindly Light" with men who have known manual labor all their life. Business men of the city, and of the farming community where the early years of the late Rev. Mr. Geen was respected and admired, bowed their heads in reverence with those of the humblest degree.

To the muted intonations of the organ, a white-surpliced choir moved slowly along the main aisle, followed by an array of robed clergy. His Lordship Bishop Lyons attended by the Bishop's Chaplain, the Rev. Canon R. Radcliffe, Deseronto, moved along in the rear followed by the Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne who pronounced the opening words of the brief but impressive full choral service. Overhead on the church staff, the flag of St. George flattered at half-staff in the memory of the departed.

The words of the well-known hymn, "Lead Kindly Light" echoed softly in the hushed vaulttorium as the service got under way. The Rev. A. B. Payne read the 90th Psalm, and the Scripture Lesson. Then followed the prayers for the dead uttered by His Lordship the Bishop. The closing hymn was "Abide With Me"—and the brief but impressive service was over. Robed clergy formed a guard of honor as the cortege moved slowly from the church. Again the organ played by Mr. W. Ernest Wheatley softly echoed a requiem as a sorrowing congregation slowly filed from the church.

The pallbearers were: Messrs. H. J. Deacon representing the Belleville City Council and the Masonic Lodges; Lieut. Col. J. V. Harper, representing the citizens of Belleville; H. B. Fraterig, the Board of Stewards and the Young Ladges; H. H. Lennox, the Sons of England and Christ Church, G. C. Kerr, the Oddfellows, and Harry Smith, representing St. Paul's Church.

The robed clergy in attendance were: the Rev. E. N. Grant, Wellington; Rev. J. Cantrell, Milford; Rev. Greg. Pecton; the Rev. W. C. P. Heaven, Shannonville; the Rev. O. C. Wright, Christ Church; the Rev. A. P. Upper, Madoc; the Rev. F. C. Beazer, Roslin; Rev. Herbert Smith, Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne and the Rev. Arthur Strother, Carrying Cross.

The Rev. F. B. Allnutt, B.D., secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, Toronto, was in the line. L. S. Wright, secretary of the Belleville Y.M.C.A. attended the funeral in tribute to the late Rev. Mr. Geen, who for many many years a very active member and official of the society.

Leslie McFarlane, Canadian Author, Addresses Rotary On 'Writing For Fun'

With the same delightful sense of humor that characterizes his work in Canadian, American and English publications, Leslie McFarlane, Whitby, well-known young Canadian author, radio dramatist, magazine writer, gave members of the Belleville and Campbellford Rotary Clubs, an entertaining insight into the life of an author and "how to construct a short story." Mr. McFarlane was introduced by President Jack Robilin of the Whitby Rotary Club.

Mr. McFarlane prefaced his address "Writing for Fun" with a humorous satire on acknowledgment of a speaker's introduction. His clever wit and well-placed phraseology undoubtedly won him to the clubmen and from that point he delighted his talk with serious vein and philosophy from a writer's standpoint.

"Writing," he said, "was a backbreaking profession, one that lifted a writer's life to disappointment and frustrations. If any of you had ambitions to be an author or one who has aspirations to become a writer, take him out in the back yard and shoot him before it is too late. Another neighbor will lend you a gun, if you haven't one yourself."

Humorous Writers Generally Cynical

"Writing is merely a branch of thinking, with stinks to go with it," he said. Fiction writers train their imagination along certain lines, while humorous writers are generally sour and cynical. They don't seem to be able to put a year minus their typewriters, and they will come out really funny humorous things.

"Some people," he said, "have the uncanny faculty of hovering about their writers, just to hear what they talk about." He related the story of the great Dickens who stood talking with his wife and family at a certain spot when suddenly "listening" ears near to get an earful of the conversation. What they really heard was "Dennyhell say 'Hear, Li, you mind the kids. I'm going around the corner for a glass of beer."

In more serious vein, Mr. McFarlane pointed out that there is no national body of writers in Canada. Canadian writers face serious handicaps such as small publishing fields, long distance markets and no business contracts, besides being in competition with the best writers in the world. "They are considered by some," he said, "if they knew how they were meeting this competition."

Few Stories Accepted

"Approximately three out of every thousand magazine stories submitted to editors are accepted," he said. "Magazine writers or the most of them, make a good living but the work is too risky. If one wanted to write $1,000 a year, he would amount to about $1,000, not spread it for a year's work." Besides," he said, "magazine writers don't count in literary circles, but if one writes a book he is welcome, even if no one reads it."

"Writing," he added, "was a job with a lot of fun in it. Dentists could work in bootlegging earning teeth for the fun of it; clerics on Saturday for the fun of it; doctors on snaring tonsils for the fun of it; but writers, emblaming one for the fun of it.

"There's a great satisfaction even if written in a letter to know that one reaches and speaks to the heart of humanity," he concluded. Knowledge of this is exemplified in the tremendous interest in radio."

Outlines Story Construction

Mr. McFarlane at this point outlined the plot and construction of a short story. He told how his own story "Thirty Days Daughter" came into being and how he drew the plots and selected his characters.

"Names," he said, "are easy to get. For instance I have Toronto and Montreal telephone directories but the rest is easy. Actual names have been used in more than three. Of course, we give the villain in the story a Christian name now, for nobody cares, but there was a time when we got the names from tenant counsils when we used names of their customers, that is all, except the Chinese."

"Radio dramatization of a story is vastly different. It cannot be taken from the magazine article because it is all done by sound and dialogue together with the hazard that you may get an actor who doesn't fit into the part."

In closing, Mr. McFarlane read "Christmas in Canada," an article which he had written and which was published in McLean's magazine last Christmas and also read over a Canadian radio network.

Appreciation of the joint clubs was expressed by Rotarian Harry Carr, M.P., Northumberland. The visiting Campbellford men were welcomed by Rotarian Howard Wilson, President Lorne McGuire. A feature of the musical part of the luncheon was "Hale Britannia" sung in Jack Deacon's inimitable voice.

A NOBLE LIFE CLOSED

Having lived long beyond the customary span of years and active in many interests, the Rev. Albert L. Geen, for many decades a figure of prominence in the life of this city, has passed to his reward. He had spent his entire life in Belleville where he was born nearly 92 years ago and which he labored in every way to make a greater and nobler city. He had seen it develop as he himself and Canada develop and throughout his long life he was associated with and played a great part in movements of a progressive character, making for a better life of the individual, the city and the nation. It was about seventy years ago he became the proprietor of the drug business so long known by his name and even for five years before this purchase he had been associated with its owner, J. C. Holden. He was a leader in business, was progressive in his outlook and held the highest offices in the Retail Merchants' Association. He was honest and sincere in all his relations with business men and the public.

Mr. Geen associated with societies having to do with the education of the young in the school, in the Sunday school and in the church. He carried out the duties of a citizen by serving as a member of the School Board and the city council, having been a member of the first city council. He was officially active in many of the Bible Society and of other religious organizations. Fraternally he was widely known for he was a member of many orders.

No tribute would be complete without reference to his lifelong work in the church of which he had been made a perpetual deacon in 1886 because of his great assistance to the clergy of the church of England in this district. This work absorbed a great deal of his time and energy until not long ago and it was the work which he held dearest. His services in congregations and missions will never be forgotten. His tireless labor in this regard earned him the love and affection of the people of so many parishes whom he served with absolute devotion. The members of the Mohawk band he was beloved for he served in their church and as a token of their regard they made him a member of their tribe with the Indian ceremonies. This place of a brother of the Mohawks he occupied in the hearts of these people.

He filled high posts in the various orders and fraternities. In all these spheres he impressed everyone with whom he came in contact.

The Rev. Mr. Geen possessed an attractive personality, the quality of making and preserving friendships. His temperament was optimistic. He was tireless in his labors of so many forms. After hours of business he would drive long distances to serve in worship or to grace a meeting with his presence or to do many acts of kindness and of love. Possessed of fine gifts he used his talents for the betterment of mankind and he has left behind the memory of a well-spent and useful life and good works.

NAZI VANDALS

The vandalism of the German Nazis in their raids is proven by the number of churches which have suffered in Britain. The Manchester Guardian quotes from information collected by the religious division of the British Ministry of Information to show that 2,659 churches of all denominations have been destroyed or seriously or less seriously damaged in air raids up to the beginning of February. Much public property, as well as private mansions, schools and convents has suffered.

The letter from Bishop Primus F. Vaughan of the Free Church of England written to the Rev. D. R. Chastenay of the Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church in Belleville, is another evidence proof of the damage and loss caused by the Nazi air attacks. But in the words of the bishop, "the people are loyalty itself," and "we are going to win through and are prepared for whatever may yet come." That is the faith of a glorious cause for if ever in history a people was fighting in a just cause it is in this fight of Great Britain against the forces of violence, dishonor, crime, brutality and sin.

If you would civilize a man begin with his grandmother.—Victor Hugo.

"THE GOD OLD DAYS"

The good old days are here again,
When loafing time is through;
No fishin' poles or swimmin' holes,
It's Back to School for you.

The good old days are here again,
And 'larm clocks ring anew;
Come, my dears, and wash your ears,
It's Back to School for you.

The good old days are here again,
How that vacation flew!
It's time for books not fishin' hooks,
It's Back to School for you.

The good old days are here again,
And thoughts they make you blue;
You'll realize they're days you prize,
It's Back to School for you.

"See those kiddies troopin' back to school" said the Oldtimer to his pal, as they shivered in a cool April wind on a bench in Fireman's Park.

"Yep, I sure do," replied Oldtimer the Second, cocking a philatelial eye at low flying clouds overhead. "And I'm thinkin' of the old days when you and I used to get up early in the mornin' to see who would carry that browned-haired Olive Brown's books to school."

"Those were the days Bill," remarks O.T.1, "we were knew what grand and glorious times we had when we were chasing barefoot down dusty paths to a place in the world . . . not a thing to bother us, except we might not get any fishworms that evenin'."

"Y'right," comes back O.T.2, "if the kids of today had half the fun that we had, they still would have a whale of a time. Nowadays all they think about is shows and auffmobiles, a pair of hose, work and some kind of sports. They're all dressed up like Kingdom Come and they know it. But I suppose they're all kids at heart and if they got the opportunity to do the things we did they would probably do the same things."

A reminiscent look flashed in the eyes of O.T.1. "Remember the time we put the frog in the teacher's desk, and blamed it on that snooty rich farmer's son? And do you remember how we found out he wasn't so dumb. For he slipped a small garter-snake down my overalls the next mornin' and gave a yip that was heard forty rods away."

"Sure do, Bill," replied his friend. "Also that time we put the field mouse in the drawer of the teacher's desk, and the blamed thing jumped out when the inspector came, and it ran up his pantleg. I never saw the Highland Fling danced so well in my life."

Both oldtimers laughed uproariously at their reminiscences. The O.T.1 spoke, a serious look in his eyes, "But, y'know, he said only, "with all the hellery we used to kick up around that little red schoolhouse, there was a lot of smart people laid the foundation of ultimate success in life. We used to duck out of school at recess and sneak a smoke of elm-root or corn tassel. Some of them used to smoke dried maple leaves in the fall, and they weren't bad puffin' either. And we used to play hookey when the circus came to town and stay out as late as eight-thirty if the medicine show put on an act with a trained elephant—but some of the boys and gals of those days are big shots now."

"They learned the simple things of life based on a foundation of the three R's. The teachers knew that below the covering of a tussedcoated there was a golden lining, and they did their best to bring it out. The little red schoolhouse of those days would look pretty shabby lined up against the dignified buildings of today, but there was as much good came out of 'em as out of mahogany, and venetian blinds. It was the simple life, but the folks were real ones. Sure we got tanned, and in more ways than one, but it did us adot of good."

Soviet Envoy Finds Himself Quite Popular

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Canadian Columnist

Washington.—Constantine Alexandrovitch Oumansky, Moscow's ambassador to the United States, is finding out that being persona grata in Washington is not all it's cracked up to be.

Newspapermen head into his embassy and, after talking with him, head it out to Washington friendly stories about the Soviet republics.

I'll bet Constantine could give an ambassadorial party now and get a good attendance. Not so very long ago, every time I received invitations to some classy function at his diplomatic headquarters on 16th St., the invitations were returned by him. It was noticeable, too, that Muscovite envoy had difficulty in some and stimulating. Including delicious caviar and pungent vodka. But Constantine couldn't get more than a meager handful of guests on to his premises, to eat and drink of his refreshments.

It is not partly because the Stalinist outfit is communistic, but that alone didn't explain it. Communism is completely blacklisted. The Soviets' action in hopping on the Hitler wagon was what utterly finished him socially and politically in Washington, officially.

Public rehabilitated him was Moscow's friendly stand for pro-British Turkey, which interpreted as foreshadowing a rift in the loose compact between the Soviets and Germany.

Back-Patting Explained

In consequence Oumansky doesn't like the Communists any better than ever, but the Soviet ambassador does think they ought to be encouraged to back pat with the comrade toward the Nazis, the Fascists and the Japs also. Hence all the stories on the part that Ambassador Oumansky is getting.

The gang that catapults and air guns by boys in the city should be prohibited by the authorities.

The price of deakin skins has increased to 55 cents each.

He Steered for The Guns of Dunkirk!

By Admiral Sir Lionel Preston
In the London Listener

This is about little ships and the big men who man them. I don't mean the Navy proper, but those small craft that only became His Majesty's when, under emergency powers, they were requisitioned and readily given guns and a uniform—and crew who hoisted the White Ensign in place of the old red duster. I can't tell you exactly how many of the kind are requisitioned, but there are very many hundreds. Now what sort of ships are they? First, the heaviest underwater is the Fishing Fleet—trawlers that drag a trawl on the bottom for fish, drifters that drift up to a mile of net, to entangle herrings; and small motor vessels that use a seine net or long ballad line for getting fish as will oblige. Lately, the fishing have been through lean years, on the vast majority of the trawlers and nearly all the drifters, are veterans of the last war, and they have led a strenuous life in the interval, in taking them up, the Navy tries to keep a balance with the Ministry of Food, who want the utmost fish, but there is a very delicate balance to maintain.

Then we have excursion steamers, mostly paddlers—sailors call them "hurrah boats"—many of you are familiar with these, and some of you had more of them than you wished, I expect.

We also have tugs, pilot boats and whalers, that have been built for polar seas, and a huge number of yachts, mostly motor-driven ones. It is surprising how the fashion for steel-cruised yachts has grown us. In this connection, last Spring an order was made and repeated in the microphone to the owners of that kind of boat to report to the shipowning firm in question and replies came within a fortnight. Then, there are the ferry boats to lay hands on them in a hurry for the Channel Islands and also to Dunkirk. At the same time Hitler sent us a welcome present of many thousands of troops to the continent. No nation ever had a greater source of supply, or wanted it more.

Requisitioning, you can understand, is often the last straw. A yacht, too, like a dog, is very dear to the master, particularly when it is rather a luxury. But there have been few owners who have not accepted requisition loyally; many offering their personal services and even, sometimes, they serve as cook or steward. Others offer boats without payment.

Here is a typical example of enlistment. A man in the Navy needed a yacht and walked to serve in it. He was a bit over the age limit, but he insisted on taking her round to Chatham, where she was to be employed. As a result of machine-gunning, he died, as he would have wished, commanding his little ship on war service. Keenness to help them is more widespread than British. Two American owners, and Canadian, have offered their boats to the Admiralty for one dollar apiece. Another lot only presented his yacht, but had the refit to make her an efficient naval unit.

How do we employ these innumerable craft? Their versatility for the present requirement is mineswepping. Now comes submarine-hunting, which requires the largest of the little ships. And auxiliary patrol, too, a great force of auxiliaries are in use now. Then there are less spectacular jobs, but very vital to war at sea—for example, examination craft to see that no ship entering our ports we shouldn't. Many of our harbors are protected by boom defence. Anti-depth charges on its stern. Little ships are also wanted for balloon barrages. And they have to accompany convoys past Hell's Corner.

Every port of consequence needs too, a host of small fry to attend on the big ships and the convoys, and see they are not kept waiting for necessities, such as provisions, stores, water, ferrying men or hospital transport—in fact doing work that on shore is largely done by lorry or pipe.

Back in the open sea, there are tugs that rush to a stricken ship to tow her to safety or rescue the crews, and salvage ships—we might term them "the surgeons of the sea"—who treat a patient with first aid, operate, and if she dies they make "make sure" to her life, or dismember her and use her organs elsewhere. These work in all weathers among bombs, torpedoes and mines, without much glamor in the struggle.

We also have to find speedy rescue craft, ready to pick up any of our matchless airmen who may have to bail out into the sea. You must know, has the job of satisfying the needs of both airmen and soldiers when boats in large numbers are required.

And all this outfit of craft applies equally to ports abroad. It has taken small building yards at home in the Dominions and in the colonies a steady flow of little ships is taking the water to replenish stocks.

So much for the ships. And now the men who man them. The officers comprise a sprinkling of the merchant Service, which has had good training with the Navy in peacetime. They are the link, but the needs of the Mercantile Marine have taken most of them. The handicap has been overcome by business and professional men of every description—engineers, stockbrokers, musicians, journalists, farmers and men of many and of sheer job, even officers that served in the armies in the last war, in the last war, and a famous member of Parliament and author who still seems to prefer khaki-covered trousers to a temporary commission.

These are the R.N.V.R., a permanent force in peacetime, now enormously increased in size. We had learned to understand the sea in little yachts, and have it in the blood of the British race, for these fellows have taken to naval life like ducks to water. They didn't sit tight and wait for instructions to be issued by commissions; many preferred to enter through the ranks, that is, to start as a seamen on the lower deck.

Yacht clubs have given many officers to the R.N.V.R.and Britain's yachtsmen have a world-wide reputation. By the way, the American Nathan Water Medal, the prize for the finest piece of amateur seamanship of 1940, was awarded to a British yachtsmen for Dunkirk. Last, but not least, we have the Trawler Reserve, a great force and a body of tough seamen as exist in any of the Services, that is, to start as a seamen on the lower deck.

I cannot end without telling you one more story. A gunnery officer, a lately inexperienced officer who had only a few days before joined his ship, found himself somewhere on the south coast, got a lift to London. The last train out of there boats were very busy crowing the Channel. He was in civilian clothes and uniform; the single wavy stripe glittering in the gangway among the crowd at a longshoreman who, with a chum professing knowledge of engines, was trying to effect a kick out of an ancient lifeboat.

"Excuse me, sir," said the old salt, who had never been far from the coast.

The youngster hesitated, then quite definitely said he could. He got the craft safely in the end.

"And then?"

"Steered for the guns, sir."

"Steered for the guns, shades of Nelson and of Drake.

GARGANTUA AND TOTO

It is supposed to be a word of native African origin.

A male gorilla is much stronger than a man of comparable size.

African hunters have reported that in which gorillas have been the barrels of hunting rifles with their powerful hands and jaws.

Carl Akeley, noted authority on African animals, declared that there is no basis for the romantic stories that gorillas sometimes kidnap and mate with native women.

It appears to be a fact, however, that gorillas sometimes beat their breasts with their fists. This seems to be a form of nervous relief to which there are few rivals, except when enraged, frightened or otherwise excited.

The noise uttered by a gorilla is more like a bark than a roar.

Gorillas are native only to a comparatively small forested region in equatorial West Africa.

Although perhaps the most intelligent of all animals, gorillas are extremely shy and generally do not thrive in captivity.

The skeleton and the brain of gorillas are more like that of a human being, is believed to be nine months.

NO DEFINITE STEP TO PLAN DETAILS FOR FDR'S VISIT

Reservations Begin to Pour in to Ottawa Hotels for Days of Visit

Ottawa, April 22 (CP)—Ottawa hotels today said their records already showed Canadians' interest in the projected visit of President Roosevelt to the Dominion capital between May 10 and 15.

One leading hotel said between 25 and 30 reservations were made this morning following announcement last night by Prime Minister King that a visit by the United States President would be made. The reservations were confined to the days on which Mr. Roosevelt will be in Ottawa. All were from Canadians.

House of Commons officials said they expected that a parliament was in session when the President came to Ottawa—which appears likely—Mr. Roosevelt would speak from the floor of the House of Commons. This would set no precedent.

No definite steps have yet been taken to arrange details of the President's visit, but officials said a committee likely would be set up shortly to work on preparations.

A Matter of "Hope"

Washington, April 22 (AP) — A projected visit by President Roosevelt to Ottawa next month was said at the White House today to be a matter of "hope."

"Will the situation what it is these days," said Presidential Secretary Stephen Early, "it's impossible, when the President wants to do something, to more than hope for it."

U. S. Income Tax May Be Doubled Or Even Trebled

Washington, April 22 —(AP)— Thousands of United States taxpayers—little and big men alike—will have to pay two or three times their present income tax, informed sources predicted today, if Congress adopts the treasury program for raising $3,500,000,000 in new Federal revenue.

The program, authoritative reports said, carried the following major provisions:—

Individual Income — An increase of the present 4-4 per cent basic tax rate to 6-6 per cent. Also a reduction of the existing 10 per cent earned income credit deduction. Personal exemption rates would remain unchanged.

Step Increases in Surtaxes

Income Surtaxes — Steep increases. Whereas surtaxes are now imposed on taxable income in excess of $4,000, they would begin with those over $2,000. Present surtaxes range from 4 to 75 per cent and are levied in addition to the basic 4-4 per cent "normal" rate.

Corporate Incomes — An increase from the present 24 per cent to 30 per cent.

Travel — A tax of about 10 per cent on railroad, plane, bus and other transportation tickets.

Cheques — A one cent tax on each cheque drawn.

Gasoline — One cent more, making the Federal tax 2 1-3 cents a gallon.

Cigarets — Eight cents tax on each pack of 20, a 1 1-2-cent boost.

Other Items — Increases in beer, wine, whisky and automobile purchase taxes. New levies on chewing gum, soft drinks.

Federal Securities — A plan to reach with taxation all or part of the income from the billions of dollars invested in theoretically tax exempt government bonds.

WORLD'S LARGEST BOMBER GETS FINAL INSPECTION

Its mighty wings, designed by the U.S. Army Air Corps to span two continents, measure 212 feet from tip to tip. Note the powerful Wright Duplex-Cyclone motors totalling 8,000 horsepower, will drive this formidable eagle through the skies at a speed in excess of 200 miles per hour. Note the comparison between Lindbergh and a DC-3 plane, a standard ship used by most air lines.

King George himself took command of the government and the army. Martial law prevails in Athens.

Small Size Cheese Production Limited To Last Year Amount

Factories Must Have Authorization From Board to Produce Greater Monthly Amount of Small Sizes

Ottawa, April 22 (CP)—Ontario and Quebec cheese factories may not produce a greater monthly amount of small sizes of cheddar cheese than was manufactured in the respective sizes in corresponding months of 1940 without authorization from the Dairy Products Board, under a Board order made public last night in an extra edition of the Canada Gazette. The order becomes effective May 1.

The order under Board authorization of triplets, twins daisies, stiltons or other small sizes may be white or colored, waxed or unwaxed at the manufacturer's option, the order said.

All cheddar cheese manufactured by any factory, except as authorized under the order, shall be not less than 12 inches in diameter and 75 pounds in weight, average size for large cheese, and shall be white and unwaxed.

'Tremendous Army Developing In U. S., Morale Highest'

Washington, April 22 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall, Chief of Staff, told the Senate Defence Investigating Committee today that the United States War Department had "gotten over the bumps" after two years of difficulties in assembling a fighting force and "a tremendous army is developing."

Gen. Marshall said he was highly pleased with the organization which had been developed.

"The army has the highest morale that I have ever seen," he declared.

On applying lessons learned from German tactics in over-running France, Marshall said the War Department has developed four training schools for men of non-commissioned forces. These schools soon will be turning out 12,000 trained men at each school every three months.

They will be assigned to the four armored divisions, which Marshall described as "quite impressive" in their military efficiency despite the fact that two of these had to be "emasculated" to furnish men to train recruits.

Outlining the difficulties under which the War Department had worked, the Chief of Staff said the army had only 189,000 men on duty July 1, 1940. This has now grown to a force of 1,250,000.

Mr. Ilsley, it is expected, may throw some light on the effect of the Hyde Park declaration Thursday when he announces the 1941-42 budget.

The budget is expected to be presented in the House of Commons by Thursday, and Premier Mackenzie King will announce the exact date tomorrow.

Toronto, April 22 (CP)—Allan B. Parsons, 26, Toronto, convicted last week of violating the Defence of Canada regulations, was sentenced today to three years in the one day definitis in Reformatory and three months indefinite.

He pleaded guilty today to a charge of escaping from custody on an unsuccessful attempt to break from sheriff's officers after last week's court appearance, and was sentenced to one year. On a charge of assaulting a sheriff's officer he was given six months, all terms to run concurrently.

100,600 ACRES LAID IN WASTE

450 Seaside Homes at Marshfield Destroyed by Blaze

New York, April 22 (AP) — More than 750,000 acres of woodlands in 13 States were blackened wastes today and fires still burned through parched forests.

Massachusetts executive council closed the State's forests after more than 30 major blazes destroyed much timberland and consumed 450 seaside homes at Marshfield.

Parts of New Hampshire, Vermont and Connecticut were also ravaged.

Scattered sections of south and central New Jersey were licked by earthly-morning fires that burned 42,500 acres in that State and caused property damage of more than $1,000,000.

Pillars of fire threatened the United States naval air station at Lakehurst and the borough of that name, but were halted.

Nearly 100 blazes were reported in New York and Pennsylvania.

To the south, 12,000 acres Maryland pine forests and small new blazes sprang up throughout the State.

A third of West Virginia's more than 150 conflagrations were being fought today in Grant and Hardy counties.

Gov. Burch Griffin predicted the worst was yet to come.

Atlantic County in New Jersey fought the worst forest fire in its history. After a 13-hour battle, Warden Rogers reported late last night the blaze was under control. It burned seven-mile front, and that the only property damage was a farmhouse. The flames 40 reddened the night skies for miles outside in Atlantic City 30 miles away.

Hear Axis Begins Talks On 'Sharing Of Yugoslavia'

London, April 22 (CP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation last night quoted a report from Belgrade which said conversations between Foreign Ministers Count Ciano, Ribbentrop and Germany and Foreign Minister Cincar Markovitch began with their respective shares of Yugoslavia.

The report added that the conference will continue today when Germany will begin to discuss the main lines of the new territorial division of the Balkans.

(Reports were current in Berlin that the discussions at the new "Balkan adjustment" conference would be the last of the Greek campaign is in full force. The impression was said to prevail that the collapse of Yugoslavia had ended urgent political problems and that a territorial settlement might be necessary).

Berlin, April 22 (AP)— German spokesmen said today that preliminary conversations concerning Yugoslavia and Croatia have been completed in Vienna.

Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister, was said to have participated.

Authorized sources emphasized the talks were preliminary and informal and said many discussions must follow.

N. Y. Press Comments Favorably On King-Roosevelt Agreement

New York, April 22 (CP) — A "new order" in international co-operation is born in the Western Hemisphere, The New York Herald Tribune declared today in commenting editorially upon Canada's announcement that Prime Minister King of Canada and President Roosevelt have agreed to merge their industries in the war battle of production.

"The arrangement seems so sensible and simple that one is likely to miss its significance," the Herald Tribune. "But, think back only a year or so to the difficulties of unification of nationalities which was the order prevailing in the rest of abroad. . . now we join with Canada for the co-ordination of our war economy with that of a friendly neighbor drawn together . . .

"It seems a step in a wholly logical evolution of the president's foreign policy and of Canada's part in it perceptable. May we compliment both him and Prime Minister Mackenzie King on its accomplishment"

Relieve Strain on Canada

The Times said the agreement put immediate effect of the understanding as relieving the severe strain upon Canada's dollar resources but, taking a longer view, said it constitutes a more effective co-ordination of American defence and aid to Britain "along continental lines."

The Sun yesterday saw the announcement as an arrangement "for the immediate defence of the Dominion and for future defence of the United States and added:

"South of the border it may be regarded as a pooling of assets for defence; north of the border it is more likely to be regarded as pooling of assets for conduct of the war. In any case, the international armalities are outwardly preserved while the common purposes of the two nations are advanced.

"The world will, of course, overlook the fact that the agreement is an American interest in Canada's military and industrial equipment when a little encouragement with Britain's Commonwealth wealth of Nations.

London Approves

London—(CP Cable)—The Daily Telegraph in an editorial today said the Canada-United States agreement was a little multiplied as a result of the joint conference of North American resources devised by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

"Its scope is great and the material gain in armaments and supplying will be immense, but no less important is the political and moral effect of complete co-operation of the Commonwealth and the United States," the paper said.

The Daily Mail said it is declared that the United States will co-operate in every department of armament production with Canada for the defence of Britain and it needs equip co-operation from Canada for American defence security. The great republic and the British commonwealth of nations are proclaimed inter-dependent.

The Times said the plan should ease strain upon the exchange between the Canadian and the United States dollar, and added "it establishes a new link between the British Empire and the United States over the Canadian bridge, the value of which is becoming ever more apparent."

"Canada's growing war effort" was the subject of a front page story in the Manchester Guardian. Much of the Dominion's war activity were reviewed in a two-column article.

'Battle Of Britain' Attacks On Convoys

By H. M. PETERS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The first English towns to be bombed in the daylight German attacks usually have been the air-port bus less effective night raiding. the target was shipping, coastal towns and fighter airdromes.

In the first stage of the aerial assault, which began August 8th, the Germans concentrated on when the Nazis, after suffering huge losses, gave up daylight attacks to assault Britain upon the darkness.

"The enemy sent over, massed formations of bombers escorted by large numbers of single and twin-engined fighters," the Germans said. The fighter escorts flew in large, wide spreading formations, from 5,000 to 10,000 feet above the bombers, where the protection they afforded was not very effective.

"Using these tactical formations, the enemy made 26 attacks during the first stage, which began by renewing his assaults on one and Dover ping (which had been going on intermittently) throughout the month of July.)

"It may well be that this was still regarded as the most vulnerable form of target and the enemy tried to attack, for not only are slow moving convoys difficult to defend, but casualties among the ships and the defence are always higher when the action is taking place over land, may also have wished to test the strength of the defending forces.

Two Convoys Attacked

"At all events, during that time two convoys were fiercely attacked, one of them by night. Fifty-nine aircraft in the morning and more than 100 since the afternoon, delayed on a front of over 20 miles, the sinking of one and disperse a convoy off the Isle of Wight. Two ships were sunk and 19 damaged.

"On August 11th, at 4:15 more than 130 appeared over another convoy off the Thames estuary. They were able to disperse but they fairly heavily on the ships, however, and off Harwich. In these attacks the enemy relied greatly on dive bombers, which usually attacked Portsmouth and the Isle of Wight. By this time German losses were already considerable, for 182 aircraft had been destroyed.

Portsmouth was attacked again on August 12 and 13, on one occasion between 200 and 300 aircraft being employed.

"The enemy was by now beginning to realize that our fighter force was considerably stronger than he had imagined. It was extremely time to take drastic action. Our fighters must be put out of commission. Therefore, while still maintaining his attacks on convoys and towns, he sent large forces to deal with fighter airdromes in the south and southeast of England; Hawkinge, Manston, Lympne, Middle Wallop, Kenley and Biggin Hill were heavily attacked, some of them many times. A number of the enemy reported as far as Croydon.

"Once more the Luftwaffe did a certain amount of damage but at a cost which even Goering must have regarded as excessive. On August 15, 180 German aircraft were known to be destroyed. Throughout the opening of the battle he had now lost 500 aircraft. Nevertheless he returned to the charge, throwing in 1,000 aircraft during the period August 16 and about the same number on August 18th. Rochester, Kenley, Croydon, Biggin Hill, Manston, Wing, Gosport, Northolt and Tangmere were the main targets. His losses were again very heavy. In these days 189 enemy aircraft were shot down. One of the R.A.F. fighting 71, 242 and 249 regiment pilot flying an unarmed Anson, destroyed a Dornier 215 bomber. Whether he intentionally rammed the enemy will never be known.

697 Nazi Planes Lost

"In the ten days since the opening of the attack on August 8th Goering had now lost 697 aircraft. Our own losses during the same period were not light, for we lost 161 fighter pilots were safe though some of them were wounded.

"The pace was too hot to last. Goering called off and gave his Luftwaffe a rest which lasted for ten days.

"Generally the enemy attacks were preceded by using during that the available squadrons to deal with the enemy fighters and to protect to attack the enemy bombers while flew escort at 11,000 to 13,000 feet, descending frequently to 7,000 or 8,000 feet to drop their bombs.

"The success of our fighter tactics at this stage can be gauged by a comparison between our losses in fighter pilots and those of the enemy. The ration was about seven to one and might have been even better but for the fact that many of the fighting had not taken place over the sea."

Sympathetic Nervous System Is Removed In Unique Operation

Chicago, April 22 (AP)—Surgeons arteries, increasing blood pressure have completely removed the sympathetic nervous system in human beings, for the first time in medical history, it was announced Saturday.

An immediate reduction in high blood pressure, from which the patients had been suffering, was caused by the remarkable operation.

This new surgical achievement was described in a preliminary report to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology by Dr. Leo A. Grisman, professor of surgery; and Dr. Alf. S. Alving and Dr. Wright Adams, professors of medicine, all of the University of Chicago.

The sympathetic nervous system, they explained, is the visceral "brain," is a group of nerves connecting the spinal cord with the internal organs that control their involuntary regulation. A secondary activity is the control of the unconscious movements of internal organs such as the heart and stomach. It also has a part in the effect that emotions and tension generally has on these body organs.

For example, if a person became angry or worried, the sympathetic would register at the brain, the key unit of the central nervous system. The brain would send impulses down the spinal cord to the sympathetic nerves. They would act on the signals by contracting the small

British Needs Help in Cans and Canning — Don't Stop Knitting, Comes the Call — News From Overseas

By GLADYS ARNOLD

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 22.— (CP)—When Canadian Homemakers in Saskatchewan looked about for ways of helping the women in England in their battle on the home front, they wrote to Lady Tweedsmuir in England about it.

The answer: If the Women's Institutes in Canada would like to send cans or cans canning machines to the Women's Institutes in England', she replied, They would be very useful and take up little shipping space.

The Canadian small fruit season is just around the corner and further public advice from England is that for shipping reasons all canning for sending to British must be done in tins. Jam concentrates more food value and will last longer than other form of preserved fruit.

Women of Tweeds

An example of feminine initiative in Britain is the way in which the women of the Borders have taken hold of the Harris Tweed industry in the absence of their menfolk. Those grim islands of the Outer Hebrides have proportionately more men in the armed forces than any other part of the British Empire, majority being mobilized to serve in the mine-sweepers.

In their absence the women have taken over the islands' most famous industry and are carrying on almost alone. There are 52,000 of them engaged in the spin and their earnings they subscribed $6,000 ($26,700) in one week to the Spitfire Fund.

At present this tweed is fashioning the kilts on behalf of those who cannot defend themselves. "There are thousands of babies, born and unborn, who will be grateful for a garr of being christened Bardia, Libya, Benghazi, Dunkirque, Wavell and other such names after battles and battleships. It is quite possible that some will be Bugles Jones or Sodium Smith".

Nothing daunts the women behind the lens of war cameras. 'I mes a camera lady' is the phrase Christian name was 'Verdun', he said.

The spite of war has brought into union occupied with a very unpalatable dose of arithmetic'.

Giving a baby a new name is like printing a date on its forehead. Mrs. Alfred Bishop, whose British babies named Siren, Sreena, Dunkirk, Bertha and Blitz, has been called Boomer because an unexploded bomb lay in the backyard at the time of his birth.

Knit and Knit

Though summer lies ahead it is not too early to start knitting, word comes from London. Now is the time to store up supply of heavy knitted goods for winter letters campaigns. Among the articles listed as most appreciated are short boot stockings, spiral sea boot stockings, pullovers, gauntlet gloves, Balaclava helmets, scarfs, mitten caps, gloves and socks.

In Scotland 28 canteen and social centres have been set up by Polish women under the leadership of Pani Sikorska, daughter of the Polish Prime Minister and Commander of the Polish Army.

Miss Sikorska is tall, dark, 34 years of age and like her helpers wears the uniform of the Polish Red Cross.

In Poland, Miss Sikorska like many women of her country was a noted horsewoman and her father said once that he never was more proud than the day she "won a horseshow in Poland when 12 years of age. During the war and until March 1940 Miss Sikorska helped to feed the people of Warsaw by driving wagons of foodstuffs to that city. She had to travel more than 100 miles taking several days for each trip on the war-blasted roads, caring for her horses herself and sleeping where she could.

Winston's Wife Likes Activity

War Brings Clementine Churchill Into Public Life in Various Ways

London, April 22. — (CP)—The war has brought Clementine Churchill, a first-rate platform speaker, out of voluntary retirement. The tall curly-haired wife of Britain's wartime prime minister has made two recent broadcasts appealing to the women of Britain and England to donate woollens for civil defence workers.

Daughter of the late Col. Sir H. M. Hozier and Lady Blanche Ogilvy, granddaughter of the 7th Earl of Airlie, Mrs. Churchill stumped a great deal for her husband in his early political career but since 1929 she had not did no more public speaking until 13 years later when she helped their son, Randolph in a Commons campaign.

Wartime activities of the prime minister's wife have included 5th grandchild, Winston's war baby a week and a reception club for New Zealand troops in London, and visits to bombed areas.

Outlook on Life

Mrs. Churchill finds life in England tough going, she said says she is not sorry that she is in the present of our history." But she hastens to add that "I do not mean by this moment that life is in the least degree easy. We are all of us now living under the shadow of death."

The prime minister's wife is a handsome, graceful, gray-eyed woman, who looks so young that she fooled him for the 66-year-old prime minister's second wife. She's a top notch knitter and she wears them with British nonchalance. These days she likes to be the country away from the thick of things, but comes to London every few days for a brief "lofk in" at 10 Downing Street.

When the prime minister makes a big speech in Commons she takes a front seat in the distinguished gallery, glancing upward as he warms into his oratory to beam at him in the approving gesture of her uplifted hand.

That Saga of Beauty and Health

By HELEN POLLETT

To readers of beauty sermonettes the statement that beauty is dependent, and, if she is wise, old, oft-told story. The young-ster must look after her finger nails and sassy hairdos, probably skip them. But women who aren't up to top notch know the truth of the beauty-health slogans. Health literally lights the fires in the optic lamps. It keeps the cheeks pink, the cheeks delicately colored, the step alert and the spirits high. The girl who doesn't look after her health might as well chuck the make-up kit out of the window; she is chasing beauty rainbows.

Take Exercise

At the age of twenty-five a girl should take a look-see at herself. Goodness knows the years roll by fast enough. She must not sidestep exercise, and, if she is wise, she will take up some outdoor sport for the sake of her muscles and to stave off fat cells that often take squatter's rights after thirty. Some physicians do not expect she should join a gym class. Rhythmic dancing is grand to make one graceful and to help retain the youthful silhouette.

Circulation is more important than one realizes. Girls with cold hands and sensitive noses usually have pleasing complexions. Cutting down on sleeping hours will bring crinkles around the eyes. Under nourishment prays the dickens with appetite.

The complexion has three needs: scrupulous cleanliness, stimulating massage and oil for the skin in its functioning processes, plenty of oil or cream so that the epidermis will keep soft and well-strained.

Be casual about face washing. The prettiest little face in the world loathes it, oily film and plenty of atmospheric dirt. Use a clean wash cloth every day; soiled ones are an abomination. Have towels soft, of the kind that absorb water readily. If one's skin will, especially if you are about to apply an oily cosmetic. Cold creams are for cleansing; heavy ones are for massaging. A shock rinsing with cold water in the morning will give freshness to the complexion.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, April 26

By GENEVIEVE FORBES

THE SUN: Personal intervention on the affairs of this day may manifest in surprising manner. Be alert for changing profits or cashing in on bold ideas. In a new direction by bold decisive application of initiative, you may profit by changing your ideas and method, backed up by hard work and sound purpose. Don't be afraid to change your vocabulary to cope with, but with wariness, accept and a normal ability to yield in a tight place there should be much gained. In personal affairs there may be similar tactics successfully applied.

If 11 Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of large opportunities for growth and expansion in a big way and the arising in unexpected manner or through the development of bold and constructive methods of doing old things well as new things in an improved way. This may require initiative and nerve and is likely to provoke opposition or hostility of an open as well as subtle way. But vigilance, well-directed judgment and sound sense and proper ability to manipulate trickery as well as antagonism, may avert a menace also benefiting private associates.

A child born on this day should have great constructive ability in doing perhaps bold and original to the point of genius. This may attract admirers and lead to friendships with reactions on its inner life and fortune.

If Vaccine Injection Is Interruped

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Can vaccination against whooping cough be continued successfully after interruption?

The instance cited is that of a child who had one dose of whooping cough vaccine and then because of a throat infection, the second vaccine could not be given on time. Convalescence was prolonged so that it was postponed and the question arises whether the first dose of vaccine is effective and can count, or must the second and third doses given at this long interval with the effectiveness it gives in the customary week to three weeks apart. The present accepted procedure is three-week intervals for whooping cough vaccine.)

In general it is true of any immunization procedure that the interval between doses which has been worked out should be observed, and if any interruption occurs—especially one of as much as a month—the entire series should be started again.

Another question that might be asked is whether the first dose would sensitize the patient so that a second dose at the regular time would cause a reaction, more or less severe. But authorized Rheumophilus pertussis vaccine (Eagle) is said to contain no animal protein whatever and so this danger is eliminated.

Skin Peeling

What is the new operation called skin peeling?

In cases of deep pitted scars on the face following acne, and in certain other conditions of dark pigmentation of the face of the skin, there is now available a safe, extensive enough, it is possible to remove the superficial horny layers of the skin, giving a much improved appearance. Normally the upper layer of the skin, gradually lose their nuclei, flatten out and finally peel off. It is possible to hasten this process by chemicals and the peeling of the deeper cells than normally would shed. A carefully graded set of chemicals is left on for a short time and then washed off. An inflammation of the skin usually occurs. The process is repeated several times. Many unsightly conditions are removed permanently.

Questions and Answers

P.M.—"Is excessive perspiring harmful, especially on the scalp? Would it help the hair fall out? Is it due to nervousness?"

Answer — There are certainly two kinds of people in the world—the dry and the wet. Scientifically, these have been explained on the basis of those who have the vagus nervous system really stimulated. Some people have perspiration on a mildly warm day or after taking a mildly warm bath. The distribution of the sweat glands in the skin is confined to various areas, of which the scalp and the armpits are notable. Excessive sweating of the head does not contribute to a certain kind of nervous disposition. Remedies to relieve it are more dangerous than the condition itself.

Don't Poke at Skin Blemishes

Patricia Morison believes in using scrupulously clean puffs to apply powder

By Helen Follett

LET us offer a few words of warning to the girl with, those hard complexion spoiled with red points and dust filled pores, takes a mirror to a dreamy light, starts a war on blackheads and pimples, pressing the flesh, digging in her finger nails and breaking the delicate skin. She is on the way to doing much damage, often the result from this deplorable practice.

Soft, well destroyed tissue and no cosmetic will remove them. Sometimes caustic surgery is used for the purpose, but it is expensive.

Another menace arises. Finger tips are not always sterile, even after a hand washing. They pick up germs that are in the yellow contents of pustules, peas them into the new area, thus spreading the infection. The less pimples are meddled with the better. Most not specialists should not touch them, as they help boils, to come to a head and drain.

Soap should be used freely because it is drying. Some skin specialists recommend the use of shaving soap, which finds out the rich lather that can be frictioned into the skin with the finger tips. One cannot be too particular about the bathtubs soiled rings are an abomination. Every individual member of the family should have his or her own bathtub.

If soap suds leave the skin surface feeling starched and stiff, it is because the cleansing has not been thorough. Use warm water, then cold. Coarse towels and rough washcloths are not desirable. To stimulate the blood streams tap the fresh healthy skin with finger tips and use cold water freely.

Don't be a perfectionist, lay off the make-up. Dust the skin surface with powdered boric acid, remove it before retiring, apply a light powder. Avoid rouge.

Tot And Use Of "Bad Words"

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

Writing of her boy five, a mother says: "About two years ago he seemed to develop a mania for using everything he shouldn't. His father and I were scolding and punishing all the time. The child became nervous and jumpy when he spoken to. We knew we had to change methods. Through the advice in your column, we made a list of just a few things that must be forbidden and just shut our eyes to the non-essentials. Then we praised more for the good things he accomplished. This worked wonders with Merle in time.

"Now we have another problem. Merle has a grandfather who swears often and Merle is beginning to form some unfortunate speech habits. At first we explained to him that our family don't talk that way and we just ignored it when he used a bad word thinking he would drop it if no one were there. This didn't work.

"Next I tried punishment. I made him sit on a chair 15 minutes every time he used a swear word. He will carry on an inane, inany conversation with himself, counting windows, count objects and otherwise amuse himself. If I ignore him, he will sit there. I have to enforce it with a stick and stand right over him. This is very trying to slap his mouth every time he says a bad word. This seems to help, but I have to overcame and once in a while be stutters. This is awful. Oh, if Mr. Myers know something else is wrong with punishment, I would be more than glad to try whatever plan you suggest. Enclosed is a stamped envelope."

Conscientious Effort

One must admire this mother for her conscientious effort to see that her child grows up right. I see it. This was my reply:

Inasmuch as my earlier program you and your husband planned is not working satisfactorily, I think you can have confidence that you will solve this problem.

The insight that as you have done, to sit in the chair each time he swears, is thirty minutes well henceforth. Don't be annoyed at his stammering. It is a temporary sentence. Even converse with him if he so desires; only he must serve out his time.

There is no occasion to stand over him with a stick. Tell him just once that if he should leave the chair before the time is up, you will spank him. Be sure you do the first time he leaves and every time thereafter. Then let you out and take a step or two and you will be compelled to shout and threat. But regardless of this do exactly what you have said you would do without a single exception.

You will get best results in any warranted punishment if you practice self-control and talk calmly with no show of feeling.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Many Parents Ignorant of Formalities Following Announcement of Engagement.

It's quite right for etiquette to demand that the parents of the bridegroom-to-be must within a twenty-four hours after their son has told them that he has been accepted by the girl of his choice, call on the bride-to-be and her parents.

This immediate and polite bow shows that they enthusiastically welcome the girl into their family. If they live in the same town as the bride-elect, they must go alone.

While most girls know that this is the truth, or sense that there must be some such rule, many parents of young men seem to have no idea that such a courtesy formality exists. So, unfortunately for all concerned, this social custom is ignored.

The girl's happiness is naturally not complete until she knows that her fiance give her this reassuring indication that they welcome her into their future intimate family circle. She maybe unhappy and humiliated at the omission of this call. As the days and weeks go by without a recognition of the engagement by her fiance's family the girl and her parents become more and more worried about what can be done to break the social deadlock.

Clouded wonderment, arise in their minds as to how they should interpret the apparent lack of the code of reconition of the engagement due to the parents' ignorance of the formalities involved. Does it mean that they disapprove of their son's choice? Do they believe that the girl is unworthy of their son? Or maybe the worst you're so rudely supplying?

people, or that, not being given to hospitality, they are somewhat self-centered. Such a call will soon lead to later social demands.

When it becomes completely apparent that the parents have failed to be made by the fiance's parents, the young man has been spending the week-ends with relatives there returned home with them.

Cancer of the Breast now Rapidly Being Conquered

During April, set aside as cancer control month by the medical associations, it is to be hoped that the information made available to the public will dispose of many of the harmful old ideas about cancer.

There was a time when cancer meant only one thing—death. I might go further and say "painful death". But that isn't so any longer. Today cancer is preventable and it is curable when treatment begins before the last stages. We can cut down the ravages of cancer only by preventing it before it has formed about it and enable doctors to detect the disease in the early stages.

For example, the number of cured cases of cancer of the breast has increased more than 30 per cent in the last 20 years. Practically every one of those cures was made possible because the victim submitted to the operation at a comparatively early stage. A quartet was then rendered by Madames P. B. Hall, H. R. Shaske, F. Fredenburg and E. C. Prentice. At the end of the address Mrs. Sills thanked the Marmova branch was heartily tendered upon motion of Mrs. Kenneth Bateman, the district secretary-treasurer. Cancer, and each of these types being conquered in a different drug.

Unfortunately, nearly every known type of cancer responds to the treatment when revised that was detected in the early stages. It is for this reason that cancer clinics have been opened all over United States and Canada. In the U.S., there were only 13 of these clinics in 1936. Four years later this number had grown to 158 and last fall there were 345. Their work must be credited for the large increase in the number of cured cases. As more such clinics open, and as more people become aware of what a cancer is, more can and will be done to cure it, the number of cures will increase proportionately.

One hospital in New York has a record of 200 cases of cured cancer of the breast. In this record show that in 1920 women were slow about coming for advice about lumps, bruises or ulcers. The average size of a tumor at first examination in those days was two and a half inches in diameter. Today the average lump is about the size of a pea or one half when the patient comes for first treatment. If more women would come in for examination immediately after they notice a lump in the breast, cancer in this organ would rapidly decline.

Breast cancer is by no means the only type that is being conquered. Twenty per cent of cancer of the tonsil was considered hopeless. Today 30 per cent of all cases are cured, and more certainly would be if doctors could get at them. Cancer of the tongue was once considered certainly fatal. Today 37 per cent of the cases are cured.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Prospective Husbands Seeking Advice on Attributes of Happy Marriage

In the morning's mail comes a letter from a young man who expects to be married in June and would like the arrangement to be permanent. Here's the line from his letter:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"My girl has finally consented to marry me, and as I want to make her happy and stay married, I'm coming to you for a few suggestions. What are you thinking the best way of avoiding those ugly jars, scenes, fusses that sometimes make family life a mess?"

Hail! And all success to the new school of husbands who feel they do not intuitively know all about women! This letter, as well as a couple of other I have had lately is a most hopeful sign of the times. Are men really beginning to question that nature has not positively endowed them with every qualification for being perfect husbands? Have they not always been an amateur's marathon for both sexes, but women have the humbler about their responsibilities than men.

No one really knows much about women, as every philosopher has affirmed, but certain rules to govern the every-day business of life can be established.

Why think, because a man or woman has paid you the compliment of marriage you think you can sulk or growl and show temper? Politeness in the home is more necessary than money in the bank, credit or social position. The ability "to look a million dollars" when you haven't five.

Let this husband-to-be has asked for suggestions, please let me say that most of the quarrels in married life come from philanderers. Men who were virtuous, who will start some sort of pickup flirtation with a girl in whom he has no interest, for excitement. He sees how cheap and tawdry the affair is, but he has got to prove to the world what a "devil with the women" he is. And then, maybe you know he's floundering to get free like a fly on fly-paper.

Lastly the greatest aid to a happy marriage is a sense of humor, the ability to see the funny side, to make merry over the things that go wrong.

'Comeback Year' In the Offing For Number Of Old Gaffers Shown Little Respect Last Year

Wesley Ferrell, 33-Year-Old Hurler, Already Has Won Two Starts

YANKS CLUB A'S

By JUDSON BAILEY

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

It is going to be another "comeback year" for a lot of old gaffers who were shown little respect for age or service in the big leagues last season.

The only pitcher in the big show who has scored two victories in the first week of the season is Wesley Ferrell, 33-year-old righthander who was counted out of the American League more than a year ago and couldn't make the grade in the National last season.

Boston Bees signed him up-during the winter and he looks as though he will stick around awhile, if only to mess against the Phillies. He received credit for a victory over them last Thursday by pitching three shutout innings in relief.

Yesterday he went the route against the tail-enders, clouting but five hits in an 8-1 triumph. Joe Marty, first batter of the game, is a home run for the Bees this year by Philadelphia.

Mel Ott, who has spent exactly half of his 32 years playing with New York Giants, was suspected of tottering on aging legs last summer. His legs weren't bad, too, some folks said, and he tried wearing spectacles at the plate.

Already has Hit Four Homers

But he has hit four home runs—tying with Joe DiMaggio and Bill Doerr for the major league lead—and he has started his Giants to six victories in seven games to keep them tied for the National League heap.

His fourth home game during yesterday's 7-3 triumph over Brooklyn Dodgers before a big Monday turnout of 34,910 at Polo Grounds.

Mel Harder, Lefty Gomez and Cy Blanton are among the other veterans who already have shown signs of making comebacks. this season.

The rush of Boston Red Sox finally was stopped at Washington yesterday by the lowly Senators, who burst out with four runs in the seventh inning and staggered to a 6-5 victory. Cecil Travis accounted for four hits, one a double and two singles. The Sox had won five straight previously.

New York Yankees made hash out of Cleveland Indians again last night with a 17-hit bombardment that brought a 14-4 victory.

Rain and cold weather dispoled of the contests scheduled for the western clubs.

Howell, a big fellow weighing over 200 pounds, batted .362 for the Orioles last season. He also hit 24 home runs.

Howell began his pro career in 1938. He has played for Carrollton, Greenville, Hartford, Trenton, Tulsa, Los Angeles, Birmingham and Baltimore.

WINNIPEG WINS FIRST GAME FROM MONTREAL JRS.

Score 4-2 Victory With Fabro Tallying Two and Robinson Petting Four Points

PLAY THURSDAY

By ROBERT CLARKE

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 22 (CP)—Winnipeg Rangers feel that they won't need a road map to find their way along the Memorial Cup road, although they are ready to concede that from now on the journey is apt to become a lot bruntier.

Rangers covered the first stage of the trip here last night by defeating Montreal Royals 4-2 before 4,500 fans in the opening game of their best-of-five game series for the National Junior hockey title. Second game will be played in Montreal Thursday night and the third contest is scheduled for Toronto Saturday night.

The Winnipeg crew showed good all-round strength as they came from behind to defeat the Montrealers. Each team scored twice in the opening period, with Royals getting the jump each time, and then Rangers came through with a big rally in the final session.

Two of the Winnipeg goals went to Sam Fabro, who insisted after the game that he isn't supposed to be a goalgetter, but merely a backchecker, while the others were scored by Bill Robinson and Les Hickey. Rosh Royals counters went to Bobby Carnaghe, who played such a prominent part, when the Montrealers defeated Oshawa Generals in the O.H.A. series.

After the game players of both teams agreed that the ice had been a bruising affair. Coach Larry Digby Norquest or Rangers said that Royals were a "headed" club than the teams which Rangers had eliminated in winning western title.

Northcott said that Royals probably would be tougher in the second game when they will be reinforced by the return of three players—Goalie Ross Ritchie, defenceman Bruce and forward Grant Morrison—who missed the opening encounter because they had to write college examinations in Montreal.

Coach Lorne Wilson of Royals wasn't too worried about the loss. "We should be able to even it up in the second game with Ritchie, Morrison and Ward back in the line-up again. Our defence was well go ahead in the third game," he said.

FINE DOUBLE SCORE

Toronto, April 22—(CP)—Mr. and Mrs. A. Miller of Toronto won the double prize crown in the Canadian Bowling Association's five-pin tournament here last night, scattering the pins for a total of 1,276. Mrs. Miller contributed scores of 221-297-293 for a total of 810 and Mr. Miller scored 221-245-300 for 767-252-312 to garner 791. The Millers also shared the highest three-man the present top score in the men's doubles event.

SIMPSON GRADS WIN EAST TITLE IN BASKETBALL

Defeat Montreal Rocklands 46-37 in Second Game of Series

TO GO WEST

By WILF GRUSON

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 22—(CP) — Officials of Simpson Grads of Toronto today made an eleventh-hour attempt to find some means that would enable one of their key players to make the trip to Vancouver for the Dominion Senior Basketball Championship with the western title-holders, Vancouver Thunderbirds of the University of British Columbia.

Grads qualified for the Canadian title series here last night, whipping their second opponent in as many nights, scattering the pins for a total of 46-37 to defeat Montreal Rocklands by scores of 221-297-293 for a total of 810 and Mr. Miller contributed scores of 221-245-300 for 767-252-312 to garner 791. The Millers also shared the highest three-man the present top score in the men's doubles event.

Grads will leave tomorrow night for the west and, unless last-minute arrangements can be made so that Harold Axon can take his examinations after the final series, they will be forced to leave the University of Toronto student behind.

Axon has been one of the leading stars in Grads' march to the eastern title, along with Bill Breadon and Shag Park.

Last night Grads were stopped only for the first ten minutes in which Rocklands outplayed them, coming from behind three times to tie the score. However, the Toronto team broke loose with a brilliant shooting display after the midway mark of the first half to run up a total that the Quebec champions were unable to overcome.

Don Bloomfield of the Montreals shared the scoring laurels with Breadon with 13 points each.

GOOD PITCHING IN INT. LEAGUE

Starting Pitcher in 20 Games Has Gone the Route

(By The Associated Press)

One plausible explanation for the right arm in the International League—four clubs tied for first place with three victories and two losses and the other four tied for the cellar—is the good pitching.

Of the 40-starting pitchers in 20 games, 18 have gone the full route; only two were lifted in shutouts.

Perhaps the outstanding feat was a two-hitter which Dick Fowler, Toronto rookie, chalked up against Baltimore a few days ago. The youngster had a no-hit game in hand up to the last inning.

Another rookie, Mel Queen of Newark, wasn't far behind yesterday when he pitched the Bears to a four-hit, 8-1 triumph over Rochester Red Wings. Queen held the Wings hitless the first five innings and had a two-hit shutout going into the ninth.

Montreal and Jersey City, played yesterday's only other game and the Royals called upon Wes Flowers and Pep Ramsdell for a 7-3 victory over the Little Giants.

SYDNEY SWAMPS REGINA RANGERS IN SECOND GAME

Millionaires Only One Game Away From Senior Hockey Title for Canada

SCORE IS 8-3

By LORNE BRUCK

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Regina, April 22—(CP)—Two hockey teams had double duty when Sydney Millionaires duplicating the record of the Toronto Maple Leaf Blue Devils with a three-straight victory in the Allan Cup finals.

Millionaires, an all-star aggregation of fast-skating opportunists, overwhelmed the young Regina Rangers 8-3 here last night and dulled the hopes of those who still liked Rangers after Sydney's 8-6 win in the first game at Calgary Saturday.

The third game of the best-of-five series will be played at Saskatoon tomorrow and the eastern Canada champions are odds-on favorites to emerge with the championship. Senior Canadian title will go three straight with the Allan Cup. Lake of the Woods captured Stanley Cup.

Last night the crowd of close to 7,000 saw both teams play cautiously in the first period and Rangers held Sydney to one goal. After the western champions rallied numerous scoring chances in the second period, Sydney scored two. They opened up in the third only to have Millionaires swamp them.

Steve Latoski, Johnny McCreedy and Grant Hall are former Winnipeg players each shot two goals for the winners.

Other Sydney goal snipers were George Dent, Ike Hall a graduate from the University of Manitoba team, and Bobby Watson.

Garth Bush, Stan Blandon and Johnny Kennedy scored for Regina.

Ken I. Colling

Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, whose Gallahadion captured the world and Bimelech, the favorite, in last year's Kentucky Derby rounded out one of a dozen women who may have a starter in this year's Derby, Col. Edward R. Bradley, whose horses have more Derby wins than any other owner, has clicked twice straight.

Until 1940, the Derby had been strictly a "man's" possession. Then on the 41st running of America's No. 1 turf event, came a tradition-shattering happening.

A colt whose owner was a woman and whose breeder also was a woman won the Churchill Downs classic. That was the year Eleven, 15-1 shot, owned by Mrs. C. E. Durnell, came home first. Mrs. J. B. Prather was the breeder.

In the 36 Derby renewals since 1904 five women have owned winners and three have been listed as breeders of Derby champions. No woman so far has trained a Derby winner. Mrs. Mars' husband Max Hirsch—has tried.

Two of the champions owned by women established Derby records. Mrs. Mars' Gallahadion won the Grand ran the fastest time for the mile and a quarter classic, 2:01 4-5. And Mars' Gallahadion was the first to win a $75,000 added Derby. The winner has been added $60,000 added for the three prior running.

Other women owning Derby winners are Mrs. M. Rosie (Black Gold in 1924), Mrs. J. D. Hertz (Reigh Count in 1928) and Mrs. Dodge Sloane (Cavalcade in 1934).

Four owners of Derby winners of the past decade nominated horses for this year's event and two are women. They are Mrs. Mars and Mrs. Whitney. Mrs. Whitney Woodward, New York banker, and Herbert Woolf, Kansas City oilfielder, round out the quartet.

Whether any of their thoroughbreds get to the post on May 3 remains to be determined.

Mrs. Whitney, a New Yorker who owns a beautiful horse farm in the Kingston, has two fine candidates—Devil and Sway, The Rhymer (he finished third in the Flamingo Stakes) and Mondoo Lench.

Other women who possibly may have a starter when the field sets off on its momentous journey for a Saturday afternoon in May (with their nominees):

Mrs. S. T. Baxter (Isabel), Vera S. Bragg (Thomas Governor), Ruth W. Collins (Orlesa, Mrs. Parker Corning (Attention), Mrs. J. D. Furman (Don Cirlas), Mrs. A. Waller M. Jeffords (Stiller King), Mrs. E. Graham Lewis (Magnificent), Mrs. Felix Riesenberg (Bull Reigh) and Mrs. F. J. Navin (Quintilla).

The 12th woman nominator is Mrs. H. P. Phipps who is given more than an outside chance in the early six-up of owning a Derby winner. Bold Irishman is one of the topranking prospects. She also nominated Irish Day.

In 1915 a filly—Regret—won the Derby. She was the first of her sex to turn the trick and so far the only one, although several Derby colts have been tried.

With the failure of fillies to repeat Regret's performance, the public surprised the turf world and Bimelech, the favorite, in last year's Kentucky Derby rounded out one of a dozen women who may have a starter in this year's Derby, Col. Edward R. Bradley, whose horses have more Derby wins than any other owner, has clicked twice straight.

Despite the absence of four of their better class players, the Montreal Royals made the Winnipeg Rangers "all sore" before the Westerners took the initial Memorial Cup game last night. The Royals should just about be favorites to win the second game that is to be played at Montreal on Thursday night when the Quebec entry will be at full strength. Ensign, Ritchie and Bruce, Gladden the "Bluenosers'" hearts. Last night Sydney piled up an 8 to 3 score after getting just about prove the superiority of the east.

Chain Of Naval And Air Bases Defend Western Hemisphere

Naval war hawks spread their protecting wings over the U.S.S. Portland, a fast cruiser, ABOVE. Map shows new bases leased in the Caribbean area and the Atlantic, sentinels for the Panama Canal and the east coast of South America.

By DON GLASSMAN

(Written exclusively for The Ontario Intelligencer and Central Press Canada)

New York, April 12.—The major hemisphere defence strategy of the United States hinges on a far-flung chain of land, sea and air bases covering more than half the globe's surface.

The acquisition of strategic bases is a cardinal principle for any large-scale defensive operation. But it is just as important for the United States to prevent a potential foreign aggressor nation from acquiring bases in the zone of vital interest which, roughly, extends 300 miles around the two continents.

The recent acquisition of eight land, sea and air bases from England in return for 50 over-age destroyers was widely approved because the new sites make the Atlantic approaches to the Panama Canal virtually impregnable, and also because the Caribbean constitutes the geographic heart of the hemisphere and the logical region for aggressive action.

The United States is losing no time in fortifying the new sites in Newfoundland, Bermuda, British Guiana, Jamaica, Trinidad, Antigua, St. Lucia and Mayaguano.

Navy Spends $60,000,000.

Probably as much as $60,000,000 will be spent on naval facilities alone. The United States army plans to spend another $100,000,000 on fortifications and other construction at six bases: Bermuda, Newfoundland, British Guiana, Trinidad, Antigua and St. Lucia.

Engineers, surveyors and architects are working on the sites, and in several places construction is under way. A transport load of troops per week currently occupies the Newfoundland base and more will follow as soon as housing accommodations are available. A small U.S. marine contingent also has landed in Bermuda.

Under the army program, the naval, air and ship facilities at the new bases will be ready for use by the end of 1941.

The elaborate army construction program calls for $19,000,000 at Bermuda; $22,400,000 at Newfoundland; $2,000,000 at St. Lucia, in the British West Indies; $2,800,000 at Antigua, British West Indies, and $41,000,000 at Trinidad. The latter will be a mighty defence fortress.

The Agreement.

The terms of the British agreement on Bermuda provide that, "if necessary for the protection or safeguarding of the American base there the United States has the right to assume military control and conduct military operations within any part of Bermuda." The Bermuda agreement is similar to agreements covering the other sites.

The total land required for the eight bases is 63,772 acres, of which 51,340 are reserved for the U.S. army and 12,392 acres for the navy.

While giving vigorous attention to the preparation of British bases, the United States is not neglecting its system of outlying military stations in the Atlantic and Pacific.

Recently, the Congress authorized $4,700,000 for fortifications at Guam, a spec of land 1,500 miles from Manila.

Anchorage, Alaska, has become one of the major Pacific air bases within a few months. Air corps units, infantry and artillery have been detailed to Fort Richardson, whose garrison numbers several thousand men. General Buckner, commanding officer of the U.S. army in Alaska, makes his headquarters here also.

Three hundred miles inland, at Ladd Field, near Fairbanks, the army has built a cold-weather base where officers and enlisted men are experimenting with flying under Arctic conditions.

While the navy protects the 26,000 mile Alaska coastline, the army's duty is to protect Alaska's 586,000 square miles. Not to be outdone, the navy is constructing two modern bases, one at Kodiak Island and the other at Unalaska but no details are forthcoming, save that the navy expects to build a "Pearl Harbor" in the north.

President Arnulfo Arias, of Panama, announced recently in a manifesto signed by all the state ministers that Panama had agreed to lease certain areas outside the Canal zone for United States military bases. Panama will be compensated and will also retain jurisdiction over the sites, some of which are in the dense jungle. The United States has agreed to abandon these temporary bases after the European war.

Other Bases.

Another $2,100,000 will be spent on air base at Tutuila, Samoa, 4,785 miles from San Francisco. Another $35,000,000 will be spent on a huge modern naval base at Vieques, Puerto Rico, for Panama Canal defence.

Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, the "Gibraltar of the East", holds a most strategic position in the Pacific. It is conveniently situated in reference to the Panama Canal and west coast of the United States and the navy has built huge-capacity underground fuel storage tanks ample for the combined floating and flying fleets.

Besides Samoa, Pearl Harbor and Guam, other United States Pacific Ocean bases are at Canton Island, Johnston Island, Midway Island, Wake Island, Cattle in the Philippines and Dutch Harbor, in Alaskan waters.

On the Pacific coast are Kodiak and Sitka, both in Alaska; Puget Sound, San Francisco and most vital of all, the Panama Canal base, More than 150,000,000 have been appropriated for improving Alaskan bases. The Western Coast.

In the opinion of Brigadier General George V. Strong, assistant chief of staff, United States army, "The western coast of South America, with the exception of the Galapagos Islands a thousand miles from the Pacific entrance to the canal, does not offer a great threat to the United States except in the event one or more of the American republics is occupied and dominated by a hostile power.

"From a military standpoint, in many respects, the island of Trinidad is one of our most important bases. It not only covers the southeastern approaches to the Caribbean Sea but possesses extraordinarily favorable features in the scheme of strategic defence."

Initially, at least, the territorial protection of any American republic lies primarily in the hands of that country's own armed forces, according to General Strong. And, he adds, that a determined aggressor may seize bases from an American republic, in which case it becomes incumbent on the United States to rush all possible aid to its friendly neighbor.

"This," he concludes, "is not a high-minded Utopian proposition but a stark realistic necessity, because the establishment of such a base in any region is to the United States as to the country whose territory is invaded."

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system to cause backaches, headaches, dizziness, leg pains, burning and scanty flow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for over forty years the favorite remedy. 103

OFFICERS BELIEVE G NAZI FUGITIVES IN TWO GROUPS

Location Of Larger Group Of Four Known To Police

RING OF SEARCHERS

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Heron Bay, Ont., April 22 (CP)—Soldiers stalking the snow-laden bushland in search of two German prisoners still at large after a break from a northwestern Ontario internment camp, concentrated on a new hunt today in an area 20 miles south of Heron Bay station.

Already 20 of the 28 non-commissioned officers of the German air force who tunnelled their way out of prison early Saturday have been returned to captivity, but a more died of gunshot wounds as they were resisting arrest.

2 Fugitives in 3 Groups

The remaining Germans are believed to be travelling in two groups. Guards say that the approximate location of the larger group of four is known. The other two are also believed to be in the area now being tracked by their hunters not been seen for four days.

The larger group is believed to be supplied with arms, skis, at least one axe, knives and compasses — all materials which helped them in their journey by raft across the brimming Pic River, a few miles north of here.

Raft Floated to Mouth of the Pic

One raft was floated to the mouth of the Pic, less than a mile from the camp, and three others have been reported to have been found upstream. They are said to be crafts made of pulpwood logs about eight feet long and lashed together with wire and wire and a few nails. The logs were trimmed with an axe.

The Nazis also had compasses seen to be standard equipment with the Germans who escaped previously. The men who have made some of the journey, the latter by compass alone from table knives stolen from the prison camp commissary, and the compasses were home-made.

Compasses Prison-Made

A soldier guardedly displayed one of the prison-made compasses while interrogating a prisoner from one patrol point to another yesterday. He said it was a crude affair but he captured Sunday.

The compass was fashioned from soft wood, with a cellophane cover which could be slid on and off. Two brass points were carved on white paper stuck on the bottom of the box, and the needle was a thin blue metal of a razor blade.

Although there was a definite manner of testing its accuracy at this line, the soldier declined to say any other compass and was at least approximately correct.

Three Give Slip Before Up

Across from the station at Heron Bay is the hotel where three men gave themselves up to the hotelkeeper, Mrs. Lawrence Mann, midnight Sunday night. Helmets said they asked if, for policemen, for soldiers!

They were not hungry for they had plenty of food in their packs made knapsacks. Apparently they had been living on it since making the ring of searchers around the area, and they surrendered rather than risk the rigors of another night in the snow and the cold.

All Trains Searched

All trains through this area are searched, with soldiers riding the coaches with rifles at the ready. Every flagstop has a party of men who patrol the area in the periods immediately before and after the arrival of a train. For if any, of the searchers have been lost since they began their vigil early Saturday morning.

Train patrols are maintained rigidly throughout the night but it is believed that most of the escaped men have been able to rest the day. Last night was clear, but there was a heavy fall of snow and the flickering flashlight of a soldier on patrol.

Special Burial Ground For Nazis

Early today there had been no word from the prison camp where two of the recaptured prisoners are being treated for the wounds they suffered while resisting capture Sunday. The date of the funeral of the other two who were fatally hit has not been announced but it is believed that it will be today.

A special burial ground will be marked out near the site of the internment camp from which they escaped.

TWEED-YARKER LINE IS CLOSED

Board of Transport Commissioners States Not Sufficient Traffic to Keep Road Open

Ottawa, April 22 —(CP)— Application by Canadian National Railways to abandon operation of the Tweed subdivision between Yarker and Tweed, Ont., was granted in a judgment of the Board of Transport commissioners made public last night. The decision to grant abandonation is 33.94 miles long.

The judgment said that there "is not now sufficient traffic . . . to warrant the continuance of the service in face of the operating losses to the railway."

The railway application was heard at Napanee, Ont., Oct. 24, 1940.

Residents of the area served by the line made no objections to the proposed abandonment, the judgment said, but existence of nearby railway facilities and roads "make the retaliated losses to the railway somewhat less and its convenience to the public consequent upon abandonment."

NEW LINE MANNED

Some strategists hold that it is highly unlikely that Germany will army can invade lower Greece.

Reason Behind Attack

The Allies reached their new positions with their line intact despite the attack by the German Army Stuka assaults.

The British Air Command said the total of German planes shot down in the Greek campaign was 22, as against seven for the R.A.F.

Outnumbered during a series of heavy attacks on Greek and British airdromes, ports and roads," a communique said, "hurricanes drove the hateful Messerschmitts back time and again."

Many dive-bombers and fighters of the German Air Force perished in machine-gunning civilians in the streets and roads in their attempt to up to the R.A.F. fighters.

Fierce counter attacks by British and Greek rear guard forces on the mountain line and fighting on the conrush of Axis forces while the new line was manned, preventing the Germans from using the main defence forces from being outflanked.

Three Penetrations

An Athens military correspondent with the British forces on the Greek mainland, in a wire to the dispatch last night the withdrawal of the Australian troops by three Nazi penetrations of the old defence line, through Grevena Pass, south of Servia, and along the coast east of Mt. Olympus—which mile Nazi armoured columns pouring southward onto the Plains of Thessaly, Greece.

The Greek withdrawal farther south carried with it the Australian contact, was reported completed by a British military correspondent today which said "the withdrawal of British troops to new positions of resistance has been fully successful."

A Greek spokesman indicated the new line already had withstood attacks by German troops.

Fighting Slow Retreat Claim

The British correspondent correspondent, who reached neutral Salonika, Greece, by train across the Aegian Sea from Greece, reported that Australian troops and Germans were held off by a stiff rear guard fight, there seemed small chance for the escape of Australian and New Zealand reinforcements from the Greek peninsula.

It was declared the British, whose force he placed at 50,000 to 80,000, had established a defensive position the southernmost embankment point of Greece, and were using the dispatch added, is covering the British flank in the withdrawal.

Both Allied forces reported undergoing heavy and repeated attacks from the air. Nazi dive-bomber Axis bombers ranged south of the battle front to bomb and strafe the communities near Athens.

The capital of Greece, was said to have been attacked many times during the day. A 24-hour curfew was imposed in Athens, requiring the people to be off streets from 9 p.m. to 7 a. m. except by special permit.

In Messolongion harbor, a communique said, German aircraft early today "ruthlessly machine-gunned with doctors and nurses among the inhabitants. Many were killed, also aboard the hospital ship Hellenis, which was flying the Red Cross flag."

Bombs Dropped

Nazi patrols are maintained rigidly throughout the night but it is believed that most of the escaped men have been able to rest the day. Last night was clear, but there was a heavy fall of snow and the flickering flashlight of a soldier on

GERMAN RAIDERS

In the attack last night on Plymouth, Nazi raiders swept through an anti-aircraft barrage so intense it could be seen 40 miles away, and dropped loads of fire and explosive bombs. Casualties were feared heavy.

Fires Under Control

The government said the fires were under control before dawn, and its reports indicated that "although previous attacks on war-important objectives in England."

Overnight the relief alert, but no bombs fell. Some explosives were dropped in East Anglia district, however, causing damage to a small number of persons killed.

The Plymouth attack, which started when waves of Nazi planes appeared over the city in the early hours, lull before midnight, then the attack started again. Hundreds of incendiaries and bombs and high explosives were dropped.

HOUSES PUT UP

The houses would be built at the lowest possible cost consistent with health and comfort, the statement of explanation said.

Salvage Value Considered

"They would be designed to provide adequate housing and salvage value after the war and to this end they would probably be demountable and not necessarily built together.

"We intend to standardize on two or three types," the statement said. "There will probably be two plans for a four-bedroom house, two plans for a three-bedroom house and plan for a four-bedroom house.

"We will not build palatial apartment houses, for 90 unattached men."

Tenders for the houses would be accepted and it was hoped the large general contractors would undertake the work through the services of their organizations available.

Mass Production

In order that the required results mass production methods would be employed. The aim, the statement said, to be built the whole project would probably be handled by one contractor. The work would consist of different contractors each building a unit.

When the necessity of a building programme was explained to the council of the municipality in January, the board of public spirited citizens and would go up to advise on the selection of sites and the housing.

The company wanted to feel its of fuel to be used in the houses and be the erection of staff houses for the construction crew. The municipality was clear would family houses be built.

NUMBER OF POLLS	 600
Available Land	. . . .

If government property was available it would be used. If not the municipality would buy it from the property and if this was not possible land would be leased.

The company would keep out of the way of builders of permanent houses, and would not compete with them.

While the government paid no taxes it was prepared to pay for services rendered and the company would make a reasonable allowance for the additional cost for expenditures made by them in providing services for the housing projects.

In fixing rents the council would be had for local rent structures. It is hoped that the first houses and projects as a bonus to workers in war industries would be ready in June.

The rent would be fixed at a figure which would pay the cost in rent in ten years, allowing for a depreciation of 2½ per cent at the end of that period. This would mean that a three-bedroom house would rent for $1.50 to $1.60 and the cost of the four-bedroom house about $1.80.

County To Spend $97,000 On Road Maintenance And Construction

Total appropriation for maintenance and construction on the Roads and Bridges System of the county of Hastings, amounting to approximately $97,000, is recommended by the Roads Committee for this year, has been approved by the Ontario Department of Highways, county officials announced today.

For the past two or three years, recommended appropriations have been reduced by a substantial amount before being approved by the department. This necessarily meant the curtailment of construction of new roads although maintenance of existing roads was kept up to all funds would allow.

The estimate of the 1941 appropriation will in all probability allow the Roads and Bridges Committee to carry on such work as has been postponed during the past two or three years due to lack of funds.

THE WAR TODAY

By DON GILBERT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sentiment in favor of a sterner Nazi policy toward Spain and whose government pursue a policy of dubious "collaboration" with Britain's enemies is rising in both the British Empire and the United States.

Vichy France, which is the Soviet Union are three countries to which British and American policy has paid court over long periods. And for all their protestations of friendship the Franco press today is saying that concessions has been renewed.

U. S. Talks Tough

As to Russia, the United States is taking the lead in cooling off. Now the British press is demanding that Vichy be told to stop supplying Germany with war materials and to its efforts for peace in the Far East. Some newspapers are urging that more restrictions be placed on Soviet purchases of machinery and other war-making equipment that Russia is unable to manufacture herself.

The general position of those favoring a tougher policy toward so-called neutrals which play the Nazi game is that British and American efforts to win understanding and support by treating them with consideration have been rebuffed, causing the Allied war effort greater difficulties and prolonging hostilities would have created.

Roosevelt Orders Soft Coal Mines To Be Reopened 'Immediately'

Washington, April 22 (AP)—President Roosevelt put the miners and soft coal operators of the United States on a soft coal industry on notice today to re-open the mines "immediately" in the interest of national defense demands it and the public interest is paramount.

The President pointed out that coal supplies are dwindling for vital defence industries, and said it is "imperative" there be no shortage of fuel to keep the nation's economy rolling.

Mr. Roosevelt issued his personal summons for re-opening of the idle mines in a statement issued at noon. The White House call brought no immediate reaction from officials of the miners union or the representative of mine operators.

Meanwhile, it was directed to the Appalachian coal producers and the Bituminous Coal Consumers Associations' United Mine Workers, urging that they agree to the reopening of their fellow countrymen above any other interest and immediately begin negotiations on a contract toward the re-opening of the mines.

Mr. Roosevelt declared that the Union had agreed on a new two-year contract with the operators in the three Appalachian producers but not the southern operators, suggesting that negotiations be made.

"I. The miners and operators already in agreement resume production under the terms of that agreement.

"2. The operators, and miners who have not yet reached an agreement, enter into negotiations and at the same time re-open the mines and that immediately reached to be made retroactive to the date of resumption of work."

Would Reopen Negotiations

Washington (AP)—The CIO and Southern coal operators, acting at the request of the White House, agreed tonight to reopen in New York and reopen negotiations with the United Mine Workers for a contract which would permit resumption of coal production in the Appalachian area bituminous fields.

The decision was announced after a conference at which leaders of southern operators had conferred with officials, and their action Administrator Philip Murray, General E. M. Watkins, Labor-secretary.

As spokesman for the committee, T. T. Putman, of Beckley, W. Va., said the negotiations would be held between southern operators and union officials, and that northern operators would not participate.

There was no decision to reopen mines while negotiations are under way.

Reluctance of southern operators to give up a wage differential has been the principal factor preventing a complete agreement between the operators and the miners union and a renewing of idle soft coal mines. Northern operators have reached an agreement with the union.

ISSUES OF DAY DISCUSSED BY JAMIESON BONE

Tells Kinsmen Future of Dominion Lies in Practice of Golden Rule

TARIFFS CRITICIZED

Contending that the future lies within the grasp of our governments and the individual to put into full force and virtue the precepts of the Golden Rule, Jamieson Bone, Vice-President of the Ontario Property Owners' Association, spoke to the Belleville Kinsmen Club at the New Queen's Hotel Monday evening.

In his opening remarks Mr. Bone referred to Canadians as "brokenbirdspers" and said "we believed in living for the day and in getting rich quick. We take every last fish from the waters, the timber from the land and goodness from the land of opportunity without replenishment, but now our chickens have come home to roost, or I might better say, we have been hatching for the past ten years," stated the speaker as he made reference to the decline in the price of wheat, which blame he placed wholly upon the shoulders of government heads and the lack of Canadian banking systems.

"In the reckless 20's there were heard the words that were the effect that panics and periods of depression were a thing of the past. The greatest banking fiasco of all time followed that period. On this count it would appear that the bankers and the public each took the blame. The men with whom shock this continent has not recovered held that it was made in reference to the rapid recovery made under the banking system of Britain which reached the greatest prosperity in all its history.

"We used to laugh at the Englishman having degenerated to the 'Dole', but anything more doleful than our government's 'passing the relief hand' would be hard to imagine," he said.

Speaker Asks Question

"What are the reasons for all this disaster in a great fertile country such as ours? Besides despoiling of natural resources already mentioned there are a number of other reasons, and they nearly all hinge on a gradual lowering of our moral standards," continued the speaker as he continued with questions.

"Why are our moral standards disintegrating?"

"Because of a lack of faith in Christian teachings."

"Why is there such a lack of faith in Christian teachings?"

"Simply because our churches have not kept abreast of the time," continued Mr. Bone.

"It may sound strange to some but I tell you plainly that most of our troubles today have been caused by our own thoughts and deeds. We have continually avoided responsibility by 'letting George do it', when we all know very well there is no such person. We value the franchise at little as allow any one over 21 to vote, of which 25% refuse to record their vote, 50% are voting for their jobs, for money, for contracts or for special favors but not for the good of the country as a whole. Many people, including the churches, stand dumbly by and never raise a voice of protest against some of the most unfair, un-Christian and unjust legislation passed by members of parliament who haven't a nickel to lose themselves. The thrifty are penalized and the lazy is encouraged for its own natural corollary is disaster," suggested Mr. Bone.

System of Tariffs Criticized

Mr. Bone criticized the system of tariffs and immigration laws, that keep out merchants and all genius, who might help to develop this vast country. "We tell the worker we are out for his good but we do everything possible to ruin his employer, the small manufacturer and the man with money to loan. We require money to develop this country and we also intend to scrutify the owner of the money at the opportunity," added the speaker as he made reference to the sacrifices made by industry in years of depression, a sacrifice that industry cannot hope to recover under present government legislation.

Mr. Bone urged that governments should lead public opinion instead of following the demands of purchasers of voters, that the people should realize that when legislation does not make disaster for all, that "they should realize that we are our best friends keeper, and actually adopt the Golden Rule."

A vote of thanks was introduced by Kin. Jeff Marvell and tendered the thanks of the club by Kin. Dave Arnott and President Gardiner Duff, who announced that the Belleville Kinsmen Club would make an inter-club visit to the Marmora Kinsmen on Thursday night. Kin. Harry Knott acted as song leader and Kin. Ian Pelchie as sergeant-at-arms. Kin. Johnnie Bean, chairman of the Club's annual Easter Monday dance, reported the venture had enriched the club upwards of $85.00, the money to be used in connection with the club's current activities.

President Duff again reminded the members of the fact that the Kinsmen Clubs of Canada had pledged themselves to supply magazines and reading matter to Canada's herbaceous marine and urged all members to assist in the procuring of magazines for the citizens of Belleville of this great need and inform all that the Belleville Kinsmen have a depot for the collection of old magazines, which in turn will be delivered directly to Canada's merchant marine," reminded the club president in closing.

"HOPE DIAMOND" OWNER DIES

Duke of Newcastle Owns 35,600 Acres in Estate in Surrey

Dorking, Surrey, April 22 (CP)—Henry Francis Hope Pelham-Clinton-Hope, Eighth Duke of Newcastle, Earl of Lincoln and owner of the famous "Hope diamond," died here yesterday.

He owned vast estates, 35,600 acres in all, but he was his ownership of Arundel Castle, which provided widest publicity.

The jewel is supposed to bring misfortune to its possessors but the Duke of Newcastle disputed this.

"The Hope diamond never has been any tradition of ill-luck about it," he once said. "We only used it for the best part of a century and never had any reason to believe in the curse."

His only son, the Earl of Lincoln, succeeds to the Dukedom.

FIRE DESTROYS PAPER MILL

Gatineau Hills, Que., April 22 — (CP)—Fire of unknown origin swept through a storage shed of the Canadian International Paper Company here late yesterday, causing about $50,000 damage to 1,000,000 feet of pulp wood and a quantity of machine parts.

Non-Starvation Technique Found Best In Treating Stomach Ulcers

By FRANK E. CAREY

Boston, April 22 (AP)—Eating instead of the usual "starvation" method was recommended last night as a new and better treatment for bleeding ulcers of the stomach.

Dr. T. Grier Miller of the University of Pennsylvania told the American College of Physicians that in various studies a 67 per cent reduction in the death rate from the ailment had been effected by "non-starvation" as opposed by "the better-known starvation program."

"The reduction in the death rate, on the average from 1 to 3 per cent," he said, "is comparable to that in pneumonia from sulfonamides, though it has not been brought about by the elaboration of a new drug, by the discovery of the cause, or by the use of any special diet.

"It has resulted simply from adequate feeding, together with the administration of reasonable quantities of fluid, begun as soon as the patient comes under observation, even in the midst of the hemorrhage."

Other doctors at the meeting who said they had tried the "non-starvation" technique and found it saved mashed potatoes had been given promptly to patients with good results.

It was admitted that the subject of treating ulcers was a highly controversial.

Up to date, the treatment of choice has been an extremely restricted diet as distinguished from the treatment of bleeding ulcers in which a milk diet is indicated

Dr. Miller said the principals involved in the "non-starvation" method was based on three factors generally accepted by doctors:

That the empty stomach is highly active, that free hydro-chloric acid in the stomach interferes with ulcer healing, and that shock is induced and maintained by a lack of body fluids.

TWO CHILDREN DROWNED IN QUE.

Swept Into Swollen Waters of River When Horse and Buggy Leave Road

St. Joseph De Kamouraska, Que., April 22 (CP)—Two teen-aged children were believed to have drowned near here late yesterday when the horse and buggy in which Adrien Ouellet of this town was driving them left the road while crossing on the Riviere Du Loup, hurling all into the swollen waters.

The children, unseen since their bodies were carried away by the swift moving river, are Roland Cloutier, 14, and 13-year-old Marie Anne Ouellet, daughter of the driver.

All of this town 30 miles southwest of Riviere Du Loup on the south shore of the St. Lawrence, the trio was plunged into sprite flooded river after Ouellet's horse strayed from the road while wading through four feet of overflow water at an approach to the bridge, and toppled the carriage into the river. Ouellet clung to the partly submerged carriage but his daughter and young Cloutier were swept away. After leading the horse from the water, Ouellet started a fruitless search for the children's bodies. Townsfolk joined him soon after but no trace of the bodies had been found several hours later.

Manning Pools Are High Mark Of Organizing

Thousands of Air Force Men Get First Lessons at Depots in Toronto, Brandon and Quebec City

By LEO MacGILLIVRAY

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 22.—(CP)—An integral part of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan are the Manning Depots, Toronto, Brandon and Quebec City, where the future pilots, observers, air gunners and mechanics receive their first contact with the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Here in Toronto, in a huge building of the Canadian National Exhibition once devoted to livestock shows, thousands of young men pass through the depot each month. Arriving fresh from surrounding states, across the country they receive their air force clothing, they are inoculated and, of more importance as anything else, they learn their first lessons in air force discipline. The average stay for a man at a Manning Depot is five days.

The personnel of No. 1 Manning Depot here, both in administrative staff and instructors, is as varied and cosmopolitan as one will find in any of the R.C.A.F. training units. Wing Commander G. N. Irwin is officer commanding, the depot in command is Sqdn. Ldr. Gerry Nash, one of the Canadian aces of the Royal Flying Corps in the last Great War. He served with the famous Golden Hawks in a leading bag to his credit before he was captured and imprisoned by the Huns.

Flt. Lt. Sterling C. Campbell is third in command, a sort of personnel manager, a post which called for a contract with a Hollywood studio before he was a fashionable director of aviation films to join the R.C.A.F. at the start.

Mass Messing

A tour of the depot, one can take all day, takes in dormitories, messing halls and kitchens. With a staff of less than 100 the business of administration, and of feeding hungry young men at each meal is a huge undertaking.

The meals, by the way, are the pride of the depot. Good food—and served from a huge vat— and found it good. The average menu consists of meat, potatoes, and other vegetable, gravy, dessert, tea, coffee, butter, cheese and apples. And the boys can go back for as many helpings as they like.

The kitchen is something of a wonder—mass production of good food from stoves in the midst of "in-between" snacks there is a Y.M.C.A. "canteen."

Officials of the "Y" look after the entertainment of the men generally and during free time there's always a full moment. A typical week's program includes sports tournaments, boxing and wrestling, volleyball, hockey, and concerts, variety shows almost every night and other events.

The depot theatre is another source of pride. Here the administration and the trainees. There's a show nearly every night and visiting artists have been pressed into service with their time putting on special performances for the men.

There is a lot more to tell about. For instance there are the "Mother" mothers", women of voluntary groups who do sewing and such for the depot, there is the daily parade of the trainees, the depot—some of it will be held at the C.N.E. and others will be assigned to wing and other duties.

There is the depot's own post office, manned by men of the depot. Probably the most unpopular man during the cold months is the bull who gives the order at 4.30 a.m. and their first chore is "P.T." and "P.T." drills take place in the bull pen—and the bull pen is not heated.

Rome, April 22 (AP)—The Italian high command claimed today an advance into Greece through the entire Albanian fighting front and said Italian troops had driven Greek troops as they withdrew into Epirus.

The high command also claimed air raids on the ports of Preveza, Arta, Prata and Patras, north of Corfu, and a British base at Suda Bay on the island of Crete.

The daily communique claimed North African forces had captured prisoners in a clash with British tank units near the Port of Tobruk.

(There was no comment on this claim from British sources.)

Reports said the Italians are fighting in Greeks territories of Vlona and th: Drinos Rivers for control of the main road into Epirus.

Il Popolo Di Roma's correspondent on the Albanian front claimed the principal roads from the Perati Bridge south to the Greek-Albanian border toward Ioannina were deserted, except for bodies of horses and mules and abandoned war materials.

Year's Bombings Leave Germany's Air Power Lower

Britain is Overcoming Four-Year Lead Nazis Held When R.A.F. Thrusts to be Heavier

By Louis V. Hunter

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 22—(CP)—It is now believed that the first time the British bomb was dropped on Germany, terrifying, it fell on the seaplane base on the island of Sylt, March 18, 48 hours after the first R.A.F. attack on Britain. Sylt and Nazi bombs were dropped on the Orkneys, mistaken for Scottish civilian casualties.

The second stage in Britain's counter-bombing of Germany consisted of attacks by the Royal Air Force on military bases, power station, in western Germany. These attacks, begun July 11, 1940, closely followed the German bombing of Coventry, whose main objective was the destruction of the city's industrial plants.

The depot theatre is another source of pride. Here the administration and the trainees. There's a show nearly every night and visiting artists have been pressed into service with their time putting on special performances for the men.

There is a lot more to tell about. For instance there are the "Mother" mothers", women of voluntary groups who do sewing and such for the depot, there is the daily parade of the trainees, the depot—some of it will be held at the C.N.E. and others will be assigned to wing and other duties.

Air Party

Handicapped at the outset with a numerical inferiority the R.A.F. has held the German air force which enhanced that its necessarily higher pursuit speed and climb would hurt the most. In a fight between a heavyweight and a lightweight, it is the heavier who can do the slugging. "Pit-for-tat" is no good for the lighter man. To win, he must fight with his brains.

But all that time things have been changing. The four-year lead in air re-armament which the Nazis held has been reduced gradually. Fighter and bomber production and crews to man them, have been pushed ing from Britain's factories and training schools, augmented by the growing resources of the Empire. The rising flood now is being further swollen by supplies of aircraft from the United States.

Recently Prime Minister Churchill was able to promise that the adverse balance of bombing under which Britain found it would be altered to the nation's advantage and that since the past few R.A.F. attacks on Germany have been growing in weight.

In the raids on Germany, Britain now is doing some of the biggest and fastest bombers in the world. High explosive bombs of a size and weight equal to anything dropped by the Nazis will find targets in the German capital and elsewhere.

Little Information

Exact information about the damage caused by Britain's bombing of German targets is not easy to obtain. The network of the "Sun" is rigid censorship and fast-working demolition and salvage squads see to that. But it is known definitely that already the R.A.F. has succeeded in inflicting tremendous damage to Germany's war effort, particularly in her transportation system.

One raid on Berlin caused a serious holdup in the railway system, while the bombing of the Westphalian armament and industrial city of Munchen, comparable in scale and weight to that on Coventry, disclosed dock installations, passenger and freight stations, engineering and armament works, to some extent, the industrial life of the city.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Air Secretary, recently spoke of the raper thrusts of the R.A.F. would drop into the flesh of the enemy. As the R.A.F. grows yet more powerful, with more and faster bombers, bigger and more "beautiful" bombs, these thrusts may more resemble blows with a broadsword.

GREEK ARMY OF EPIRUS SIGNS ARMISTICE

Negotiate Without Gov't Knowledge Says King George

Grecian King Appeals To Greek People To Keep Up Courage In Painful Moment Of History

ISSUES STATEMENT

Athens, April 23 (AP) — King George of Greece said today the Greek army of Epirus had signed an armistice with the enemy without our knowing it" and announced he was withdrawing with his government to Crete.

The monarch declared, however, that the armistice "in no way binds the free will of the nation, the king and the government, which consists of a continuation of the struggle with all remaining forces with a view to securing the supreme national interests."

(In Rome the Italian high command claimed at the same time that the Greek army on the Epirus and Macedonian fronts had surrendered.)

King George made his fateful announcement in a lengthy proclamation in which he appealed to the Greek people to keep up their courage "even during this painful moment of our history."

"The right of our struggle and God will help us to secure by all means a final victory in spite of the trials, gains and dangers which we shall go through," he added.

"Remain in your places the same as a united and undivided free country. Prepare yourselves with Greek pride to enemy force and enemy power. Others have courage—good days will come again. Long live the nation!"

GRECIAN KING

Position Of Remainder Of Greek Army And British Troops Rendered Precarious By Turn In Events

CARRY ON STRUGGLE

Athens, April 23 —(AP)— King George of Greece abandoned Athens with his government today in an attempt to continue the fight from Crete after his army of Epirus, holding the left flank of the Allied defence line, capitulated under the hammering of German-Italian forces.

The capitulation, which the King said was negotiated without his knowledge, rendered precarious the position of the remainder of the Greek army and of British troops forced backward by the Italian offensive seeking to force a way through historic Thermopylae Pass on the eastern end of the Hellenic front.

The fate of the British army is uncertain, but it appeared they faced the alternatives of abandoning Greece altogether or undertaking an equally hazardous retreat through Albania to the Peloponnesus.

Despite the desperate outlook, King George announced it was his intention to carry on the struggle "with all remaining forces" with a view to securing the supreme national interests.

Nazis Assembling Barges On Black Sea Says Ankara Radio

New York, April 23—(CP)—Martin Agronsky, National Broadcasting Company correspondent in Turkey reported last night in a broadcast from Ankara that the Nazis are assembling invasion barges at Bulgarian Black Sea ports with a view to an ultimate crossing of the Turkish Straits.

"Torpedo boats are being assembled at the Rumanian port of Constantsa, he said.

"The Germans are thus within striking distance of Turkey's Eastern and western coast," the correspondent declared.

He said the Nazis are increasing their concentrations in south central Bulgaria from where they would launch their main central attack on Turkey's defences at Thrace.

Agronsky said that the Nazis plan to attack Turkey on completion of their campaign in Greece.

Police Vigilance Slightly Relaxed

Vichy, April 23 (AP)—Intensified police vigilance in Vichy was relaxed today after 20 agitators of the National Popular Group, who had entered from the occupied zone, were rounded up and expelled.

The police had taken added precautions since Deputy Marcel Deat, group arrived from Paris vowing vengeance for the Gingembre execution that city of Jean Pontenoy, a friend of former Premier Premier Pierre Laval. They charged Pontenoy had been slain.

Although authorities have not established whether Pontenoy is dead or not, they have ordered a gag agitating against the government.

Police watched them closely, it was said, to prevent any clash between the visitors and the French legion, followers of the Chief of State, Marshal Henri Petain.

To Purchase Beans In Canada

Ottawa, April 23 (CP)—The Agriculture Department announced today earlier this week Great Britain that the United Kingdom plans to purchase 1,000,000 bags of beans in Canada through regular trade channels.

There was no indication as to the amount of beans which may be bought. The Department said sales would be made by bean dealers working with Canada's Trade Representatives in the United Kingdom.

PLYMOUTH BEARS BRUNT OF ATTACK BY NAZI RAIDERS

Violent Assault Leaves Many Fires Burning And Causes Heavy Damage

OPEN FEEDING CENTRES

Plymouth, England, April 22 (CP) —The Nazi air force smashed at Plymouth during the night with a major raid for the second successive night, piling on death and destruction in an already hard-hit city.

The violent assault left many fires blazing and caused considerable damage.

The attacking planes, driving through a thunderous anti-aircraft barrage, came in from several areas until nearly dawn. The assault started slowly, developed into a concerted blitz as the attackers came and exploding bombs, then died away.

After a lull, the bombers and escorting fighters returned again in small formations. The attack was severe, the government said it did not succeed in intensity previous raids on that area.

Parachute Flares Used

At the height of the attack, one bombed area resembled a lurid wall of flames and smoke.

Parachute flares were used at first by the attackers, and then high explosives poured bombs of all sizes. Homes, business establishments, hospitals and theatres were hit.

With bombs exploding about them rescue crews worked hour after hour to release persons trapped in public shelters.

By daybreak, emergency feeding centres were being set up for the homeless, and special convoys of food and supplies began to pour in as the townspeople went grimly about the task of restoring conditions of normalcy.

Even as this work went on, German planes were reported in the vicinity of two south Wales towns during the morning.

Plymouth is on the southwest corner of the country. Each town also was attacked and the bombs were reported to have fallen entirely on the residential section.

Two persons of German were buried in the wreckage of their houses, it was said, when a direct hit on a shelter containing thirty persons caused numerous injuries.

Says Malaya Engaged Scharnhorst And Gneisenau At Sea

Petty Officer of British Battleship Tells of Malaya Chasing 2 Nazi Battle Cruisers Into Brest Harbor

Port Erie, Ont., April 23 (CP)—The British battleship Malaya engaged the two German battle cruisers Gneisenau and Scharnhorst in the Atlantic some time ago, Petty Officer Ted Hannall of the Malaya said here today.

Hannall, who is on a visit to Port Erie disclosed Sunday that the battleship chased the two Nazi craft into the French harbor of Brest, where they have been under bombardment by the R.A.F.

He elaborated on the action today but did not say where or when it took place. He said the heavy guns of the Malaya confined those of the two German ships.

"We were stripped for action because we had received orders to get those Germans or sink," he said. "Britain can spare only so many of its capital ships for work like this and we were ready to go.

"I'm not going to say what happened in that fight, but the fact remains the Germans are both in Brest harbor right now. Whether aerial bombs will bring 'em down or not I also do not know because a battle cruiser can stand a lot of pounding. I know the Malaya has."

EXTENSIVE HUNT BEING PRESSED FOR PRISONERS

Searchers Armed With Fuller Information as to Where Men Might be Hiding

COLDER IN NORTH

By SCOTT YOUNG

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ont. Stethem, Director of Internment Operations, today pressed search for six Germans who remain free of the 26 who escaped from a nearby internment camp last Friday night, said today that "if the German, aren't found in the area today, they're not here."

The area to which he referred is bounded on the south by the Canadian Pacific Railway line, on the east by the Pic River and on the north and west by the abandoned right-of-way of a section of the trans-Canada Highway.

Col. Stethem said all shacks and outlies in this area would be searched today, adding his belief that the four inches of snow which fell in a 24-hour storm that took place during the night would help the tracking.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Provincial Police, game wardens and guides with dogs left in search parties early this morning and most of them planned to stay in the bush all day.

Col. Stethem in the course of an interview revealed that a small knife had been found in the tunnel through which the Germans got outside the internment camp during a pelting rainstorm Friday night.

Col. Stethem, discussing difficulties Canadian authorities had experienced in the operation of internment and prison camps, since the war began, revealed also that the beginnings of boats had been found in other camps, indicating that some plans for escape had included a crossing of the Great Lakes to Canada's the United States.

Col. Stethem disagreed with previously-expressed theories that the Germans had been out of the camp catching food and cooking it there prior to the Friday night break. Only 28 had gone through the tunnel, he said.

Searchers started out this morning with the hope they might surprise their quarry in a windbreak or shanty into which the Germans might have been forced by yesterday's cold and snow.

AUSSIES REFUSE TO ALLOW HUNS TO BREAK LINE

Crowds in Sydney Cheer Army Minister Who Tells of Heroism of Australians in Greece

IN NEW POSITIONS

Sydney, April 23 (AP)— Crowds cheered Army Minister Percy Spender here today when in the course of a recruiting speech he declared that the Australian troops in Greece had refused to allow the Germans to break their line.

He said the Australian leader in Greece, Major-Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, would emerge from the present battle as one of Australia's greatest commanders.

The Army Minister said he had received word from Sir Thomas that new positions had been taken safely, that the battle still was raging, that there had been losses and that casualties had been greater than might have been feared.

The enemy had been "savagely mauled" in a way he would remember for a long time, Mr. Spender said. Whatever the outcome of the battle of Greece, the Australian troops would continue the fight.

BRITISH FORCES CONSOLIDATE NEW POSITIONS

Temporary Easing of Nazi Pressure in Greece Reported in London

Cairo, April 23—(CP Reuters)—It was learned tonight that temporary easing of German pressure in Greece has enabled the British forces to consolidate their new positions.

Authoritative sources (CP)—Authoritative sources said today that positions of British and Greek troops in Greece still are intact, but acknowledged that the Greek forces in the centre of the line are cut off from supply bases.

The forces in the centre, this source said, were cut off by German troops who crossed the main communication line and they probably would have to withdraw to positions in an organized body.

The general staff of the Greek army is established in new positions and fighting bravely beside the British troops, authoritative sources said, adding that this fact was considered very important.

Alfred Duff Cooper, Minister of Information, in a broadcast to complainis that German reports of the Greek retreat of Imperial troops from Greece had been misleading and warned for six hours, told the House of Commons he was unaware the reports had received widespread credence.

The reports were "rapidly disproved by the fighting which followed," he said. "It would be a mistake to issue official denials on every false report," he continued. "If we did so, the lack of a denial might be taken as confirmation of the report."

BARDIA RAIDED SUCCESSFULLY BY BRITISH PARTY

Bridge Destroyed, Axis Stores Dump Fired and Four Defence Guns Silenced

60 MEN CAPTURED

London, April 23 (CP) — The Ministry of Information announced today that a raiding party landed near Bardia, Libya, Saturday night, destroyed an important bridge, fired an axis stores dump and put four coast defence guns out of commission.

(The Italians claimed earlier this week that a small force of Italian troops had frustrated an attempted British landing near Bardia on the Libyan coast, capturing a number of prisoners.)

Bardia, not far from the Egyptian border, is about 75 miles east of Tobruk, where a British garrison has been reported holding off repeated German-Italian attacks.

Majesty Returns to Base

The raiding party, after the British raiding party returned to its base, the Ministry of Information said, but it acknowledged that approximately 60 men were missing.

The announcement said:

"The true story of the British landing at Bardia can now be told. On the night of April 20, a British force with special demolition materials was landed near the town.

"They had a definite plan to carry out. They destroyed an important bridge, a dump of stores and to do that it was necessary to get as near possible to the coastal defence guns. The bridge was destroyed, the dump consisted of stores particularly valuable to the enemy and was left ablaze, and four coast defence guns were rendered useless.

"The raiders claimed to have captured the whole of the raiding party. This statement is untrue. The major part of the raiding party returned safely to the coastal base on their base, but about 60 of its members failed to re-embark and of these a few have been claimed by the enemy.

Emergency Communal Feeding Plans Made

London, April 23 (CP Cable) — Emergency communal feeding plans for the entire country if raid conditions create a breakdown of existing arrangements have been revealed.

All restaurants and cafes will be taken over if conditions become so bad that civilians cannot cook and factory kitchens are found inadequate and communal kitchens opened to serve meals at any hour.

Local authorities, in conjunction with the Food Ministry, will decide the kind of meal and the price to be paid. It is understood that there will be a standard meal for breakfast, lunch and dinner, which include hot stew.

The Food Ministry, London says 12 local agents, air regional superintendents and 200 soup centre superintendents have been appointed.

Speedy Craft Part Of Program Under U.S. Aid

Secretary Knox Says Boats To Be Shipped Across Ocean

WARSHIP BUILDING

Washington, April 23—(AP)—Navy Secretary Knox said today that about 20 fast naval motor torpedo boats are ready for delivery to Great Britain as a part of the lend-lease program, and possibly are on the way now.

Knox said the boats, capable of speeds of more than a mile a minute, were to be shipped across, rather than undertaking the transatlantic trip under their own power.

The navy had 28 available, Knox said. Britain was being allocated from these. Other "Mosquito" craft, mostly of a type 70 feet long and able to speed 40 miles an hour, are under construction.

To questions about American aid to Britain and the battle of the Atlantic, Knox said he understood that the larger and faster cargo ships had been seeking independently to run the gauntlet of Nazi U-boats and bombers for some time.

Knox said the British Isles, like "every nation in the world", suffered from a shortage of anti-aircraft guns but that mass production was starting on shorter range weapons. He called the American navy's new five-inch anti-aircraft gun the "best in the world".

Canada May Build Few U.S. Navy.

Navy Secretary Knox may add today the United States navy is negotiating with Canada for construction in Canada of a number of warships, probably of the new British Corvette type, such as are used for convoy escort work.

Knox made the statement at a press conference.

Any combat ships Canada would build for the U.S. navy, Knox said, might be turned over to Great Britain under the lend-lease system. The decision, he said, would be made when they neared completion.

Aside from providing Canada with needed dollar exchange, Knox said the arrangement would tend to reinforce United States construction.

He said the statement had been projected as a part of the co-operative program worked out last month between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

SUPPLY SHIP HIT

London, April 23—(CP) — Royal Air Force planes last night again bombed the naval base of Brest, where the 26,000-ton battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst are still sheltering, the Air Ministry said today.

Bombs fell "in the target area," an announcement said.

The Ministry did not lay claim directly, however, to hits on the two warships. Aircraft of both the bomber and coastal commands was made in two separate waves.

During daylight yesterday, the Ministry disclosed, R.A.F. bombers participated in the attack, which damaged a heavily-loaded 2,000-ton cargo ship and a minesweeper off the Norwegian coast.

Three aircraft in the day and night offensive operations was acknowledged.

U.S. Closes Border To Prisoners Of War Who Escape Canadian Custody

Action Taken as Result of Nazi Who Jumps Bail to Flee to Peru

WILL PREVENT ESCAPE

By J. F. SANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, April 23 —(CP)— The United States border was closed today to prisoner of war who escape from Canadian custody and attempt to seek haven in a neutral country.

Attorney-General Robert Jackson announced last night that the United States will permit no more prisoners of war or interned from Canada to enter the country as a result of Baron Franz von Werra, German aviator and escaped prisoner, jumping bail and fleeing to Peru. He pointed out that such persons be turned back at the border with "any force reasonably necessary."

Von Werra, 26-year-old Swiss born Nazi flier was arrested at Ogdensburg, N.Y., Jan. 25 after escaping from a train taking prisoners of war to internment camp. He crossed the American line at the border by crossing the St. Lawrence River in sub-zero weather and was picked up by a motorist and turned over to immigration officers.

Charged with illegal entry, Von Werra had been out on bail of $15,000 put up by the German consulate in New York, $10,000 to cover a deportation proceeding and $5,000 to cover a misdemeanor charge in connection with illegal entry. It was believed likely the latter bail would be forfeited to the United States Treasury.

Von Werra, who once boasted "I will find my way back to Germany if I have to wade my out of prison camps three times," apparently left the United States, April 8, it was reported he had accompanied a German consular official from the southern part of the United States to Montreal, during which he left the country by Swiss passport.

While the means of Von Werra's transportation to Peru was not mentioned in Jackson's announcement, Col. Hubert Stethem, Director of Internment Operations in Canada said at Heron Bay, Ont., last night that British and Canadian authorities would not permit the escape of a destroyer" after the Pearl Harbor attack.

Honor Bound To Assist Greek Army Says Australian Premier In Address

London, April 23 (CP Cable) — Prime Minister R. G. Menzies told the Australian people in broadcast today that Australia was honor bound just as the Germans were about to "add another to the many" been one of the infamies of history."

The broadcast was taken by the lines of a statement issued by Mr. Menzies in London last night.

Explaining why the decision was taken to send a force to Greece, the Australian Premier said Australia was "after anxious consideration.... we all knew the risks involved, but though assisting Greece with soldiers was a hazardous undertaking it was one which had some real prospects of military success."

"Who could contemplate," he went on, "that the great British Empire should encourage and cheer the Greeks in their resistance to Italian aggression and leave them with a shrug of the shoulders? We have taken the measure of the Germans and we know that we can beat them."

Mr. Menzies declared that "the sure and simple truth is that we can not win the war without honor and by the last analysis the only means of honor is by killing Germans."

He added that the Germans have been beaten but have suffered wounds fever troops, many scores of times more than they have killed. "On the Middle East, where so many things now look 'rark,' we are determined to hold our own and may well win a notable victory and the greater our difficulties the more imperative it is that we should stand firm and that we should be united, resolute and energetic. We may learn to lesser degrees the perils of recrimination and division while the battle rages."

3,000 DEAD TREES REPLACED ON ZWICK'S

Depletions in the forestation of Zwick's Island, amounting to three thousand young trees, two thousand of which are Scots pine and the remainder, Scotch Pine, were replaced yesterday by workmen of the City Works Department.

The depletions were caused by the failure of a heavy crop of the young trees to take root and other reasons. The new trees which were of sturdy stock, were secured from the Ontario Forestry Station at Orono, Ont.

Superintendent of the island cemetery in 1939 when the then mayor, Jamieson Bone, had thousands of the young trees planted by the Ontario Forestry Branch inspector, viewing the growth last year, expressed himself as being satisfied with its progress.

Considerable Activity Noted On Water Front

With the official opening of navigation at the Belleville Harbor approximately one week ago by the unheralded arrival of a British American oil tanker the local waterfront has assumed a degree of activity not noticed during this time of year. During the past week quite a number of oil tankers have tied up to the local docks and after dumping their cargoes of gasoline have proceeded away on another trip.

At one time it was customary for the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company to ship molasses in by boat with this being transported to Corbyville in horse-drawn wagon tanks, but of recent years the practice has been discontinued. This assumes that the boats will return to store the molasses in the large tanks that were built during the winter at the waterfront. The arrival of the first molasses boat is not expected for another week, it was stated by a local coal merchant this morning.

Berlin Communique

Berlin, April 23 (AP)—Nazi spokesmen declared today that the German army had defeated "the British" in Greece and Thermopylae and claimed 250,000 Greeks had been captured in the fighting on the Epirus sector.

(London said the British-Greek positions on the main front are intact. No figure is available on the number of Greeks reported to be in the Armistice in the northwest sector.)

The Nazi spokesmen claimed German armored units have passed through the gateway to the Peloponnesus and "are relentlessly pursuing the disorganized British in the direction of Athens."

In a Deutsche communique of the German High Command, however, it was stated only that mopping up completed English rear guards to fight a historic Thermopylae Pass."

The communique claimed that in Greek waters yesterday, German Combat planes destroyed seven "enemy" merchantmen, totalling 37,000 tons" and that 12 other large ships were damaged.

(A Greek communique said some damage had been caused to shipping.)

Only 25 Unemployed Men Now Registered In City

Reaching an all-time low since the inception of the office almost the last years of first Great War, Belleville unemployment registrations at the local office of the Employment Service of Canada are now only twenty-five, Superintendent W. D. Ross stated today.

Total registrations for the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward and Northumberland amount to 1,200.

War industries and other work directly attributable to the present conflict had been responsible for the uptrend in employment in this district and yet in many instances the skilled labor there still remains a shortage of labor.

The city unemployment ranks consist mostly of unskilled labor and men who can do only odd jobs. Insofar as casual labor is concerned, Mr. Ross said the demand about equalled the supply, but it is expected to exceed it within a few days.

Every labor shortage is still serious in this district, with no immediate prospects of alleviation.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE IS OUTLINED TO KIWANIS MEMBERS

Alderman Harold Armstrong and City Engineer Mott Guests at Weekly Luncheon

"The Riverside Drive' is the outgrowth of the former 'Bridge' project proposed when the two bridges were conceived in this city," said Ald. Harold Armstrong, Chairman of Regional Planning, in speaking to members of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon at the Quinte Hotel on Tuesday. Alderman Armstrong was accompanied by City Engineer Charles A. Mott, who produced a blue print of the proposed Riverside Drive and explained a finished production of the project. The speakers of the day were introduced by Kiwanian Ray Folwell, a member of the Kiwanis Club, with Ex-Ald. Fred Upper expressed Kiwanian appreciation, after the splendid dinner served at the luncheon, Harold Carruthers acted as song leader with Kiwanian Mott busy collecting the several fines imposed.

Ald. Armstrong also had a Kiwanis birthday, his first in fact, and he was suitably remembered by the club and old members by Bruce Latimer, and Kiwanian Armstrong also tried to make the members believe that Charlie was having their money in the bank and file were sticking with their pal and popular member. Charlie also was the recipient of the prize given by Mr. Richardson on celebrating his Kiwanis birthday.

Explains Project

Ald. Armstrong in explaining the project said: "The first thing was that the first proposal was an elaborate plan which would have cost a very large expenditure and the Council as that time felt that the money should be spent in front of the heavy debenture debt already existing. The proposal called for the bridges "but the members at that time felt that the money belonging to parking would continually get worse," said the speaker. "Now for three years ago, a Regional Planning Committee of the Council was appointed by Mayor Bateman and Ald. Armstrong, Chairman. "Preliminary surveys were done and there are three reasons why the work should be completed, 1st. due to the necessity of doing the work, and the permanency of the project, 2nd. the benefit to the municipality."

In explaining the different points, Ald. Armstrong stated that the Riverside Drive was the only convenient place in the downtown section that it should be permanent because of the number of motor vehicles in and about this city and as the latter is the finest of the main roads leading in and out of the city, that there is a large number of motor vehicles to the city and it is the constant hum of traffic from here to where to put them. The speaker told his listeners that the parking by-law had not been rigidly enforced due to the congestion that prevails in the city and that the new parking space that trouble should be alleviated. Ald. Armstrong explained that a letter had been sent to every property owner owning land abutting this project asking for the views of property owners, which letter had to be completed the work and the Riverside Drive has been more than satisfactory.

City Engineer Explains Details

The City Engineer then took the discussion showing that the proposed Riverside Drive will be constructed of stone placed on some of the roadway and rolled in, which will prepare the project for a permanent job. The drive will have curbs, sewers and other essentials to be placed," said Mr. Mott. He told the meeting the old roadway had been filled in but that entrance to the Drive would not be attained until property north of the Bridge Street West had been purchased and Ald. Armstrong said that that parking space on Front Street would be used for the present and when the project is completed there will be room for 600 cars, which will considerably relieve the congestion on the main thoroughfare. It was also explained that a retaining wall would be built between the Riverside Drive and the east bank of the Moira River.

OBJECTS TO TRACK-SITTING

Los Angeles, April 23 (AP)—Herman Johnson, Secretary-Treasurer of the strikers' union, can go ahead and sit on a railroad track. Officials of the V-O Milling company, which helps from the city attorney, complaining Johnson sat on a spur line to prevent freight from entering the strike-bound plant. That's no law preventing track-sitting, said the attorney.

AUSTRALIA CALLS A SPECIAL SESSION OF PARLIAMENT

Nation's Part in War Will be Reviewed in Light of Current Developments

PRESS COMMENT

Sydney, April 23 (AP)—The Sydney Morning Herald said editorially today the Commonwealth Government's decision to call a special session of parliament to review the nation's part in the war, was a wise move in view of current developments.

It was announced today a session would be held, probably May 7. The decision was made after communication between cabinet members here and Prime Minister R. G. Menzies in London.

The Morning Herald said parliament has a duty to review Australia's own defensive preparations in the light of lessons taught by the Grecian campaign and also because of "new developments."

The Sydney Daily Telegraph said the Australian people even now will find it hard to believe that the government sanctioned participation of Australian troops in the Greek "adventure" without British assurance "that adequate aid were adequately supported."

The papers of Canberra was informed of the number of Imperial troops being sent to Greece.

The Melbourne Sun-News Pictorial said that Australians even now might be held on the wisdom of a campaign which sent Australian troops to Greece in the Near East between Libya and Greece, the public will resent any attempt to exploit a serious situation for political purposes.

The Sun-News Pictorial said it was unfortunate that the movement of troops to Greece had been made without a war council decision, although the position of the council always had been anomalous, and added "only a united government can give a unified lead to a united people."

The Melbourne Age said the government must explain the action which resulted in the loss of the troops in the Greek campaign without compensatory gains.

Blitzkrieg Not Strictly New Even Genghis Khan Used Tactics

Ingredients of "Blitzkrieg" warfare are speed and surprise—one of the United States army's latest tanks. LEFT; U.S. parachute troops in action. "Blitzkrieg" is a German word meaning "lightning war." RIGHT; an 1883 conception of a "rolling blockhouse", LOWER RIGHT, drawn by Albert Robida, a French artist.

By DON GLASSMAN

Written exclusively for The Ontario "Intelligencer and Central Press Canadian.

NEW YORK.—Among the curious fables growing out of world War II is that which credits the so-called "blitzkrieg", or lightning war, to the "genius" of Nazi generalissimo and inventors.

Anybody with the curiosity can soon ascertain that the fundamentals of blitzkrieg are neither new to military science nor original with the Nazis.

Under scrutiny this much publicized mode of warfare breaks down into a series of military lessons and tactics that date back to Genghis Khan; into a combination of weapons that were proposed by practical men and visionaries as far back as Leonardo da Vinci, and into inventions that were conceived or described by the nationals of America, France and England.

The Nazis have actually submitted a great many ideas and techniques to field tests and appropriated for themselves whatever they found useful. The blitzkrieg is a synthetic technique of compounded mainly of ideas, materials, inventions and strategies that have more or less antiquity.

Even the Trojan Horse.

The first principle of blitzkrieg surprise, has been handed down by military heroes like Hannibal, Caesar and Napoleon. As for Trojan horse tradition, the name alone breathes antiquity and you will find a poetic description of it in the writings of Homer. Both ancient and recent history alludes to the familiar Fifth Column practice of undermining morale and carrying on sabotage.

The tactical advantage of speed, another underlying element of blitzkrieg, owes far more to the Americans, French and British than to the Nazis. The Germans have never been noted for speed or for their intention of speed devices.

Major land, air and sea speed records have for years been divided among the racers of America, England and France. America's contribution has been development of streamlined aircraft, automobiles, trains and ships is a matter of record.

Civil War Blitz.

The American Civil war (1861-65) subjected some favorite blitzkrieg concepts to a crucial test. Students of military science study this war because both sides were led by brilliant military men.

General U. S. Grant, distinguished for bulldog tenacity, developed a strategy that had the astonishing speed and mobility of Confederate cavalryman Gen. Robert E. Lee set a tactical pattern of Nazi panzer-column manoeuvres.

Well, you say, there is some difference between a steel column and a column made of bone and muscle. But the first proposal to substitute mechanized divisions and airplanes for cavalry columns seems to have been made by Maj.-Gen. J. F. Parsons who, in 1930, submitted a report to the United States war department recommending six divisions of 650 tanks each.

The urgency of creating military air fleets was preached with burning zeal by the late Brig.-Gen. William Mitchell, whose experience in the first world war had convinced him that air strength was the key to American defense.

Armored Aircraft.

The advantages of armored aircraft goes back to the nineteenth century, even before the Wright brothers began their experiments with heavier-than-air craft. And the idea did not originate with the Germans. The American air force actually flew the first armored warplane in France, in 1918.

Another phase of blitzkrieg, industrial mobilization and organization, dates back to the visit of a German military mission to the United States on the outbreak of world war II. United States army officers had prepared a comprehensive and far-reaching plan for the swift conversion of production industries from a peace to a warring basis.

The parachute phase of blitzkrieg was copied from several countries, according to a United army sketch for a parachute, and parachute troops were leaping from tree tops in Siam as long ago as the seventeenth century. Parachute jumpers were quite common at fairs and circuses in the nineteenth century. The first parachute jump from an airplane in flight was successfully executed by the late Capt. Albert Berry over an army post near St. Louis.

Better Parachutes.

But during world war I, the parachute itself was a crude makeshift device as liable to failure as not. In 1918-20 the modern rip cord parachute was developed by men in the United states army air corps at McCook field, Dayton, under the direction of Major E. L. Hoffman.

The idea of landing blitz troops and equipment en mass originated with United States Army Sergeant E. H. Nichols who, in 1920, demonstrated at Brooks field, Texas, the method of supplying parachutists with arms and ammunition by means of an "article carrier".

Three soldiers jumped from an airplane and 20 seconds after landing began firing machine-guns. The Russians appropriated this idea and parachute troops, even thousands of parachute troops. The Nazis appropriated the idea and used it successfully against Holland and Belgium.

U.S. Dive Bombed First.

Years before the Nazi air force came into existence, airmen of the United States navy were using bomb divers for bone shilling manoeuvres.

Likewise, the long-range, four-engine bomber is an American development. The United States army air corps has been using four-engine bombers for many years.

The ancestry of tanks—backbone of Nazi offensive tactics—carries us back to the nineteenth century. Suffice to say here, the British in world war I surprised and routed the Germans with the first tanks seen on any battlefield. Incidentally, the high speed of Nazi tank columns is due to the Christie trend, an American invention.

The idea of submarines preying on commerce, or even engaged in duels to death, dates back to the nineteenth century. Soon after the practical submarine, suggestions for its military use began to pop in the popular press.

Jules Verne's fantasies of submarine adventure also contributed to the general understanding of a submarine's military value.

Robida's Vision.

The individual who seems to have had a firmer and clearer vision of blitzkrieg methods, mechanized, streamlined blitzkrieg is, as a matter of fact, a forgotten French writer, cartoonist and prophet, Albert Robida, who drew up a complete set of blueprints describing in hair-raising detail every major phase of blitzkrieg.

Shoals of marauding submarines, armored air fleets, tanks (which he called "rolling blockhouses"), pom pom guns, flame throwers, cannon mounted on aircraft, armored trains, long-distance guns, super-dreadnaughts, poison gas and countless other strategies and weapons were anticipated by Robida.

In the 1890's, Robida amused, astonished and horrified French readers with an illustrated book on "War in the XXth Century". He even went so far as to state that war correspondents would broadcast news over the radio and television while witnessing battles at the front.

Chemical Warfare Foreseen.

Robida carried modern warfare even beyond blitzkrieg, as we know it today, and described with uncanny clairvoyance the ultimate and final stages in the art and science of human battles.

In gas warfare he foresaw the employment of sneezing, itching, paralyzing, corrosive and epileptic gases. But the ultimate form of war, he said, will be chemically psychological and bacteriological. Medical war is the grimmest strategy for dealing out death on a grand scale.

Robida described how in medical offensive warfare a belligerent fires cartridges and capsules in the enemy's midst, infecting air, food, water and clothes with deadly germs. The main protection against such an onslaught appears to be a thick wall of purifying and neutralizing chemical mist.

On examination, therefore, the basic genius of Nazi generalissimos reduces itself to the fine art of copying and appropriating. Their chief claim to something like originality must rest on the order or pattern of sending men into the blitz attack, thus:

Blueprint of a Blitz.

1—In the initial phase of a blitz invasion, the air force attacks enemy aircraft.

2—The first step is followed by an air attack on rail junctions, bridges, supply routes, communications and depots, accompanied by straffing of civilians.

3—Artillery shells enemy batteries and fortifications while the regular infantry assaults and takes them.

4—Light mechanized divisions, motorcycles, machine-guns, armored cars and horse cavalry lead the advance.

5—Armored divisions, each numbering 400 medium tanks, motorized infantry, anti-aircraft artillery stage and advance. Both light and armored divisions are supported by aviation.

6—Trucks loaded with infantry and artillery move up to the front.

—Manoeuvre.

Called by another term, such as a war of conditions, the blitzkrieg would appear less frightening.

MANITOBA GOVT GETS MAJORITY

Thirty - Seven Supporters Elected — 16 Seats Still Undecided

Winnipeg, April 23 (CP)—Thirty-seven supporters of Manitoba's coalition government had been elected today to sit in the 55-seat legislature. Only two opposition candidates had been elected and two others were leading in the fight for the 16 seats still undecided.

In 10 day polls, Liberal-Progressives were certain of the assured representation with 21 candidates elected on the basis of unofficial returns from yesterday's voting and six leading in their individual contests.

Conservative supporters of the non-partisan administration formed on Nov. 4 by Premier John Bracken had won 10 seats and were leading for three others. Coalition Independents had won four seats and Coalition Social Creditors, two.

Returns of coalition members-elect when counting was suspended last night with results from nine complete were Dr. A. Best, Conservative who won Assiniboia from James Allum, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation member of the last legislature, and L. St. George Stubbs, Stubbs, Independent who was re-elected in Winnipeg.

Of major importance in the election were the losses suffered by the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, which supported coalition, and the indicated defeat of all three candidates of the Manitoba Social Credit League, which opposed the administration.

The C.C.F. had won no seats early today and were leading for only two seats. In the last election in 1936, Social Creditors were given 23 seats, Conservatives 16, C. C. F. seven, Social Credit in Dauphin dents three and Communists one.

Return of the union government had been ensured when official nominations closed April 3 with 16 coalition members of the last house re-elected by acclamation, including four in Winnipeg, Premier Bracken, Premier continuously since 1922, who had been in Pas, and five of his cabinet ministers, including Work Minister Ernest Wilby, Winnipeg Conservative leader.

Five other members of the cabinet were re-elected yesterday and the only minister whose seat remained in doubt was Labor Minister S. J. Farmer, C.C.F. leader in the 20th assembly. Mr. Farmer, a member since 1922, placed 19th in the 38-member Winnipeg constituency on the basis of the first count.

Bombed Stores Take New Grip In Welsh City

Welsh Papers Reflect Determination of People to Carry on Despite Series of Heavy Raids

By Douglas Amaron

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Swansea, March 20— (By Mail C)—A city's record of rehabilitation after bombing is written in the columns of its daily newspaper.

German bombers struck savagely at Swansea on three successive nights in March. Rutted houses and stores were evidence enough of this, but even without them it was possible to visualize the extent of the attacks simply by studying the papers. Advertisements and news stories with tell-tale phrases appeared in every edition. Behind them was a story of bombing and fire, of damaged premises and stock and of determination to carry on, despite odds.

Union Jacks and "Business as Usual" signs appeared on every street. "Through Blast and Blitz we carry on", a bakery poster said, while a grocer's store boasted "We've no windows but plenty of room."

Businesses that were bombed-out on March 16 at new sites and premises advised people they could have free transportation to their favorite clothing store, their furniture establishment, temporarily forced to move to other quarters.

Hotels, beaver-board covering windows, were there filling up after losing most of their glass days immediately following the raids. "Rooms to let" was there in the window of my hotel room, but I discovered on my last night stand that with what it had been a week earlier.

Help From Afar

Then there was no gas, electricity or water in the hotel. Food was cooked on wood stoves and oil burners, candles lighted the rooms and water carried in pails had to be boiled before drinking. Breakfasts seems still were being used to take food to factories in the outskirts, and one I saw demonstrated the "Spirit of Dunkirk" pervading the war effort. It was given in the form of Swansea by the people of Tanganyika, Africa.

On Mount Pleasant, a 300-foot hill in the heart of Swansea, Australian sons of better-class families played cricket. Glad in smart tunics and joyed a game of field hockey. Swansea was carrying on, for even bombs could not keep the men and women from work or the children from play.

Late at night a queue of soldiers would form outside the entrance to the hotel window, singing a popular song of the day. When they finished someone took up the refrain and the "Men of Harlech" and the strains of Welsh hymns and arias drifted through the clear, spring air.

"The Germans couldn't knock the courage from the guts of my people", Mayor Thomas James had said. "We've had a hard knock, but tell the people of Canada that Swansea is still fighting and smiling. That's something the Germans won't ever be able to stop".

THE WAR TODAY

By DON GILBERT

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The difficulties of the British and Imperial army struggling to hold back the crushing weight of the German war machine in Greece were increased today by the surrender of the Greek army in the northern sector of the front.

It was a bitter blow to this gallant force, the army of Epirus, to have to lay down its arms in the Italians, whom it had chased from Greece into Albania in shameful rout in the months of hard Winter campaigning.

What effect its surrender, made by its commander on his own authority without consultation with Greek government, will have on the resistance which the Greek forces still fighting and on the British army fighting in the vicinity of Pass of Thermopylae was not immediately apparent.

London expressed no surprise when news of the development was received and no indication was given as to what effect the left flank of the forces still fighting has been placed in peril.

King George of Greece, announced the capitulation of the army in Epirus in a proclamation to his people. The official statement spoke of an armistice, but it is unlikely that the Axis authorities accepted anything less than capitulation.

Move to Island of Crete

King George announced that he is moving his government from Athens to the island of Crete, some 150 miles to the south. This island, of strategic importance in the Eastern end of the Mediterranean, has been available to the British navy, army and air force since the Greek-Italian war began late last year.

Since then it has undoubtedly been well fortified and will remain in Allied hands. Excellent naval facilities are available at Suda Bay and R.A.F., it is said, are here for granted, has improved the island's airport facilities and constructed new landing fields. Anti-aircraft artillery and coastal defences will have been taken care of by the British army units landed a few days after the Italians began hostilities six months ago.

The secure position of the island will enable the Greek government to be safe as its Greek territory and among Greek people should the tide of German arms force the evacuation of Allied troops from the mainland.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY

April 23rd, is the day of England's patron saint, St. George, an apt choice of a heroic figure by a people, truly heroic, who today with their Allies, defend world democracy. Today the people of England and the other parts of the British Isles are honored among the nations of the world for their courageous, confident and resolute stand for justice and freedom. The spirit of St. George—throbs through Britons in their cause of doing the utmost for mankind.

St. George was born in 270 A.D. of noble family at Lydda in Palestine, his father, a soldier, tradition says, having been a martyr to his Christian faith. The son also became a soldier of Rome and served as tribune under Diocletian. He tore down the emperor's edict ordering Christian persecutions and was martyred for this act of faith and courage at the age of 33 years. His fame spread. In the reign of King Edward Third, St. George was adopted as Patron Saint of England. His flag was the national flag of England until 1606 when it is now it is embroired in the Union Jack with the crosses of St. Andrew and St. Patrick.

The very choice of the patron saint is a revelation of the spirit of English people which expressed itself in such noble ideals as those of the Christian faith, in justice, freedom and mercy. Her record in history is noble. Her Parliament is the Mother of Parliaments. Today she battles for what have been revolts to violence and aggression in the hope of loot and power. She stands against tyranny and keeps alight the lamp of liberty and faith. She stands a bulwark for the defence of what is noble, true, beautiful, good and free and she gives her best for the best motives.

St. George's Day is a day of inspiration, a day for rededication of all peoples of the Commonwealth to the noblest calling, the defence of the right. St. George is more than a symbol or a legend. Today the English, Scotch, Welsh and Irish people of stout hearts defend the right.

On this day, too, one remembers it was the day of the birth and the death of the greatest of world poets, Shakespeare, who wrote the highest tribute man can ever pay to the right little isle "set in a silver sea, the triumphant sea." His prophetic words express the love of Englishmen for their native land and the confidence which is manifested through the ages in the cause of democracy and justice.

"This royal throne of kings, this sceptered isle,
This earth of majesty, this seat of Mars,
This other Eden, demi-paradise,
This fortress built by Nature for herself
Against infection and the hand of war,
This happy breed of men, this little world,
This precious stone set in the silver sea,
This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England."

CANADA - UNITED STATES AGREEMENT

Announcement by Prime Minister King that President Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt expect to visit Ottawa is welcomed by the people of Canada who would pay tribute to the man who has been so outspoken an ally of Britain, who was one of the first men to see the menace of aggressors to the peace of the world, and who denounced aggression in straight words which would pay honor to this representative of a good neighbor nation.

The new agreement will speed up the war supplies, in fact it means a mobilization of the war resources of the United States and Canada. Canada, it is said, will be able to accelerate production of certain war supplies for the making of which she is best fitted and the United States will greatly expand production in like manner. Among the results will be the easing of the exchange situation as it will enable the United States to buy nearly $300,000,000 of supplies here and provide Canada, with American funds. Canada, too, will be able to secure without cost component parts of war weapons being made for Britain under the lease-lend law.

Mr. King says in the agreement a challenge to every employer and worker to go the limit in production because of the market for all in the two countries. More rapid production of war supplies will be a consequence.

The war effort will be intensified in the financial and economic fields through mutual benefits. The result, it is foreseen, will be of untold value to the Empire.

OURSELVES AND OTHERS...

TO ELIZABETH, QUEEN OF ENGLAND

She walks amid the tott'ring chimney pots,
Her head held high, as though were naught to fear,
She smiles on mothers nursing tiny tots,
Her bright eyes brave, but in her heart a tear.
Her sympathies unbounded outward pour
For homes laid low, yet, seeing hearts so brave,
She holds aloft the torch of hope once more;
Renews again their faith that God will save.
Her touch upon the wounded is as balm,
And healing is the word that from her lips
Falls on the ear so like a gentle psalm;
No outward sign her heart with terror grips!

Who holds the world's heart in her gentle hands?
Who shares life's woes and sorrows that we glean?
Who suffers with the mothers of all lands?
Who could it be, but our own lovely Queen?

MARTIN HOUSE LANDLORD

If you would rent your martin house, then take these hints from me:
A very thoughtful landlord and kind
Is judging you must be.
But first be sure to choose a site away from roof and tree.

You must not think of taxes high and all the woes they bring,
Or with a frowning face bewail the cost of everything.
But you must pay in paint the house when it is early spring.

The martins are particular; there's much which they require,
They will not take a house which stands too close to trees or briar
For space to wing and soar about, unhampered, they desire.

So, landlord loose your pocketbook and find a place for the
And give the martins airy rooms and ample flying space;
Then gladly will they more right in your garden plot to grace.

Need Of Home In Child's Life Is Stressed By Speaker At Annual Meeting Of the C.A.S.

Miss Nora Lee, Supervisor of Protection Department, Points Out Various Troubles in Rearing Child

THOS. D. RUSTON

OFFICERS ELECTED

The three outstanding points to be considered in modern child welfare are the importance of the home and family life, in the case where the home is non-existant, the establishment of a foster home, and lastly, the psychoanalysis of the child's mental capabilities, told Miss Nora Lee, Supervisor, Protection Department, Toronto Children's Aid Society, as she spoke on the subject "A New Deal for the Child," at the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society for this district, which was held in the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday afternoon.

"Years ago," she said, "very little regard was held for family life, families were left together, difficulties involving children arose and as a consequence there are today parents quarreling children, who have had no family life themselves, and in 15 cases out of 100 cases, that the great majority of our cases of child delinquency and other such problems arise."

Child Needs Home Life

Miss Lea stressed the vital importance to the child of a home and a child's life, stating that in the home the rough edges of life are worn off, that the child grows up to be part of the community and that he learns the fundamentals of living with other people. The lack of the child's own home makes a sad disadvantage in a child's life, she said, and stated that where family troubles are brought under the supervision of the Children's Aid Society great emphasis is placed on the necessity of maintaining the children in the home wherever possible.

"By all this work of keeping the children in the home and where necessary, providing foster homes. "Protection of the home in view of the fact that by so doing we are guarding the child's mentality and teaching them to be useful citizens, in many cases it might be termed a "building process," stated Miss Lea.

War Brings New Problems

The advent of the present war had brought new and pressing problems in Children's Aid Society work, she said, however, and today this work was even more difficult than during the last war. "In 1914 the extra work was placed upon a society, which was in good condition morally, but the problems today were more difficult because of them being thrust upon a society in an unstable condition," claimed Miss Lea.

Miss Lea stated, that enlistments in the army were in many cases directly responsible for a great deal of additional work for the society as army authorities and war pension boards were asking, that the C.A.S. assume the responsibility of seeing that soldiers' wives and children were treated right.

Returning to the subject of the necessity of a home in a child's life, Miss Lea asserted that the interchange of responsibilities and the learning to share with others were the fundamentals of child welfare, and that in cases, where the home was non-existant a substitute home must be secured. The first determination when a foster home for a child must be secured is to decide what was missing in the child's life and to determine the type of home. Mr. Ruston's spirited, whether bright or sub-normal. A certain home must be chosen to suit a certain child," she said.

Must be Understanding

In the placement of a child in a foster home there is great need for understanding and sympathy between the child and the members of the family and there also must be a sense of security, "where a child to be an individual," claimed Miss Lea. While security was the subject of foster homes, the speaker claimed that it was not desirable to place children in homes, where the income to be derived from the child's keep was a leading factor in the home. She nevertheless paid tribute to the self-sacrificing foster mother, who "with little fan-fare" took into her life the children of the home and adopt them into the family life."

The use of psychology in determining the proper training for a child was stressed by Miss Lea, who stated that "social and mental problems are often more difficult to deal with than are physical ones." Miss Lea was convinced that difficult problems in the home such as immorality or other, unsatisfactory aspects might cause the whole outlook of the child's life to be abnormal and often lead to delinquency.

Must Begin With Children

In conclusion Miss Lea advised that much thought be cast upon the new type of re-adjustment which, upon the time when hundreds of thousands of men and factory workers will have to be re-adjusted back into civilian life. "This requires a great deal of thinking today," stated the speaker. "We must begin with the children because it is the children who will be tomorrow's citizens. We must see that their education is constructive, Education and social guidance go hand in hand."

The children's body realize that the children are Canada's greatest assets, and therefore must be conserved. They must be shown a sense of responsibility so as to enable them to take their place in the future as citizens. This can only happen if we train the children now," urged Miss Lea.

In his report for the year Mr. H. B. Fetterly, President of the Children's Aid Society, referred to the united responsibility which rests on society in being required to supervise the home, of the absent fighting forces. This required a great deal of extra work and many difficult situations had been dealt with, he said.

Increase of Children as Wards

Mr. Fetterly referred briefly to the slum situation in the city, stating that during the year he and Mr. Ruston had visited a number of places reported as unfit for human habitation. A report had been made advising the demolition of certain properties, but the Board of Health showed resentment, that these conditions should be exposed and nothing had been done.

During the year there had been a considerable increase in the number of children who had been named wards, with the result that the receiving home had been taxed and it had been necessary to secure a second home to take care of the overflow. The problems arising out of the Dependent Parents' Act had increased very greatly during the year, stated Mr. Fetterly.

In closing he paid a glad tribute to the accomplishment of the members of the staff, "who have done their job and done it well," he said.

Social Work Report

Social worker, Miss Marjorie Robins reported that work in the child caring field during progress had been steady but stated that as it was impossible to keep in close touch with the difficulties of all the children, it seemed necessary to concentrate on a few, where needed attention most and to depend a great deal upon boarded foster parents. As a measure that foster parents and the office might understand each other better will work more closely in the children's interests, personal letters containing contributions from time to time concerning the current difficulties have been sent out. This was merely an experiment, stated Miss Robins, and will be continued, proving helpful.

Miss Robins entered in detail circumstances and instances arising in the case work, with comprehension on the part of children to proper behaviour. Cases carried over to the foster parents without difficulty, she also told of the noble stand of a mother living apart from her husband and how both certain and little mistakes had been able to keep her family together.

Comments on Delinquency

In commenting upon the astounding amount of delinquency and incorrigibility in the Belleville area and to which the juvenile magistrate had made reference in the annual report, Miss Robins stated that most of this could be rectified by the self-sacrificing foster mother, who "with little fan-fare" took into her life the children of the home and adopt them into the family life."

In conclusion, Miss Robins urged that we must not forget the home from "Hansel's life in the haze of our democratic society. We cannot afford to let the family structure weaken, or children, our future citizens be neglected with the difficult re-establishment period ahead. We need more, not less work and attention to keep the standards which are building morale and strengthening the social structure," she concluded.

Inspector's Report

Culminating his twenty-fifth year as superintendent of the district re-organized Children's Aid, T. D. Ruston gave a very comprehensive and detailed report of the past year's work. It was the thirty-fifth annual meeting of the Belleville and district C.A.S. The report in part follows:

"This Society was founded by May 1906 and it is interesting to note that during the 35 years it has served this community there have been many advances in the Social Legislature, yet in spite of this, activities have been wider each year, we have been able to rely upon the great voluntary organization of men and women, the women of goodwill, who will give time and money, and take charge without fee or reward to bring about the well balanced child life in this city and county. If such were not the case, the society would have become as sounding brass and tinkling cymbal—life would not be in it. Now those days are long gone before, for laying the foundation and building so well that we can report another year of steady progress.

Presents a Problem

The dependent child presents a problem which requires most serious consideration in any community, as it is from this class that delinquents are harvested and later criminals are recruited. The child is a bundle of possibilities and a great deal depends upon the training whether the highest type of character will be evolved and the possibilities inherent in the child be fully developed and realized. We say he must be provided for, or the dignified influences in which he finds himself, will inevitably conquer and result in an undesirable and respected citizen, a disgrace to the community will be the result. The question is not a matter to influence or be influenced, for just so surely as the environing conditions in our midst just so surely will those conditions tend to drag the community down to their level. We must look upon every juvenile in the face and provide against such possibilities.

Must Increase Child Welfare

Child Welfare must be continued in its widest possible sense if the society which stands for this object is to be truly effective. Concentration on the purely material and physical aspects and child development to the exclusion of his moral, mental and spiritual welfare might lead, certainly to a higher grade physical child, but the development of this child to the detriment of the child's intelligence and sense of responsibility. A letter will with his bodily efficiency and he has not the power of mind to form a decent and useful life. I know that in many quarters the opinion is that this is so which is the basis of all good and useful citizenship. The fact remains that the child welfare work is not curative, but preventative, and while the descendency by a through study of its causes and effects is far reaching or eradicating them.

"Our relations with the Board of Management for their helpful assistance and loyal support throughout the year, while he also paid tribute to the ladies who showed splendid co-operation and assistance, especially the clothing committee who have worked on shifts cheerfully. Special mention was made of the work of the Executive and Finance Committee, referring to solicitors B. C. Donnan, K.C. and H. B. McGregor, and auditor, Mr. Sadler, to members of the police force, who also paid tribute to Provincial Police.

The work of the various women's organizations was praised by Mr. Ruston as he included them in his report, stating, while the Receiving home mothers and foster parents of the Children's Aid Society staff were not forgotten.

The Decline Of Hitler Is Prophesied By The Vision Of Ste. Odille

A prophecy made in the seventh century by Sainte Odile, patron saint of Alsace, telling of a terrible warrior will spring from Germany's womb who will undertake the sixth month of the second year of hostilities. It will be the end of the "winged warriors" (planes), hands carrying burning torches (flame throwers) and seizing "stars to throw them on towns from one end to another of the universe and light gigantic fires" (incendiary bombs), was reprinted in L'Alsacaun du Peuple in the volume of 1917. The almanac is published annually in Montreal by Librairie Beauchemin.

The conqueror, says the prophecy, "will come from the banks of the Danube." (Hitler was born in Austria in the Danube Valley.) He will be at his apex of victory after 18 months of hostilities. Then will be about half this time and then will come a still shorter period which will see the end of the war when the victor's armies "will be struck down by a mysterious and great illness." (An epidemic, or a new weapon of the Allies?)

The prophecy, originally written by Laila, nun, who became a devotion Sainte Odile said she had, had a letter to her brother. The text follows:

Listen, listen, O my brother, for the hour is near. Hear my words, Jesus and the mountains.

The fourth period will be of the shortest duration and the victor will have lost confidence in his warriors. This will be called the period of invasion, because, by reason of this retribution, the country of the conqueror, because of its injustices and his pretensions will be invaded in all parts and laid waste.

Among and around the mountain, torrents of blood will flow. It will be the time of tragedy.

Nations will sing their hymns of thanksgiving in the temples of God and will thank Him for their deliverance. Suddenly there will have appeared the warrior who will disperse the troops of the victor whose armies will be annihilated by an unknown and great illness. The malady will penetrate the hearts of his soldiers, while the nations of the three empires of God is there. It is a just punishment.

The peoples will believe that his end is near; the people will lift their hands and the people will rejoice.

Because God is just—strike sometimes allowing cruelty and depredations, all the agitated people who will have believed in Him will recover what they have lost and will be established as a reward on earth.

x x x

Countless regions that were lived and made bloody will be saved in a providential manner by their heroic defenders.

The region of Lozelia (Paris?) will itself be saved because of its blessed mountains and its pious women. This, although—every one will have believed it doomed.

Then the peoples will go to the mountains and offer their thanks to God, because men will have seen such terrible abominations in this war that their generations will never want more of it.

Woe, however, to those days to those who fear not the Anti-Christ, because he is the father of those whom Christ does not recognize. He will give rise to further murders and there will be many more tears shed. But the era of peace under the lion will have arrived and the two horns of the moon will be seen to be united under the Cross, because in these days frightened men will adore God in all truth and the sun will shine with unaccustomed brilliance.

Tribute To Mr. Ackerman

Mr. Fetterly referred briefly to the splendid work done by Mr. H. W. Ackerman, Chairman, Executive and Finance Committee members, who have rendered considerable time checking and passing all accounts each month, rendering to your Superintendent helpful advice and assistance. In keeping the finances in a healthy condition. We closed the year with a balance of $1,493 on the right side of the ledger, many of us can remember when that was not the case.

To Mr. B. C. Donnan, K.C., our Honorary Solicitor, also Mr. S. G. Robertson for kind assistance and advice in all legal matters pertaining to our work.

We thank Chief Constable Kidd, Inspector Gardner, O.P.P., Chief Bain, Trenton, and their staffs to a man, who have seconded our efforts.

To the various women's organizations who have helped and assisted with us.

To Dr. Doyle, Director Mental Health Clinic and staff, from whom we have received needful and valuable help.

To Mr. Spalding Home Matrons and foster parents, we owe a debt of gratitude for the fine understanding co-operation. We are proud of the mothers, who are doing such splendid work.

Also to Miss M. Robins, Social Worker, for her helpful and kind assistance given, over ready and willing to render any task assigned her. To Miss O. Brown for her devoted and able work in the office. Words fail to express adequately much the assistance rendered by Mr. Ruston in his duties, to whom sincerely thank them for the splendid co-operation given.

I would like on behalf of the Board and myself to thank the press for their fine co-operation.

Your Superintendent has endeavored to carry out his duties fairly, without fear on the one hand, or favor on the other, doing that which he felt was his duty. He, in all, visited some 2,000 homes and others. He is exceedingly grateful for past favors shown and the encouragement given, also the kicks received, for they both lend strength to the right cause.

What the leaves are to the forest
With light and air for food
Ere their sweet and tender juices
Have hardened into wood.

That to the world are children
Through them it feels the glow,
Of a light that shines around it
Then reaches the trunks below.

Belleville, Ontario
Dear Miss Brackenridge:

Your letter of February 18th was my most pleasant surprise. It is encouraging to know that the increased burdens of a nation at war have been lessened at the humane activity of you who are associated in the Victorian Order of Nurses and the good wishes extended. To have had the opportunity of serving the organization was a privilege I enjoyed to the utmost.

May the present year provide an increased opportunity for the continued use that organization to the essential service provided as faithfully by the nurses of Canada.

Best wishes to the officers, committee and nurses.

Yours very truly,
Richard W. Hart

A report of the nurses' activities for the past month was presented to the meeting by Miss Dorothy Porter.

Mr. Taylor Franklin, president, who was in the chair for the meeting expressed the committee's appreciation to all those who assisted in tagging or donating to the annual Tag Day appeal which netted a substantial sum to carry on the V.O.N. activities. Routine business was completed.

RURAL TEACHERS

Rural school trustees sometimes forget that it takes both time and money to become a teacher.

At the salaries that are now being paid it is difficult to see that ambitious young men and women can be attracted to the job of teaching in rural areas. The most that can be expected is that they will take such jobs merely as stop-gaps while looking all the time for something better.

Certainly few male teachers could hope to get married and support a wife and family on the present scale of remuneration.—Winnipeg Tribune.

Girl Guides Seek Generous Orders For Fresh Doughnuts In Drive For Red Cross Funds

Like doughnuts? Real ones, fresh from the oven, baked by expert cooks?

Then get that appetite whetted, for right now is the opportunity to secure your favorite accompaniment to a cup of coffee.

This week, today in fact, the Girl Guides of Belleville will call at your home and respectfully solicit your orders for these delicious confections, and will deliver them on Friday and Saturday, May 2nd and 3rd.

The little lassies, in the famous blue uniforms are anxious to do their bit for their King, Country and Empire, as the various war service organizations. They are going about this job of soliciting orders for, and delivering the doughnuts to your home with no other object than that of the doughnuts themselves.

Every cent derived from the Doughnut Campaign will be given to the Canadian Red Cross Society.

It is yet another way in which you can help supply comforts to the boys of the Empire's fighting services as well as succor to the brave Britishers peoples of the oppressed countries. Britain's requests is for many other resources where the need for comforts and necessities is the direct creation of suffering and preservation of life, is vital.

Encourage the Guides

And all the games and fun will be supplying a cheery note of appreciation for the efforts of the intrepid Guides in their willingness to do their bit like Mother and Auntie are doing likewise.

The young ladies have already started their campaign of solicitation of orders. When the familiar young figure in the blue uniform calls at your house, greet her with a smile—she may be a bit bashful at first—but beneath the blue blouse beats an intensely loyal British heart—one that is willing to do whatever it can to "help the boys."

So today or tomorrow, or whenever the lassies call at your home, treat them courteously, and order a doughnut—perhaps one dozen, two dozen, or six-dozen lots. The neighbors will like doughnuts, too, and not be home when the hot-cooked lads' ladies call.

Remember, delivery will be made promptly on Friday and Saturday, May 2nd and 3rd and all monies accruing from the venture will go to the Red Cross.

Make this, and next week Doughnut Week. Satisfy your appetites for the delicious goodies, and by doing so you will be rendering another push to the wheel of righteousness that, even now, is rolling along the highway of Freedom and Civilization.

Rebirth Of the Outdoors

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

The time of year has come when "that Aprille with his showres sote" arrives.

"This a month before the month of May

And the Spring comes slowly up this way."

as S. T. Coleridge once so happily put it.

For in the winter is past, the flowers appear on the earth, the time for the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land. Even the poet lover who got into the Old Testament by prooftexting can't have expected long ago.

The crocuses appear in the park along with some of the guys you thought were dead. The sassafras bottle is for sale, and the cold sore about over. Nothing remains of them save what you find in Adrian Gibbs proposed as the real case he wanted Sherlock Holmes and the two hour with Mr. and Mrs. Belcourn Westover.

Mrs. W. H. Kells and granddaughter, Miss Marjorie Jean Conlin, returned home on Saturday having spent the Easter holidays with Mrs. Kells' daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Whetung at their home, Lakefield.

Operations began at the Sidney Cheese and Butter Co. on Tuesday last.

Trying for Eighty

But for me the gladdest portent of Spring is that the bedroom exercises call to mind. Wind me can begin to get some normal activity in the great out-doors. Put away the dumbbells, Maggie, say I, and get me out my golf clubs and a can silver polish so I can get the rust off of them. Because I am going in for golf in eighty this year, Maggie, I am a going to make an eighty.

"Sometimes on account of what I wrote once I am accused of being against exercise". A crusty old bachelor, a friend of my neighbor of mine complains to his wife about me. I finally preach against exercise he notices me taking a walk every day if the weather be good. This is unfair. It is due to being misunderstood. What I do say is look I once wrote called minds me of what Oliver Wendell Holmes told a lady who had both books too much. "Some day", he said, "some day you will die of a misprint".

I did not say I was against exercises. I said exercise was not absolutely necessary to health. And that while exercise made you feel better, it would not prolong your life.

Indoor Exercise

What I am against is indoor exercises. I am against the kind of exercise that is supplying a cheery note of appreciation for the efforts of the intrepid Guides in their willingness to do their bit like Mother and Auntie are doing likewise.

The young ladies have already started their campaign of solicitation of orders. When the familiar young figure in the blue uniform calls at your house, greet her with a smile—she may be a bit bashful at first—but beneath the blue blouse beats an intensely loyal British heart—one that is willing to do whatever it can to "help the boys."

AIDED IN PRISONERS' CAPTURE

Mrs. Hugh McDonnell, station agent's wife, gave the alarm when she saw two men running into the woods. She quickly notified patrolling soldiers who captured the two escaped prisoners within 15 minutes.

A Home Guard Story

—Major-General J. H. Bellh, in an address to the Army of Today" at the Royal Empire Society, told the following story: Not long ago a brigadier inspected to pass a Home Guard sentry post in London. He recognized the sentry—his own solicitor, who turned out the guard. They were all elderly and most of them wore a good many service ribbons. He asked one man, "What were you before you joined the Home Guard?" "A rear-admiral, Sir". He passed to the next. "And what were you?" "A major-general, Sir". He moved somewhat hurriedly to the third man. "You are wearing an ammunition that I don't seem to recognize at all. Forgive, I suppose?" "I was an admiral, Sir". After that the brigadier dismissed the guard.—London Times.

Uncle Sam's Big New Army Fit to Fight for Hemisphere

By DON GLASSMAN

Written Exclusively for Ontario Intelligencer and Central Press Canadian

New York.—For 20 years a skeleton force barely able to police the military outposts of the country, the United States army today can throw a million trained men into the field and by June, 1941, it will have become a mobile mechanized fighting force the size and a half million strong.

Plans have already been made to double the last figure and bring the manpower up to 2,000,000 on short notice should the, turn of events demand it. Any foreign power which lands on the western hemisphere must first reckon with this army whose training is based on the practical lessons of the European war and whose equipment embodies the latest innovations in military science and tactics.

The sudden expansion of Uncle Sam's fighting forces was made possible by advance paper preparations worked out in detail by the war department general staff.

Many Innovations

Many innovations recently adopted in the United States army are lessons from the wars in Europe, Africa and the Far East. Since 1931, when hostilities broke out in China, the United States army has been represented by military observers at the front lines.

Such observers are now stationed on the continent, in England, Africa, China, Thailand and the Dutch East Indies. Their duty is to keep the general staff abreast of developments in military science and tactics.

When German panzer columns smashed through Holland, Belgium and France, United States army observers on the scene filed reports with the war department, confirming what many American military leaders already knew, namely, that the time had come to abandon the old-fashioned notion of soldiers on foot, or fighting on a par with the bloody earth known as No Man's Land.

Today mechanization and firepower are the military combat, and any army which fails to benefit by these lessons learned recently is doomed.

A Late Start

A rather late start in expanding has given the United States army a technical advantage, for in designing and building new mechanized equipment, it can profit by its own experience and that of the European war.

There is good reason to believe that the new armament rolling off assembly lines is superior to most of the equipment now in the hands of European belligerents.

One military lesson of world war II may be reduced to a single compound word — speed-mobility. The French anchored an army to the Maginot line, but the Nazi tanks made a tactical detour around the fixed fortifications and reached their objective, Paris, with minimum losses.

Fully cognizant that the United States must be prepared for action anywhere in the western hemisphere, the United States army command is planning for mobile operations by building a mass-production tank; arsenal where 25-ton tanks are to be produced on a production line with greater speed and economy than the world has ever known.

184,000 Army Tanks

The army still drills its men for footmanoeuvres and marches, but in actual combat it will soon have 184,000 speedy trucks and motor cars to move them at will.

Besides trucks and tanks, the army's combat units have ordered for prompt delivery 1,400 anti-tank guns, 13,000 trench mortars, 2,000 mount cars, 2,960 anti-aircraft guns, 400,000 automatic rifles, 300,000 machine-guns, etc.

The air corps program calls for 18,000 new planes immediately and many thousands more for later delivery. More than 50,000 student pilots will receive active training in 1941 and 30,000 advanced specialized training. The present air corps force has passed the 125,000 mark and is increasing rapidly.

About $2,000,000,000 have been appropriated for big guns now coming off production lines in ever-increasing numbers.

Fast-Firing Guns

Standbys of the new artillery regiments are the 75-mm. pieces which range seven miles and fire 16 three-inch shells per hour, each shell weighing 15 pounds, and the 155-mm. howitzers which hurl 100-pound shells into an enemy's midst 10 miles away.

For special assignments the artillery hauls out odd guns which threaten that sling, whistle, burr or burst into shrapnel, gas, smoke or whatever the enemy hates at the moment.

New infantry divisions have two artillery regiments, light and heavy, 60-odd guns in all, and in order to keep with the new mobility of infantry, the artillery and accompanying ammunition trains are motors also.

The army's coastal defence guns range from six to 16 inches, depending upon location. The 16-inch guns are straight-bore barbets and pots, and can toss a 2,000-pound armor-piercing shell for a distance of 20 miles. Besides, there are many three, six, eight and 10-inch caliber guns and 12-inch high-firing mortars.

Anti-Aircraft Batteries

Supplemented by 800,000,000 candle-power searchlights, anti-aircraft batteries are located behind the "first defenses." Under the guidance of a "mechanical brain," a battery of four anti-aircraft guns can fire 100 aimed shots per minute. All branches of the United States army equipped with anti-aircraft batteries, sound - locating devised and searchlights.

Other vital units of the United States army are the signal corps and the engineer corps, the fellows who won't understand the word "can't." They dig tunnels, move mountains, furnish water, run railroads, cross flooded rivers and carry a general assortment of bridges.

The signal corps manages the communications system — gemaphore, radio, carrier pigeon, telephone, telegraph, courier and others which are secret. As a sideline, it forecasts weather, makes photographs and movies, and listens to enemy radio and telephone conversations. Besides operating its own fixed radio network that covers the globe.

Mechanized Cavalry

The new army boasts mechanized cavalrymen who mount armored cars, combat cars, motorcycles, baby tanks and horses, if the terrain requires them.

Many of the armored units carry machine-guns, and two-way radios, enabling men to shoot and talk whether they are moving or are at a standstill. Every unit of a mechanized cavalry regiment can roll, and its fire power makes it a versatile "hell-on-wheels."

The United States army will soon have about 27 infantry divisions ready for action with the latest mechanized equipment. The fire-power of individual soldiers has been greatly increased.

A revolution in infantry tactics has taken place in the last few years. The new United States Infantry Manual explains that an advancing infantryman will be assisted by supporting fire from the rear. Instead "line of fire" in the rear, composed of heavy machine-guns and mortars, is coordinated with the movement of riflemen.

Collapse Of Detroit Tigers One Of Baseball's Early Season Mysteries To Experts

Team Shows No Fight, Their Hitting Weak and Fielding Frightful

VANDER MEER SMART

By JUDSON BAILEY

The plight of Detroit Tigers is something to ponder on these days.

The champions of the American League are in the cellar with a record of only one victory in five games and with more grief piling in wait for the day that Hank Greenberg is inducted into the army.

Fighting spirit as much as any other single factor carried Detroit to a championship last year, but its morale apparently is gone. The team performed miserably in the Grapefruit grind, and this same sluggishness has carried over into the regular season. The Tigers' pitching has been good, but their famed hitting has been a myth and their fielding frightful.

Yesterday Bill Dietrich of Chicago White Sox almost pitched a no-hitter against them. The Respectacled righthander who pranced into baseball's select society with a no-hitter against the Browns in 1937, didn't give a safety until he had one out in the ninth. Then 14th inning to beat Boston Bees 6-5 and St. Louis Cardinals edged past Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 with two runs in the 12th after Pittsburgh had scored once.

Drop Third Straight Game to Newark Bears by 10-2 —Get

LEAFS IDLE

(By the Associated Press)

The champion Rochester Red Wings are in a strange plight today — the International baseball league cellar.

They dropped their third straight contest yesterday to Newark Bears here 10-2, getting six hits off Hank Borowy. The all hits represent the most safe blows they have had in the four games they have lost.

Victory kept the Bears in a tie for first place with Buffalo as the Bisons defeated Baltimore Orioles, 8-6. Jersey City Giants turned back Montreal Royals 6-3 in the only other game. Cold weather caused postponement of a Toronto-Syracuse match.

The Bears unleashed a 17-hit attack against four pitchers including Fred Frueh Hutchinson his second victory of the campaign.

Rochester's record of seven City bunched blows afforded it the first and eighth innings to score all its runs.

Hugh Bedford Casey City starter, gave all of Montreal's hits before he was lifted in favor of Al Epperly in the seventh. Royal rally that netted two runs in the eighth

DAVE CASTILLOUX HELD TO A DRAW

Montreal, April 23.—(CP)—Bushy-haired Harry Sturt, who talked himself into a shot at Dave Castilloux' Canadian lightweight title, was assured today of another chance after his courageous battle with the 135-pound draw with the ring-wise Castilloux.

No match in experience for the 22-year-old champion, Hurst offset the edge with an aggressive display that netted him a share of about 7,000 in an uproar.

Holding a one-pound advantage over his 134-pound opponent, Hurst moved in to start his finish. Although on the defensive, Castilloux built up a point-lead on his flicking jabs and heady infighting, however, and took a wild rush round which new both battlers slug it out toe to toe, to draw Hurst even.

It was the first defence of his title for Castilloux since getting it when Jack Bergot moved to a heavier division.

The draw was a moral victory for Hurst, less than a year ago a sparring partner of the champion. Since branching out on his own, he has scored a string of impressive knockouts in the United States and returned to his hometown, Montreal, for his fight by challenge.

Bob Feller Warns Pitch-Stealers To Stop Calling Throws

Cleveland, April 23—(AP) — Bob Feller warned American League pitch-stealers today to stop calling his throws or half their clubs "will be in the hospital."

The 22-year-old strike-out king made it plain he wouldn't toss any "bean balls"—but that the result might be serious if an opposing batter were looking for a curve and got a blazing fast ball which didn't "break" when it reached his head.

Rapid Robert's thoughts were focused particularly on the third base coaching boxes occupied by those astute baseball observers, Coach Mule Haas of Chicago and Manager Del Baker of Detroit. Haas told the White Sox what to expect when they beat Feller on opening day, 4 to 3, and Baker frequently called them for the Tigers last season.

Warning Haas and Baker not to do it again Feller declared "My pitches are my meat and butter and nobody's going to steal them. If they try, the batters may be picking baseball out of their ears. If they are looking for a curve and accidentally get a fast one I wouldn't surprise me any."

Allan Cup Finals May End Tonight

Saskatoon, April 23—(CP)—The Allan Cup finals may end tonight with Sydney Millionaires playing the Canadian Senior Hockey Championship for the first straight games but you can never tell with a fighting team like Toronto Rangers.

Sydney won the first game 8-6 and the second 8-3.

Both teams arrived in Saskatoon yesterday from Regina and rested for the third game.

Two players on the Regina team are handicapped by injuries but coach Metcalfe plans to use them tonight. Centre Scotty Cameron suffered a charley horse in the first game and defenceman Sandy Sandwick is away below his usual effectiveness because of a severe shoulder injury suffered in the western finals.

Dick Kowalenack, centre of one Sydney forward line, played only part of the two previous games because his left arm weakened because of fracture near the wrist suffered ten weeks ago. Dick found a cast saved his arm in the second game and he may be able to play throughout the third.

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with Ken I. Colling

And they call 'em "the weaker sex," but don't ever believe it.

On Monday night practice was called for the Corby A.C. softball team, but owing to the chilly breezes only a handful put in an appearance, some six or seven to be exact. However, after standing around scuffing as to their diamond accomplishments of the past, the boys decided it was "much too cold" to engage in anything that resembled a softball practice or laborious efforts and called it a day.

At the other end of the Collegiate Campus, however, were lined up no less than four girls' teams, many of the players beckoned in summer shorts, the sight of which would make any man shiver, but not these hardened lassies, who seemed to revel in their long-awaited opportunity to don their harness, despite the chilly temperature. "Dizzies," quoth the gals as they saw the men disperse.

Of the four gals' teams watching out, Chuck Barnett's "Big 7" champions look on the Dozens in a scrimmage game, while Mike Parsons had the Vikings in another corner and Jimmie Barnes had his Kewpies shagging flies among the bushes. Last year there were no less than three Helen Thompsons on the gals' loop line-ups. There'll only be two this year as in order to separate 'em we call one "Babe," for the Helen Thompson we caught for the K-Nines last season. "Babe" has moved in with Chuck Barnett's Keller nine this year, while her double, Helen Thompson by Marg Zebedee, formerly with Vikings. As a matter of fact the K-Nines have Marg's sister Zebedee girls and they'll form one-half of Coach Barnett's battery with Mary (Lickfold) Lawrence performing in the pill for first love. Wilma Clarke has shifted her softball affections to the Zellers, but be prepared to become acquainted with the local gals' softball realm when the season opens, many of whom be public school girls, we hear.

Kingston will honour their champion senior C.O.D. team at a civic banquet to be held next Thursday, April 24th. Invites have been invited as special guests, including the famous New York Ranger front line of Frankie Boucher, Bill and Bun Cook and Lester Patrick, also Gene O. H. A. The Cook brothers are Kingston natives and should be included at such an auspicious hockey occasion. The Cook boys can get together with Jim Sutherland and Wally Diener for a good old-fashioned fanning bee and a good time will doubtless be had by all, with the guests of honour — the Combines—sitting around listening to others retel as to the greatness of the past. (They'll do it every-where.)

There was a goodly turnout of prospects for Junior O.A.S.A. softball practice at the Collegiate last night and providing the weather turns milder "Bert" Townsend will welcome any others on Friday night. In the meantime the Corby A.C. will give it another try on Thursday night at the Collegiate campus.

What next—now we hear two Texas State cities are seeking berths in the American Hockey Association for 1941-42. The two cities mentioned are Dallas and Fort Worth. Just how minor league hockey can expect to fly-nance club trips from St. Paul to Texas or vice versa is a problem, however the Lone Star State boosters have the money and ought to do business, but what of places like Omaha or Minneapolis, the like there? Why don't the Texans include Austin and Galveston to complete a compact Texas League set-up. Incidentally Oklahoma City and Little Rock to make a good six-teamed loop with smaller jumps for a trial season at least? However, I only want to prove just how rapidly Canada's national winter sport is spreading, although we heard little of the Florida League this year.

Speaking on the future of softball in Peterboro, Scribe Fred Craig says "The softball for the City Loop is a little obscure but it is not anticipated that there will be any difficulty in organizing a good league this summer. What the softballers probably will be up against, however, is the problem of securing officers who will take a full share of the work. Both Fred Scales and Max Glover who had to carry most of the burden last season threaten to retire and if they succeed in making it stick, the loop will have a job to replace 'em, Fair."

To those anxious regarding the opening of the trout season, Game Warden Herb McCabe tells us there has been no official deviation from the conventional opening date of May 1st, but he would immediately notify us if anything was to be any advanced date for trout fishing. With May 1st falling on a Thursday, it is hardly likely the Department of Fishing will advance the date five full days, so it looks as though the anglers will have to wait until a week-end—Sunday—to officially catch that first trout of the season.

SPORT SPICE — Bob Brawn, one of the fielding lights at the Belleville Golf Club, called in this am. to say that the east end golf club has engaged a new pro, F. J. Cavanagh, to be in charge. . . . And the course is in mid-season condition, too," said Bob. . . . Too bad you didn't have a two-spot on Mad Scramble at Bay Meadows yesterday, the sag paid $38.80 for a two-buck ticket. The all-time record for a $2 pay-off was on Wishing Ring on a June day in 1937 when the price was $1,883.50. . . . Johnnie Vander Meer came back. . . . The balder of two successive no-hit efforts in 1938 bested Big Bill Lee and the Cubs yesterday thwarting four-hit ball and winning 1-0. . . . Not a single entry was received when the Kingston Softball League met last night and the outlook is anything but rosy for the "big ball" pastime in the Limestone City. . .

NICE GIRL?
Deanna Durbin, Franchot Tone
2.00 — 7.30 — 9.35

AT THE CAPITOL
"Nice Girl?"
By far the freshest cast ever assembled for a Deanna Durbin picture is the star in "Nice Girl?" now playing to capacity audiences at the Capitol Theatre.
The film is Deanna's ninth, following her record-breaking eight straight hits, and in each of these Deanna Durbin pictures Producer Joe Pasternak has had an all-star standing cast. Yet Hollywood observers just noted that the same new supporting cast contains more stellar names than any previous line-up, most of them appearing with the star for the first time.
Tone Has Conspicuous Role
Franchot Tone appears with Miss Durbin for the first time in the role of a representative of a New York advertising firm.
The Academy Award-winning character actor, Walter Brennan, also has an original story to play a prominent role in the production. Brennan, who has been a favorite with Deanna's fans since his memorable performance in "Come and Get It," is cast as a wealthy eccentric who is persuaded by Deanna to invest in a radio broadcast.
Also making his initial appearance with Deanna, as a Connecticut postman and town "character", Helen Broderick, a favorite with Miss Durbin's family and "romantic interest" for Brennan, also appears with the star for the first time.
Robert Benchley, too, makes his first appearance with Deanna in the role of Franchot Tone's father, a town scientist. Robert Stack, popular young leading man who was Deanna's "First Love" in "It's a Date," is seen in the role of Tone's secretary.
Popular Favorites
Ann Gillis, Barbara Brownie, and Anne Gwynne, featured player in Deanna's eight pictures, "Spring Parade," portray the stars' friends at Connecticut College, while Nana Bryant, well-known character actress, also are seen as a pair of gossipy New Yorkers who constantly interfere with the long cast include George Barbier, Geoffrey Bryant, Nell O'Day, Marcia Mae Jones, William Demarest, Thomas Jackson, Hobart Bosworth, Selmer Jackson and Tommy Kelly.
Deanna sings five numbers, including Stephen Foster's "Old Folks at Home" and four new songs: "Perfidia", "Love At Last," "Thank You, America" and "Three'll Always Be An England." Miss Durbin's singing is a special hit made as a gesture to the British people in wartime.
The screen play of "Nice Girl?" was based on an original story by Phyllis Duganne. Joe Valentine was the photographer.
Following the excellent feature picture a colored cartoon will be shown as well as a Pete Smith Novelty Reel featuring the British Navy.
"Nice Girl?" will remain at the Capitol for the remainder of the week.

ADMIRAL DARLAN LEAVES FOR PARIS

Newspapers Report That Government Changes Pending at Vichy

Vichy, April 23 (AP)— Admiral Jean Darlan, French Vice Premier, left Vichy today by automobile, presumably for Paris for a preliminary discussion of Nazi terms for closer collaboration between the two countries.
His departure was several hours ahead of schedule and he cancelled engagements listed here for this afternoon.
Hints of "imminent" Vichy cabinet changes to create a more "satisfactory" government have appeared in the press since the recent conference of France.
The Paris-Midi, in its latest available (Tuesday afternoon) edition, said in a front page story reports are current that a new government change is impending" and added:
"Vice Premier Jean Darlan's conversations in Paris are said to be not unconnected with this cabinet change. It is assured, would give public opinion the satisfaction it long has demanded."

AT THE McCARTHY

"Charley's (Big Hearted) Aunt" which opens today at the McCarthy Theatre is a hilarious farce-comedy.
Brandon Thomas, Liverpool but the nearest any of his family ever got to the stage was a seat in the circle at the pantomimes. Although only thirteen at the outbreak of the last war, he used to go the rounds of the various Liverpool hospitals and sing to the wounded soldiers.
By this time Arthur had decided that the stage was the only thing for him and after writing a private party he was seen by a summer show producer and offered the job of a female comedian at the Olympic Gardens, Rock Perry.
By the time he was twenty-four Arthur had toured Britain with various shows and after several pantomime engagements he came to London and worked up a connection with Masonic Concert Party organizers. He sometimes did as many as seven shows a night. In 1912 he started broadcasting and while fulfilling several cabaret engagements in the West End of London he could write his own songs and patter.
In 1914 he started writing for Max Miller in the big "Coronation Scot" days and also for Billy Bennett. Askey got his big chance. Reining with Anthony Quinn, Vivian Duke and Syd Talbot. The closing chapter of "Charley's Aunt" in which the identity of Lord Fancourt Babberley is at last disclosed, will also be shown at the McCarthy Theatre, Wednesday, and will be run continuously on Saturday.

DEVASTATING FOREST FIRES SWEEPING NEW JERSEY

An airview of the forest fire which is at present raging over a 25-mile area between Lakewood and Toms River, N.J., is pictured ABOVE. The roaring flames whipped by high winds, threatened the southern end of Lakewood while fire apparatus from as far away as Newark and Jersey City, 50 miles distant, was pressed into the battle against the ravaging blaze. Hundreds of spring vacationists in this resort town, were reported to be evacuating the area by train, bus and auto. The Paul Kimball hospital in South Lakewood, a three-story structure, was saved from destruction by the combined efforts of the fire-fighters, volunteers and doctors and nurses.

"WE STAND ON GUARD FOR THEE . . ."

The threatening muzzle of this ponderous coastal gun and the watchful eyes of this Canadian sentry are trained eastward toward the troubled waters of the Atlantic. Numerous pieces of artillery such as the one shown in this photo protect Canada's seaboard.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was hunting around in the dining room closit just for something to do and I noticed the blue plate in 3 broke pieces on the 3rd shelf that ma stuck up there a long time ago on account of thinking she might fix it some time, and I had an idea for a great magician act to surprise ma with, and I stuck the 3 broke pieces under my sweater and took one of the good blue plates up to ma's room, saying, here I am, ma, Benny the great magician, do you want to see a great trick?

What are you doing with that plate, one of the good blue plates for land sakes, is that anything to be sitting carrying around the house? ma said, and I said, Well G wimickers, ma, I'm not carrling it, I'm carrying it careful, I want to show you a great trick with it.

I consider it a great enough trick this there's almost a dozen of those plates left to tell the tall without having you shooing me for any of your monkey shines, and I want you to carry that right back again every time carefully like you carried it up, ma said, and I said, Well G, ma, that's impossible, I mean I couldn't be more careful, and holey smoker, ma, I tell you it's a swell trick. What do you bet I cant put this plate under a blanket and jump on it and break it and show you the pieces to prove it, and then presto change-o rotten tomato cans produce it before your very eyes all fixed as good as new without even a crack, what do you bet, ma? I said.

I'll bet you a good smack, now you take that plate right over, ma said.

And she grabbed for it so sudden the 3 broke pieces started to fall out from under my sweater and I tried to keep them up there by wiggling and dropping the good plate, the result being there was 7 broke pieces on the floor including both plates, and I tried to explain to ma it was her fault for not leaving me do the trick, making her more mad instead of less, so I gradually gave up trying to make her see the point.

KING PETER AND YUGOSLAV GOV'T IN MIDDLE EAST

Will Continue Struggle as Britain's Ally, Says Foreign Secretary

YUGOSLAVS ASSURED

London, April 23 (CP)—Foreign Secretary Eden told parliament today King Peter of Yugoslavia and his government "have established themselves in the Middle East"—and will continue the struggle as Britain's ally.

Mr. Eden said the Yugoslavs could be assured "of the sympathy and assistance of help" from Britain whose firm intention is to help maintain the independence of Yugoslavia".

Prime Minister Churchill said "the glove" tactics heretofore would not be used wherever Britain has "power to strike back with effective action".

Asked about "increasing permeation" of the Balkans by the Nazis, Britain landed troops last week to protect Greece from the Nazi menace he was "well aware of the potential menace of our interests".

Mr. Churchill said in August Italy

It was Sir Henry Morris-Jones who asked Mr. Eden if he would see to it "that no kid gloves and parade uniform" considerations are shown German agents" in Iraq and demanded that they be cleared out of that country "bag and baggage, fight away."

Mr. Eden answered: "I do not know whether the honorable member is applying to the Speaker's pabula to me. If so I can assure him they will have no hesitation in any case we may take where we have power and authority to take action."

GRECIAN KING

King's Statement

The king's statement in full said:

"The hard destinies of war compel us to get away from Athens together with the Greek Crown from the lawful government of the country which has been chosen by the whole country to Crete, whence we shall be able to continue the fight which is the will of the whole nation and the duty of safeguarding the independence of Greece, which we have begun and undertaken after unprovoked and unjustified attack which was rude the object by two empires. Our decision to the free development and of the Greek people having been manifested in the struggle and by the mean resistance to the end on the part of the Greek troops, whom the Australian allies who rushed help to us and whose fighting on Greek territory for the sake of the right cause.

Act Does Not Bind Nation

"Our troops, exhausted from the hard and victorious war which they had been waging for six months against a much stronger enemy and having written the most glorious pages of our military history, continued the fight against the German with inconceivable heroism. We do not need to know in what conditions exactly our army of Epirus has been found and signed an armistice with the enemy without our knowing it.

"This act, in no way binds the free will of the nation, the king and the government, which unreservedly state of a continuation of the struggle with all remaining forces with a view to securing the supreme national interests.

Will Continue Fight

"Being compelled to proceed to Crete, I do it only in order that freely and from Greek territory we may be able to continue in fight against the invaders until the final victory which will crown full the great sanctities of the nation.

"Do not lose your courage, Greeks, even during this painful moment of our history. We shall always be among you.

"The right of our struggle and God will help us to secure by all means final victory in exile of the trials, oaths and dangers which we shall go through. In the meantime

"Remain faithful to the idea of a united and undivided, free country, intensify your will, concentrate your forces to enemy force and enemy feminine. Thus your career of good days will come again. Long live the nation."

POSITION

It was not immediately clear how many of Greece's fighting men were involved in the battle now begun about 600,000 at the start of the war had gone into action.

It was the army of Epirus, however, which scored the most successes against the Italians after they invaded Greece last Oct. 28, driving deep into Albania and then later sweeping up the Albanian coast for more than 100 miles.

Island 75 Miles Free Mainland

During the past month the Greek army has been falling back from a flanking German thrust from the south. It was cleared, and army finally had been hemmed in between the Italian and German forces and a Nazi column stabbing southwestward from Salonika reached Melavo in an encircling movement.

The Germans have claimed the capture of Ioannina.

The Island of Crete, designated by King George as the new seat of government, lies 75 miles off the southeastern tip of Greece and about 400 miles from the end of the Libyan coast, where Axis armies are now engaged in a drive aimed at the Suez Canal.

British forces established bases on Crete and have been overseeing the construction of the Greek-Italian war.

Meanwhile, Germany today were tuning a new onslaught against the re-established allied right wing in the Lokris mountains with an all-out attempt to isolate Greece from reinforcements by German ports and showering bombs on ferry-port of Piraeus, the coastal cities of Megara, and the Athens suburb of Attika district, all around Athens.

Fortified by the Stands of Leonidas

Corfu and Cephalonia also were bombed, and the High Command sadly today declared—

"Enemy air action continues intensely, but the enemy suffered considerable losses from the air force and anti-aircraft artillery."

Fighting Very Fierce

Of the land fighting, the 31th Command said, "The withdrawal of our troops has been completed without any serious incidents."

The fighting, now within 100 miles of Athens, was described as fierce.

(The present defence stand apparently was hinged at Thermopylae on the east coast, where during the northern rise of the Lokris range and across the tangled peninsula to the vicinity of Arta, south of Ioannina, where the Nazis reported taking yesterday.

(Dispatches from an Associated Press correspondent on the Albanian moyine front said last night that the British, Greek and Australian fighting had withdrawn to the new mountain line without loss of the bulk of their equipment.

(He said that Larissa, just north of Thermopylae, had been bombed to ruins as was Lamia.

(German military spokesmen claimed last night their forces had pushed through the Servia pass to the sight of Thermopylae.)

Celebrate at Salonika

"From the correspondent on this front came word, too, that Hitler was believed to have had his birthday celebration last Sunday at captured Salonika. German accounts of the celebration said he was in his railroad car headquarters on the Balkan front, but did not mention whether this actually was Salonika Greece.)

(Dispatches received yesterday from Daniel De Luce, another Associated Press correspondent who crossed the Aegean Sea in a fishing boat from Greece to Turkey, said the German legation in Athens had served as a clearing house for information to Nazis about British forces sent to Greece.

Greek forces, De Luce said, were estimated unofficially at 50,000 to 60,000 men, mostly Australians, with hundreds of tanks, River-gun carriers and trucks.

(He declared the German military attache at Athens had been "extremely embarrassed" during British expeditionary force encampments in civilian clothes.)

U. S. CLOSES

Meanwhile, in Ottawa, Canadian Government officialities expressed appreciation of the United States decision to lighten the treatment accorded escaped prisoners of war who reach the United States. These officials saw the new regulations simplifying the situation from the Canadian point of view.

When Von Werra jumped his bail Jackson and the State Department were considering his case to decide whether he should be interned or detained here for the duration of the war. An internment camp order for had recommended that he be detained "as Canada is practicable", and otherwise sent to Germany but only after he had been tried for illegal entry. The case was appealed to the Immigration Board of Review which met in Ottawa late February 27.

Terms of Hospitality

"He invoked certain principles of international law and certain international policy considerations were involved," Jackson said in introducing a U. S. statement to Canada, United States Attorney and Marshal.

"While this matter was in course of consideration by the authorities and by the Department of State Von Werra was released in care of his Consul-General in New York on deposit of a $10,000 bond.

"Subsequently he broke that right in violation of the terms of his release. He committed another flagrant abuse of neutral hospitality which had been invoked on his behalf.

"The policy of this department in enforcement of the law has been on account of what appears to be a strong feeling on the part of Canada of abusing the privileges and illegal entry of aliens.

"The Attorney-General issued these instructions:

"That the escaping prisoner of war shall be turned back at the United States border to Canada and that he be delivered into the United States. Any force necessary may be used to protect our border against such intrusion as authorized and directed.

"That the prosecution of offenses against the United States be instituted in the light of this incident."

Von Werra Is Slightly Hurt

The order to close the border was considered here to be significant in that it would prevent escaping airmen from an internment camp in Canada reaching the United States mainland now under way for the duration of the war.

The order should be of great value to Canadian authorities in preventing escapes, removing the incentive of comparatively easy access to the United States and perhaps freedom or return to German lines by the escaping prisoner.

Last month, Bernhart Gohoke and Heinz Rottman, two German prisoners of war, escaped from Bowmanville internment camp, Hemy, near Kingston, Ont., and reached the United States border. Their application for admission to the United States was refused and they were turned over to Canadian authorities. They were given duress that of Von Werra's in that they had not actually effected an escape.

It was thought possible that Von Werra might try to make his way back to Germany by air as Rottman had escaped air line Lisbon, running from Rio de Janeiro to Lisbon with stops at Natal, Brazil, then over Fernando de Noronha, 300 miles east of Natal, Bolama, the Portuguese Cape Verde Islands, then to Bordeaux, France.

Furthermore, until recently, Germany's line, Deutsche Lufthansa, ran air services to Buenos Aires, across South America to Rio de Janeiro by way of Natal, Bolivia. However, Peru recently asked the Germans to close all offices there, since, stopping service between Lima and La Paz. Connections still are possible from La Paz into Rio.

447 Italians Taken By Aussies In Libyan Raids

Cairo, April 23 —(AP)— Australian troops have captured 447 Italians in successful raids from Tobruk, Libya, the British General Headquarters announced today.

SERIOUSLY INJURED

Kingston, Ont., April 23 (CP)— John Chaplin of Brantford, injured in an automobile accident near Gananoque on Monday, was reported today to be in serious condition. His wife, daughter and son were reported as not serious.

Mrs. Chaplin died injuries and lacerations, and is also suffering from concussion.

Libya Offensive May Be Renewed It Is Believed

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington, April 23 (AP)— Prime Minister Churchill has thrown out a veiled hint that events may be impending in North Africa which will lighten a little the load upon overburdened Britain's navy.

Exactly what his words to Parliament implied is uncertain; yet to this seasoned observer they seem rich. Perhaps Nazi air scouts have spied signs of an impending counter-attack from the Germans and the Axis forces feel compelled to strike forward in the meantime to break it up.

Another estimation that the British Command may have been able to build substantial reinforcements into Egypt from East Africa has now come from neutral sources. Such reinforcements, presumably, who reached Turkey from the British front in Greece estimates the the strength of the Empire forces in Greece at from 60,000 to 80,000 men. He pictured that army as retiring under protection of desperately fighting rear guards after a fierce Greek stand on its left flank to repeat Dunkirk withdrawal through the ports.

It is the story of that retreat that Mr. Churchill refused to tell now to Parliament. Yet the estimate of the situation implies nothing that all in Greece implies either that some such withdrawal is underway or that a greater portion of the Army of the Nile than has been publicly diverted toward the East African theatre of war. It was sent to Greece. It is that in true, a considable British force must be mustered to the Libyan front to protect the frontier for defensive or offensive action.

Greek Situation Grave.

The Germans have the facts as to that, however, hour-by-hour reports from Greece picture an increasingly grave situation there. Greek and their British allies alike. Mr. Churchill's statement yesterday to Parliament on the Balkan campaign can only further worsen an already long-range bombers deliberately hit their fighter escorts as soon as it had joined battle and protected Nazi bombers were shot down. London unaccompanied. They suffered heavy casualties when engaged by our rear rank of fighters.

On Aug. 30 and 31 the assault was switched to blunt fighter attacks.

"Eight hundred aircraft were used in the two attacks, and the greatest concentration of fighters ever used in one attack, but only a small proportion of the total number of aircraft available for the attack. Our losses were 219 aircraft, but 132 of our pilots were saved.

"The heavy task of the defence

British Navy Guns Blast Tripoli Into Heaps Of Rubbish

Officers Say It Was Most Spectacular Bombardment Of Naval History

HEAVY AERIAL ATTACK

By LARRY ALLAN
A. P. Staff Writer

Tripoli's radio station, freight yards and power-plant burst into a mass of flames as armor-piercing shells crashed into underground oil deposits.

As sheets of fire spurted high into the sky, shivers crashed into the ears and concussion rocked buildings, destroying them as though they had been made of cardboard.

Sensible Bombardment

The surprise bombardment of Mussolini's heavily fortified African possession, once the base of Tripoli pirates and now the jumping-off place of Hitler's tanks threatening Egypt, opened up a few minutes after a wave of bombers handed Tripoli one of the severest batterings of the war.

Huge, darkened British battleships, cruisers and destroyers, faintly silhouetted in the moonlight, steamed majestically in single file, maneuvering around a network of mines, until they came within the point-blank range of Tripoli harbor.

I stood on a battleship signal deck and felt the energizing vibrating toyer for fully 90 minutes before the salvoes began to rock and roll Tripoli's heavy anti-aircraft guns spoke there, trying to hit bombing planes.

Spitfires Fire

Splinters of fire showered into the sky. I saw thousands of tracer "flaming onions" and other snakelike into the darkness from defence bases. Blue, green, red and white bursts of bullets merged into a scene reminiscent of a Christmas tree.

I saw scores of heavy and high explosive bombs crash along Tripoli's harbor-line, Fires mushroomed. Some fires battered which for a time seemed to fire from their circular positions ceased. The darkness was splashed with great blobs of ruddy light from explosions of the British missiles.

No British Planes Hit

German and Italian anti-aircraft guns failed to hit the British planes. More high explosive bombs plunged down and then British planes doused Tripoli with thousands of incendiary bombs and fire swept.

The incendiaries provided just what the battle fleet needed in the way of illumination. The fires, along with long-burning flares brightly outlined the important targets.

Flashes from shore batteries had ceased, except for two guns, by the time the battle fleet moved into broadside position.

The battleship commander told me at that time "we shall open fire any moment."

Guns Fire Salvoes

Suddenly, a mighty flash of yellow flame flooded from the nearby flagship's 15-inch guns. Then a full salvo from the long-gray barrels of the lesser guns. Their targets were the Spanish fort, barracks and warehouses of Tripoli.

I braced myself, adjusted my steel helmet, jammed wads of cotton in my ears and fastened my life-belt.

In a few seconds, the guns of this battleship roared.

Yellowish flame from the five 15-inch forward guns swept back through the narrow observation slits of the conning-tower.

The huge battleship shuddered. Shreds of fire made the conning tower as light as day and then everything was black before my eyes. The darkness cleared within a few seconds, but in time it took me to catch the flashes of the 4.5-inch guns. At 5:42 o'clock the bombardment with Tripoli for the present at least.

STALIN SPEAKS OF GUARDING SOVIET UNION

In First Speech Since War Started He Recalls That Lenin Taught Us to Guard This Great Union

SPEAKS AT RECEPTION

Moscow, April 23—(AP)—In his first public address since the war started, Joseph Stalin, the country's munitionative leader of Russia's millions, reminded a Kremlin audience last night that Nikolai Lenin had "taught us to guard this great union."

Stalin's last previous speech was to the Communist Party Congress in March, 1939, when he declared that Russia was not interested in allowing herself to be drawn into a war against "the usual enemies of other peoples' chestnuts out of the fire for them."

His words last night were spoken at the palace of the Kremlin, at a reception for singers and dancers who have just concluded an art festival here.

That, the Soviet news agency, briefly reported that Generalissimo Stalin spoke warmly of the great friendship of the Soviet multi-national party, organized the union of peoples of this country, and laughed us to guard this great union."

R. A. F. RAIDS BENGASI BARCE

Four Axis Planes Shot Down Over British-Held Tobruk

Cairo, Egypt, April 23 (AP). — Raids on the now axis-held Libyan cities of Benghazi and Barce were reported today by the Royal Air Force Middle East Command. Four axis planes were shot down over British-held Tobruk.

The communiques, covering action of the past 24 hours, said also that British bombers made "successful" patrols over Greece while ground defenses shot down four German dive bombers and a Dornier.

No information was available concerning the military situation on the Libyan-Egyptian border, where the German-Italian westward drive apparently is halted. Yesterday's general headquarters communique reported only patrol activity in the sector.

The Nazi raid on besieged Tobruk was carried out by 12 planes, the communique said, but the "greatly superior numbers" of R.A.F. fighters quickly shot down a Ju-87, two Me-110s and a G-50 and badly damaged several others. It was confirmed that in a German raid on Benghazi the last Saturday four attacking planes were destroyed by ground fire.

In an early morning raid on Benghazi British bombs started a fire next his on two harbor moles and a ship, the communique said, but clouds obscured the effects of the attack on Barce.

Only superficial damage was done to civilian property in Malta by Monday's raid, the report also said, and British fighters shot down one Me-110.

Two British planes were missing from all these operations, with the pilot of one safe.

German Conquest Of Yugoslavia Adds Little To Economic Position

By LLOYD LEMERAS
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Washington, April 23 (AP)—Germany's conquest of Yugoslavia and conquest of a substantial part of Greece will add little or nothing to increase the load economic position, informed experts here believe.

On the contrary, authorities declared, the latest triumph of the Nazi war machine grows economically costly, for the devastation wrought by the Balkan fighting is likely to cause a serious curtailment in the flow of supplies which Germany was receiving before Hitler struck at the two countries.

Even discounting war damage, it was pointed out, economic gain would be negligible.

Neither Yugoslavia nor Greece produces much cardboard, one major raw materials of which there are existing or potential shortages in Germany.

While both countries produce some supplies which can be utilized by Germany, it was explained that the Germans long since have been taking everything available. Yugoslavia has been supplying chiefly foodstuffs and minerals while Greece has been furnishing the Nazis with olive oil, ginseng, raw silk.

Commerce department figures showed that more than 50 per cent of Yugoslavia's foreign trade in recent years has been with the Axis powers, and since the start of war, that percentage increased Largely Agricultural.

Predominantly an agricultural country, with 47 per cent of its population engaged in farming, Yugoslavia has been an important farm exports to Germany or countries now under German domination.

Yugoslavia also has valuable mineral resources but the exports of copper, bauxite, chrome, lead, zinc and iron ilmenite were all going to Germany under barter deal arrangements before the invasion. What damage to the mines was considered likely.

Greece, too, is an agricultural nation, with half her people so engaged. Tobacco represents approximately 40 per cent of all exports and half of the sales have been to the Germans.

The only other products of which Greece has a most export surplus are olive oil, and smaller quantities of currants, raisins, figs, fruits, hides and skins, and mineral ores, including some iron, magnesite, chromite, bauxite and nickel.

Exports of all kinds to Germany normally run between 30 and 40 per cent of Greece's total sales.

Much of Greece's foodstuffs must be imported—including wheat, coffee, sugar and cattle—as well as iron and steel products, wood, chemical products and mineral oils. Imports are normally have exceeded exports.

Flow Of Aircraft From America Increasing Rapidly Says Beaverbrook

London, April 22 —(CP)— Lord Beaverbrook, Minister of Aircraft Production, said in a broadcast today that "nearly 1,000 assembled American and Canadian aircraft have been handed over to the R.A.F."

Lord Beaverbrook said that "up to this moment we have only lost one aircraft in the ferry service between America and this country."

Lord Beaverbrook said confidently he believed "within the last few days 95 aircraft by sea, 255 tons of aircraft parts and 220 engines."

"From new types of engines have been brought into use, of which the Sabre is perhaps the greatest engine ever produced," he said.

The "flow of aircraft from America is increasing rapidly," he declared.

"I am proud to say with authority that they are mighty machines and that they are ready for fight.

"The first fine principal operational types we have reserves now in aircraftmen sufficient for use at once —reserve total equal to the total operational strength. That is 100 per cent reserve.

"Do not suppose we are satisfied with this reserve.

"We think the R.A.F. is entitled to a reserve of 200 per cent and we are not going to stop until we get it."

Britain 'Finding Answer To Germany's Night Bombing Raids' Says Bishop

Los Angeles, April 23 (AP)—Britain is "finding the answer" to Germany's night bombing raids, Air Marshal William A. Bishop of the Royal Canadian Air Force said today in an address prepared for a luncheon of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

"We are there months ahead of Germany in night bombing, and although when she began, she had a big number of bombers, we are still the superior in vigilance at night as we still benefit from this," he said.

He said the Germans have reached their maximum, allowing for other commitments.

"Both sides at present are sending their night bombers out without appreciable or important losses.

"The answer is not to be found in any sudden remedy. But the night bomber will be found in methods of making it more difficult for the night bomber. I only wish I could tell you how swiftly we are finding the answer in that regard....

"The outstanding event in aircraft production for the year is the discovery, both ours and that the day bomber has a diminishing horizon; that it could not hope for decisive results against an adequately-defended fighter zone and that it was worth the big sacrifices incurred.

"We made the discovery first and began our night bombing of Germany with the experience in navigation gained in our leaflet raids. And it is to be remembered that navigation over Germany is more simple than over the British Isles.

"There is no doubt that invasion of Britain remains one of the standing dishes on Hitler's menu. But the dish isn't quite ready.

"When it will be terrifying in its ferocity but Britain will survive it."

CANADA AND U. S. READY TO GUARD COASTS AND SEAS

Prepared to Defend Seas More Than 900 Miles From North American Shores, Says La Guardia

UNDERSTANDING

Ottawa, April 23 —(CP)— The possibility the United States was ready to operate with Canada in carrying out an air patrol as far as 900 miles out on the Atlantic was seen today in remarks of Mayor Florella La Guardia, of New York to a St. George's Day luncheon gathering.

The Mayor addressing a luncheon of The Canadian Club and The Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, declared that Canada were prepared to defend the seas three hundred miles from the North American shores.

"And when I say three hours I mean the distance an airplane going 336 miles an hour can travel in three hours," he said.

The Mayor told his listeners they might find some difficulty even from now the day of the Patron Saint of England would be celebrated as usual.

England Toasted

The New York mayor proposed the toast to England at a St. George's Day luncheon given by joint auspices of the Canadian Club of Ottawa and the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

"We share with you the definite assurance that 1800 years from now this day of St. George's Day in England will still be celebrated," he declared, recalling that St. George had lived 1600 years ago.

"The message I bring to you and through you to the people of England," he declared, "is that the people of the United States are translating their sympathy and understanding into effective and material aid in everything we can give to the cause of England."

American people knew and understood the problems facing British and Canada, Mayor La Guardia said, "and no one understands them better than the leading, driving force of the United States, President Franklin D. Roosevelt."

"Our task is first in giving material aid to England, the way we get it to where it belongs, he said.

North American Understanding

The understanding between Canada and the United States was "not only complete but most successful," he said, "there was no doubt about the close relations and complete understanding between Canada and the United States, surely all doubt was removed at the conference which took place last Sunday."

Work of the Joint Defence Board of Canada and the United States was proceeding "smoothly and successfully," the Mayor declared said. He is American Chairman of the Board.

"We are up to date and prepared to meet any plans to meet changed conditions.

"So close is our co-operation that we have been told that Canada has never been a division of that joint board. Plans are being worked out in detail and we are ready to meet any plans."

In keeping with the methods of modern war the Joint Defence Board took a realistic view of the North American problem.

"The defence of Canada and the United States means not only the defence of our coasts but of their defence as well," said Mr. La Guardia.

"And when we talk about offshore defence we are most realistic. It is to defend our shores three hours' distance from the farthest out thing of either the Canadian or United States coasts and when I say three hours' distance I mean the distance an airplane going 300 miles an hour can travel in three hours."

St. George's Day brought up memories of a dragon and there was another dragon abroad in the world today, Mayor La Guardia said, the ruthlessness from the dragon slain by St. George.

Desires "Mutached Dragon"

"When England completes its job there will be a new St. George, millions of St. George. We will have had a part in destroying this mustached dragon and it won't be a little skinny one like Hitler."

In the United States there was a "tremendous understanding that England was "fighting not only to preserve English civilization but American institutions as well."

They might be disturbed by new bulletins at times but they were not discouraged because they knew the history of England and because of their confidence in the people of England and in Prime Minister Churchill, he said.

Prime Minister's Words

In thanking the Mayor, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said: "The message would be welcomed not only by the people of Canada but by the people of Great Britain.

"The message was welcome particularly because it expressed the sentiments of a nation which was that provides machinery for mutual and common protection of their countries.

New Responsibilities of Civilians

The democratic peoples and their new destructive machinery of warfare, he declared, placed responsibilities on civilians and civilian officials, said the Mayor.

"We are all in the fighting forces of our country. The uniformed forces, the police and firemen, and other new courageous, cannot win a war any longer. Their today are won by the people at home, the people raising food on the fields, and the workers in the factories producing war goods."

Certain countries had shown the results to be obtained by national unity when it was imposed in the cruel and desperate fashion.

"We do not want that, should adopt or even remotely follow that pattern of government" he said. "But I do mean that we, in Canada, when all domestic political differences must be set aside and adjourned. Of course I am referring to my opponents."

Must Be Realistic

"We must be realistic. We dare not be complacent because of any assurance of distance. Distance no longer exists. We must be prepared for every contingency that may arise and we may rest assured that sympathy and speeches will be very comforting at this time to people on the other side."

Mr. La Guardia who arrived by airplane, spoke briefly at the mayors' meeting before delivering an address at a luncheon meeting of the Canadian Club.

At the meeting earlier the conference heard an explanation of air raid precautions machinery from Dr. W. O. Gilddon, Federal Air Raid Precautions Director.

Daniel W. Hoan, former Mayor of Milwaukee and now Associate Director of State and Local Co-operation, United States National Defence Commission, urged Canadian Mayors to send a delegation to the Inter-American Congress of Municipalities at Santiago, Chile.

He said democracy in local government was not as firmly established in some South American countries as in Canada, and the United states and the presence of Canadian and Canadian Mayors would be a means of furthering the democratic ideal of government on this hemisphere.

"Thumbs Up, Britain"

St. George's Day greetings from the conference were dispatched to the Lord Mayor of London in the following telegram: "Canadian municipalities in conference at Ottawa in company with distinguished representatives of United States Mayors send greetings on this memorable day, St. George's Day. The courage and fortitude of leaders of London and British people of Britain is an epoch in the long and glorious story of the Empire. Thumbs up, Britain. We are with you to final victory."

THOSE FARM SALES

We confess that a farm sale bill fills us with boredom sometimes. They tell of the end of the effort of a lifetime. Heavy hearts fill the outing, necessary work has been done as long as the worker may be expected to live.

He has served his generation and now prepares way for the succeeded and for achievement of another nature. Neighbors gather with food and assemble to buy what they can and give a word of bright hope in their troubled and hill known friend. A new worker is to be welcomed as he takes up the yoke to Hosannah's another and it may be a different one.

It looks like another instance of "off with the old and on with the new". We repeat the old with fond recollection. We welcome the new with confidence. — Exeter Times-Advocate.

MORE MATERIAL AND AID NEEDED SAYS LA GUARDIA

Mayor of New York Declares Hyde Park Declaration 'Something New in International Relations'

MESSAGE TO BRITAIN

Ottawa, April 23—(CP)—More aid and material must be furnished to the nations of Europe that are fighting for their liberties, Major Florella La Guardia of New York told the annual conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities today.

His was hopeful more aid would be furnished as a result of the Hyde Park declaration, in which Prime Minister Mackenzie King and President Roosevelt announced measures for co-ordination of industrial resources of Canada and the United States.

"The Hyde Park declaration is something entirely new in international relations," said Mr. La Guardia. "Democracies can and democracies can work. We have arrived at a complete understanding. Canada is ready for diplomats to interpret but an understanding that provides machinery for the mutual and common protection of our two countries.

New Responsibilities of Civilians

The democratic peoples and their new destructive machinery of warfare, he declared, placed responsibilities on civilians and civilian officials, said the Mayor.

"We are all in the fighting forces of our country. The uniformed forces, the police and firemen, and other new courageous, cannot win a war any longer. Their today are won by the people at home, the people raising food on the fields, and the workers in the factories producing war goods."

Owners Of New Houses Need Not Fear Rent Control If Rentals Are Fair

Ottawa, April 23 (CP)—Do long as owners of newly constructed houses or apartments refrain from asking exorbitant or excessive rentals no rent control will be imposed, Prime Minister Mackenzie King declared today.

"That provision was designed simply to avoid the occurrence of grossly exorbitant rents that are demanded for the cheapest type of accommodation.

"Until the time is reached when the authorities in charge of construction of housing for workers in the essential services have succeeded in supply the need adequately, it is obvious that these workers must be protected against exploitation. Hence the power of the local committee and myself to intervene where necessary.

"So long as rentals are prepared to refrain from asking exorbitant or excessive rentals I know of no reason why they should not proceed with their plans for new construction. Only when rentals on new houses are found to be exorbitant or excessive will the rentals administrator be disposed to intervene."

GREEK CAPITAL STOICAL AS BATTLE APPROACHES

BRITONS IN CRITICAL MOOD OVER REVERSES

British Holding Defence Posts In Thermopylae Area

British Sources Doubt Report Germans Have Taken Island Of Lemnos

London, April 24 (CP)—An authoritative source said today that British forces in Greece are still holding defensive positions in the Thermopylae area.

He said that reports the British flank had been turned were without basis and asserted it was very doubtful the Germans had taken the island of Lemnos.

In commenting on the Greek surrender on the northwest front, it was made a point of the fact that the Greek High Command announced the Epirus army surrendered to the Germans—without mentioning the Italians.

Concentrate Fierce Assault

Athens, April 24 (AP)—Waves of German dive bombers are concentrating a fierce assault on Greece's major ports and hammering concentrically at Greek-British troops fighting an uneven battle against overwhelming odds while thundering on Athens from the north.

Though official reports from the battlefront were ominous, there was no indication of a general exodus from this capital, already abandoned by the government for the island of Crete.

REINFORCE GUARD OUTPOSTS ALONG 60-MILE STRETCH

Six Escaped German War Prisoners Still at Large in Bank Country

MAY HAVE DIED

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Heron Bay, Ont., April 24 (CP)—Thick fog today hindered visibility to less than 300 yards as patrols spread out through the bush country along the north shore of Lake Superior in search of the six German prisoners who made their escape from camp Lac Fréfond more than a week ago.

The search resumed with diminishing hopes that the Germans were still in this area. Some men had died during the bitter storms that swept the district, it was said in camp. Searchers who have been on the job almost a week, some after the escape report no definite sign of the missing men has been seen since Monday.

One theory today was that a band of the six had struck north from the camp and had tried to reach the Canadian National Railway line 90 miles north, through dense impassable country. An experienced bushman said today that it would require more than a month had this trip in nine days—making only about 10 miles in a day—was made. He believed it impossible for the prisoners to have made that trip in the weather of the past week.

REINFORCEMENTS OF AUSTRALIANS REACH SINGAPORE

Men and Machines for Main Body of Australian Imperial Force Called Formidable in Strength

PLANES FOR CONVOY

Singapore, April 24 (AP) — A great transport arrived here today bringing formidable reinforcements of men and machines for the main body of the Australian Imperial Force which reached this British eastern stronghold April 17.

Australian-manned bomber planes met the convoy 100 miles at sea and escorted it overhead as the liner steamed through Singapore's protective minefield and past the powerful harbor fortresses to the naval base.

Today's dockside scene was less noisy and colorful than that of two months ago when the Australian vanguard came ashore to the blare of bands and cheering.

But today's reinforcements were no less important to Malaya's defence because less conspicuous. included transport services and other auxiliaries essential to a fighting force.

2 R.A.F. FLYERS KILLED IN CRASH AT MOUNT FOREST

Two Injured When Plane Collides With Clump Of Trees On Hill In Heavy Weather

PLANE TOTAL WRECK

Mount Forest, Ont., April 24 (CP) — Two R.A.F. flying officers killed and two others seriously injured when their training plane from the Port Albert Air School early today collided in heavy mist with a clump of trees on a hill near this town, north of Guelph.

Those killed were Pilot Officers Hughes and Ransom, of London. The injured were Ac. William Shannon, of Canada, bruises and shock, and Ac. Clifford Clark, who received a fractured leg. All four are Canadians. Ransom's home is near the scene of the crash, was notified by police. He said only member of the plane crew who was not following in accordance with the crash.

"Goodman told me they were flying in clouds of fog," said the farmer, "and when they tried to come out of it they hit a clump of trees on a hill."

The plane is smashed to splinters.

"We thought we heard the noise of a crash," he said, "just one this morning; then shortly after five o'clock we heard the noise on our place for help.

Munition Blast Kills Thirteen In Horta Barracks

Horta, The Azores, April 24 (AP) —Twelve soldiers and a civilian were killed and nine soldiers were injured by a munitions explosion which destroyed a barracks here today at this mid-Atlantic Portuguese stopping place for trans-Atlantic air liners.

The blast occurred only ten minutes after most of the garrison had marched for morning drill. Considerable military equipment was destroyed, a nearby hospital was demolished and windows were shattered over a wide area.

Military authorities suggested the explosion might have resulted from spontaneous combustion of black powder used in saluting blasts.

The airway base was not damaged.

Battleship Scharnhorst Believed Badly Damaged In Recent R. A. F. Raids

London, April 24 (CP)—The 26,000-ton German battleship Scharnhorst is believed to have been put out of commission for some months by bombs, the Gneisenau, also has been damaged in recent British attacks on Brest, The Press Association said today.

"There is reason to believe that during Intensive Royal Air Force raids on Brest, both the Scharnhorst, which is in dry dock, and the Gneisenau were hit by bombs," the News Agency said.

"Damage to the bow of the Scharnhorst is believed to have been such as to put her out of commission for some months. The Gneisenau is understood to have had hit amidships in an earlier raid.

"Such damage would account for the non-appearance of both vessels at Brest and no doubt those directing the bombing attacks against them have been kept informed of their condition by a report of daring aerial reconnaissance and photography."

WATERWAYS PACT MEETS GREATER U. S. OPPOSITION

Observers Give Agreement No Better Than 50-50 Chance of Being Ratified by Congress

BEHIND SCENES ACTION

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Washington, April 24 (CP)—Mr. St. Lawrence waterway agreement with Canada is meeting more concentrated opposition than President Roosevelt and his administration expected when they signed it in Ottawa last month.

In fact, it is having such a tough time that observers here give it no better than a 50-50 chance of being ratified by Congress. and some put the odds on against.

So far, President Roosevelt has not sent the agreement to Congress or taken any step toward ratification but there is no sign of delay in action behind the scenes. Those who believe the agreement will pass Congress suggest that one of the biggest factors in the fight will be the personal influence of Mr. Roosevelt and his long-held determination to develop power and navigation facilities of the St. Lawrence basin.

EFFECTIVE MAY 1

100 MILLIONS IN PLANE ORDERS TOTAL FOR 1941

Production is Increasing Steadily Says Hon. C. D. Howe

WAR SUPPLIES OUTPUT

Toronto, April 24 (CP) — Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of munitions and supply, said in an interview on his arrival here today that Canada's total war effort for 1941 will be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000,000, a step-up keeping up and acceleration in keeping with Britain's "drive for all-out fight now."

The plane program includes orders for at least $60,000,000 to Canadian plants within the next few months, Mr. Howe indicated, and more would cost about $30,000,000.

"We have been getting a lot over a lot of our transportation difficulties and within the next few months our plants will be turning out immense quantities of war supplies," he said.

"Even now they are turning out the munitions of war in such volume the pace is increasing steadily."

Mr. Howe came here to address a luncheon meeting of the Empire Club of Canada. "There has been a lot of work, a lot of detail involved in getting our machinery rolling, but we are beginning to see results now and a few more months will bring into what has been all a beginning."

'DEFENCE PATROL' BY AMERICAN NAVY REPORTED PLAN

Under Scheme Convoy Would be Accompanied by U.S. Ships to Mid-Atlantic

WOULD EASE PRESSURE

Washington, April 24—(AP)—A major extension of hemisphere defence operations which would bring the North Atlantic half-way to Europe—was reported being planned today by the High Command of the United States navy.

The action of such a broad sense none might have the incidental effect of relieving some of the strain on part of Britain's most important supply line but, in the event of such a move, the primary cause of such a policy was a moot question.

Officials here gave no encouragement to reports of the widened defence patrol, but informed quarters where they originated cited the statement of New York's Mayor La Guardia that provisions had been made for convoying supplies beginning at a line 1,000 miles out to sea.

La Guardia, speaking as chairman of the joint Canada-U.S. Defence Board, made his assertion during an address at Ottawa yesterday. The announcement led to belief he spoke with White House sanction. Mr. Roosevelt left hurried visit here Tuesday for a conference with President Roosevelt before departing for Canada.

MASONRY BLASTED INTO POWDER BY R.A.F. ATTACK

Direct Hits Scored On Power Station At Ibbenburen, Germany —Dutch Island Shelled

London, April 24—(CP)—Royal Air Force bombers swept direct hits on an electric power station at Ibbenburen in northwest Germany in a daylight raid yesterday, the Air Ministry announced today.

A "violent explosion was started in the main building of the plant," the Ministry reported.

Ibbenburen is a Prussian city in Westphalia, 14 miles west of Osnabruck. It has coal mines and an industrial centre, turning out leather, glass and other products.

Effective Raid on Netherland

The official announcement said the R.A.F. yesterday also raided the Netherlands Island of Ameland, scoring "direct hits on the workshops and the probable destruction of three, and damaging four other hangars" and also "a determined attack" on the seaplane base at Nordeich and Schaarhorn at Norden.

Many bombs were dropped on the French seaport of Boulogne, the Ministry said and added that in this raid of many attacks there one large fire and several small ones were observed.

As in the past, it did not claim hits on the German warships, saying: "Reconnaissance flights to ascertain the results of the raid was not possible.

Le Havre likewise was subjected to a night assault and the Air Ministry said there too many fires one started.

One plane was lost in yesterday's operations, none last night.

Hole In Battleship "Done By Moths" Says Commander

New York, April 24 (AP)— The British Consul General, Godfrey Haggard, lunched Admiral Sir Dudley P. Pallizer, Commander of the British battleship Malaya here for repairs, to a St. George Society dinner last night by saying the navy "done by moths" the hole in the battleship's hull was done by moths.

Captain Pallizer disclosed that he had come from action in the Atlantic but he did not elaborate.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Christ Marshal of the British Air Commission, said of aerial warfare: "Private Britain last fall when "the Nazis strove bitterly for two months and failed bitterly because of the predominant spirit of the British and their allies, the Canadians."

He said Great Britain is "substantially safe" from a direct invasion so long as we keep in the forefront in regards to our air equipment."

Mayors Resolve Unemployment Relief Remains Responsibility Of Gov't

Ottawa, April 24—(CP)—Responsibility for unemployment relief remains with the Federal Government, the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities declared in a resolution adopted at its fourth annual meeting today.

The conference asked the government to "reconsider its decision to discontinue its contribution to unemployment relief which this conference considers a federal responsibility.

In any case, said the resolution, the Dominion should make grants for relief in those municipalities where unemployment relief still remained a large problem.

Mayor John Queen of Winnipeg said the Dominion was attempting to "get out" of the business of war activity had reduced unemployment in some places.

"If we drift along as we are going now what are we going to do after the war when the unemployed will again be on the doorsteps of the municipalities?" he asked.

Mayor Queen said Winnipeg had 2600 families on relief, not counting single persons. Money for relief had to be borrowed, it was not fair to put the whole burden on the city.

A cable was received from Lord Mayor Wilkinson of London acknowledging the St. George's Day message from the conference yesterday.

"Deeply touched by your kindly greetings on St. George's Day. Please convey to Canadian members of your Congress and representatives of United States Mayors my sincere thanks. Your bonds of friendship mean so much at this time, your words of encouragement are something which will sustain us in the days to come. Canada's generosity to us through the National Air Raid Distress Fund will never be forgotten by our suffering communities."

Lack Of Definite News From Front Irritates Public

Daily Mail Says Military And Diplomatic Effort Too Feeble And Too Late

London, April 24 (CP)— Frankly writing off the diplomatic and military campaign in Greece as a defeat, Britain's press and public, in a heightening critical mood and apparently under a blackout of definite news from the Greek front, grimly awaited unfolding of the full picture of Britain's reverses.

Two questions were dominant today:

Where are the Imperial forces, last reported yesterday falling back on Athens?

Where will the Nazi blitz legions strike next?

Britons saw a lone note of encouragement in North Africa, where Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, Commander of British Middle East Arms, was reported to have poised his army for a decisive clash with the tank mechanized spearhead that has struck across Libya into Egypt.

London newspapers, which until now had scrupulously avoided criticism of the conduct of the Balkan campaign, today reflected a mounting hesitation to "sit for an accusation."

16 CAPITAL SHIPS NOW IN SERVICE

35-Ton Battleship, Prince of Wales, Second of Class to be Commissioned

London, April 24 (CP)—The 35,000-ton battleship Prince of Wales now is in the active list of the Royal Navy, the second of her class of five fast, heavily-armed and heavily-armored vessels to be commissioned, it was announced today.

The first of the class commissioned, the King George V, landed the British Ambassador to Washington, Lord Lothian, at Plymouth, England, on his return to the United States last Jan. 16.

Other vessels of the class are the Duke of York, the Jellicoe and Anson Beatty. The cost of each is approximately $28,000,000.

Each of the battleships mounts 10 14-inch guns, 16 5.25 inch guns and many lighter guns. They also are heavily armored both for protection against torpedoes and under underwater and against air bombs from above.

The Royal Navy entered the war with 15 capital ships but one battleship, the Royal Oak, was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine in Scapa Flow, Oct. 14, 1939.

Besides the King George V class, Britain has under construction four battleships which will displace at least 40,000 tons.

PILOT BAILS OUT AS PLANE CRASHES NEAR SOUTH BAY

LAC. A. F. McConecky Allegedly Unable to Lower Landing Gears When Pressure Gauge Broke

PILOT NOT HURT

Picton, April 24 (Special)—Bailing out from the cockpit of his plane, Leading Aircraftsman Pilot A. F. McConecky of Oshawa, Ont., student at Picton Bombing and Gunnery School, escaped injury but his plane, a Fairey Battle bomber, crashed and burned when it crashed near South Bay, Prince Edward County, late Wednesday afternoon.

McConecky was alone in the plane at the time. Two fackers reported to the scene. When the hydraulic pressure gauge broke, it stayed fixed in the pilot's face, temporarily blinding him, then escape was made lowering of the landing gear impossible. The pilot every half an hour the bomber flew over here, and during the Battle of Britain training—trying to lower the wheels. The pressure gauge broke and gave advice. When the plane was about 1,000 feet above South Bay, it was found impossible to abandon it, the pilot dropping from the cockpit by hand, but he was not injured. The ambulance corps from Picton was not required. Guards were posted about the wreckage, which is being brought to town today.

Large Shipment Of Supplies Lost By Enemy Action

London, April 24 (CP)—The United States Embassy announced today that a large shipment of supplies from the United States, including two tons of medical substances, had been lost through war action in the Atlantic.

The ship carrying the goods was said to have been torpedoed. Listed among the supplies lost, in addition to the trucks, were approximately 12,000 reels of film, serum and 10 pouches of official mail.

The ship said to have had the lost 65 diplomatic pouches as a result of war action involving vessels en route to Britain from the United States.

Bombardment Of Tripoli More Successful Than Thought At First

London, April 24 —(CP)— An Admiralty communique said today that the bombardment of Tripoli by naval shelling of the Libyan port by Vice Admiral Sir Henry Pridham-Wippell, commander of the Australian base, "indicated the bombardment was more effective and successful than was at first thought."

Seven ships, including a destroyer, were hit and three of these were sunk, the Admiralty account said, in this assault which naval officers have described as the heaviest of its sort for the war.

"Three transports lying in the naval basin were hit and set seriously on fire," the communique added. "One of these was actually seen to sink."

Ammunition Ship Explodes

A fourth ship in the naval basin appears to have been laden with ammunition, for when it was hit by a 15-inch shell the ship exploded.

"One supply ship moored off Spanlada Castle, for also was hit by shells and sank almost immediately.

"One supply ship lying outside the harbor off Karamanli Mole was hit and set on fire and a destroyer moored at Karamanli Mole was heavily hit.

"Clouds of smoke were seen to be coming from at least three other ships in the harbor but it is impossible to establish whether this was due to damage or to an attempt to create a smokescreen. It is considered that other damage was done to shipping."

Docks Suffered

The Admiralty said that "no damage or casualties were caused to our naval units by the retaliation of enemy shore batteries or by enemy aircraft during the approach or when our ships were returning to their base. No enemy naval units were encountered."

Before and after the raid, the Admiralty said, British naval aircraft shot down eight—and possibly nine—enemy planes and damaged a 10th. Included were four Messerschmitt fighters.

The Admiralty added that harbor facilities also were seriously damaged, salvos of 15-inch shells landing amidships billowing skyward from warehouses, offices and railroad buildings.

Main Quay Wrecked

The main quay for unloading supplies, probably for Axis troops in North Africa, "could be seen to be continuously hit for 10 minutes by medium-calibre shells."

The Governor's office and naval headquarters were among buildings repeatedly hit. Military buildings were demolished.

"A large fire and explosion was caused in the main road to the south of Karamanli Mole, and many of the surrounding buildings set on fire."

AMERICAN CAR FLIES UNION JACK

There was nothing about the Canadiana automobile when it pulled up in front of a city hotel this morning except perhaps its individual beauty, the fact that a Union Jack fluttered atop the radio aerial. Nor would anyone would have noted the fact that the flying of the flag was another gesture of good neighborliness on the part of the people of the United Order, for the car bore Missouri license plates.

HUNGERFORD MAN CHARGED WITH THEFT

Following a hectic motor chase over the county roads near Tweed, on Wednesday, William Masterson Hungerford, was arrested on a charge of the theft of a motor truck, the property of Vince Casaddy, of Bogart. Hungerford will also be charged with drunken driving and the theft of a heavy Chief J. C. Hayes of Tweed, stated today after taking the accused man into custody.

According to Chief Hayes, Masterson is alleged to have stolen Casaddy's truck, while the former was absent from the premises, and later hitched a stolen buggy to the rear of the motor vehicle. During a mad motor race against police officials, the buggy became detached from the rear of the truck and crashed into the ditch, it was then a finding by the abandoned buggy that Chief Hayes obtained his first clue leading to the arrest of Masterson, he said today. Masterson will appear in the county court before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd, at Tweed, later this week.

SIGHT OF POLICEMEN JOGS MAN'S MEMORY

The young office employee of a Front Street manufacturing firm left for lunch from his desk and saw two policemen standing outside the office door.

Suddenly he remembered the family pet dog had accompanied him to work and was lying at his feet. And he also remembered that he had not as yet gone through the formality of securing a dog tag for the animal.

"I'm sunk this time," he pondered. He looked up again. The officers of the law were still there. Then a bright idea struck him.

Letter From English Woman Exemplifies British Courage

"I shouldn't like to think of even German swine going through such a hell.

That is the terse opinion of a cool courageous English girl who lived through the blasting terror that was Plymouth after two nights of consistent blasting from the raiders recently.

"In England today we hear that polish population is crying for the indiscriminate bombing of Germany," Sally Hall, it doesn't help the war in fact people are more determined than ever to carry on. Isn't it a pity that there is such a thing as a German war lover. They are the curse of the world."

So writes Miss Leslie Prideaux, of St. Budeaux a suburb of Plymouth, England, who gives in her letter in her aunt, Mrs. Muriel Parker, 227 Albert Street, a vivid eye witness description of the terrible raid that blasted the South England city.

Raid After Raid

Raid after raid followed each other with increasing intensity, Mrs. Prideaux writes. "I can't attempt it to you because it is beyond description. Unless you have seen a city burning, you cannot visualize it. Just plain hell—and such a terrible death too. Including mothers and babies in a maternity hospital. Not as yet, good through the formality of securing a dog tag for the animal.

"I'm sunk this time," he pondered. He looked up again. The officers of the law were still there. Then a bright idea struck him.

Reaching for the telephone he ordered a taxi—the family pet rode home in state—and a very relieved young man turned his attention again to his work.

Detroit, April 24 —(AP)— A formidable addition to the mobile land fortress, first of a steady stream of new armored fighting vehicles from the Chrysler tank arsenal near here, was delivered today to the United States Army.
Presented by the Chrysler Detroit Arsenal Defense Committee, the newest weapon of the United States fighting forces, classified by the army as the M-3 tank, was accepted by Major General Charles M. Wesson, chief of ordnance for the army.
The tank's armament and its striking power were demonstrated in a series of maneuvers at the arsenal proving grounds before a group of army officers, state and federal officials and guests.

Its armament includes a 75-millimeter artillery cannon, a 37-millimeter cannon for anti-tank defense, and a number of machine guns both in fixed positions and in a motor-driven revolving turret.
The tank, which was built at a cost of $20,000,000 is expected to be ready for mass production of the fighting units late in the summer. At present about 900 men are employed at the arsenal in preparations for turning out 14 of the new weapons each day with three shifts of workers. Approximately 10,000 men are expected to be employed in the arsenal before the end of summer.

TRY NEW HIGH-TEST OXYDOL... FOR WHITER CLOTHES IN WASHERS OLD OR NEW

If you are a washing machine user, you simply must try Oxydol to see the new "miracle" soap. For the results it gives are so utterly amazing that thousands of washing machine owners are changing to it... discarding their old favorite washing machine soaps as things of the past!

New High-Test OXYDOL can give such amazing results for it is a new-type soap, containing a remarkable new ingredient. An ingredient that vastly increases its suds-making power, yet keeps it SAFE for washable colors, and fabrics.

Tested against less efficient soaps, new High-Test Oxydol gives you these 3 outstanding advantages:

(1) Gets clothes as much as 9 to 11 shades whiter than bar and package soaps that lack its new "miracle" ingredient, Arcsal Tiamonene shades—as shown by our laboratory tests. One Cup for cup—it gives up to three times the suds—and that means up 2 to 3 times longer.

Yet it is so SAFE that even cotton prints, given the equivalent of a full year's washing, showed no perceptible sign of fading—stayed looking bright and sparkling as new, wash after wash.

New High-Test Oxydol is economical, too, for keeps it SAFE for washable colors, and fabrics.

LA GUARDIA'S TRIBUTE

Mayor La Guardia of New York, the dynamic figure who is a member of the Joint Defence Board of Canada and the United States, paid a tribute to England which was very effective because it is so true. He said that England and English history gave the world confidence.

He singled out Britain as "fighting not only to preserve English civilization but American institutions as well."

This energetic head of one of the great cities of the world showed his grasp of the situation at large when he spoke of Canada and the United States as being prepared to defend not only the coast line of their own but also the seas for the distance of three hours' flight from shore, somewhat over nine hundred miles. Some have seen in this utterance the suggestion or possibility that the United States might convoy supplies to Britain as far out as over nine hundred miles upon the Atlantic.

Canada appreciates the fine understanding by President Roosevelt and Mayor La Guardia of the situation and the determination to see that the aid from the United States will reach Britain.

The world is thankful that the Defence Board of Canada and the United States takes a very realistic viewpoint of defence as meaning not only defence of the nations' shores but off shore defence as well.

FINDING ANSWER TO NIGHT RAIDS

Britain is finding the answer to the night bombing attack. This is the good news from Air Marshal William A. Bishop of the R.C.A.F. The German air force has reached its maximum. The British night navigators are superior to the enemy. He also offered the cheering information that "navigation over Germany is more simple than over the British Isles."

ENGLISH DISCIPLINE, HUMOR

The English are a disciplined, law-abiding folk, not to know nothing of that extraordinary discipline which has made of the Germans something sub-human—the discipline of the ant or the bee, Prof. W. D. Woodhead told Montreal Rotary Club. The real triumph of the English had been to combine respect for law and order with a belief in personal liberty and they themselves make the laws which they obey. Centuries go to the making of such a spirit and, once produced, it wears well.

A second contribution to English greatness is humor. Without it the people would never have weathered the storm. So says the Montreal professor. With it they are and will remain invincible. Amid the ruins of a bombed city a man of Hitler's own trade, a house painter, whose place of business is a mere shelf, put up a notice, "professional jealousy." The Englishman has never learned to hate and can still speak of his unwelcome visitor as Jerry, and so he serves that priceless heritage of humor, which seems at its best when clouds are darkest.

The Germans do not understand it at all and despise it. They don't realize that humor and fear are incompatible and what German would ever be ready to sacrifice his hate? asks the professor.

Humor cannot be taught. It is the greatest solvent in the world and would bring down Hitler's regime like a pack of cards. It is the cement of a civilized society and it can endure only in communities of free men. It is perhaps because the average Englishman possesses a sense of humor—which after all is a nicely adjusted balance between qualities of head and heart—that he does not easily fall a victim to the flourishes of rhetoric, he is a sentimentalist saved from its crasser errors by humor. Of his love of country he seldom speaks and flamboyant and hysterical appeals such as Italians listen to with rapture from the lips of Mussolini disgust the Englishman by their boastful insincerity says Dr. Woodhead.

National character is slow to change and the English are the most conservative of peoples. An American philosopher of Spanish birth was quoted by the professor as saying that "never since the heroic days of Greece has the world had such a sweet, just boyish master."

OURSELVES AND OTHERS . . .

BY

FROM FETTERS FREE

The ice is gone that held the lake in thrall
Through all the rigor of the winter time,
And now the waters from their fetters free
Are laughing with their old-time ecstasy,
Or singing with their long-lost melody
The haunting songs so like a silver chime.

The 'prisoned waters, happy to be free,
Return the ardent smile of sunny sky,
And amorous, kiss the sandy pebbled shore.
Where, gently, summers that have gone before,
The snipe have played upon the sanded shore
Until the autumn days have drifted by.

The cedars will refresh their tapering spires,
The maples soon will show their scarlet red,
The swallows come and skim the waters o'er,
The loon's loud laugh resounds along the shore,
When summer reigns in winter's iron stead.

Consecon Lake —Helen B. Anderson

If a squadron of Nazi raiders could have paraded down the rubble and debris of what was a former main thoroughfare of a city in the English Midlands, they would have halted and stared in surprise. For from the wrecked interior of what was once a famous hall, they would have heard the muted strains of a Philharmonic Orchestra. Had they peered inside the ruins, they would have seen the auditorium crowded with "English shopkeepers," their eyes glued to rapt attention upon the conductor as he led his musicians through the classics.

They would have seen sailors, soldiers, air-raid wardens, factory workers, both men and women, England's auxiliary forces of all kinds, the war temporarily forgotten, as the symphonic strains of the famous orchestra rang out. On nearby roofs firewatchers stood, glasses glued to the sky. Along the rubble-littered streets, people paused as Beethoven's Symphony in A Major sounded strangely in a dust-laden air.

Among the entranced listeners was a cousin of Miss Edna Jobson, Victoria Avenue, Belleville, who writes an interesting letter regarding the event. Another letter from another relative brought a copy of the program played at the concert. Miss Jobson's cousin tells in one part of her letter of new rations on jam. "Four pounds a week for the family: 25 cents worth of meat for each of us—but we don't grumble, so why worry. When it is all over we shall get plenty."

Then she writes about attending the concert. And here are the words that typify the magnificent coolness and courage of the British people: "When you hear a concert in time you forget all about the war and everything it means. It does, as a soldier sitting next to me remarked, something that makes you feel at peace with the world."

The other relative writes: "The lovely concert was such a change, and we were so glad to get away from all the fuss and bother of things as they are now, because we have had such an awful two weeks. We welcomed the change of just sitting there and taking it all in. It did us so much good and renewed us for the things to come."

No wonder then, that this nation of "shopkeepers," as the Kaiser termed them during the last war, has elicited the admiration of the entire civilized world. People who can laugh, and play, while the entire country rocks beneath a blast of German hellfire, can never be conquered by a nation that knows nothing of the rules of decency, sportsmanship or humanity.

A nation that can sit calmly in the auditorium of a wrecked theatre and listen to music, while death, havoc and destruction hover directly above them, will never bow the knee to the ruthlessness, tyranny and oppression that is the embodiment of Nazism.

Mrs. A. M. Chapman and son, Earl, left today for Calgary, Alberta.

Silence the knockers and help to boost Belleville. The financial position of this city is sound. Its public utilities are profitable and its assets closely approach the amount of the municipal debt. The money expended on the water works and gas plants although nominally a debt is in reality a profitable investment as there is a surplus from each after the sinking fund and interest have been provided for.

Mr. Joseph Brundett of Borden, Sask., is spending a few days in town.

Coal oil lamps. In all probability oil lamps, which have been laid aside for years in lofts, cellars, loose portions of the city, will be dispensed with this year. It is proposed to give the additional electric lights from the circuit which will tend to much improve the lighting of the city. The cost for oil lamps last year was $256.84.

The steamer Alexandria will commence her weekly trips to Montreal on April 27th.

Alterations are proceeding satisfactorily at the former Congregational Church on Hotel Street, which was purchased recently by the Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church.

ANOTHER CHANGE

Nothing long unaltered stays,
Change will come, we may be sure,
Little of our yesterdays
Now we know could long endure.

Much that was has vanished quite,
Cherished then, today reviled!
Here's another (truth it writes)
Neither had her hair restyled!

Once unto her waist it fell
Like the Sisters Rutherford;
But the young and lovely Nell
Headed fashion's stern command
And, in spite of all I said,
In an hour of frenzy wild,
Let some barber bob her head.
Here she is again restyled!

Years ago she wore a rat
At a Madame Pompadour,
Rolled her tresses high o'er that.
There's a fad I want no more.

Then a newer fashion came—
In a mass her locks were piled.
Little every stays the same,
Nellie's hair has been restyled.

Once I cried resistance brave,
Once I argued loud and long,
Fought the fleeting permanent wave,
Thought, though, it much too strong.

Vain were all my pleadings then,
There was all I had smiled.
Change has struck our home again!
Nellie's had her hair restyled!

British Admiral Tells About Those New U-Boats

By Admiral Sir Reginald Bacon in the Sunday Graphic

London—There is little doubt that Hitler's recent building of U-boat space is intended to explain away the delay in his much-advertised invasion scheme, which has loomed so largely in his previous utterances.

We may even deduce the probability that this previous explanation regarding invasion may be about to fade away, and, like a dissolving view, give way to a highly colored picture of an intensive U-boat campaign.

There is one other possibility, namely, that he may be using this threat to hide the fact that he is preparing a considerable scheme for attacking our commerce with surface raiders.

It is well, while to examine both these possibilities. In the first place, having put the command of the captain of a U-boat, no more than a fortnight's time is needed to train a U-boat crew.

On the contrary, I can claim to speak with expert knowledge since after I had been trained by Captain Cubitt, of the Vickers Boat Company, I personally trained the crews of the first two of the German submarine of the Royal Navy. It is true that the handling of the machinery in a submarine has grown more complicated, but the discipline remains the same, and not altered in principle.

Men From Four Trades

The crew of a submarine is composed of our corvette crews, recruited in four distinct trades.

First, the engineers, who carry out the duties usually connected with surface navigation, and, in addition, have charge of the steering the boat in a vertical plane—that is, causing her to dive under the surface, or to remain at any given depth.

The seamen also work the gun and torpedo armament, and the engineers and the engineers who look after the working of the machinery, including the motor and other machinery.

Thirdly, there is a wireless operator, and lastly, the electricians, who take charge of the electrical batteries and the electrical motors and other appliances.

Five Days' Built" In

It may be taken for granted that the electricians and the engineers originally learned their trades in the dockyards and that whether they would, or would not, one day serve in a submarine, they would be under their charge when working in the dockyard.

They should be, as we say, "five days' built in," that is, relatively employed during its installation and during its trials, and at its application to submarine work.

Moreover the only seamen who require special training are those who are to handle the boat when she is moored vertically.

The appliances for so doing are practically fool-proof so that one week, at the outside, is necessary for a seaman to be able to perform this duty satisfactorily.

Short Period for Training

If, therefore, as should be the case, a U-boat's crew can be trained as soon as the machinery is ready for acceptance by the builders, further, then, after the boat is ready for commission, a fortnight's work should be sufficient to fit the men more or less accustomed to living in the confined space of the vessel and her crew should be in a perfectly efficient condition in six weeks.

Of course subsequent practice increases efficiency, but this may be just as well obtained on service as by working in the Baltic.

The training of the captain of a submarine is a different matter.

As I have had occasion to point out before, a really good captain is born, not made, and he must be a combination of rare qualities and should have had a wide experience before undertaking the work.

The only way the Germans can train captains is to send a double complement of officers in each boat, and keep operating on the convoy routes.

The disadvantage of so doing is that, when a submarine is sunk, it entails the loss of a captain and, perhaps, three potential captains.

In all probability, if the German have lost many submarines lately, they may suffer considerable losses from immediate future sinking from destroyers.

Now let us turn to the question of what may be the object of German submarines.

There is no reason why, when in full swing, it should take more than six months to build a U-boat and fit out a submarine: of which time three months would probably be spent on the trials.

But assuming the above estimates to be correct, submarines could be built on each slip every year.

Forty slips would allow for the building of 40 submarines a year, and some quarters it has been assumed that Germany has turned out Thomas Jefferson in the last 12 months.

In order to do this she would have to use some 200 building slips and a corresponding diminution of other war manufactures. Nothing is impossible, but some things are not probable.

Probable Sinkings

Taking into account the probable losses in U-boats that Germany has sustained during the past year, the damage that must have been done to her shipyards and the dislocation of her traffic by our bombing, the wear and tear of her vessels and the exigencies of other claims of manufactures, we may, I think, expect that Hitler has assembled between 140 and 170 U-boats of all categories at his disposal for his Spring campaign.

A certain number of these are already at sea and will remain so, else if revictualling, some will have to expose defence, and some of the crews will need rest.

Further, probably some two days will be necessary for the boats to sneak through to their stations on patrol and for their return to harbor if they are to escape detection by our flying-boat patrols.

It will probably not be far wrong to expect that Hitler will be able to count on from 80 to 100 U-boats for convoy attack.

Convoy Defence Needs

We should remember, too, that the nights are shortening up considerably. Also that the enemy will be having better weather in which to work and during which therefore able to spot and break up concentrations of U-boats, or to diminish warn convoys of their positions, should they try combined attacks, by day as well as by night.

The safety of a convoy depends on the number of escort vessels rather than on the number of times that it is attacked.

What we require for the defence of our convoys is an increased number of corvettes and destroyers; given these, with sufficient quantities we need not greatly fear any increase in the output of U-boats.

Undoubtedly Hitler has not wasted the last six months, but neither have we.

More Haste, More Loss

There is one thing fairly certain and that is that the output of the number of submarines he sends to the bottom (and elsewhere); especially since owning to haste in sending them to sea, the escape apparatus of submarine captain will be less practised in making his attacks.

One point that has been mooted whether Germany is building her submarines in the yards of occupied countries.

This is of course, possible, but it would necessitate the employment of Dutch and French shipwrights as this would create difficulties as regards the supply of material.

It would undoubtedly be better from every point of view for the Germans to build German designs rather than to employ foreign shipwrights, even though the loss in production were considerable, owing to a certain amount of congestion in the German shipyards.

London Crowd Says Goodbye To Brighton

By Alexander Werth in the Manchester Guardian

I went down to Brighton for the last Sunday—Belleville's "last Sunday"; for Brighton now is included in the "danger area." No visits may be paid any more to Brighton. The words of a Home Office statement, "for the purposes of a holiday, recreation or pleasure."

A good many people in London must have been going to Brighton the ban, and they were determined to have their last day in Brighton before it came into force. On Sunday morning all the trains for Brighton were packed and long before the trains left Victoria the third-class had overflowed into the first-class and the Pullmans. Even so, many of the young people—soldiers and R.A.F. men among them—had to stand in the corridors during the one and a half hours' journey.

And as the train drove into Brighton Station there was an explosion of loud laughter, for at the moment the familiar London tune of the air-raid warning sounded, and they'd play a prettier tune than that in Brighton", one girl remarked.

The procession of passengers streamed down the shopping street running from the station to the sea. Before getting as far away from the station as possible—and many more in somersby shops. The same old batons of Brighton rock—the same old selection of "Wonderful Guides"—hundreds, thousands of them.

Some of the larger hotels at Brighton have been closed for some time past, but the Metropole were open, and the restaurants certainly did a roaring trade on that "last Sunday". It was an adventure to get lunch at the Old Ship—not a bad one. No more luck at another famous place. At last at Jimmy's, the haunt of journalists and "nuts" in the lounge, the diligent head waiter firmly refused to serve "half an hour".

By till the time we went for another long walk along the promenade, but the "promenade" was no longer there. So long went sevenpence for the privilege of seeing a Spitfire and a Hurricane Goering and genteel blueshirt, and sevenpence for seeing himself in the chamber of horrors and the disturbing mirrors.

Back to Jimmy's. The head waiter had kept his word—and reserved a table. With a startling sight, several parties were drinking champagne at 11 in the morning, some kind of fizz. "A wedding?" "No, sir, they're waiter; just remembering old days and saying goodbye to Brighton."

In one street along the promenade and looked down on to the beach and sea—scenes of almost normal-looking London trippers, Bank Holiday crowds. Mrs. Hitler's fellows, treading on French soil, were just a little behind the times in their Dunkirk mood. And there was a great deal of animation on the beach. Some were digging at its old Oriental domes, a London girl stirred up a cry over "Oh, look, just like onions".

In the Royal Pavilion a Mecklenburg exercise was in progress, and at the other end a notice said that the Pavilion Gardens could be visited every morning. Another notice on the Pavilion gave directions concerning the local food control office.

Trolley-buses in the streets were numerous, and there were also Wolseley Hornet coaches around the older residential parts of Brighton and Hove. The Regent houses were calm and serene, and, unlike so many of those in Kensington or St. Pancras in London, undamaged and inhabited. There were still many Regent Street and other residential hotels; probably they will stay so as long as Brighton is inhabited.

There were signs of bomb damage in only a very few parts, but hundreds had evacuated from Brighton none the less. Before the war there had been an evacuation area. The favorite Brighton story was that in one of their communiques the Germans had boasted that all Brighton had been bombed and severely damaged "the port of Brighton."

The story, of course, was much the same as the journey there. The train was even more crowded. "Well, goodbye, Brighton", many of the passengers said as they looked out of the window. And perhaps they wondered if Brighton would be like this on their next visit. And at least one young Brighton girl said she would certainly brave the end of the war at Brighton, and a jolly good holiday we'll have".

MASONIC PRESIDENTS

Aaron Burr, Daniel D. Tompkins, Richard Mentor Johnson, George M. Dallas, William R. King, Andrew Johnson, John C. Breckinridge, Chester A. Arthur, Jas. A. Garfield, Benjamin Harrison, Theodore Roosevelt, William H. Taft and Harry S. Truman were all Masons.

So far as known the other 20 men who have been Presidents of the United States were never initiated into the mysteries of Masonry.

No evidence has been produced to substantiate the oft-repeated story that Millard Fillmore was once a Freemason and that he received the first and only Masonic entrance following the disappearance of William Morgan in 1826.

Presidents who have been classed as Masons by this or that writer, but whose Masonic affiliations have never been substantiated in any particular.

Of the 33 vice presidents from Aaron Burr to Henry Wallace the following thirteen have been Masons:

Aaron Burr, Daniel D. Tompkins, Richard Mentor Johnson, George M. Dallas, William R. King, Andrew Johnson, John C. Breckinridge, Schuyler Colfax, Thos. A. Hendricks and Thomas R. Marshall.

Presidents of the administration of Monroe, Polk, Buchanan, McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt, both the president and Vice President were Masons.

There are more than 3,530,000 members of the Masonic order in the United States.

Benedict Arnold was made a member of Union Lodge No. 1, New Haven, Connecticut, on April 21, 1762. After his treason Arnold's name was erased from the membership roll and he was abandoned by Masons.

A Master Mason is a Freemason who has taken the third degree.

The Freemasonry a blue lodge is a symbolic lodge in which the first degree of Masonry has been conferred. It was originally so called from the blue color of the decorations of three degrees. A Masonic writer suggests that blue in this connection symbolizes the heavens and alludes to early times when Masonic lodges were required to be open under the blue sky.

East Offers Hitler Little Prospect For A Quick Victory

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington, April 24—(AP)—The full extent of the disaster in the Balkans cannot yet be certainly reckoned in either a military or a political sense; but some of its grave consequences are crystal-clear, even before the last tragic chapter in Greece is written.

Germany Army prestige is at a new peak.

Balkan mountains were no more effective against its onslaught than the canals of the Low Countries or the rivers of France.

What new grief for Britain may come of that is beyond estimation. Repercussions of the Nazi blow are apparent in Russia, in Turkey, in Spain, in Japan and even in conquered France, where the pro-Nazi element is increasingly satir. They are no less evident on the home political front in London and Australia, although by every sign Britan reverses have only steeled Great Britain and the Empire anew for the fight.

And it is on Britain herself, and rather than upon the Empire lifelines in the Mediterranean, that the next major German blow is most likely to fall. Hitler has repeatedly promised his people quick and complete victory—victory this year, before winter sets in again. It is only by strangling Britain at sea or breaking her resistance by air that he can reasonably hope to achieve that vaulting ambition.

Sea Still Barrier

With completion of the Balkan campaign, Nazi air power long massed in the East, will be available for use elsewhere. Some of it, probably longer-range bombers, may already be shifting across the Mediterranean to support the bogged-down Axis North Africa drive. The bulk of it, however, probably will be sent westward to redouble the air-and-sea attack on Britain in the months ahead.

If it could blast its way to daylight mastery of the air over the British Isles, invasion of the island might become a grim reality. As long as the Nazis fail to achieve such mastery, Britain is safe behind her sea power and her sea-washed shores.

Nerve-shattering as has been the speed and precision with which German armies have swept through the Balkans, they have reached the same barrier in the East that balked them in the West, the sea. They were designed for the Continental conquest they have achieved — to straddle Europe from the Aegean to the Bay of Biscay. Yet the sea and British sea power still stand on their road, east and west.

Only twice have they ventured beyond waters too wide for German military engineers to bridge. Hitler himself has described the Nazi invasion of Norway as the most "daring" military move of his regime, probably because of the fact that it meant the ferrying of his army across sea waters.

The German lunge across the Straits of Sicily to prop Italy in North Africa and relieve the Axis threat against Egypt and the Suez Canal is the other instance. The fate of that move is increasingly in doubt. It could become an Axis disaster to offset victories in the Balkans. Prime Minister Menzies of Australia hinted anew at that in a London radio speech bidding his people to stand fast against an unknown toll of Australian losses in Greece.

"In the Middle East, where things now look dark," he said, "we are determined to hold our own and may well win a notable victory."

Turkey's evacuation of civilians across the Bosphorus-Dardanelles sea passage that guards her vast non-European territory implies that Ankara, in dickering with Berlin is making the most of that non-bridgehead barrier to Nazi mechanized invasion. It is still a formidable obstacle in Germany's eastward pathway, just as the Straits of Gibraltar and the British citadel there combine to deprive Mazdom of any certain route to victory via Spain.

The sea and the British Fleet are definite limitations on the scope of Axis successes in the Balkans.

The East offers Hitler little prospect of quick victory. Only by breaking Britain can he hope for that.

DERBY TO BE RUN

Newmarket, England, April 24—(CP)—This old horse-racing town, suffering economically from the restricted wartime racing calendar, assumed new life today with an announcement that the Derby and the Oaks will be run here June 18 and 19.

The Derby traditionally is run at Epsom Downs. Last year it was run at Newmarket. Early this year the Jockey Club set the race for Newbury, causing disappointment in Newmarket. No reason was given for the switch back.

Salvation Army Youth Group

On Monday evening, April 21st, the Rev. Mr. Sterling and the Young People's Union Corps were visitors at the Salvation Army Citadel and put on a very interesting program. Rev. Mr. Sterling gave a short talk to the younger ones based on "The Lord is my Shepherd"; to the older members he spoke on "What Can I Do, or What Have I Given For Jesus" using Mary anointing the Saviour's feet with the alabaster ointment as the illustration.

Miss A. Demille gave a fine solo and Mr. N. Demille gave two readings, one particularly appropriate on the piano. Mr. Cole gave two readings, one pathetic, and one very humorous. A quiz contest was in charge of Mr. Cole, four young people from Melrose competing against four from Belleville, Melrose winning with the largest number of points.

A one-act play was given by eight members of the Melrose Young People's Union, these young people portraying their parts in an excellent manner. Mrs.

Adjutant Smith moved a vote of thanks to the Rev. Mr. Sterling and visiting friends.

The program closed with prayer by Adjutant Smith, after which the visitors were entertained to lunch by the Young People's Corps of the Salvation Army Youth Group.

Missy in Role of Job Seeker

By HELEN POLLETT

IT'S ALL right for the high school sweetie to be casual about appearance; in fact, she cultivates that effect. She wears large, scrambled and she fancies that makes her look wind-blown and athletic.

But when she gets out of high school and goes stalking a job, she must get sawy from all that. Her coiffure must be neat as a pin and if she is to make an important place in shop or office, she'd better give the shoulder length bob a shearing. The boss wants his office women trim, soigneres to appear efficient; he's not keen about having a chorus of sirens present.

Remember Chelsea Clinton. It is possible, these days, to wear smart clothes and not spend a lot of money. Blouses and a tailored suit are business-like. Frocks should not have frilling; in fact, frills are not worn in the daytime by ladies of fashion who have money to fling to the style-birds.

An excess of make up is a mistake. So many men hate bright red nail polish that Miss Smarty will select a shell color for her finger sheath glitter. She must look as fresh as a daisy. Any perspiration odors as she would avoid the plague.

Conservative shoes are in order. Not the clank-clanks over an office floor on spikes just hasn't got smart; she drives people crazy with the noise she makes.

Even if you haven't worn a hat for ages, put one on when you go looking for the weekly wage check.

MRS. CORNELIUS BECKEMAN

Gracious Gesture to Invite Cousins, Only Relatives of Bride-to-Be, To Shower

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

I am planning to give a shower for a bride-to-be, and since I cannot give it at my home I have decided to give it at a hotel. Will you please help me with some of my problems? I have never entertained in this way before. I want the shower to be a surprise.

—The bride-to-be has no relatives except three cousins, older women. I think I should not invite them, do you? And do you also agree that it would be better for me to ask them for suggestions for the shower?

2—What is the proper place at table for these cousins and for me?

3—Would I offer a toast, would "Surprise"! be enough?

4—Would it be proper for me to give the guest of honor a corsage and corsages to her cousins also? What flowers would you suggest?

5.—Should I buy the flowers for the table-centre piece, or does the hotel decorate the table?

6—Would it be proper for the guest of honor to introduce her cousins to the guests who haven't met them, or is that my duty as hostess? Is it correct to take the cousins around the table and introduce them there before the bride-to-be comes in? In making the introductions, do I say "Mary Smith, Miss Alice and Miss Grace and Miss Elizabeth Jones, or do I say, "Miss Smith, The Misses Brown"?

Clarita

1.—The proper and polite thing for you to make to the "family" of your guest of honor is not only to invite the three cousins, but also to make them feel that they are the "family members of the bride-to-be by talking over with them your plans for the party. This will make them happy and proud!

2.—Your place, as hostess, is at the head of the table. The bride-to-be, your guest of honor, sits at your right. Next to her left you might have the oldest of the cousins, and then seat the other two next to guests who you know would be especially thoughtful about making them comfortable.

3.—You might offer the toast during the luncheon, but instead of saying "Surprise" when the bride-to-be enters, you might say, "We're here to wish you happiness, Lucy".

4.—It is customary to give the guest of honor a corsage. (I suggest white flowers, perhaps two or three gardenias, and it would be delightful to have corsages for the cousins.

5.—You may bring or have the flowers sent, or you may ask the head-waiter to provide the centre-piece, suggesting the kind of flowers you wish.

6.—As hostess, should make the introductions. Instead of taking them around the table for these introductions, I suggest that you invite the cousins to stand with you as the guests are arriving and make them acquainted with them. Their receiving with you gives them even more personal importance in the party-plans.

And carry out that individual bow to each one in your introductions. Since the cousins are the ones to be honored in the introductions, say their names first, and look at each cousin as you say her name . . . "may I present Miss Brown . . . Miss Grace Brown . . . Miss Elizabeth Brown . . . this is Miss Smith, or, "may present Miss Smith".

Dr. Dafoe's Column on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Thumb-Sucking not Regarded Now As Dangerous as It Used to be

"Dear Doctor: My baby persistently sucks his thumb, no matter what I do to try and stop him. I am afraid his jaws and teeth will grow out of shape. What can I do to make him stop?" In the last few years, I have had hundreds of such letters. So I gather that this is a pretty general problem.

The big difficulty about advising these correspondents is that they seldom give you enough details. For instance, they usually don't tell you how old the child is. And the matter of age is important. If a child is around a year or less, the mother shouldn't worry that the habit is lasting. If the youngster is two or three years of age, there is reason for concern.

Pediatricians have been changing their minds some about thumb-sucking. There was a time, a few years ago, when any thumb-sucking by any child, no matter how young, was considered a dangerous habit. Studies made recently have caused their viewpoints to be altered.

Now they are inclined to believe that for their own good babies need some other experience than they usually get from breast or bottle. They think it gives a certain stimulation to the child. Sucking the thumb is a natural recommendation for insufficient time at the breast or with the bottle.

Regardless of whether these are true, it is agreed that thumb-sucking is not a habit it isn't carried to extremes and too far on in childhood, doesn't do much or any real harm to the formation of the jaw and teeth as was once supposed.

Sometimes else pediatricians have convinced bears out a theory I've held for years. It is that trying to stop thumb-sucking by such strong arm means as mittins on the hands, only draws the child's attention to his habit and makes it attractive.

A better way to deal with the habit, I have found, is to see that the child gets plenty of rockin-at feeding time and to be sure that, even then, it isn't a bad idea to give him one of those pacifiers or comforters that used to be given in the first few years ago. I'm not recommending that every child be given one of these comforts. Generally speaking, I think they are bad because they are apt to keep clean and free from infection. But if a child is insisting on sucking something and you really are afraid his teeth are going out of shape, resort to a pacifier. If you keep the pacifier sterilized and clean, most of its dangers will be eliminated too.

Of course, if the child doing the thumb sucking is two years old or more, then there is a different problem. He hasn't, or shouldn't at that age have the baby's natural desire for sucking. So there must be something bothering him. There is something in his environment he can't adjust himself to, and it's up to the parents to discover what it is. If you do this, thumb sucking will be overcome without much difficulty.

Red Cross Society To Benefit From Ruth Draper's Tour

The advance sale of tickets for the performance of Ruth Draper will open at the box office of the Capitol Theatre, on Friday, April 25th., for her engagement, which has been announced for Tuesday evening, April 29th.

To those who do not know of Ruth Draper and of how she packs the theatres wherever she appears, a word of timely advice. Either send in a mail order now, or be in line the day the sale opens.

Miss Draper is known all over the world as a lone star, who very successfully provides all that is needed for an evening's entertainment. She appears in her own character sketches—comedies and dramas—plays all the characters herself and makes her changes with lightning-like rapidity. In fact, she is the most self-contained unit in the theatrical field. She travels light. A few plain drapes, some odd hats and shawls, and she is ready for her performance. No rehearsals, no light cues, no supporting cast of actors clattering up the way, nothing but infinite art.

Ruth Draper has visited and appeared professionally in practically every country in the world, and has drawn from them for her ever expanding repertoire of character sketches.

Be wise get your seats Friday and avoid disappointment. Entire net proceeds of Miss Draper's present tour will be donated to the Red Cross Society.

BEER AT FUNERALS

Auckland, N.Z. (CP) — Warning liquor might become one of the greatest curses to the Maoris (aborigines), a Methodist minister told how a barrel of beer was rolled into the meeting house at a descones' funeral.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop and ma were in the living room waitin'for Mr. and Mrs. Hews to come and play bridge, and ma said, Look at this room, everything is at it's and sevens, and the dust is positively visible to the naked eye, it's easy to see that this was Nora's day off. She rushes through this living room with her dust cloth every Thursday morning more like a dynamite bomb than a calming influence. If there was time I really ought to go over the room with a dust cloth and straighten things before the Hewes get here, she said.

We wouldn't need any time if we both tackled it together on the double act, assisted pop. Impossible, he said. The idea would be to mark the room off in four quarters and each take a quarter at a time and rapidly dust off everything in that area, enlightening remarks as we go. Scientific efficiency conkers everything, he said, and you said, Why, yum ! think that's a marvellous suggestion and will set the action to the word in the twinkling of an eye.

And she quick went and got 2 dust clothes and handed one to pop, pop saying, Okay, now I'll start in the room off into equal quarters.

Within the old by taking kow sters among the furniture, ma saying, All right now that's enough of that, let's get busy. You start at that end and I'll start at this, she said.

Which she did, beating like lightning, and pop said, I was reading in The Mechanical Age the other day how the assembly line principle in all lines of industry, from car washing to locomotive building, has increased production per cent in the passed few years. By golies I tell you we're living in a streamline age and improvements are being thought out every day, he said, and ma said, Why'am Pete you're the last straw, the idea of sitting on the arm of that chair lecturing while I do all the work, give me that clean cloth.

Meaning pop's, and she quick grabbed it and finished the room by herself just in time before the doorbell rang

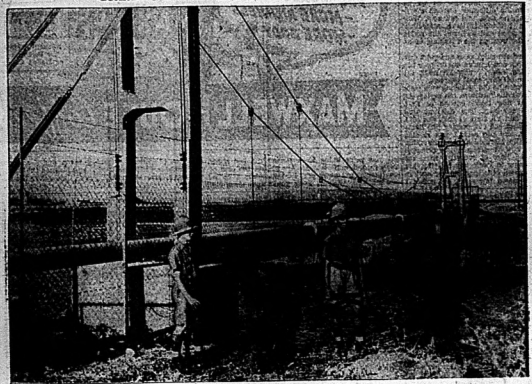
GUARDING THE PIPE-LINE OF BRITAIN'S "FLOWING GOLD"



A couple of British Tommies are pictured guarding a section of the huge pipeline which stretches for hundreds of miles across the Syrian desert from Iraq to the Mediterranean Sea. The oil fields of Iraq, under British ownership, produces, annually 4,000,000 tons of oil, that is piped from the heart of Iraq to the terminal at Haifa, Palestine. Arrival of strong British army at Basra on the Persian Gulf, was described as making certain that the new government of Sayid Rashid Ali, who came into power recently, through a coup d'etat, allegedly aided by the Nazis, would carry out its defence treaty with Great Britain. Another phase of the landing of the army is to thwart any German plan to seize the rich near eastern oil fields with parachute and airplane troops operating in the African desert.

SEARCHERS GRIMLY CONTINUE HUNT FOR ESCAPED NAZIS

Discovering this raft, UPPER RIGHT, searchers thought that six Nazi prisoners still at large after escaping from a Northern Ontario internment camp, had escaped the dragnet. It turned out to have been used by four woodsmen, however. North, a German Shepherd dog, UPPER LEFT, was used to trail some of the escaped internees. A search party aboard a tug, LOWER LEFT, is shown patrolling the Big Pic river to prevent the escaped prisoners from crossing. Special police guard every railway bridge and search all trains, LOWER RIGHT. The railway line is the only clear path through the wilderness in which the escapees are hiding.

Troops of the Australian Imperial forces and the Argyll and Sutherland Regiment, famous Scottish contingent, now in Singapore, are shown undergoing manoeuvres after their arrival in Malaya. At the BOTTOM, the Scottish infantrymen, holding on to a rope strung across a Malayan river, cautiously proceed to the other side. Additional men were rushed to Singapore by Great Britain to frustrate a possible Japanese thrust southward toward the rich Netherlands East Indies.

"Bombs Rained Down Like Hail On Bristol"

The following letter received by a Montreal lady speaks eloquently for itself:

Dear ..... — Yours of October 26th reached me December 1st. Thank you for your much appreciated parcel. I wish you could see the shops here, they are all card-board boxes and fancy bows, but nothing behind. They look much more artistic and better arranged as things always do where there is an economy of means. But the sweet shops, for instance, have been closed now but cough drops and peppermints; chocolate is reserved for the forces and the children. I miss plain slab chocolate terribly, as I had been a Godsend to me instead of taking aspirins, etc., when I am wakeful at night. Another thing we're going to miss acutely is "Ovaltine" (Horlicks) or Bemax, or that is stopped too, like bananas, to make room for more munitions in a few and precious ships we have. All fruit is going to be prohibited soon. We shall miss dates terribly, they have been such a standby for all meals. Prunes are not used, as they require sugar. We get three eggs a week and take them mostly in them. We still get cakes but they are made without butter, sugar or eggs. Biscuits have practically disappeared (the cheddar cheese), icing on cakes, cream, ice cream, pastries, syrups, lemons, prunes, lemons and eggs. We are suffering no hardships at all yet, as milk, bread, margarine and oatmeal are good and plentiful. We also get rabbits and chickens. We eat a small but sufficient piece of rationed meat once a day, and (so far) vegetables and good potatoes. Also I had laid up a little store of tinned peas, sugar, jam and syrup. The only trouble of late, of course, is since Bristol was bombed so, that no poor Bristolite descended like locusts on Bath and our shops are empty. Also the recent outbreak of the dreaded foot and mouth disease in Somerset has seemed like the calamity to happen just now. Thousands of cattle have had to be slaughtered, that and the terrible choking at sea, and the burning of food storage warehouses in Britain, Bristol and Birmingham, London, etc., will tax all our resources to find a remedy and rearrange and tighten up the rationing. We must find soon the remedy against the submarine and the night bombing, else all our glorious victories over Italy will be in vain. Just thrown away.

* * *

We were having our supper the night of the first great attack on Bristol. We heard so many aeroplanes overhead, and some things that we hurried up and cleared away, and our tables and chairs were all ready, with torches and shelters, in the hall and underneath the stairs. We had not been down long when the first bombs (they call raid Bristol and aerodrome is there every night) but we felt something particularly terrific was being pending. Last time we spent a night there under the stairs we were all fagged out. We generally go into the sitting room, a safer room, than the drawing room, as there is less glass, and it is all covered with linen strips pasted over it. I often just get into bed and pile everything I possess on top of me. (As a matter of fact, we have decided that it is perfectly foolish to come with the house than be buried under it.) Well, we had our fire in the drawing room and tried to read, but I knew something dreadful was happening and I got so restless I could not sit still. The throbbing of the engines never stopped for an hour, and then came a sound like a vast distant thunderstorm, growing greater minute by minute. They had begun bombing Bristol and our guns started. Oh! the magnificent sound. You felt much worse frightened really, you just had to see what was happening. So we extinguished our lights and put up the bows on the window sill and sat by them to watch. The searchlights met overhead like long gilded poles and a German (and we were in the wigwam).

* * *

They moved silently and swiftly from time to time and then the sweet west (Bristol) vast green flares would have quivered and one of the gigantic golden bells shot up and burst (the shells) as fast like a giant conjurer would throw them, with a weird winking light. The air absolutely vibrated with noise. It was like a great pulse beating on the ground and in the air, and then a huge bomb falling made the windows tremble and the wigwam rattled like the teeth of someone in fear. I got such gooseflesh I returned to the fire to get warm. After a time I heard Will's voice, "Oh! The Bristol is on fire." Through the pitch-blackness I heard the crackling of the fire engines, straining for Bristol, every one in Bath was on its way. I ran to the window—oh, what a sight —the sky all lit up with the flames of Bristol, and still horrid. One chemical factory went up with a terrific explosion and made an emerald glare on the black sky and the guns roared and boomed, and you could hear shrieks of our anti-aircraft rushing here and there. Bath was just ringed round with flame. It was the most thrilling thing you could ever see. It was 10.30 then; by that time bombs were dropping so near we could hear the whistling as they came down, and then a horrible blasting one after the other, told us they were dropping incendiaries on Bath. They did not get there and prevent our brigades going to help Bristol; they set fire (if they can) to all the satellite towns near big cities so as to keep the fire engines from getting out of the flames in the big cities. By now we were downstairs, in the back room, in the hall, by the gong and all, then five tremendous crashes so near we thought it was the end for us this time. Then another and another and combat immediately overhead for leaving Bristol the Hun tries to inflame us. Then a long pause and any cargo he may still have and just like Guy Fawkes.

* * *

After long weary palpitating hours at 3 o'clock the all clear sounded its Heaven-sent cry, but it was 5 before we went to bed. The burning of Bristol had illuminated all the sky and houses were running here and there and calling. Will, we in Bath, (Gosh wow!) had a providential escape. Two high explosives fell in the mayor's garden, one in the river, one on the common, and two on the golf course. The one bomb on the on the common, which adjoins the gardens at the back of the houses opposite to us, was a time bomb and did not go off till the next day. It was like an earthquake when it went off. Will and I both, (Gosh wow!) had a providential escape. Two high explosives fell in the mayor's garden, one in the river, one on the common, and two on the golf course. The one bomb on the on the common, which adjoins the gardens at the back of the houses opposite to us, was a time bomb and did not go off till the next day. It was like an earthquake when it went off. Will and I were roped off with sentries for 24 hours. We found they had dropped a stick of incendiaries all up Milsom street, the last on Julian Road just at the end of our square. We did nursing home and one, but in the area. Our department store "Evans" had been promptly put out by their roof spotter. No major fire was started, but the whole of Bristol and nearly all the bridges were in Bristol. We are proud, we have roof spotters all over Bath. Thank God they (Bristol) was unarmed. So far all. We were fearfully lucky. A bomb fell in Queen Square back of the Pump Room, but it was a dud and they say did almost as much damage as before. That night we saw the Bristol fire overhead as we were chased back from Bristol. You never saw such a sight. Searchlights and the spirals and swirl of the vaporous flames, written all over the sky with the fighting planes, a strange and wonderful sight. One feels one is living in that world described by Wells, "The Shape of Things to Come." Our house, I think, is a kind of Lord Lothian was the shock the nearly got me. I had a bad cold and coming too quickly into all this madness over me. We have had a year and a half of it, and have got used to it, but I still can, but not all at once. It certainly did for the American Ambassador's cabinet. They say he simply brig was too much for him. He left Paris for Vichy and would say any more of it. His remarks, since his return sound like his style, anyway. But we don't think we are going to be bombed now. It is all Some Americans who live over here and are in the Rome Guard were taken annoyed by his remarks. Two of these high explosives fell on the golf course and five minutes from our square, but after waiting for them to go off they decided to cover them up, as it is thought they may be duds. One fell on a 30 feet and made a hole as clear, cut as a butter churn 24 feet. Amazing.

* * *

When the war is over and victory is proclaimed (Heaven) I wish we could leave England in battle dress and have all our friends in enfilade come over to see it and pay humble penance and the wherewithal to help to pay for the war. It's worth seeing—this strange world. You would find the aeroplanes with all names removed, barricades across roads, anchors behind hedges obstacles in fields. In towns, two sandbags on the door and one and a tin of sand. Every cat wearing a luminous disk round its little neck. Windows showing strange devices of criss-crossed linen, or just black squares of paper. Fixed bayonets marching up and down by all main buildings, and crowded with soldiers, strange brick erections of concrete on residential terraces for machine-gun posts. And remember all this recce work and fire brigades, etc., everything at night carried on in pitch-darkness. When there is no moon and the clouds are low it's as though someone tied a piece of black velvet over your head almost suffocating.

This is all for now but I'll tell you more in my next.

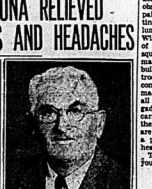
TELLS HOW SYNTONA RELIEVED DIZZY SPELLS AND HEADACHES

This Man Suffered 3 Years. Kidney and Bladder Irregularities Caused Loss of Sleep. Appetite Was Poor; Felt Tired Out and Run-down.



MR. CHARLES SAGEMAN

"I feel years younger since I have taken a course of Syntona. Indeed, I will be glad to have others know how it has helped me," said Mr. Charles Sageman, 25 Edinburgh Street, London, Ontario, in a recent statement.

"For the last three years I suffered from bad headaches, dizziness, I would have to get up several times a night and then in the mornings I felt tired and exhausted. Sometimes the day, awful dizzy spells came over me and I had to sit down. Sometimes after finishing a meal before I realized it my appetite was poor; I was losing weight and generally I felt miserable. My kidneys caused me my complaint was round and sore.

"Now to show how I was feeling a few weeks ago when I began taking Syntona, but to-day I feel so different, I can hardly realize it. Now, I get my proper sleep and I wake in the morning feeling refreshed and rested. My appetite improved, I enjoy my meals and I feel that Nature is assisting me to speed. I have regained my lost weight, my bowels are regular and my entire system has improved up, I cannot praise Syntona highly enough for what it has done for me."

Syntona produces these results without the aid of drugs or depressors. It is made only from pure, selected herbs. Syntona has long been known for their medicinal value. It aids in the proper assimilation of food for energy and resistance and in the elimination of excess acids and waste matter. It is pleasant to take and the results are quick and thorough.

Make up your mind to get yourself a treatment of Syntona to-day at Dolan the Druggist, Belleville. See how much better you feel, too, will be feeling in just a short time.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Charley's (Big Hearted) Aunt," the world's greatest comedy, to be ever presented on stage or screen, Charley's Aunt" is now made into a new streamlined version under the banner title of "Charley's (Big Hearted) Aunt" and declares England's king of comedy, Arthur Askey, in the star role. Others in the cast include Richard (Stinker) Murdoch, Moore Marriott, Graham Moffatt and Phyllis Calvert, outstanding English comedians, that make "Charley's (Big Hearted) Aunt," one of the greatest laughter riots that the screen has ever seen.

Now showing at the McCarthy Theatre, Belleville, comedy should not be missed; you'll scarcely dream a picture could be so funny. So full of laughter, so exciting, so thrilling to be an exciting new event for you. See it tonight.

On the same program is presented a thrilling detective drama based on J. Edgar Hoover's story, "Persons in Hiding," with "Lux Radio Stars" which features Anne Shirley, Virginia Gilmore and William Henry. The closing character of the serial "Deadwood Dick" in which the identity of the Dick Smith is revealed, also a clever all technicolor Walt Disney (Donald Duck) cartoon is presented. The program will be run continuously on Saturday.

AT THE BELLE

"Tobacco Road"

Stirring, forceful human and packed with dramatic dynamite, "Tobacco Road" now playing, comes to the Belle Theatre on Bell Telephone's screen. Filmed with striking realism, and with a story which has by humor, this 20th Century-Fox production is a thriller, not to be missed entertainment or experience for all, including those who saw it on the stage.

All of the characters in Jack Kirkland's famous novel are discussed play, who stirred the imagination of the theatrical world with their warmth, vitality and rugged humour, come to life. John Ford's brilliant direction. Heading a superb featured cast are Charley Grapewin, Elizabeth Patterson, Gene Tierney and William Tracy.

Charley Grapewin, for a difficult character role, veteran Charley Grapewin, famous for many of his successful performances, is given the part of the dispossessed is the personification of everything that is "Tobacco Road."

Many are already familiar with the thrilling story of Jeeter Lester. In "Tobacco Road." Essentially it is the story of human frailties, their tragedy and comedy, all brought together in a superb script by Nunnally Johnson.

More Powerful Than Play

As Sister Bessie, the fiery, colorful, hymn-singing evangelist in "Tobacco Road," Marjorie Rambeau is splendid. Gene Tierney, who seems destined for stardom, adds a convincing performance as Ellie May, while young and talented William Tracy is seen as Dude Lester. The casting is brilliant throughout with Ward Bond, Grant Mitchell and Zeffie Tilbury and Fuzzy Knight in powerful featured roles.

As a motion picture play, "Tobacco Road" is even greater and more powerful than as a film. Intensely absorbing, riotously entertaining, it's great from the opening to final scene. 20th Century-Fox has made the most out of the screen's more flexible possibilities.

"Mississippi Swing" is the title of a color cartoon which is presented on the same program with an entertaining Pete Smith specialty "Wedding Bells" and a funny Leon Errol comedy "The Pired Man."

A lignite field in its vicinity has been developed by Bren Gun, at which it will be able to supply the entire needs of the French city of Marseille for fuel.

Cuban interests have organized to produce more than 200,000 pounds of tobacco starch monthly, comparable in quality with the best starch produced anywhere.

No Comfort For Nazis From La Guardia Speech

New York, April 24 (CP)—Mayor La Guardia arrived here last night from Ottawa by plane and when asked whether his declaration in the Canadian capital that the United States would defend the North American continent from Hitler's hordes had the backing of President Roosevelt, he said:

"This speech was made to give no comfort or aid to the Nazis. That's all."

Resigns In Protest To Proposed Plan

New York, April 24 (AP)—E. M. Antrim, Assistant Secretary of radio station WGN, Chicago, resigned from the newspaper radio committee in protest against a plan to raise $500,000 to present the case of newspaper-operated stations at forthcoming hearings before the Federal Communications Commission.

In his letter of resignation to Harold Hough of the Fort Worth (Texas) Star-Telegram chairman of the committee, Antrim said that WGN would not support, or continue to be represented in the committee.

He added:

"Our reason for this action is that developments to date indicate to us that there is not sufficient assurance that the large fund of $500,000 to be collected from the newspapers will be devoted exclusively to the preparation and presentation of the case on behalf of newspaper ownership of broadcasting stations on the merits of the issues involved.

The decision to obtain the $500,000 fund was made yesterday by a group of editors and publishers attending the American Newspaper Publishers Association convention here.

Men and Women, Says Hon. Mr. Howe, Must be Found to Man Productive Capacity of Industries

SHIP-BUILDING

'Canada's Ammunition Program Nearing Completion on Far Larger Scale Than in Last War'

Toronto, April 24 (CP).—Munitions Minister Howe today described the agreement reached by Prime Minister Mackenzie King and President Roosevelt as the "highest importance to our munitions program," so which he reported in private view in an address to a luncheon meeting of the Empire Club.

The agreement, providing for exchanges of products that each country is best suited to produce, is expected to go far toward enabling us to pay our debts in the United States with munitions for which we have surplus capacity from time to time and at the same time iron out peaks and valleys of war demand."

Somehow or other, Mr. Howe said, men and women must be found to man the Canada's productive capacity that is being created under the country's war effort. He found the "greatest encouragement" in the way Canadian industry and labor were putting their backs into war production.

Shipbuilding

Mr. Howe reported on Canada's production of ships, airplanes, munitions, military transports and tanks. Describing losses to Britain's merchant marine as "severe" in the battle of the Atlantic, he said Canada recently had turned her shipbuilding industry "on to turning out 10,000-ton freighters and within the next month 78 vessels of this type of tracts would be let for 78 ships.

To avoid delays to shipping in Canadian ports and extensive lighterage system was being built to supplement facilities available on our eastern Maritime ports." It would be in operation by the time the close of the St. Lawrence River season.

Small Arms, Explosives

Telling of construction of plants to manufacture small arms ammunition, explosives, shell fillings, chemicals and dyestuffs, Howe said: "Canada's ammunition 'program is nearing completion on a far larger scale than in the last war."

The motor industry, he said, had enough orders on hand to keep it occupied until the end of the year with the building of transport vehicles which have been sent to every country in the British Empire.

"We have had to turn to highly high-speed tank, which we will call on the manufacturer to produce as soon as opportunity offers," Mr. Howe said. "I may say that the motor industry has lived up to every promise that it has made."

Manufacture of Guns

Manufacture of guns—"almost every type, even 16-inch Enfield naval guns, six-inch naval guns and 4.7 anti-aircraft guns"—accounted for about one-third of Canada's total expenditures of $400,000,000 last year, Howe said. "New complaints are now coming into production from week to week and by mid-summer, guns will represent our largest munitions expenditure."

Production of heavy tanks had presented problems "within the limits which the infantry tank will be in substantial production and the midsummer the cruiser tank will also be in volume production." It was that the heavier, slower tanks represented the greatest challenge of any type of war production to Canadian industry.

Canada has filled her primary job of meeting the requirements of the Commonwealth air Training Plan and should, at the plane a week, 40 per cent fighters and 60 per cent trainers, are coming from Canadian factories. Manufacture of a fast American fighting plane and the latest type of long-range flying boat had recently been undertaken.

Officials Pleased By Expertness Of Graduates From D. P. Y. T. C.

Department of Labor officials have expressed their complete satisfaction with the quality of trainees turned out from the classes of the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training Course being held at the Belleville College, it was also learned from Mr. George Ferguson, chief instructor of the courses, this morning.

Bearing out this statement is the fact that already eleven trainees completing their course at the local school have gone directly to work in government projects in Ottawa and the Maritime provinces and have proven their qualifications as mechanics. Applications for additional machinists graduating from the Belleville school are on file at the school offices.

60 Placed In Industry

Over forty machinists and welders, graduates of classes closing during Easter, have been placed in industry during the past two weeks. These trainees went to different points, although a number of them found employment locally. Although the demand continues, there have been 106 placements in industry of trainees graduating from the Belleville school.

With the decision of the government to dispense with one welding class, the number of students now taking the mechanical training courses at the Collegiate has decreased slightly with between 100 and 110 youths and young men now taking training. During the past week thirty new students in the machinists' and fitters' course were taken in, with the possibility of another class being started as soon as a capable instructor can be secured.

Actual Shop Conditions

"The system of having students train by practising actual shop conditions, thus giving the trainee something more than theory when he enters industry, is one of the reasons for the marked success of the local school, in the opinion of Mr. Ferguson.

As an example, a group of 11 Toronto boys who have been taking an intensified 10-weeks' welding course at the local school are finishing their training period by welding steam radiators which will go into a Belleville building now in the course of construction. Machinists too, undergo the same type of training and work on actual shop problems, the result of a contract being turned out by a local manufacturer. Industrial training of trainees after finishing from the Belleville school.

Montreal, April 24 (CP). — Six youths were arraigned today on charges of failing to report for medical examinations under the National War Services Regulations, bringing to nine the number brought into court in connection with alleged attempts to obtain deferment or exemption from military training.

Phillip Shatilla of neighboring Outremont, who already has been charged with failing to report for his training period, was brought in to court again today on a charge of failing to report for his medical examination. Pleading not guilty, he was remanded for preliminary hearing April 30 with the six men.

The hearing, which began last week-end, followed police investigation into reports that a large number of young men aged from 21 to 24 had paid sums of money for deferment or postponement of their training.

Malozay is scheduled to appear for trial tomorrow.

Bandit Suicides To Avoid Capture

New York, April 24 (AP) — A chambermaid was badly beaten, a veteran traffic policeman was shot and a robber killed himself to avoid capture today in an attempted holdup and gun battle sequel at the New York Athletic Club on Central Park.

One companion of the suicide bandit later was captured after the third escaped, at least temporarily, by fleeing on foot after the patrolman was felled with a bullet in the hip.

Three bandits invaded the club but the door was locked and the chambermaid refused to give the men a key. They beat her over the head with pistol butts and fled.

When they came out of the club's service entrance each drew guns Patrolman George Schutz started pursuit and fired several shots before he was dropped with a bullet from a bandit gun.

At gunpoint one robber ordered a chauffeur and his woman employer out of a car, commandeered and jumped in behind the wheel. The car collided with another after moving but a few feet and the bandit shot himself in the head when other police closed in on him.

Description Of Six Escaped Prisoners

Toronto, April 24—(CP)— Description of six men who fled Appeal here yesterday in a motorcar accident, which left a driver dead and serious responsibility upon owners of motor vehicles, said Attorney-General Gordon Conant today, referring to the ruling that no licenses or permits another to drive his car while intoxicated is responsible party to an accident.

The Appeal Court dismissed an appeal of Alfred Lebeck of Windsor, Ont., against conviction and sentence. He was given a suspended sentence of recurring Wilfred Mayville to drive his car recklessly or carelessly."

Evidence was that Halmo was a passenger in the car driven by Mayville, his chauffeur, and that both were intoxicated when the car crashed into an accident in which Mayville and three others were killed and Halmo badly injuring the only survivor.

"The responsibility has not seem to be unreasonable or unjust," the Attorney-General said, "because the owner is the person who is in a position to know whether or not the motor vehicle is properly operated."

Halmo had been sentenced to one year determinate and six months indeterminate, and in addition fined $500 or another nine months. When he appeared before Judge Uriah McFadden in Chatham last month.

TREASURER ASKS $3,500,000,000 IN NEW TAXES

Amount Will be Small Price to Pay for Security Says Treasurer

INCREASE SURTAXES

Washington, April 24 (AP)—Treasury Secretary Morgenthau asked the United States Congress today for $3,500,000,000 in taxes, greater defence production, reduced non-defence spending, and safeguards against profiteering.

Morgenthau made no specific recommendations about how the new taxes should be raised in his formal statement. He told the House Ways and Means Committee others would present the treasury's viewpoint.

These treasury proposals have been reported to call for a drastic revise steep increases in income surtaxes while the force raise corporations to pay six times as much income tax as before, and also to call for additional taxes on soft drinks, liquor, cigarettes, gasoline and many other items.

Termed 'Unprecedented'

Terming the proposed tax increase "unprecedented" Morgenthau said "the new taxes will seem a small price to pay" for the security of this nation to be insured by the defence program.

"Together with existing taxes which may make the total Federal tax bill in the next fiscal year beginning July 1, about $12,500,000,000 the Secretary said "we shall find ourselves assessing more than 15 per cent of our national income for the national safety."

"It would be a tragic error to assume that the whole defence cost of defence production on a colossal scale can be met by corporations, whether as a government or as individuals. It would be folly to assume that we can continue to spend more than non-defence needs of either the government or civilians) as we did in normal times."

Meanwhile, negotiations on a new working contract continued here, with U.A.W. representative James F. Dewey participating.

CHURCHILL HINTS AT BROADCAST ON GREEK WAR

For Second Time In Three Days He Asks Parliament To Postpone Debate

London, April 24 (CP)—For the second time in three days Prime Minister Churchill asked Parliament to postpone a debate on the war but hinted that he will broadcast on the Greek campaign in the meantime.

The Prime Minister volunteered the assurance that he was aware the House expected a debate on the war and said it would be held "at the earliest moment compatible with the public interest and at the most convenient time which the Government to give a full and reasonable account of what has taken place."

In Close Contact With Enemy

He stated that a "serious responsibility rests on the Government in taking any course in making any statement which might prejudice the success of the British, Australian, New Zealand and Greek soldiers who are in close and intense contact with the enemy."

He gave the broadcast hint in replying to a question when cited the broadcast to Australia two days ago by Right Hon. Robert Menzies of Australia.

Mr. Churchill said, "I have been thinking whether I might not make some statement of a general character which I have been very anxious to make sure whether, if I did so, I should not be wasting the House with any disrespect when I suggested a debate on the matter should be postponed until a later occasion.

If I could say anything helpful on the matter in the interval, not of course going into a controversial aspect, I feel the House would perhaps give me an opportunity."

The House cheered.

Mr. Churchill said the Australian Parliament would be unlikely to meet before the first week in May and his effort would be made to have simultaneous war debates there and in the House, unless there would be "obvious inconvenience in having them separated."

Leslie Hore Belisha, former War Secretary, pressed for a statement from Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden on his recent tour but Mr. Churchill replied it was "inadvisable intervowen with the main matters which the House wishes to discuss"

New York, April 24 (AP)— An unidentified woman and a traffic patrolman were shot and one robber killed himself in a series of quick-fire holdups and shootings here today at the New York Athletic Club at 59th Street and 5th Avenue.

Three bandits had quietly staged a holdup in an upper floor of the club and then attempted to make their getaway, when the shooting started.

The woman first was shot, police reported, and then the robbers jumped into a stolen car and sped down Park Avenue. Street traffic collided with a limousine driven by a negro chauffeur.

One of the bandits fled on foot and engaged in a running gun battle with Patrolman George Schutz. Schutz was shot. The third bandit, trapped in the lobby of the rear entrance of the accident, shot himself through the head.

THE WAR TODAY

By DON GILBERT

Criticism of Britain's role in the defence of Greece centred today on the feeling that within the decision to dispatch an expeditionary force was right the number of troops sent was all too small.

Opinion shifted by Prime Minister Churchill's admonition to be patient that the government cannot make its case public at this time, nor its precise motives, nor the reasoning behind the decision, nor its calculations in calling for full accounting at the earliest opportunity.

In Australia the more responsible elements of the population appeared to have gained the upper hand over the hotter heads clamoring and even clamoring for political scalps. The government's decision to call a special session of parliament to review the situation met with general approval.

In London The Daily Mail declared there is a state of "grave uneasiness in the country . . . born of the conviction that something more could have been done, or some things done differently or more promptly."

The Daily Herald voiced disappointment that despite the tremendous efforts of the British people "the position is not much the time is still distant "when we shall push the enemy back as he now pushes us."

In Australia much the same sort of comment was made. The Sydney Daily Telegraph, critical that the cause Australian troops were sent to Greece without any assurance that they would be "adequately supported," felt that Britain's ill together with the British and New Zealand units in the expeditionary force formed an uneasy background to provide the sort of assistance Australians have been back the tremendous forces available to the enemy.

For Australians the sadness over the evacuation of Greece was greater. Greece was softened both by their admiration for the fighting and by the great skill of the Greeks at the commanding officers.

Army Minister Percy Spender predicted that the Australian leader in Greece Lt.-Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, would emerge from the battle as one of Australia's great commanders, and that his abilities would be generally was indicated in a London dispatch which said that when he returns to Africa he will be given the command of the Commander in Chief for the Middle East, Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell.

This means that when Gen. Wavell is ready to take the various fronts Gen. Blamey will make decisions. Gen. Blamey is Commander in Chief, and that his authority will exceed that of Gen. Wavell's chief of staff, who hitherto has been second man.

MAN ADMITS STORY A HOAX

Theodore Boehmer Arrested for Failing to Produce Registration Card

Port Hope, Ont., April 24 (CP)—Theodore Boehmer, 20, was remanded a week on a charge of failing to produce his national registration card when he appeared in court today. Boehmer, arrested at Cobourg last night, insisted for a time he was a German prisoner from an Ontario internment camp but later admitted the story was a hoax.

Boehmer told the court he spent the night in Cobourg and left the same charge, when picked up there while making a collection for charity.

Prior to admitting his identity last night Boehmer told police of serving with the Canadian Officers' Reserve," and gave an elaborate account of escaping from an internment camp by being pieced up by an African native. Given to Port Hope, Police said he told them that his name was Clarence Vonder Rhode.

REINFORCEMENTS

Defence Nearing Peak.

With the new arrivals, Lt.-Gen. L. Mordaunt, commander of British land forces in Malaya, said that the defence of the Singapore area and air planes was nearing its peak, for the time being at least.

The Australian army continuents of Australians and Indians plus a whole shipload of Bren gun carriers, anti-aircraft artillery from Britain and other British units already have added, have ensured closely coordinated striking power.

Both the people of Britain's Far Eastern defence scheme.

The reinforcements noted by some observers to be the forerunner of an army of 50,000—or more—for Malaya is already prepared stations of the Malayan Peninsula.

Coupled with the arrival of additional anti-aircraft guns not only Singapore island but the up a more dense barrage than at many Britain's vital ports, the new heavy guns up country to strengthen vital centres in Northern Malaya (facing Thailand).

Would Be Easy Targets.

Big guns for the coastal or China Sea coast offered numerous possible landing points, despite its swamps and reefs. But neither artillery nor land forces could open a way through the jungles, he said, while both transports and the shallow beaches would form the easiest targets for British guns.

Any attempt to approach Malaya's west coast, he said, would be under almost continuous aerial observation and attack while the transports were approaching.

Nevertheless, Gen. Bond said, "Japan, I believe, is definitely engaged in the manufacturing and retailing of men's and ladies' shoes, to be called for trading Monday, April 28. Both the common and preferred stock of Agnew-Surpass will be listed.

MASONRY BLASTED

The Air Ministry News Service said a good cloud cover enabled the British bombers to penetrate Germany and that smoke rose "to a great height" afterwards and masonry flew when the first attack was made on Rheinberg. A second attack an hour later caused "much additional smoke, it was said.

The service said two anti-aircraft ships were hit and set on fire when one in a dive-bomb attack and the other by low-level dive-bomb attack from a height of 20 feet. A third attack on Emden also was reported "from stern to bow" on a supply ship of 5,000 tons. "On its convoy, the service added, and smoke rose from it. Another vessel of about 650 tons also was reported bombed with "good effect."

Birth Control Advertisement Stirs Up Storm Of Controversy

Louisville, Ky., April 24—(AP)—A Jefferson County (Louisville) Grand Jury will investigate a statement to Criminal Court Judge Loraine Mix criticizing the Courier-Journal for printing a birth control ment recently advocating birth control.

Referring to a criticism of the newspaper by Archbishop John A. Floersh of the Louisville Catholic archdiocese for printing the advertisement, Judge Mix declared:

"This means that when Gen. Wavell is ready to take the various fronts Gen. Blamey will make decisions. Gen. Blamey is Commander in Chief, and that his authority will exceed that of Gen. Wavell's chief of staff, who hitherto has been second man.

Among stocks receiving support were Standard Oil of New Jersey, General Motors, Eastman Kodak, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, International Harvester and Standard Oil of Ind.

Backward now and then were U.S. Steel, Sears Roebuck, General Electric, Phelps Dodge and International Nickel.

Canadian issues showed slight changes. Standard Rails rose to 3-8, McIntyre and Dome 1-4 point each. In the bond market Canadas regained 1-8.

2 R.A.F. FLYERS

Crashed in Early Morning.

Flight Lieut. Hay had crashed shortly after one o'clock while doing take-off practice. Apparently neither of the two dead were instantly killed, for Goodman told the farmer they had tried to warn on the two most seriously hurt for help. Later he heard explosions, seeing and when he recovered his senses two fires were burning, one a fence, covering a quarter-mile in its destruction, and the other a farmhouse.

One of the survivors said the night firing operations had been called off yesterday afternoon but as the weather cleared they decided to carry through for regular night operations.

The plane that crashed left the Port Hope area about midnight, London about midnight. Apparently it was flying low in the fog ceiling and were flying low to avoid striking the clouds. The machine crashed without any warning. Both of the dead RDF into a deep and wooded hill on the north side of the east end of Niagara escarpment which in parts rises to 1,625 feet.

Boy Wounded in Tongue By Air Rifle Pellet

Hamilton, April 24—(CP)—For inflicting a wound in the tongue of 11-year-old William Brown with an air rifle pellet on May 16, March 23, William Sponge, 17, of Hamilton, was ordered by Magistrate James McKay today to pay $10 and costs or to jeune his conduct for six months. The boy was convicted on a charge of wounding with intent last week.

The Brown boy testified that he was at the Dundas marsh, March 23, when he saw several companions were sprayed from an air gun. Rushing over to investigate the party came upon Sponge.

Newspaper Criticized

Last Sunday a letter from Archbishop Floersh was read in Catholic churches throughout the archdiocese and commented on by many of the clergy. The letter said, in part:

"The action of the paper in printing the birth control advertisement is reprehensible, if for no other reason than that it tends to lessen the decency of its Christian readers and encourage them to condone assault on their cherished religious principles."

Not Insulting to Disagree Says Paper

Yesterday's Courier-Journal in an editorial stated its position for publishing the advertisement.

"It is not insulting for a newspaper to disagree with the Catholic Church. It is not more wicked for one to disagree or to disagree with an archbishop than to disagree with the President of the United States. It is not wicked if we carried on an orderly campaign to persuade Catholics from their present views on sexual matters, but to persuade Catholics from their views since there is nothing for which we should, or will, apologize."

REINFORCE GUARD

Parties of men and dogs, who have been working out of Heron Bay, reported that the last night and said there was no sign of enemies in this area. Maj. C. B. Lindsey, guard commander and acting commandant of the internment camp from which the Germans escaped, said the number of men in the Heron Bay area would be reduced.

Yesterday searchers explored every likely haven of shelter in the surrounding bush country. It was believed that the Germans might have gone into a lean-to or shanty to get out of the storm which has been sweeping the north shore for the last few days.

The men returned here foot-sore and weary after the day of fruitless search. Even the dogs were tired.

With no sign of the Germans since Monday, the belief grew that they had given up the trail or might have died of exposure.

Maj. Lindsey, who has taken charge of the search, is one of those who believe that the prisoners may have died in the barren bush country. After the weather turned warm and the ice began to melt yesterday, he said that "milled around" would be found in the vicinity of nearby areas, in which there may be pockets of deep water.

The air who still remain at large broke out of the internment camp with its escape on Saturday. Twenty have been returned to custody and two have died of selfwounds, they suffered when they resisted capture. Five others, it is said, have been recaptured also suffering wounds.

A resolution to forbid the use of convoys is now before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Some of its supporters were reported planning to add to the anti-convoy resolution a clause which would direct the committee to vote to shelve it.

Administration officials are known to oppose such a restriction, both because of the practical and psychological effect it might create in Britain and because it would hamstring the government's hands in a sudden emergency.

Only Matter of Time

Toronto, April 24 (CP)—The recapture of the six German war prisoners who escaped from a camp near Port Arthur is only a matter of time, Col. Robert Biesterfeldt, Ottawa, internment operations at Ottawa, said on his arrival here today. The men are still at large.

The six air men escaped from the camp late Friday night. Two were recaptured Saturday after a gun battle in which one was killed and two were injured, and the remaining 17 of the original 26 were safely back in the camp.

"I am quite positive the missing men cannot get far and that they will be captured very shortly," Col. Biesterfeldt said. "They have no money the weather is bad and they will be driven to get assistance sooner or later if they survive the elements in the bush. The search would be continued until they are found dead or alive.

Vast New Program Of Defence Plant Construction Drafted

Washington, April 24 (AP) — A vast new program of defence plant construction and expansion to cost approximately $1,500,000,000 has been drafted by United States War Department, it was learned today, and is expected to reach the stage of contract negotiations in two weeks.

Almost doubling the $1,750,000,000 of defence plant construction already under contract, the new program is designed to:—

1. Increase the munitions production capacity to the point where it will equip and supply the equipment for an army of 2,000,000 men, plus so-called "certain" air bases which are considered vital to the security of the Western Hemisphere.

2. Substantially boost the capacity for turning out munitions needed by Britain, particularly long-range bombers. Experts say Britain must have planes to break the blockade if she is eventually to start what is spread offensive warfare against Germany.

The new program was understood to be awaiting approval by Congress and by the President.

DEFENCE PATROL

(The recreation in some Canadian circles was that La Guardia was forecasting the start of U.S. convoys as far as the mid-Atlantic. Such a course would permit the release of Canadian and British naval forces now in convoy duty in the western half of the North Atlantic and thereby reinforce the flotilla operating in the eastern half where most shipping has been lost.)

Informed quarters here kept to the expression "active defensive patrol," but acknowledged this might lead to "shooting" between air or surface raiders away from shipping lanes in the western Atlantic.

Knotty Question Involved

One knotty question was what action a patrol vessel would be expected to take to enforce the defence zone in the event it encountered a raider operating against shipping. It was pointed out that one of the belligerents observed the 300-mile limit, Germany, and that the hemispheres by the Pan-American Declaration at the outbreak of the war. Consequently, there was no reason that Germany would ignore the zone if it considered that width.

The question in some quarters here was that unless the defence patrol were empowered to back up its police work if necessary, its effectiveness in preventing shipping losses would be questionable. In the meantime, however, the zone, however, would involve no new duties for naval vessels.

There has been recurrent discussion here of the possibility of Canada providing convoy protection since the adoption of the British and programme. Speculation has centred on what action might be taken if Canadian and supplies were sent to the bottom by Germany's counter-blockade.

Make No Statement

Administration officials, however, have made no statement on the subject, any statement which would indicate convoys was considered unlikely. President Roosevelt was quoted as having told some congressmen at a White House conference that he did not think convoys are "too absurd to be considered."

Nevertheless, reports of the 1,000-mile patrol line have been expected to intensify the efforts of a Senate group which has been seeking action on an anti-convoy resolution. Efforts to incorporate such a provision in the lease-lend bill were unsuccessful.

WATERWAYS PACT

At present there is a move in congressional circles to have the St. Lawrence scheme to two other projects, the Passamaquoddy and the Tombigbee-Tennessee waterway, and perhaps a Columbia River power and navigation project.

If these projects were linked with the St. Lawrence development, progress might be asked to ratify an omnibus bill authorizing them, involving perhaps $1,000,000,000. This would be a difficult task, especially in view of the $39,000,000,000 appropriated for defence and to be spent over the next few years, as one Congressman expressed it, "while the house is on fire."

Business Interests Opposed

Opposition to the St. Lawrence development comes from power interests in the east, who fear a loss in freight rates; from North Atlantic ports, who fear a loss of trade, and from Great Lakes ports, who fear a loss of trade only in shipping but in ship-building. Germany Demands Control Of Dardanelles Says Daily Herald

London, April 24 (CP)—The Daily Herald quoted foreign diplomatic circles today as saying Germany has demanded from Turkey complete military control of the Bosporus and Dardanelles in exchange for a non-aggression pact with Turkey.

The paper said Turkey was reported being pressed for an immediate reply, adding:

"According to the London report, the Soviet Government was informed of the German demand and it proposed to Berlin that Germany should sign a non-aggression pact with the Soviet Union at the same time."

The proposal was at once rejected by the Germans if this report, of which no confirmation can as yet be obtained, is true, on account for the hurried German visits to Moscow of Ribbentrop to Samotrakre and Lemnos off the coast of the Dardanelles. It also would account for the rather menacing attitude of the Nazis toward the Soviet Union at the moment."

Hobos Have Hard Life

Herron Bay, Ont., April 24—(CP)—Life's a hard proposition for hobos who ride the rods in this area these days, for the district is being scoured for six missing German prisoners of war. All freight trains are searched and when a policeman appears alongside an unsealed car, if there is anyone inside he is ordered out with his registration card in hand. Meanwhile, the hobos are climbing from trains at every stop, sneaking up behind police officers and have been stationed along the tracks.

The Daily Mail said, the government would do well to realize there is a feeling of disquietness in the country at recent events in the Mediterranean. This uneasiness is born of the conviction that something more could have been done, or some things could have been done differently or more promptly."

The Daily Mail recalled David Lloyd George's assertion in 1915 that "lines of small forces in the first Great War had been defeated by the mocking spectre of 'too late'," and added:

"Great is the criticism now—not that we should have withheld support from Greece but that they forbore both diplomatic and military was too feeble and too late."

It said Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had been given the task of welding Turkey, Yugoslavia and Greece into an effective alliance but that he failed in his mission.?"

Outcome Obvious

The Daily Herald, Labor organ, said the outcome of the Balkan campaign had been obvious from the start, adding, "we have not yet overcome the handicap inflicted on this nation by the shortsighted, self-satisfied leadership of the years immediately preceding the war.

"Our efforts of the last 12 months—immense though they have seemed to us—have been forgiven to the humiliation of withdrawal and still distant from the time when we can take the initiative and wrench the map as he now pushes us.

"The latest phase, the injection of Greece, The Daily Herald said, "is the most dangerous as saying Berlin had demanded from Turkey full military control of the Dardanelles. Control of the Dardanelles straits in exchange for a slice of Greek territory and the virtual extinction of an immediate reply from Turkey.

(Foreign sources in Turkey earlier expressed belief the Turks might refuse to close the straits to all foreign warships but would not judge on the basis of initial waterway even if confronted with a German ultimatum—that they would resist passage of Nazi troops through their territory.)

VACANT LAND CULTIVATION PLANNED

London, Ont., April 24 (CP)—A system of vacant land cultivation will be launched in London by other citizens as well, at a method of beautifying and food production will be undertaken in the city this year, according to present indications.

Relief Administrator McKay said relief authorities have received instruction from Ontario Government ready to share in the responsibility of authorities that the province was the land as was the case a year ago. The matter will be submitted to City Council for approval on Monday night.

Big League Favorites Begin To Travel After Being Shunted Around In Cellar for Past Week

Reds, Cards and Dodgers Show Real Strength as Weather Warms Up

INDIANS ON TOP

By JUDSON BAILEY

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The big trains are setting the right of way now on baseball's main line after a little more than a week of confusion.

The world champion Cincinnati Reds, with the best pitching staff in the major leagues, have just won two shutouts from Chicago Cubs. St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers are making their moves at the same time.

Cleveland Indians have squeezed into a tie for the American League lead. New York Yankees are climbing up and Boston Red Sox are sliding down.

Thus without any particular fanfare the races in the two big leagues are settling down for their long summer grind in just about the fashion everyone expected.

Bucky Walters pitched the Reds to their fourth straight triumph yesterday with a five-hit 5-0 conquest of the Cubs.

Thus the Reds are rolling true to form and up to now haven't even tapped Monte Pearson, their pitcher pickup from the Yankees.

New York Giants still are setting the pace in the National League, but with a falterist gait that may give way at any moment. They edged out Boston Bees 5-4 yesterday by means of a four-run rally in the sixth inning.

No Bones Broken

Brooklyn plastered a 4-0 shutout on the Phillies with Whitlow Wyatt scattering four hits. The Dodgers suffered a handicap when young Pete Reiser was hit on the right elbow by a ball pitched by Ike Pearson, but X-rays showed no bones were broken and he may be back in their lineup by the time the club has to defend itself against the western invasion next week.

St. Louis Cardinals penned Pittsburgh Pirates again 2-1 on the three-hit pitching gem of Sam Nahem, who was the "throw-in" in last year's trade that sent Joe Medwick to the Dodgers.

Cleveland cooked up a four-run inning to help Bob Feller get a 8-2 decision over St. Louis Browns.

Yanks Win Close One

At the same time the Yanks handed Red Sox their third straight defeat 3-2 on Phil Rizzuto's homer with one on in the 11th inning.

Hal Newhouser, who kept Detroit Tigers in fighting position through the early months of last summer, pitched eight hit ball while his teammates found their batting eye and crushed Chicago White Sox 13-5. The Tigers got together 14 hits—the first time they had made more than a dozen in one game this season.

Philadelphia Athletics crammed nine runs into one inning for an 11-7 triumph over Washington Senators.

NEWARK BEARS, BUFFALO BISONS LEAD INT. LOOP

Both Teams Well Balanced Suits on Defence and Offence

TORONTO IDLE

Newark Bears and Buffalo Bisons had better be more careful or they're liable to lose their reputations around the International League.

As champion power clubs from way back, the Bears and Bisons have always been noted more for their prowess at the plate than for their pitching strength. That's why it seems almost odd to them finding the circuit today, not so much because of their slugging capabilities but because they have been getting some of the best pitching in the league.

Yesterday's games can be taken as good examples of how well balanced the leaders are on offence and defence.

The Bears backed up the five-hit hurling of Tommy Byrne to defeat Rochester Red Wings 6-3 and the Bisons came through in the ninth inning to nose out Baltimore, 2-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Virgil (Fire) Trucks.

Byrne, a southpaw who cut out of Wake Forest College last summer, chalked up his initial victory by scattering five singles. He struck out four and gave up four walks but none of the runs off him were earned. The victory gave the Bruins a clean sweep of the four-game series and shoved the Wings farther into the cellar.

A home run ball to Tom Hafey almost proved Trucks' undoing in his duel with Baltimore's Clyde Smoll. Trucks, a fireballer up from Beaumont in the Texas League, showed plenty of speed striking out 11 Orioles. He walked one.

In the only other game, Jersey City Giants came from behind to slip Montreal Royals, 4-2.

Three Montreal Men Back In Lineup For Tonight's Game

Montreal, April 24—(CP) — The Memorial Cup scene shifted today to Montreal, with much of the outcome of the Dominion Junior Hockey final hinging upon the performance of Montreal Royals in their one-night stand against Bailey Northcott's Winnipeg Rangers.

The Royals, playing only their second game at home since moving into new plaudrons as Quebec representative, needed a victory tonight to remain in the running of best-of-five series. Coupled with their initial 4-2 triumph at Toronto, a Ranger victory would send the Winnipeg Club outstanding favorites to sweep the round at Toronto Saturday night.

Return of three, key men, who missed the first game Monday because of college examinations, gave the Royals slight favorites to square the series. A classic battle was promised, however, by Coach Northcott's pronouncement on the Rangers' arrival here last night that he expected "plenty of action."

'Bob' Johnson To Head C. N. R. Bowling League

Officers were re-elected by the C.N.R. Bowling League at the season's annual banquet held at the Paragon Cafe when R. J. (Bob) Johnson was named President, Cecil Young, secretary and Archie Dull, treasurer.

The league trophy was presented to the office team, composed of Messrs. Cy Young, George Fisher, Walter Jackson, Lionel Train, A. G. Meagher and Frank Deacon, while other individual prizes were also awarded.

The league will function as a six-team circuit next season, it was decided at the meeting, but will adopt the handicap basis with a single round schedule throughout the year, commencing the first Monday in October.

Greenberg Goes Into Army May 7

Associated Press Sport Writer

Detroit, April 24 (AP)— Doleful baseball talk today in Detroit—after city cigar store, tavern or street corner:

"Guess the Tigers can't win now."

"Nope, not with Greenberg out of there."

The inevitable had come. Hank Greenberg, great slugger of the Detroit Tigers, received his formal orders for induction into the army.

The summons to Hank was not unexpected, of course. As it is the American League's reputedly highest paid player at $50,000 a year has only 13 playing days left this season with Detroit, and the Tigers definitely are no longer expected to retain their championship.

Local Draft Board No. 22 notified Greenberg to report May 7 at the induction centre here. On that day the Tigers have planned to raise their league pennant to the top of the flag pole in Briggs Stadium.

The departure of Greenberg means the breaking up of the most powerful home run combination since the time of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig of the Yankees. It leaves Rudy York alone as the swat king of Detroit.

REGINA RANGERS PROLONG SERIES BY SECURING TIE

Hold Sydney Millionaires to 1-1 Draw in Third Game of Series

PLAY SATURDAY

By LORNE BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Saskatoon, April 24 (CP)— Because Regina's Rangers outplayed Sydney Millionaires at the eastern champions' own style of hockey, the best-of-five Allan Cup final series still was undecided today much to the surprise of everyone but the young westerners.

Adopting a hard-checking, robust system after losing the first two games, 8-6 and 8-3 with wide-open play, Rangers upset Sydney and finished with a 1-1 tie here last night in overtime to make necessary a fourth game, scheduled to be played in Regina Saturday. A fifth game, if necessary, is scheduled for Saskatoon next Tuesday.

The close-checking Rangers threw the high-geared Millionaires off stride when they lost goalie Bert Gardiner definitely in the first 40 minutes and had more scoring opportunities than Sydney in the 60-minute and overtime session.

Four shooting and bouncing pucks around the Sydney goal crease prevented Rangers from capitalizing on their plays.

Regina went ahead after 11 minutes of the first period when Grant Warwick, stocky little right winger, drove a hard shot from just inside the blue line that Bill Dickie in the Sydney net blocked but could not control. The puck dropped to his feet and wobbled into the net.

Only two seconds of the second period remained when Sydney tied the score. Steve Latoski, a Winnipeg product, broke around the Regina defence. With one man to beat checking him closely on one side and another trying to stop him on the other, Latoski banged a low, backhand shot from a tight angle the red line into the puck went through the legs of goalie Jim Henry.

Everybody Walks For Sport Meet

Helsinki, April 24 (CP)—The biggest sport meet in history will soon take place jointly in Finland and Sweden. The athletes assembled to match the two peoples as nations rather than for any individual championships.

The idea is to list every citizen in each country who walks a certain specified distance within a specified time limit, during a certain week period in May. Because Sweden has twice the population of its neighbor, the lists will be rated on a ratio of 2-1. Finland will come up with the longer list of names wins the meet.

After negotiations between the Swedish Walking Union and the Finnish Sports Federation it was agreed that the competitive distances and maximum time limits would be 5 kilometers, for men, one hour thirty minutes; for women, one hour forty minutes; 15 kilometers; for men alone, two hours thirty minutes.

Both boys and girls alone the age of 10 are allowed to enter the walk. Juniors and boys over 14 at 15 kilometers. To stimulate further interest in hoofing it among the fair sex, Sweden challenged Finland for the international meet.

Last year the Sports Service League, which operates for the greater part as a voluntary organization and is duly registered under the War Charities Act of 1939, expended over $1,000 in providing sports equipment for the boys in Canada's Navy, Army and Air Force. However, the need for sports equipment for our fighting forces is much greater this year and the appeal for assistance is being made to every sports league and club in the province for help. "By pooling all monies, raised through the different organizations, into the Sports Service League treasury we are able to make your dollar do the work of $1.50 or better as we are able to purchase quantities of equipment at reduced prices," the C.S.L. stated in a letter to this department recently.

Realizing the dire need for increased sports equipment, the Sports Service League have inaugurated a mammoth bazaar, in which every sports organization in Ontario is urged to participate to assure success. Books of tickets will be provided any recognized sports organization, or merely applying to "Sports Service League," 18 Temperance St., Toronto." The S.S.L. stage benefit dances and other activities to raise funds for this purpose, but the demand for sports equipment for our boys in uniform is increasing rapidly, especially in that the out-of-doors season is upon us. With the membership of the local golf clubs, tennis clubs and Belleville's softball set-up all lined up and appear to be banner seasons, here is an opportunity for each organization to give our fighting forces assistance through the ticket organization with the Sports Service League. Also the possibility of selling of bazaar tickets which embrace handsome returns. "How about it Belleville?

Regarding softball in Peterboro' things are slightly on the upcurrent writings of Fred Craig, who says: "The City Parks Committee deferred the election of officers to their meeting to be held at 8 o'clock tonight. Russ Jones was up from Hastings to see the get-together and reported that Hastings was definitely in the league and has received from Omemee that the boys up there would probably be in line. The Lakefield Committee, of which executive who outlined the Ontario Association's plan to raise funds to provide sports equipment for Canadian soldiers and said that it was expected that all leagues affiliated with the O.A.S.A. would co-operate."

Perhaps some good did 'come out of the recent meeting of the C.A.H.A. held at Ottawa, at least it's to be hoped so. The "big league" clubs are now endeavouring to have hockey played closer to the code of Queen Victoria, eliminating the vast difference which prevails in the game in different parts of the Dominion. Today there are two distinct styles of hockey played, the style played by the professionals and copied by the clubs in the larger centres, particularly in the junior "A" series and the style practiced by the clubs that play according to the rules where boarding, high-sticking and other such illegal practices are penalized. There is no doubt we see a wider open style of hockey, with more goals scored in the game as played under the code when attacking forwards can skate into a defending zone without the fear of having their heads chopped off close to their shoulders with high sticking practices. Practically every other competitive game known has one set of rules, which are enforced rigidly. Why not hockey?

Eliminate the wrestling style and crashing to the boards idea and a clever shifty forward, of limited stature, has as good a chance as the brushing type of player, which after all is the occasional rule of the game. If the C.A.H.A. would adopt and enforce one rigid set of playing rules and give their referees full support instead of permitting every honky-town manager or coach to attempt intimidation upon the officials, then the sooner hockey will move into its rightful place in the sports world. All too frequently we find referees and coaches letting the players make rules from a much different viewpoint, which means the referee becomes confused and rightly so. But with the proper understanding on the complete playing code of the game one competent official could arbitrate without fear or favor and there would be no more of this "We won't have this referee and we want that official" business.

All is in readiness to accept applications in the three groups of the Ki-Y League, according to Chairman Fred Rawson. Efforts to create more interest, and more team-and "mushballers" will be put forward this year. The C.A.H.A. approved loop heads this year in order to attract the public's interest in the game and there's nothing as interesting as boys playing at competitive sport. Applications are now available at the "Y" for Bantam teams, 11 years and under; Midget 14 years and under and Juvenile 17 years and under, says Secretary Joe Shortt.

The Belleville Anglers held their final meeting before the two-year season opens or May 1st, tonight at the "Y". There goes the Detroit Tigers, Hank Greenberg was ordered to report for active duty on May 7th, but he'll be back a year hence, that is if that old Belleville tonsorial artist can manage, isn't the theme song wealth of the hereby "By that time ....Well, well—pay little and get little would be the motto at the Meadow track in California these days in the pitching line, as per the consequences. "Those pitch-stealers had better stop calling my throws before delivering grin an earful of baseball," warned Feller yesterday ....Now it's Bobby Jones Jr., on the golf circuit, and he's off to a win for the Indians and the Yanks and the Red Sox as now the Cleveland team and Boston are tied, but the Giants are still alone as the top team in the senior loop.

The Sydney millionaires aren't elected exactly out of the Allan Cup wrestling yet although they're on the edge of the forest, even after playing a 1-1 tie with Winnipeg last night. Looks as though the gals' softball teams are rushing the season somewhat, as it's too cold for spring practice as yet. ..."Winger" Reynolds' Corbins Lock lassies, beat the Deacons badly in an exhibition till last night, after the Belmo had taken the game and vantage Monday. . . .

"WHAT'S NEW, MR. PRIME MINISTER?"

Ostensibly in high spirit after his visit to Hyde Park and his conference with President F. D. Roosevelt, Prime Minister MacKenzie King arrived back in Ottawa. He is shown here surrounded by newspapermen. The Prime Minister did not issue any official statement upon arriving but was heard to say cryptically that his trip had been "better than a holiday."

NAZIS NEED OIL SAYS LORD MARLEY

Claims If Greece is Conquered Turkey Will be Next to be Invaded

Windsor, Ont., April 24 (CP) — A picture of "a very ugly nature" this is how Lord Marley, Deputy Speaker of the British House of Lords, described the European war scene in an interview here today.

Lord Marley briefly reviewed the war in which he said the Balkan "if Greece is conquered, Turkey will be next, and Russia and Persia won't be very comfortable."

"The need of oil, he said, would force Germany's hand with regard to Turkey. "Turkey is the line of oil that feeds the Iraq oil fields," he said. "And Russia's line of oil feeds the regions of the Black Sea and the Caspian Sea will be menaced, too."

We Know Germany needs oil from reports made by Nazi airplane and bomber pilots who have studied captured German planes sent to America, he added.

Switching to the Russo-Japanese pact he said that the Dutch East Indies represents to Japan what Spartan died, if Soviet Russia, Germany.

He predicted Russian help for Japan should Germany move against that country. "Perhaps not active military help, but even planes with that being given England by the United States."

Rome Communique

Berlin, April 24 (AP)—The German High Command claimed today that the Royal Air Force had succeeded in breaking into Thermopylae positions" in the thrust toward Athens 100 miles south, but declared pass where Leonidas and his

British rearguard units held the pass, the High command said, recalling the terrain there "especially favorable"—presumably for the defenders.

(Nazi spokesmen yesterday said British forces holding the pass had been annihilated and German armored units were moving toward Athens.)

Thirty British tanks were destroyed in the Larisa and Lamia sectors the pass was approached, the High Command communique claimed.

Much-Attacked Nazi Warships Again Undergo Raid At Brest

London, April 24—(CP) — The Ministry of Information announced today that Royal Air Force bombers again attacked the German battle cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau at the Nazi-occupied French port of Brest last night.

The first attack on the cruisers there was made last March 30 Since then the warships have been subjected eleven times by R.A.F. After one night raid a communique said the warships "suffered no severe" the warships, On other nights sticks of bombs "straddled" the ships. It is believed that the war vessels are ready to stay at Brest because they have been damaged severely in the raids.

New Drug Compound Found Suitable For Chronic Sinus Trouble

Chicago, April 24 (AP)—One of the newer "sulfa" compounds was reported today to relieve chronic sinus trouble better than any medicine now used. The new drug is the sodium salt of sulfatiazole. It was found to be effective when a forty per cent solution was used as a nasal spray. This was reported in the journal of the American Medical Association by Drs. Frederick Myles Turnbull of Los Angeles.

U. S. PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH VOTES $200,000 MORE FOR BRITISH MISSIONS

New York, April 24 (AP)—An additional $200,000 for the relief of British missions was voted yesterday by the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church. The previous campaign for the same amount was oversubscribed by $4,500. The funds were voted on the ground that needs of Anglican missions will continue for several years after the war, and of England will be unable to support them for some time.

THIRD SUCCESSIVE RAID ON PLYMOUTH

Air Raid Workers Say Most of Bombs Fell on Ruins of Wrecked Buildings

Plymouth, April 24—(CP) — For the third consecutive night German Air Force concentrated its attack on this English seaport last night and early today and loosed hundreds of fire and high explosive bombs on already badly-damaged buildings and streets.

The raid, during which two Nazi bombers were shot down by anti-aircraft fire, caused a few more deaths. Eight bodies were taken from a garden shelter which was buried intact to the roof of a house. Four others were found in a surface shelter.

(Nazi spokesmen in Berlin said Portsmouth also was attacked.)

Air raid workers said the attack was "a fiat failure." They added that most of the bombs fell on sites of previously-bombed buildings.

The raid ended shortly after midnight and a communique said the situation was always well under control."

'Get Excited' Over This Crisis Warns Wickard

New York, April 24 — (AP) — Claude Wickard, Agriculture Secretary, told the people of the United States today that it is high time they get excited about the state of world affairs because "ostrich tactics don't last very long nowadays."

If the U.S. wished to continue a great nation, "it must act like a great nation," he said in offering his commentary on the progress to date of the war:

"The story in the conflict, so far as the democracies are concerned, has been a dismal one from end to end to date." Millions of Americans are puzzled and afraid. They can see clearly the results of appeasement and the policy of drift.

Wickard's address was prepared for delivery at a meeting of farmers and the Middle Atlantic farmers, called to discuss the agriculture departments five point program of speeding production of meats, poultry and dairy products to meet needs of British and other nations resisting the Axis powers.

Declaring American agriculture's stake in a British victory to be "very great," he said that should the Axis win, "we might as well kiss our export market for farm products goodbye."

"That is mean sweeping readjustments in agriculture. The changes would be revolutionary and drastic and they would mean complete disorganization of the management control for all agriculture and all farmers."

U.S. TRAINS B.B. SQUADRONS

Washington, April 24 (AP)—Large-scale use of barrage balloons to defend cities and factories from attack against air attack was indicated today by the War Department that disclosed that a school has been established to train barrage balloon squadrons. The school will be commanded initially by three aquadrons of approximately 400 men each.

Germans Bluff In Engineering

(From Modern Power and Engineering)

The highly successful system of propaganda of the Nazi regime has focused engineers' attention on the self-same policy of Germans for many years prior to Hitler rule. The Germans have, in fact, consistently throughout their entire endeavored to indicate an inherent high engineering technique, and this was so successfully put over that the real inventors and originators simply sat back in disgust at this knavery.

As is pointed out in a recent issue of "The Engineer" of London, Eng., "practically all the engineering inventions which have formed the foundation of German technical industry came from Britain..... In steam engineering and architecture the only initial activity the Germans was in importing finished products..... It is long since the vanguard of German marine engineers worked on the Clyde, from whence came the idea for their fast Atlantic steamships..... Not even Goebbels could claim that German engineering had a hand in the development of the steam turbine, and, much earlier, the first steam locomotive to operate in Germany went there in boxes, just as did the first power loom, the first spinning frame, the first tensile testing machine, and the first ejector condenser.

x x x

"The Teutonic illusionists have almost succeeded in creating the impression that internal-combustion engines are a German order. This is simply not true, since it was from a Frenchman, Otto, that took the idea of the four-stroke cycle, from a Scotsman, Dugald Clerk, the two-stroke engine, and from an Irishman the idea of the positive scavenge. The Diesel engine is no longer, or very rarely built, and the scheme of the modern heavy engine is based mainly on the ideas of an Englishman.

"In machine tools the Germans have originated nothing, and for the application of invention deals of manufacture they are entirely indebted to British and American pioneers. A typical German procedure has been to give German names to inventions originating elsewhere. The armored battle vehicles now so largely used by the Germans originated in Lincoln.

x x x

"The fact is that German bluff has long been used in engineering, just as it has German used in the political business. The unfortunate thing is that it has so often appeared to succeed.

"What engineers and industrialists must remember in the future is that all this assertion of German technical superiority should be heavily suppressed..... Philosophy they have tried to corrupt for their own base ends, and in the realm of thought their leading representative was the grandson of a respectable Aberdeen saddler whose name was Carl.

"By a concerted national effort we can spike all this form of German propaganda, and not be partisan to the old trickery that caused many Canadian engineering companies to employ Germans. And when we hear of Germans emphasizing inventiveness we can also think of German political propaganda, and put the two together in the same category.

Nazis Use Heavy Guns In Effort To Break Through The Pass

INFLICT HEAVY LOSSES

BRITISH LOSSES LIGHT

By J. WES. GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Athens, April 25 (AP)—Dive-bombers, the heaviest artillery the Nazis have used in their drive southward, are taking their toll of the British and Greek defenders of Thermopylae, where waves of German infantry were beaten back.

Dramatic but barren of detail, the communique issued in Athens last night from the historic battlefield said only that the British and Greeks clung doggedly to their positions in the face of massed German forces.

Observers here regarded news that the Greeks, after trying infantry assault, had brought up guns up through passes to counter the occupation of the fierce resistance they were meeting.

Ambulance drivers returning from the front said the Germans had lost heavily in attempts so far to storm the defences. They said British artillery "crushed them."

Nazi spokesmen in Berlin claimed that the Luftwaffe in one day alone was only after making sure it could be taken without heavy losses—just as they took Paris.

The Germans also claimed 89,000 tons of shipping had been sunk in Greek waters by their planes.

One hundred miles southeast of the mountainous battlefront, German air power continued to concentrate on ports and shipping near Athens, itself shaken at dusk last night by a thunderous dive-bomber attack on the port of Piraeus, five miles away.

A crowd of planes swarmed down on Piraeus where, the communique said, the 2,000-ton passenger ship Helias carrying refugees to the Greek islands was bombed and set afire, killing many women and children.

Two Red Cross-marked hospital ships were reported sunk off the Peloponnesus coast by bombs.

Anti-aircraft gunners brought down three more of the raiders.

VICTORY LOAN 1941 WILL BE OFFERED PUBLIC JUNE 2ND

Amount And Terms Will Be Fixed Later Hon. J. L. Ilsley Declares

COMMITTEES NAMED

Ottawa, April 25 — (CP) — Canada's forthcoming war loan, the third of the present war, will be offered to the public in a campaign starting June 2, Finance Minister Ilsley announced today. He said the amount of the loan and the terms have yet to be determined.

The loan will be called "Victory Loan 1941."

Amount and terms of the loan will be fixed at a later date when the national organization for the war loan campaign, under the general direction of T. W. Sydney of Montreal has been completed.

Mr. Ilsley in announcing the name and date of the loan, said: "Every dollar we spend in waging war is spent to bring about victory. The forthcoming loan, therefore, will be Canada's 'Victory Loan.' Its name proclaims the faith and determination, faith and purpose of the people of Canada."

National Committee

Mr. Ilsley said a national committee had been set up with strong representation in every province. The honorary chairmen of the national committees are two former leaders of the Liberal party, Hon. Sir Thomas White of Toronto, and Hon. C. G. (Chubby) Power of Quebec. Honorary chairmen of the provincial committees are provincial premiers.

Mr. Ilsley is chairman of the national committee. Vice-chairman of the executive committee is Mr. Sydney, and the chairman of the executive committee is Mr. Spinney, and the headquarters will be in Toronto.

Ontario members of the national committee are: A. E. Arscott, Toronto; Walter H. Somerville, Toronto; H. E. Duncan, Toronto; A. F. White, Toronto; John King, Toronto; Orrin J. Rowland, Toronto; E. C. CAPT. ROOSEVELT IN MANILA

Manila, April 25 (CP)—Captain James Roosevelt and 200 United States Marines, arrived here by Clipper today and was noncommittal when asked if his final destination is Chungking, seat of the Chinese nationalist government.

He said "That's a pretty good question" and declined comment in asking if Chungking was his destination.

Captain Roosevelt, son of the President, is scheduled to continue by Clipper to Hong Kong tomorrow.

U. S. Neutrality Portal To Operate As Far As Necessary For Defence

President Roosevelt Refers to Possibility Axis Forces Partly Occupy Greenland, Though He is Not Certain — Says United States is Not Thinking of Escorting Convoys at This Time. —Patrol Now Extending 1,000 Miles Into the Atlantic From Maryland

Washington, April 25 (AP)—A possibility that Axis forces partly occupy Greenland, Danish island in the North Atlantic now under United States protection, was disclosed by President Roosevelt today in what he frankly termed a surprising statement.

At the same press conference, Mr. Roosevelt said the United States neutrality patrol will operate as far into the waters of the seas as may be necessary for the defence of the western hemisphere.

U.S. Not Thinking of Convoys at This Time

But emphatically the President said his administration is not thinking of convoys at this time. He denied that the United States patrol ships as the reconnaissance of ocean areas to determine whether an aggressor force might be coming into the western hemisphere.

Conveying, on the other hand, Mr. Roosevelt said, was German merchant ships in a group to prevent acts of aggression on them. The American neutrality patrol, he added, could not be made a convoy by calling it one any more than a cow could be turned into a horse by calling it a horse.

The President also told reporters that American ships have taken the attitude that the dictatorship will be victorious and adopted a dumb attitude which was not good American.

'Axis' Dictatorship

Declaring he was "not" dictatorship, he said that everybody was, Mr. Roosevelt said the United States was willing to fight for democratic processes. He, for one, would not be "pushed around by anybody."

U. S. Administration Leaders Say Arms Must Reach Britain Safely

Hull, Knox and Wickard Speak in Unusually Strong Language in Addressing Widely-Different Audiences

DECISIVE ACTION LOOKED FOR

By J. P. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Washington, April 25 (CP)

Backed by a policy of powerful resistance to the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis, an important United States administration decision was believed near today as a means of strengthening the hand of the executive committee in Mr. Spinney, and the headquarters will be in Toronto.

Interpreted in most quarters here as a forewarning of such a step, concerted demand was made by three cabinet members yesterday and last night for decisive action that the U.S. be prepared to fight.

State Secretary Cordell Hull, Navy Secretary Frank Knox, and Agriculture Secretary Claude Wickard spoke in unusually-strong language in addressing widely-different audiences.

"The safety of this hemisphere and of this country calls for resolute action—decisive action will be most effective," Hull said in a radio address at Washington before the American Society of International law. "To wait for actual invasion would be utterly short-sighted and extremely dangerous.

"The safety and defence of the United States, he added, meant that aid-to-Britain and other nations resisting aggression must reach its destination in the shortest of time and in the maximum quantity.

"So—ways must be found to do this."

Must Keep Promise

Knox, addressing the annual dinner of the American Newspaper Publishers Bureau of Advertising at New York, struck the same note of haste.

"We cannot allow our goods to be sunk in the Atlantic," he said. "We say that we hate war, but we also make our promise good to give aid to Britain. We must see the job through. That is the job."

Wickard, speaking in New York yesterday in farmers from the northeastern States at a conference on co-operation between agricultural production to provision Britain, struck the same note with the statement that it was time the American people "got excited" about the threat the world events.

Wickard said that if the United States is "to continue as a great nation, it must act like a great nation. It must not underrate the decisive of the war as a "story of 'too little and too late.'"

"Millions of Americans are getting sick of that story," he added.

SEARCH CLIMAXED BY CAPTURE OF LAST 4 PRISONERS

Two Captured At Medicine Hat, Alta. And Four Men Near Railway Station At Heron Bay

HID IN HUT

By SCOTT YOUNG
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Heron Bay, Ont., April 25 (CP)—The search for 36 German war prisoners who escaped from a nearby internment camp last Friday night was climaxed early today with the capture of the last four in a box car standing on a siding near the railroad station at this Lake Superior lumbering village.

Two members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and two Ontario Provincial Policemen effected the capture. They found that the Germans left a lakeshore hut in which they had hidden for the last four days.

Sitting in the tiny station office when they arrived with the prisoners' transportation back to the camp, the Germans told one of the men amassing stories to come out of the great six-day manhunt that began suddenly through the snow-covered bush of this rugged area since the escape through a tunnel dug under the outer barricades of the camp.

GORT GOVERNOR OF GIBRALTAR

Exchanges Posts With Lieutenant-Governor Sir Clive Liddell

London, April 25 (CP)—Gen. Viscount Gort has been appointed Governor and Commander in Chief of Gibraltar, it was officially announced today.

Lord Gort was Commander in Chief of British field forces in France until after the retreat from Flanders at Dunkirque last year.

By his new appointment, he exchanges posts with Lieut.-Gen. Sir Clive Liddell, Governor of Gibraltar, who now takes Gort's place as Inspector-General for training of British home forces.

The announcement gave no reason for the appointment of General the Viscount Gort, V.C., D.S.O., to be Governor and Commander in Chief of Gibraltar in succession to Lieut.-Gen. Sir Clive Liddell, D.S.O., who has been appointed Inspector-General of the Corps of training in this country. Sir Clive succeeded Field Marshal Lord Ironside as Governor at Gibraltar in May, 1939, after the latter had carried out the strengthening of ment and fortification of the fortress.

Enemy Tanker Set Afire In Daylight Raid Off Norway

German Planes Machine-Gunned On Their Airdromes In Northern France

START FIRES AT KIEL

London, April 25 (CP)— "Very substantial loads of bombs" were poured on the big German shipyards of Kiel and Wilhelmshaven by the Royal Air Force last night after the planes penetrated heavy curtains of anti-aircraft fire and the cradles of many a German submarine and surface warship. Also attacked were targets along the German-held coast, from Norway, to Belgium in the first big night Air Ministry said.

The Kiel raid was directed principally against the Germania and Deutsche Werke yards.

"Toward the end of the attack large fires were seen burning so brightly that the bombing crews could make out the extensive areas devastated in previous blows at the shipbuilding centre.

In raids along the Norwegian coast, it was added, a tanker of at least 1,500 tons was attacked, set afire and "almost certainly" destroyed.

One plane engaging in the raids made its way back over the North Sea with only one engine functioning.

Bath Club Gone It Knew Kings

London, April 25—(CP)—Fire of unknown origin has completely destroyed the 18 th Club in London's West End, where the King, his brothers and the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose used to take swimming lessons.

An Air Force officer, PO. W. Airey, lost his life and a number of firemen were injured. A club spokesman said by sliding down a drainpipe. Valuable books, pictures and furnishings were destroyed.

Founded in 1894, the club was the first in London to have a swimming pool. Turkish baths and a gymnasium were added later.

While the Queen eagerly watched the Princesses won prizes in a baby swimming competition at the club in 1939.

Formerly a London residence of Lord Abergavenny, the Bath Club occupied a beautiful ball room on the site of which the swimming pool was built and magnificent Adam ceilings which were preserved when the building was modernized.

Pembroke Ont., April 25—(CP)—Pembroke Provincial Police and a Royal Canadian Air Force officer were dispatched today to investigate a report that an R.C.A.F. training plane had crashed this morning in the Ottawa River eight miles east of here.

First reports said at least one man was believed to have been killed in the crash. R.C.A.F. officials were unable to confirm the report pending investigation.

Percy Moore a Pembroke farmer, said he saw the plane crash into the water about one mile from the shore here. He said the plane hit the water, skipping about 100 ft. was flying low when a wing hit the water.

"The plane sank within a few seconds," Moore said.

R.C.A.F. headquarters here were informed of the crash and an officer sent to the scene. Officials of the nearest R.C.A.F. station at Rockwaws, Ont., also proceeded to the place where the crash was reported, to have occurred.

Aircraft Fitter Also Charged With Defrauding Canadian Girl

London, April 25 (CP Cable)—Michael Downes, 34, an aircraft fitter who posed as a Canadian airman possessing the D.F.M. and the D.F.C., while wearing a Royal Air Force uniform was sentenced in Old Bailey yesterday to two years' imprisonment.

He was convicted for receiving the uniform while knowing it was stolen, defrauding a Canadian girl by pretending to be an officer pretending to marry her, and various other charges.

The uniform belonged to Pit. Lt. Reggie Thomas, former Olympic runner. Downes, it was charged, after a woman noticed the trousers and cuffs contained the D.F.C. ribbons.

Geraldine Miller, 25, a Canadian music student, testified Downes proposed marriage to her after engagement was announced in two London papers. He defrauded her of £30 (about $133) she said.

Begin To Dig Day After Arriving In Prison Camp Says Escaped Man

By SCOTT YOUNG
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Heron Bay, Ont., April 25—(CP) —"We have arrived here on the 28 of January," said blond Helmuth Ackenhausen with a rueful smile today, then repeated the date and paused, as if to add emphasis to the words before adding, "and we begin to dig on the 29th of January."

Ackenhausen sat talking to me in the little railway station here here a short while after he and three others—the last four of the 28 German who escaped from internment camp here with a party had been captured in a freight car nearby.

He shook a 70-pound packsack from his back, ran his fingers through his hair and started to talk, waving his hands and grinning at the guards as he spoke. He stayed close to the little barrel stove in the station seemingly trying to shake the cold of more than five hours in the freight car out of his body.

As Ackenhausen spoke, with his questions inserting an occasional comment, the men took things from their pockets. Three were maps showing in minute detail the north shore of Lake Superior, a knife and a wooden handle, compasses and other objects.

Nothing Buried

Ackenhausen and his companions never got a chance to tell me the whole story of the escape for after a time I was noticed by Lt. Ian Bell, the Veteran Guard Unit attached to the internment camp. He was in uniform in two stiff steps and told me I should not be taking notes.

He called Inspector Belcher of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and after they had talked, the inspector took my notes and one paper of the other men before leaving on the captures and three them into the station stove.

I was ordered to take my typewriter and leave the station behind although the table at which I was sitting had been my headquarters since Monday. I waited outside in the cold until Mr. Belcher could be taken away to return to the station before being able to file the story.

British Blockade A Sharp Thorn In Side Of Germany's War Effort

London, April 25 (CP)—Britain's blockade is slowly but surely reducing Germany's war effort.

This week was marked by the Ministry of Economic Warfare showing that the highly-organized economy of the Nazis is not subjected to any one overwhelming strain but lack of any particular commodity, it is stretched at many points by the British blockade and by the effects of direct and indirect.

The need to maintain synthetic and substitute industries, or simply to prove food instead of importing it is a strain on labor and transport. The need to supply German soldiers in occupied countries and to feed Italy's industries going is a further strain.

Thus, the organization of supplies from and through Russia, and the provision of raw materials, make it increasingly necessary to feed the occupied countries going for Germany's profit.

There are some instances of shortages:

Oil—Little evidence of immediate shortage except cessation of private motoring, but the supply position is obviously difficult. The aftermath of the Balkans campaign may make it necessary to feed Yugoslavia and even up the Danube difficult for some time. The Norwegian fishing fleet is being refitted to take gas fuel, and taxis in France are similarly fitted.

Rubber—Buna (synthetic rubber) production in 1940 was only one-third of the probable wartime minimum needs of German-controlled Europe. There are very small stockpiles of many commodities. Bicycle tires are supplied only for tradesmen's cycles.

Ferro-alloys — German technical press is showing some anxiety. Nickel ores have been called in in Italy and occupied countries, especially Norway.

Non-ferrous metals — Aluminum has been largely substituted for copper.

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

GIRL RIDING BIKE KNOCKED TO ROADWAY

Only the alert manipulation on the part of the driver of a motor car saved the life of a girl who was a much more serious accident at the intersection of Pinnacle and Bridge Streets last evening when a motor car driven by R. F. Hayward, 80 Victoria Avenue, was in collision with a bicycle ridden by Miss Mary Derusha, 319 Bridge Street.

The Derusha girl was knocked to the pavement where she sustained painful leg, arm and head abrasions and bruises.

Immediately upon the impact Mr. Hayward applied the brakes of his car and the vehicle came to an abrupt halt thus keeping the injuries to the cyclist at a minimum. P.C. Evans reported after investigation, Mr. Hayward assisted the injured girl to the nearby surgery of Dr. L. B. Mathieson where examination was made and later the girl was taken to the hospital for closer observation. Her condition was reported as quite favourable today, however.

2 PERSONS MISSING IN THE DISTRICT

Two persons were reported missing to the District Headquarters of the Ontario Provincial Police here today, Inspector Frank Gardner announced.

From Frankford the whereabouts of 50-year-old Edward Clarke is being sought. Clarke, who is suffering from a nervous condition, was described as being five foot 10 inches in height and weighs approximately 170 pounds. He has a marked impediment in his speech and is noticably suffering from a nervous condition.

The second report came from Provincial Constables on Carrubbers at Campbellford, where 17-year-old Evelyn N. Atkinson is reported to have left her home without leaving any trace of her whereabouts. The Atkinson girl was described as being five foot six inches tall, weighing about 130 pounds and wearing a blue skirt and sunde shoes. Her parents informed the police that the girl was seeking to join the Red Cross or some other such unit which employs women for war work.

BRIGADE ANSWERS TWO MINOR ALARMS

Two minor alarms, involving a chimney fire and a grass conflagration, comprised the activities of the local fire department during the past two days. On Wednesday at 2.30 p.m. Lingham Street caused the brigade a run to that locality, while on Thursday there was a chimney fire at the residence of Mr. William Dafoe, Great St. James Street. No damage was reported as the result of either blaze.

ONLY 181 LISTED ON RELIEF ROLLS

On End of March Last Year There Were 737 Persons Listed

What is possibly an all-time low record for the number of persons on relief in Ontario has been established during the month of April, it was stated by Miss Helena Lynch, local relief administrator, this morning. The records as of the 30th, show that a total of only 181 were listed on the relief rolls.

Miss Lynch told the Ontario Intelligencer that, since 31st March 31st, 1940, there were 727 persons listed on the rolls, as compared to 181 this year.

One year ago there were 187 heads of families listed, 323 dependents and 27 single persons to make a total of 737, as compared to 45 heads of families, 106 dependents and 4 single persons on March 31st.

Whether this establishes an all-time record could not be definitely determined by the relief administrator, but she stated it was quite safe in saying that it could not stand the lowest they have in years. Almost all persons on the lists are either un-employables or partially unemployable.

There is still a possibility that the number on the lists will continue to decrease as the best months for employment are May and June, also there are a small number of relief recipients who will get married to be pensions and mothers' allowances.

Collegiate News

Around the corner. — Back at school again for the last term and exams. — Only a half dozen seats in fourth and IV's. forms vacant, so we're pretty full for last week. Those left are looking despondent as exam results confirm our fear in while there is quite a deal of controversy in fifth form as to whether they will write an other set of exams before the departure of the Lord. — Cadets are once more to the fore and with their arrival the director of the corps looks as if it will even surpass his previous record of last year. The screen-a-major is to visit the Collegiate on Tues. but he will look the worps over. Uniform will be the same as last year, navy blue with the Forces' Forces cap, white shirts and sash in the Collegiate colors of St. George's Day and a filling ceremony was held in the morning assembly of the school. A fine oration on St. George was by Gordon Bawkler, reading by Mr. Thomas and Mr. Archibald, while the song played "There'll Always be an England" and the Cadet Club sang. The Elevens' Forces' are in three weeks and the sales campaign is well under way. Students should support the school magazine and buy at least one copy.—M.C.

Only Four More Days To File Income Tax

"There are only four days left in which income taxpayers can file their returns and it is very everyone to get this done as quickly as possible in order to alleviate the inevitable last-minute rush," Mr. J. J. Gilmore, district income tax inspector stated today.

The local office will be open on Saturday afternoon, the inspector said, for the accommodation of those persons who find it impossible to get to file their returns at other times. He further stressed the importance of early filing, as the staff that is at present working at capacity will be "over their heads in work" in the deadline hours.

Mr. Gilmore also stated that the booklet which explains the proposed amendments to the Excess Profits Act is still available at his office.

Mail is pouring in the office "by the bag" as district residents file their returns. The next few days will see the heaviest influx of returns in the history of the local office.

St. George's Day Is Observed In Stirling

Stirling — A special inter-denominational service of worship was held in St. Andrew's United Church, Stirling, with a large congregation present, representing the Parish of St. John's Anglican Church and St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and many members and friends of St. Paul's Church, Rev. Leslie Harding, Rector of St. John's Church, was unable to be present and in his absence the address of the evening was delivered by Rev. A. V. Lavarty of St. Paul's Church.

A full choir rendered special music under the direction of Mr. G. H. Cuts and Rev. W. H. V. Walker of St. Andrew's Church, assisted in the service with prayer and the Scripture lesson. A patriotic note was sounded in the fine stirring message presented by Rev. Laverty who urged his listeners to realize the seriousness of the present crisis in which the courageous spirit of the people of Britain stood as a great wall in the defence of world democracy.

An offering amounting to a substantial sum was received and will be set aside for the British War Victims Fund. At the outset of his brilliant address Rev. Laverty stated that such inter-denominational gatherings for thanksgiving should be held in the community more frequently in these troubled times when prayer is so greatly needed for those whose lives are in peril.

LOVING WIFE HELPS HUSBAND ON THE SLY

Long-Standing Headaches Relieved

He could not understand why the headaches he had been subject to were suddenly relieved. His wife told him, and he sit once sat down and wrote the following letter:—

"I am 62 years of age, and ever since I was a boy of ten years, I was subject to very bad headaches. But two years ago the headaches eased up—for what reason I do not know. I was surprised when one day my wife told me that I had been using Kruschen Salts in my coffee for over two years. I am still using them, as I know of nothing finer."—J. T.

Headaches can often be traced to a disordered stomach, and to the unsuspected retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. Remove these poisons — prevent them forming again—and you remove the cause of many aches and pains. And that is just how Kruschen Salts brings pleasant relief. Kruschen helps Nature to cleanse your body completely of all clogging waste matter.

AFTER 26 YEARS ..

It is just twenty-six years this month that Canadians went through the experience of the Battle of Ypres. Then the Germans were throwing their troops against the Allied lines with a recklessness such as the Germans show in their campaign today in the Balkans, human lives meaning nothing to the enemy, for they are sacrificing their own men with an abandon which reveals the innate cruelty of the German military conception of life. It was at the time of that struggle of twenty-six years ago that Canadians felt that Col. John McCrae, soldier, doctor and poet, wrote the memorable lines "In Flanders Fields." Today it is again the same. Foe that is set against Britain. Canadians have their place as in 1914-1918 in the British defence. His ringing lines,

"Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high."

challenge as the British and his Allies again battle for preservation of freedom against the same enemy of liberty, justice and brotherhood.

RUPERT BROOKE ON ENGLAND

Rupert Brooke, the English poet who died in 1915 on service in the Great War and found a grave in Skyros in the Aegean Sea, so much as nomentious struggle there going on in Greece, wrote some of the noblest words in the language relating to England. One of the finest references is a sonnet in which shows the Englishman's love for his country so intense that he can find in a foreign land something "that is forever England." This connet is very apt this week which is being devoted to the observance of England's patron saint, Saint George. It follows:

"If I should die, think only this of me:
That there's some corner of a foreign field
That is for ever England. There shall be
In that rich earth a richer dust concealed;
A dust whom England bore, shaped, made aware,
Gave, once, her flowers to love, her ways to roam,
A body of England's, breathing English air,
Washed by the rivers, blest by suns of home.

And think, this heart, all evil shed away,
A pulse in the eternal mind, no less
Gives somewhere back the thoughts by England given;
Her sights and sounds; dreams happy as her day;
And laughter, learnt of friends; and gentleness,
In hearts at peace under an English heaven."

POLISH SPIRIT

Poland's history is one which is part of the moral and mental and physical fibre of her people. Temporary German occupation and exercise of terrorism cannot remove one jot of the spirit of the people, nor the utmost determination on the part of these people to wipe out Nazism and Hitlerism from the earth.

Poland, which first suffered the blitzkrieg of the Germans, is now in her citizens everywhere, even at home under the Nazi heel. Wherever Poles are in the world, they rally to the colors of their country to enlist. The work of the Polish air squadrons has amazed the world.

Germans have a poor gift of understanding of the spirit of other peoples. They have never been able to put themselves in another's place for the purpose of understanding them. So the loyalty of the Poles and others to their races and civilization and culture is a mystery to the Germans. They cannot see that the tribulations through which they must pass in the pass will only build up that race for the day of reckoning which is certain to strike Hitler and Nazism and to wash the world forever of the stain of their influence.

Lord Beaverbrook says the flow of aircraft from America is increasing rapidly. In his view the Royal Air Force is entitled to twenty hundred per cent reserve which ought to be the object of the aircraft industry. Nearly 1000 assembled American and Canadian aircraft have been turned over to the R.A.F.

The terrific bombardment of Tripoli by the Royal Navy on Monday was the most spectacular bombardment in naval history. More than two million pounds of high explosives was pumped into the small base which was blasted into heaps of ruins. Axis ships were struck and possibly sunk.

OURSELVES AND THERS...

BY—

Baseball buckaroos who frequented the now moss-covered diamonds in this city in the years before the game was something more than a memory, will remember that determined looking chap whose picture appears at the left of this column.

Here he is, now a dashing major in an Eastern Ontario Regiment unit somewhere in England, and formerly by the idol of baseball fans of Prince Edward County in particular and the entire district in general — Major Ron Church.

For the past fifteen years the name of Ron Church has been as synonimous with baseball in the southern county as Mutt is to Jeff, pepper to tea, the coat to the pants and Amos to Andy. Packed grandstands (remember?) rose to their collective feet in howls of mirth, to cheer or goodnaturedly boo, when the big six-footer displayed that dramatic showmanship that marked him as one of the best in the province.

Ron was a gentleman and a sportsman both off and on the diamonds and hockey cushions. His rollicking devil-may-care nature, the wit of an A1 Schacht, the love of good clean fun, or a harmless practical joke, his ability as a baseball player both below the ears and above them, installed him as a general favorite with all whom he came in contact.

He could play any position on the baseball team. His first love was pitching, and the famous Church corkscrew wind-up was the reason for many a slugger making funny motions in the air with his bat, and many sounds were heard. Yes, with Warpy Phillips, the late Rolly Rorke, Marley Durnford, Jack Leavens, Raymy Hudgin, and others under the management of Jack Yanover, now the proprietor of the City Hotel here, brought the Picton squad to the Ontario Intermediate "A" finals, only to be defeated by the famous Lefty Goldsmith of Southampton in a hectic three-game series.

He epitomized the higher ideals of the sport. He mixed his baseball drinks with a dash of the serious, figuratively speaking, and that dash was a good natured raillery and clean fun. He did just what you expected he wouldn't do. He won many a game with the Churchian skull when the good right arm had failed him.

When he donned his uniform, he assumed his Al Schacht role. He was the bane of batters, the worry of umpires, the delight of the crowd, and the eye glued force of his team. When he was at the height of his clowning glory the strong features never once relaxed into a smile except in the privacy of the dressing room or dugout. That kept their eye glued on him expecting anything, and they generally got it.

Once, while pitching in an important game, the big fella, with the score tied in the ninth, suddenly sat down on the rubber. An astonished umpire asked him what was wrong. "Nothing," he grinned, and the crowd roared, the pitcher struck out and the home team won. On another occasion, while catching, he suddenly doffed mask and glove and dashed for the dugout. He asked surprised team-mates to lend him a half-dollar, because he wanted to bet "that lug (the batter) would strike out." Ron got the half-dollar, laid it on the plate, and the batter promptly struck out.

He loved to place a one dollar bill around a thick roll of paper, run up and down the local base coaching line looking for $50 bets. "I would have died if someone had taken the bet," he would grin afterward. Returning from Southampton he wagered Jack Yanover $2 he could not drive a chicken into the car dropped and the two raced across a pasture, with Ron the winner. Later he took the frightened bird to the King Edward Hotel in Toronto and secured a room for it, while hundreds of hotel patrons roared their merriment.

Today, Major Ron Church is playing another game. And he will play it with everything he has. He is of the breed that will not take a licking, and wouldn't know it if they did. Canada can well be proud of men like Ronny Church.—Good luck, Pal.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

APRIL 25th, 1921.

Mr. N. F. North, C.P.R. Trainmaster, spent yesterday in Brockville.

The meeting of the Rednersville Women's Institute which met at the Rednersville church was well attended. An excellent Easter reading was given by Mrs. Elwood Spencer. Interesting papers on "Spring Steps and Conservation of Energy" were given by Mrs. Ralph Stafford and Mrs. D. S. Stafford. A solo followed the reading of the papers in which all present took part and which proved to by most interesting and thoroughly.

Mr. T. A. Clay has resigned as a member of the Frankford Village Council and an election will be held shortly to supply the vacancy. The candidates are Messrs. J. M. Bell, E. E. Ketcheson and M. Scafe.

Mr. John Fred has returned to his home in Cleveland, Ohio, after a short visit here with relatives.

30 YEARS AGO

APRIL 25th, 1911.

At a meeting of St. Andrew's Church Guild a debate took place in which considerable interest was manifested. The subject of the debate was "Resolved, that local option would be in the best interest of the city." Mr. A. McCreary and Mrs. W. J. Gilmour upheld the affirmative and Mr. J. Panter and Mr. Montgomery supported the negative. Upon a vote being taken the affirmative won by a large majority.

At last the social amusement has been made that the C.P.R. is coming to Belleville and that the line is to be completed within two years. This is indeed good news.

Historic Building Goes

In the tearing down and removal of the brick house on Robbin's Hill, commonly spoken of as Dr. Okenshetsha house, another of the old and historic buildings of the city and vicinity has disappeared, and will now in all probability soon be remembered no more, reports the Napanee Express.

In the history of the County of Lennox and Addington, by Walter S. Herrington, there is the following reference to this ancient edifice:

Dr. Oronhyatekha never acquired fame in his profession, but no Canadian physician ever acquired greater notoriety among society than he. He was a bright young Indian, fifty-three years ago, and on the occasion of the visit of the Prince of Wales to Canada in 1860, he was chosen as the representative of the Mohawk band, and presented an address to His Royal Highness, who was so impressed with his intelligence and manly bearing that he pursued him to accept a royal bounty of course in medicine at Oxford. In due course he returned to Canada and in August, 1866, he began his professional career in Napanee. He had an office in the Cartright Block and built the red brick residence on the crest of Robbin's Hill.

Since that time the property has changed hands many times and at one time or another was occupied by the late Ogden Hinch and family, a gentleman named Moffatt, Jacob Loucks, Wm. Stevenson and Judge J. Herchmer, when the property was purchased by the late Albert S. Wales. After the death of Mr. Wales it was incorporated in the Wales estate and some years ago when the cut was being put through Robbin's Hill it was purchased by the Ontario Government through the Highways Department and recently this historic old landmark was dismantled and its many parts distributed to other centres to be used for other purposes.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Lindbergh And The Nazi Program

New York, April 25 — Hitler's program for the United States is Napoleonic in character. Its first objective is to halt aid to Britain and thus secure a quick and easy victory. The second is to secure our adherence to the new order by our internal revolution, which will put into power anti-British and anti-democratic elements. Hitler is free from fear of war, or from loss of power, or from internal opposition, or from hatred and rebellion against the present regime. Our anti-democratic allies are prepared to make a Nazi America.

Should this revolution proceed smoothly, by a coup d'etat and the subsequent ruthless suppression of dissenting elements through the use of the armed and police forces of the captured state, or whether-ill should result—as the Hitler clique believe it will—in civil war, the result would be the same from military viewpoint. That the one case America would integrate herself substantially in the new order, and the other a victorious Germany and a rampant Japan would be confronted with arms if need be on the side of the rival hemisphere. In any case, the aim is to make the United States Nazi and put us in the position of being a vital colony of a Nazi world.

* * *

What is occurring is world-wide counter revolution in the management of world conquest, and it is in the light of the coup d'etat technique that the present Nazi pressure for resistance, that Colonel Lindbergh's activities, and those of his supporters must be judged. Colonel Lindbergh has a right to his opinions. His family are all irrelevant. The question is: what is Colonel Lindbergh counselling for America? And what will be the eventual result of what Colonel Lindbergh is doing?

The immediate effects are to paralyze Britain's position and her public confusion in the most critical moments in her history and to stimulate violence in a time when we need to be united. The effects which Lindbergh makes a speech advocating the cessation of all aid to Britain, calling Roosevelt a liar, is picketed by those who want aid continued, and who supported the Government's policy.

Hitler is forced to meet their counter - demonstrations against Lindbergh. Every Lindbergh meeting in support of the Government is picketed by opponents. And every one costs a dollar! Every meeting supporting the Administration lives under a constant effort to secure announcement that this columnist or someone else has made a contribution in a New England city brought a threat to kill Lindbergh. Every time that it would be blown up, spontaneous expressions of indignation and for Britain are threatened with violence.

Until Colonel Lindbergh's meeting in New York, no actual violence had occurred. And this time it was precipitated, not by pro-British or anti-Lindbergh Colonel's meeting, but by his supporters who broke up the meeting.

* * *

Colonel Lindbergh's supporters are violent. They will grow increasingly violent. When our arms production fails to increase, there will be another series of strikes in the armament and the aircraft industries. These will be attributed to Communist agents and among some of Colonel Lindbergh's supporters there is a belief that the ruthless suppression of all unions. But the real agents of the coming labor-strikers will be manifestations of the spirit of fear, rebellion and defeatism against the Administration—a spirit that seek the divisions of the United States in the most unparalleled crisis. The sole beneficiary of the criticism of the Administration's analysis of the situation corresponds closely to that of Alexander the Seventh, a famous aeronautical engineer, airplane designer and pilot, formerly employed by the current American Mercury, and it has received the highest praise of eyes by Major George Fielding Elliott. Mr. Lipsmann, however, is always characterized that Col. Lindbergh is "naive."

I must say, most reluctantly, that I do not believe that Colonel Lindbergh is at all naive. I think that Colonel Lindbergh is profoundly dishonest. I think he envisages America as part of Hitler's "new order" and himself as playing a leading role in the American end of that scheme. I find in everything he says nothing else from his speeches, which are not in the least "naive," but are carefully and logically constructed and which drive toward certain known conclusions.

In the Chicago speech, which had the full support of the German-American Alliance, successor to the Bund, Lindbergh characterized a "treaty" with the dominant power of Europe as the only way of securing peace. We ought to know now, with complete clarity, what such treaties mean to Hitler. They mean governments in power who will sign "treaties" with Hitler is invariably, by 15,500 votes to one, a Nazi government. One cannot envisage, for instance, a treaty between Hitler and Roosevelt, or Hitler and Willkie.

* * *

If one adds to Colonel Lindbergh's speeches a recent writing the book written by his wife where, in words that are identical with those of the avowed advocate of American Nazism, Lawrence Dennis, she describes Nasism and Communism as a "waves of the future," the picture become even clearer. Add to that the growing youth movement around Colonel Lindbergh being carefully cultivated in Anti-Semitic cliques, the support for Colonel Lindbergh of all the rabble-rousing American Fascists and the propaganda of the Nazi "German Commentator" that the "man" is at hand, and you have a picture clearly resembling the composition of forces typical of all Nazi movements.

* * *

Yes I would say to those who picketed the Colonel's meeting; This is not the way to deal with Nazi methods. The way is to set about making quickly a solid, consecrated movement of men, women and youths, dedicated to hold fast to the great humane principles of our civilization, and to translate those principles into the invincible defence, and an integrated, fully productive, scrupulously just social order, based upon a clear conception of means and of forming a more perfect union providing for the common defence, promoting the general welfare and securing the blessings of liberty for ourselves and our prosperity.

Unless and until there are no answer to Colonel Lindbergh, and those who subscribe to his supporters, who initiated them. Strife and violence help him. We need calmness, unity, and a clear conception of life.

An Interesting Record

Miss H. Farley recently came across a record she had made of her age in 1865 and although for the most part the book is a meaning of money transactions, in the back there is listed the following very interesting record:

"Saturday, November 18, 1865. Heard the ticket agent at Brighton station refuse to take American money at par. His bill from Brighton to Detroit is seven dollars and five cents. He supplied twenty dollars in American money and one dollar and ten cents Canada currency for two bills.

"Brighton, Wednesday, November 22, 1865. The discount was thirty-five cents on a dollar."

The two items, recorded on separate days and the fact that the record was kept in a book that was not primarily a diary, indicate the presence of keen perception and interest on the affairs of Mr. Farley's part.

Other facts of interest that can be gleaned from the accounts are prices of commodities and these appear to be common quite favorably with those of today. The record of this particular book was begun on April 1, 1865, and the latest entry was made in 1868.

In 1865 Mr. Farley paid $60 for a horse, 50c for a necktie, 30c for 1 pound of aglice; received $30 00 for 50 bushels of peas and $5.50 for 3 bushels carley; paid $1.75 for rubber boots; received $5.50 for half a ton of hay; paid $1.75 for 56 lbs. of salt; paid $3.75 for a pair of trousers; $3 for Weekly Mail; paid $1.50 for a grain cradle. $1.80 for 2 pounds of tea, same price for 3 pounds of sugar, 12½ cents for a hair cut and 25c for a shave; paid for 2 days's work 50c; for a hymn book $1.20, 10 pounds sugar (later entry) $1.25, 1 pair kid gloves $1.25, 15½ yards linen $3.75, received for 36 bushels apples $6.30, 74 lbs. cheese $7.40; paid for half a dozen lemons 25c, for cloth for an overcoat $19.00 and for having the coat made $6.00, paid for a ticket to Trenton skating rink; received for 4 lambs $8.00, for 2 pigs $20.00, for 2 days's work 50c; for a pair of gaiters $3.75, 50c for having a tooth filled, $2.00 for a hunting license to join the Agricultural Society (in 1867 $1.00), received for 10 lbs. of pounds of butter; paid the doctor for 18 calls $36.00, received for paid for Trenton Coulees, 62½ cents.

On April 5, 1867, is recorded the statement "commenced ploughing." On April 7th, "Jack finished harrowing. Very dry." August 31, 1867, "Very dry month. Commenced to Finished harvesting. Rainy weather."

Expenses to Provincial Exhibition at Kingston $15.00.

September 30, 1867. Very, very dry weather.

November 30, 1867. Very cold and flurries of snow.

December 31, 1867. Paid for pair overshoes, $1.50.

March 15, 1868. Lost $30 cash by not counting money in sight.

MORE BOASTING

"Such an old fool!" I am certain they say;
Hearing me brag in my grandfather way
About the old idiot! Strutting about,
Pointing the charms of his grandchildren out.

But as if other folks didn't possess
Children with children, like Nellie and Bess.
Here is the latest that makes him glow,
Ellen Elizabeth's laughing out loud!

Others are writing him letters to tell
They, too, have grandchildren doing right well.
Here's an epistle, this news to make known,
"Little Don Alan is walking alone!"

Good for Don Alan! I offer a toast!
Long may his grandfolks continue to boast!
But for the present I'm telling the crowd:
Ellen Elizabeth's laughing out loud!

Laughter that really more musical seems
Than is the gurgle of summer-time streams,
Purer than prayer and gayer by far
Than songs of the throstle and cardinal are.
Laughter that tells the glad she has begun
To discover already that living is fun.
So one more glory let me be allowed:
Ellen Elizabeth's laughing out loud!

BOOK OF PSALMS

Some of the most beautiful sentiments ever expressed in writing are found in the Book of Psalms.

The Book of psalms is from the Greek and literally signifies "sounds of a stringed instrument."

Sometimes the Book of Psalms is known as The Psalter.

The 150 psalms or hymns were composed to be sung to the psaltery an ancient ten-stringed instrument of the silver type.

Psalm 117 is the shortest chapter in the Bible and the center one of the Bible.

It is also the middle chapter being preceded by 594 chapters and followed by the same number.

The eighty verse of Psalm 18 is the middle verse of the Bible, being followed by 15,500 verses and followed by the same number.

Among some of the most outquoted sayings are the following from the King James translation of the Psalms:

"I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness."—84:10.

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want."—23:1.

"I said in my haste. All men are liars."—116:11.

"They that go down to the sea in ships, that do business in great waters; these see the works of the Lord, and his wonders in the deep."—107:23 and 24.

"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path."—119:105.

"Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."—133:1.

"I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord."—122:1.

"The days of our years are threescore years and ten; and if by reason of strength they be fourscore years, yet is their strength labor and sorrow; for it is soon cut off, and we fly away."—90:10.

"The fool hath said in his heart, there is no God."—14:1.

LEMNOS ISLAND OCCUPIED BY GERMAN FORCES

Small Greek Force Subdued After a Four - Hour Battle

GIVEN ULTIMATUM

Athens, April 25.—(AP) — German troops carried by plane escorted troop ships, landed yesterday on the Greek island of Lemnos, 60 miles from the strategic Dardanelles, and subdued a small Greek force after a four-hour battle.

The Ministry of Home Security disclosed indirectly that the Germans also were on the neighboring island of Samothrake.

"We understand," it said its communique, "that the island of Lemnos reported that the German commander-in-chief of Samothrake demanded that the authorities of Lemnos surrender the island by midnight of the 23rd, having threatened, if it were not surrendered, to occupy the island by force.

At the same time it was reported that German forces attacked Evvoia, the big island off the eastern Greek mainland, but were repulsed.

On the Lemnos attack, the Minister of the Interior advised the prefect of Lemnos:

"The mobilization of our small force on the island and their clash with the landing invader, who is supported by aircraft, is another proof of the Greek heart.

"It adds one more page to the national epic of the glorious Peloponnesian, the resisting two empires, and constitutes a deed of honor for the defenders, to whom please communicate this message."

"The Prefect applied for orders and he was instructed to carry out his duty to the end, to maintain honor.

"As of 5 a.m. the enemy started landing at Port Burnia on Lemnos. The German troops having been transported by troopships escorted by aircraft.

"The small infantry and gendarme force on the island put up resistance, the battle continuing beyond 9 a.m. All authorities remain at their posts in accordance with government orders."

WAR CABINET IS SUGGESTED

Keen Interest Aroused in Britain Over Question of Supreme Small Group of Leaders

By HAROLD FAIR
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 25 (Friday)—British still is seeking the most effective machinery or combination for waging the war and is discussing a question for a War Cabinet in which a small group of empire leaders would have unchallenged power.

Keen interest has been aroused in political circles by the notice given by Edgar Granville, Liberal National, that he will ask Prime Minister Churchill in the House of Commons if he will consider formation of a Privy Council Cabinet of ministers without departmental responsibilities for the transaction of party considerations and if he will invite Clement Attlee, deputy premier, Neville Chamberlain, Lord Privy Seal, and Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, to join."

The suggested Imperial participation drew hearty endorsation from the Australian press which asserted editorially that "Dominion ministers like Mr. Menzies should share more closely the deliberations of the Cabinet."

Australians particularly have been pressing for more Imperial representation in the War Cabinet and Mr. Menzies is reported to have discussed with the Prime Minister how this could best be done.

Two Torpedo Attacks In Early Morning Sank the Cruiser Rajputana

Forty Lives Were Lost, Including Two Canadians —Engineroom Hit

An east coast Canadian port, April 26 (CP)—A senior officer of 36 Canadian and Newfoundland officers and men landed in this Dominion today, Commander John D. Cross, told reporters of the loss of the 16,644-ton British armed merchant cruiser Rajputana to an enemy submarine which struck early within two hours in the chill waters of the North Atlantic.

He brought back reports of the loss of 40 lives, among them six officers—including two Canadians and 34 men, and a glowing pride for the way these Empire seadogs faced death.

(Ottawa has announced that Lieut. V. R. Brunsercau, Halifax, and Lieutenant Gordon Frederick Dalziel, John, N.B., were lost in the sinking.)

This is the story Cmdr. Cross unfolded as his men mustled through the ritual of British military custom.

"The first torpedo struck us without warning about 5.15 a.m. plunged into the engine room and stopped the engines and lights immediately. Power was restored later although it wasn't dark.

"Within half an hour our engines were below water and our ship quickly took a 15-degree list to port. We were pretty well down at the stern, too.

"It was impossible to repair the engines because they were below water and there was a hole in the side of the ship. But we stopped sinking after reaching a certain depth.

"An English engineer-officer and an English engine greaser were killed by the first torpedo. Some of the men suffered a little of exposure. We might have made port if we had been left alone.

Sub Strikes Again.

"Almost two hours later, though, the sub struck again, this time on the starboard side. Her exhaust was sighted this time but she just fired a shell at us and I don't think she can't train your guns in a few seconds. . . . But we did fire a lot.

"I don't think she got a chance that we hit her, however. Immediately the second torpedo struck. It was evident that the ship would sink and orders were given to abandon her. Just as we were making ready to get into the boats, the sub came up again, this time on our starboard side. We fired and she submerged immediately.

"I am perfectly satisfied that their tactics have changed. The fact we got a signal at eight o'clock that destroyers were on their way scared the U-boat off.

"The Rajputana sank an hour and a half after she was struck by the second torpedo. Because it entered the starboard side, it took a terrific list to port to shoot 10 degrees and made the launching of the lifeboats easier.

"The sea were rough and running pretty high at the time, with a strong wind of about 25 miles velocity and the temperature of the water at least three directions.

"The seadogs of our men in leaving ship was one of the most amazing things I've ever seen. There wasn't a single man who showed but a normal expression on his face. Even when the Lewis gunners B-24 others got into eight lifeboats and the boats have reached land.

"Two of our lifeboats were destroyed by the first torpedo but no one was hurt in the explosion.

"About 50 survivors were picked up on the first day by one of the lifeboat but I guess 35 of the 40 missing should have been counted as far as we know only two were killed by the torpedo.

"Some of our boats were tossing about the water three hours, others as long as 24 hours before we were picked up by one of His Majesty's destroyers.

Cmdr. Cross, gathering many of the answers from a conference, was bound by naval secrecy from disclosing many facts such as the whereabouts of the attack, where the survivors were landed and how they came to Britain.

Except for two Newfoundlanders, all in this group were Canadians but a list was not forthcoming immediately from navy headquarters. Announcements from Ottawa have listed only 27 Canadians as surviving the disaster and gave no indication of British losses.

Bill To Provide For Priorities In Deliveries

Washington, April 25 (AP)—Representative Carl Vinson (Dem.-Georgia) introduced legislation by administration request today to give President Roosevelt vastly broadened powers to establish priorities and to ration supplies for defence or British aid.

Vinson said he introduced the bill at the direct request of William S. Knudsen, defence production chief, and his associate, Sidney Hillman.

In addition to the President's existing power to establish priorities for deliveries to be made under army and naval contracts, the bill would give him the right to establish them for deliveries, under contracts or subcontracts for the government of any nation whose defence the President deems vital to the defence of the United States.

Good Advice Given Lindbergh

Washington, April 25 (AP)—Senator William H. Smathers (Dem.-New Jersey) made public today a letter to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in which he advised him "that it is about time you stop making these speeches."

"If you want to help this country (which, incidentally, made you what you are, through its manifold gifts), you should offer your services and flying knowledge — a subject with which you undoubtedly know much—to the government, and stop your mischief-making endeavors, setting yourself up as an authority on matters international," the letter said.

SEVERE LOSSES INFLICTED ON GERMAN TROOPS

British Empire Troops Make Further Withdrawal in Greece

DESSIE SURROUNDED

Cairo, Egypt, April 26 (AP)—British Middle East headquarters announced today that British troops had made a further withdrawal in Greece "inflicting severe losses on the enemy."

The announcement also reported that the Tobruk garrison, in Libya, had beaten off an Axis attack on its defences and captured 127 Italians and Germans.

The British withdrawal in Greece was described by the British command as "orderly."

Heavy losses also were inflicted on the Germans and Italians at Tobruk, and British patrols again were aggressive at Salum, just over the Egyptian border.

In Kenya, the announcement said, Dessie, northeast of Addis Ababa, the communication centre, was surrounded.

More than 700 prisoners were taken in operations yesterday in that sector, in which the Italians suffered severe casualties.

Another 12 prisoners were reported captured northwest of Addis Ababa where an "important operation" is being closely pursued. Pressure is continuing in the southern sector of Ethiopia, the communique said.

NO EVIDENCE OF SABOTAGE

Accidental Breaking of Light Bulb Caused Blaze on Oil Tanker

Toronto, April 25 (CP)—No evidence of sabotage has been found by investigations of inspector Grant of the Fire Marshal's office into the fire aboard the oil tanker Trans-Canada, it was announced today in a report released today by Arthur Cleveland Cousins, acting deputy minister of the attorney-general's department.

Cause of the fire, which broke out in the engine room on September 21 last, was declared to be accidental.

"While the vessel was being fitted out at Collingwood, Ont., before she was commissioned, a workman was working in the pump room 20 feet below the deck when a light bulb broke," the report said. "The workman was startled and jumped back, but in doing so struck the bulb with a hammer he was carrying.

"Wresheite heard the bulb explode, and the place being permeated with gas fumes, immediately took fire." Inspector Grant's report said. "Fortunately the explosion was so explosion and he just managed to escape with his life.

"There can be no ground for suspicion of sabotage," Inspector Grant said.

Gun Crew Sings, 'Roll Out The Barrel' As Rajputana Sinks

An East Coast Canadian Port, April 25 (CP)—Chief. Paul B. Cross of Saint John, N.B., looked up from the notebook in his hand. He had scribbled facts of the loss of the British armed merchantman Rajputana and told reporters "there is one thing I'll tell you that is typical of the way our men took this thing."

"A second torpedo carried away one of our gun guns and a number of barrels started threatening to make a hole in our ship. And there stood the gun crew, with the sea practically awash under them, singing 'Roll Out the Barrel' at the top of their lungs."

Cmdr. Cross and 33 other Canadian and Newfoundland officers and men of the Rajputana have reached the Dominion.

96 CARGO SHIPS TO BE BUILT IN DOMINION

Munitions Minister Howe Announces Plan Way to Building Office

10,000-TON SHIPS

Ottawa, April 25—(CP)—Munitions Minister Howe said today that he has been informed by H. R. MacMillan, President of Wartime Merchant Shipping Limited, a government owned company, that a program for 96 new cargo ships in Canada was on its way to the minister.

Mr. Howe, Minister, "the program has not yet reached me and I am unable to say whether it includes the 26 ships for which contracts have already been let."

Mr. MacMillan has made his headquarters in Montreal and the Minister said any further information on the program would have to come from the head of the Wartime Merchant Shipping Limited.

This is the Crown company established to head the building in Canada of merchant vessels.

Speaking at Toronto yesterday Mr. Howe said that contracts were expected to be awarded in the next month for 78 vessels. This remark followed a statement by the Minister that Canada had recently developed her shipbuilding capacity to turning out 10,000-ton freighters.

Enlargement of existing shipyards and opening of new yards new yards in the government's shipbuilding program.

Speaking at Toronto yesterday and in the House of Commons recently Munitions Minister Howe said in order to avoid disorganizing existing yards the creation of new yards would not be undertaken until the permanent of existing yards could be brought up to full requirements.

He told the House a few weeks ago that the supply of skilled workmen for shipbuilding was limited. He said the first objective was to get existing shipbuilding facilities operating at full capacity, then to go down additional berths where possible by existing yards and only as a last resort the establishment of new yards.

RETTIE, BOWELL RHODES SCHOLARS

Two Queen's University Undergraduates Chosen for Ontario

Toronto, April 25 —(CP)— The Ontario selection committee announced today that Ontario Rhodes Scholarships for 1941 have been awarded to Richard S. Rettie of Ottawa and Gordon E. Bowell of Nelson, B.C., fourth-year students at Queen's University at Kingston.

Rettie is taking engineering physics and Bowell economics.

The announcement described Rettie's career at Queen's as "brilliant" with "a practically unbroken record of firsts." He attended Glebe Collegiate at Ottawa before entering Queen's, where he has been a Douglas tutor in engineering calculus and a research assistant in the physics department. He has done special research in the field of wireless communication, and has developed a directional short-wave broadcasting.

Bowell came to Queen's on a provincial scholarship from British Columbia. The announcement said that "since then he has received awards at Queen's." He is editor-in-chief of the Queen's Journal, the undergraduate newspaper.

The announcement did not say whether Rettie and Bowell would proceed to Oxford University immediately. Since the war began, scholars have been allowed to do not proceed to Oxford directly until the end of the war, but may spend a period of work likely to be of immediate importance to the war.

Cigarette Shortage Has Struck London

Many Provincial Towns Without Cigarettes of Any Kind for Weeks Past

London, April 25 (CP)—The cigarette smoker in London today faces two harsh obstacles—first, to find a cigarette and second, to smoke it.

Some tobacconists have grown so short of supplies that they post over, "Sorry sir, I can't get them," that they're closing up shop at least one day each week.

The country has been drawing on reserve stocks for several months and some tobacco warehouses have gone up in smoke.

Many provincial towns have been without cigarettes of any brand for months. Some have had no tobacco only recently.

The situation brought out a startling array of unfamiliar brands of cigarettes. There are reports of some of which make the smoker wonder whether he's going to sneeze or keel over.

It is now almost a display of bad manners to offer a cigarette to a friend.

The old days, bridge players would toss a package each on the table for gentlemanly choice. Such action nowadays might cause casualties and property damage.

Ruth Draper Dedicates Art To Red Cross

Some of the magic of the stage is sleight-of-hand, deceptive and brightly diverting. But again it is true enchantment. That is when the curtain lifts as if it were the obstruction to full knowing of just value. Then the proscenium arch spans life's extents; then the stage reveals life's patterns and plans, though not unless the player's skill is more than ingenuous.

There is true enchantment in the playing of Ruth Draper, and there is double interest in her local engagement this time, for she is donating the entire net receipts of her Canadian tour to the Red Cross Society, to whom she turned over a cheque for $18,250.26 as the result of a similar tour a little over a year ago. Miss Draper's local appearance will be this coming Tuesday evening, April 29th, at the Capitol Theatre.

Miss Draper perhaps derives from the great Yvette Guilbert of the French stage, and it is from the people that we borrow even the word disease to describe her. But to borrow a foreign term, whose meaning is not the inexplicit, is indeed ironical when applied to an artist whose most apparent attributes are simplicity and charity.

Miss Draper's art is intricate and esoteric, but its devices are never apparent. Her costuming is rare rather her quick commission. Her beautiful perfection glosses all artifice. Enjoyment is too full to allow us to wonder at the means she employs; conviction is too complete to interrupt the momentary illusion with any thought about technique.

Miss Draper both writes and arranges the character sketches she brings, and perhaps this double role gives her those brief dramas a special intimacy. There is a familiar story that Henry James was so impressed by Miss Draper that he wrote a charming sketch for her. It had an extraordinary interest, yet after a few renditions Miss Draper was forced to abandon it, for it lacked that special affinity which enabled her to enter wholly into a characterization.

There is scarcely another actress today, when players are cast, according to type, who attempts such a variety of roles. Hardly any other finds the opportunity. Yet in a single evening, Miss Draper, with a minimum of accessories, sustains any number of contrasting parts. One moment she is the young society matron taking an Italian lesson, while almost instantaneously with a mere switch of a shawl and a chair—she is the poor Dalmatian peasant woman searching for her son who is confined in the hall of a New York hospital. Again she is the kindly dowager in "Opening a Bazaar," or the Irish mother in the dramatic sketch, "In County Kerry."

In a sketch called "In a Church in Italy" she will also be included in her repertoire here, Miss Draper plays an English actress, an American tourist from the middle-west, an Italian beggar woman, a German housewife with her brood of children, a young Italian girl and the Madonna—this woman who comes to pray.

Miss Draper makes us subtly aware of the very ages and dispositions of these imaginary people to whom she speaks.

And this is another special quality—Miss Draper not only assumes roles, but she peoples her stage with other characters, and her performance creates the manner and the speech of these others. And every moment of Miss Draper's performance is fresh and flawless; every moment is eloquent and purposeful as the line of a sonnet. She unites excellent craftsmanship as writer and as player, with excellence of taste, excellence of art.

Here is true enchantment, for Miss Draper will live beyond the time, and as long as anyone who has ever seen her shall live.

Seats are now available at the Capitol Theatre Box Office. We urge you to get your reservations now.

Picton and District

Picton, April 25—The annual banquet of Picton Steward County Holstein Breeders' Club held at the Bath Hall on Wednesday evening was attended by 250 and an address by R. W. Reeke, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, was guest speaker. Splendid feats of magic were given by Chief Abrams. M. Y. Dow led in a sing song and also gave a solo. Mrs. Wardle of Belleville contributed humorous readings. D. Burr, president, welcomed Mr. Reek and Frank Huff, president of the club, was chairman.

In his address, Mr. Reek expressed confidence that the dairy producers would increase production so that it would be possible to send 112 million pounds of cheese to Great Britain as well as supplying the home market. This can be done by each farmer doing a little more instead of a few trying to do it all, he said. He had noted the splendid co-operation given and the success. Milk production can be increased by better feeding and care of animals and better handling of milk the speaker stated.

Mr. Reek said that the apple growers' problem in marketing their crops since export markets were cut off and the British Colonial markets are glutted. Now, he said, Canada must meet with competition from the west in the hog market since there is cheap feed there. The only way for Ontario to meet this competition is to improve the quality and to encourage this the Ontario government is giving for high quality hogs.

The Federation of Agriculture was organized, Mr. Reek said, to promulgate the government support. He pointed out that in many districts for farmers to try and work out their own problems and not to look too much to the government. The Women's Institutes are also an organization which did this. Good leaders are required and organization must be pursued with slowly and carefully.

Mr. Reek predicted that there would be a great number of newcomers to Canada after the war and felt agriculture must be ready for this. He felt that every farmer plants fill a real need and believed the government would have more attention to Ontario. He predicted the farmers who had developed the Holstein herds would be called on in recent years the Holstein had become famous in Ontario.

Closer Co-operation Of The Americas Will Be One Of Contributing Factors To Hitler's Defeat Says F. G. Searle

Vice-President for Sales of Continental Can Co. Addresses Canners at Banquet Here

SAYS HITLER MADMAN

"Dictators have overlooked the fact that this war is one of machines. They have overlooked the industrial ingenuity and unity of the Americas, and the closer knitting together of their peoples in the face of emergency. This fact will be one of the contributing factors in the ultimate defeat of Hitler and his gangsters," F. Gladdon Searle, New York City, vice-president for sales of the Continental Can Company, declared here Thursday night.

Speaking before 115 Ontario canners at the annual banquet tendered by the company at the Bleecker Quinte, the dynamic executive expressed in no uncertain terms his opinion of dictators, in general and Hitler in particular. "You are dealing with a madman," he said, "one that has proven by his every act that he has no flash of humanity in his breast."

"He has a mania for crushing the life out of thousands of innocents and is doing it to the point where his swastika is now the emblem of the world's most brutal murderer," Mr. Searle declared.

The passing of the lease-lend bill, the speaker said, would prove the reason for the division of the American nations, at least as thought the dictators, "Hitler was wrong if he thought the bill would cause dissension in the United States. The bond of unity that existed is now stronger than ever and the American nation is determined that democracy must win, and that it will win."

Pays Tribute to Wilkie

In a tribute to Wendell Wilkie, Mr. Searle stated that "he showed Hitler and the world how a real American can conduct himself in the face of an emergency."

The responsibilities of war reach out and touch the New World, he said. They affect our rights and the liberties of the individual here. We must maintain our political and economical liberty for if we lose one we lose both. But by maintaining these together with the freedom of the press, religion and enterprise, it does not necessarily mean that we must tolerate fascism or communism."

The speaker was in full accord with the proposal of American shins for convoying to Britain, he said. "It is one of the means to the end of licking hell out of Hitler."

Mr. Searle concluded his brief address with "May God save your King and the people of the gallant British Empire."

The speaker flew in a company plane from New York City via Syracuse, Buffalo and Toronto, landing at the Trenton base of the Royal Canadian Air Force. He spoke in glowing terms of the courteous treatment accorded him and his pilot, R. H. Meyers, and co-pilot H. B. Hillebrand. J. E. Baldwin, sales division, also accompanied Mr. Searle.

Canadian officials present included, D. S. Whitnall in charge of production; P. A. Whittall in charge of the Canadian sales division, W. M. Tweedale, all of Montreal and Thomas Cain, sales manager for the Trenton district.

Present Variety Show

The entertainment which followed the banquet lived up to the reputation the company enjoys of bringing the best obtainable. "The De Negros, a versatile dance team, headlined a show that was outstanding in its every phase. The dancers interpreted a Mexican dance as well as others and climaxed a splendid performance with a Siamese number in which they appeared entirely covered in gold paint. Wally Wicks a clever juggler drew well-merited applause, his disappearing apple trick being exceptionally well done. The Harrison brothers, an acrobatic dancing team and Sonny Savoy, tap dancer extraordinary rounded out a fine show. A bevy of chorus girls in several costumes, a military number and standing added a colorful touch to the program. Walker Thorpe, Montreal was master-of-ceremonies.

Canners and canning company executives from all parts of Ontario were present.

Packsacks Contain Enough For Ten Days In The Bush

Heron Bay, Ont., April 25 (CP)—Packsacks found on four Germans who landed from a submarine, Friday, completing the search for 28 Germans who parachuted in war canoes from a nearby internment camp last Friday night, weighed 70 pounds each and were said to contain enough food for 10 days in the bush.

Although the men had been free six days, their packsacks contained bread which had been toasted and crumbled to save space, then packed in tins with sugar and ginger. Chocolate made in the camp kitchen, was in big bars wrapped in wax paper. There also were cigarets, tobacco, sugar, tea and canned milk.

In addition the packs held knives, compasses, blankets and other articles.

THE WAR TODAY

By DON GILBERT

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The last many days of the war in the Balkans has had its counterpart in the hastening the crystallization of public opinion in the United States for more effective aid to the democracies of the Atlantic.

Today, with the fate of Yugoslavia and Greece as a backdrop, public opinion is keyed up for some historic announcement from the White House following a series of important speeches by the President's leading advisers.

In the past few days Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy, Mayor F. H. La Guardia, the President's chief adviser on continental defence, and Claude Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture, have all made pronouncements hinting at the imminence of United States armed protection of supply convoys at least half way across the Atlantic.

In Washington, Mr. Hull declared "wars must be won" and added that aid for Great Britain reaches its declining point "in the course of time and in maximum quantity."

Col. Knox, speaking in New York, declared "we can ship all the war goods to be sunk in the Atlantic — we shall be beaten if we do."

These speeches followed Mayor La Guardia's Ottawa hint that convoys will be afforded United States protection in the Atlantic as far as 1,000 miles east of Newfoundland, or approximately half way across.

The New York Times hailed the series of speeches as a signal that the American people have committed themselves "irrevocably to the cause of democracy in this war." "We have decided, the point of decision to make use of convoys.." it added. "The choice is now."

Germans Seek To Effect Complete Greek Surrender

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington, April 25 (AP). — A comparative lull in the German attack on the battered Anglo-Greek defence line across Greece probably is breathable more by the high policy than by terrain difficulties of the grim resistance still being offered by British and Greek rearguards.

What Hitler's strategy is aimed at is presently indicated by reports that Greeks that their British allies, not the Greeks themselves, are his foes. He is obviously seeking, even before the last fateful scenes of a perilous British withdrawal from Greece are accepted, to induce a complete Greek surrender, and probably proffering generous terms to Greek commanders in the field.

If this conception of Nazi strategy is sound, and the terms granted the scrutineers of the Greek Army in Epirus tend to support it, a relaxation in battering attack by Nazi mechanized spearheads on Greek positions west of the British front is understandable. Should the Greeks then follow the example of the hopelessly trapped Serbs, lay down their arms and surrender in the field, British hopes of evacuating a substantial part of the force still in Greece would be doubly frustrated.

Can't Repeat Dunkirk

They are gloomy enough in any case. No such miracle as the retreat from Dunkirk seems reasonably possible. The Royal Air Force cannot muster nearly as many fighter planes above Greek embarkation ports as they did over the Dunkirk beaches to ward off German bombing and machine-gun attacks. At Dunkirk the Metropolitan Air Force, the guard of British skies, also was thrown into the battle.

The Royal Navy, now drawn toward a close there is a rising tide of British public criticism of the Greek campaign. As a partial offset to this, however, Britons may derive some comfort from the fact that the Empire force sent to Greece was not larger. Unofficial estimates still insist that less than 100,000 Empire troops were involved. If it proves that there were more than that in Greece, the ultimate losses can only be increased.

London despatches indicate that some of the strongest charge that the force sent to Greece was inadequate, is coming from Australia. However, that the outcome would have been much different if several times as British troops had been sent there.

Churchill Not Endangered.

Nevertheless, demands for sending more troops, are quite vocal in Britain and Australia. It does not appear likely that Prime Minister Churchill himself is endangered, although it was a similar British reverse in Norway that paved the way for his elevation to power over the head of Prime Minister Chamberlain.

Many observers in London single out Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden as the principal target of political attack. Details of his conversations with Hitler and Foreign Minister Ciaulono with General Wavell, commander-in-chief in the Middle East, and what he learned about Yugoslav ability to wage at least a delaying battle here have been revealed.

They are destined to come out now, and brief a Parliament in anticipation of clearer focus. Despite the British denial there, that a campaign has some asset value for Great Britain, the Nazi effort will make the most of those in his professed accounting, and there are indications already that the hopes for even more tangible off-sets from North Africa.

Fire Destroys Warehouse At Trenton

Trenton (Special)—Fire of unknown origin threatened one of Trenton's main business blocks yesterday afternoon, destroying a large warehouse at the rear of the Farrar Groceteria on Elgin Street.

Little Benny's Note Book

We were eating supper, being lamb stew without dumplings, nothing eater, and ma said, Benny, you better eat your salad.

Aw heck, all that green stuff, I'm not a rabbit, I said, I'd pop said. A rabbit's got sense enough to know what's good for it, I already admire you to go and have a serious talk with a few rabbits.

Now Benny, if you listen utterly to tell you and why a growing boy needs salad in his diet, and then I'm sure you'll eat it cheerfully for your own welfare, I don't want to grow big and strong, dont you see she said, and I said, That's what I'm doing, me. Dont you remember those practically new shoes that I practically cant get my feet in any more, and dont you remember you saying you dont understand why a boy can grow so much practically over night I said.

Well, mere size doesn't complete the whole picture, ma said. Even giants are thin and ailing if their muckles and glands get out of tune, and that's just what happens when their systems are deprived of the minerial salts and carbohydrants and the vitamins and one other things that lurk in greens, I'm sure you wouldn't want to be a pale and sickly giant, would you? she said, and I said, Well suppose I see how tall I can grow without the greens, and then if everything's not all right I'll start in on the greens.

Let me reason with him for a while, she said. You see, Benny it's like this. A word to the wise is sufficient, the other words the wise hear the word and that's that their greens. So if you hear the word and still abstain from greens, you're not wise, you're a dope, and any doctor will tell you that the condition of, a dope is aggravated if he is allowed to eat sweets, things such as desserts, he said, and I said, O Well, I'm really going to eat it, I was just taking my time.

Showing you can make anybody listen to reason if you have the right slatern.

Ripper Collins Pays Dividends Against Old Teammates By Delivering Pinch Single In 11th

Pirates Beat Cubs 2-1 In Best Hurling Duel of Season

YANKS ON TOP

By SID FEDER.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Frankie Frisch's luncrance policy returned a nice fat dividend cheque to the Pittsburgh Pirates today, and no one was happier than the "policy," himself.

For, this policy, better known to the trade as Jim (the Ripper) Collins, not only paid off when it counted most—in the 11th—but he did it against the Chicago Cubs, the club that let the policy "lapse" by sending him to the minors a couple of years ago.

It must have warmed the hearts of both Frankie and—Skip, when Collins delivered a pinch single in the 11th inning yesterday which gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2-1 decision over the cubs.

For ten innings, Larry French did have a good job of putting holes in the bue bats and looked to have the game well under control. Then, with two on in the 11th, Rip went in for Johnny Lanning and delivered.

The victory didn't affect the standings in the league, for the Pirates are well down in the lists and New York Giants, setting the pace, were rained out at Boston.

Yankees New on Top

Over in the American League a combination of Marius Russo's seven-hit soutpawing and two three-run innings, one of them produced by Charley Keller's homer, gave the Yanks a 6-3 decision over Boston Red Sox.

This setback dropped the Sox from the No. 1 slot down to a tie for third place with Cleveland Indians, who were rooted on 2-1 by the Chicago White Sox. Lefty Thornton Lee bested lefty Al Smith in this one and that same hooiser Jimmy Dykes' wonder-men into second place, behind the Yankees.

"Stot Potato" Luke Hamlin turned in his second straight, hurling "nifty" to give the Brooklyn Brooklyn Dodgers a 6-1 win over the futile Phillies. On top of his five-hitter of last Saturday, Hamlin tossed a four-hitter last Friday.

Lonnie Frey's ninth inning double sent the winning run home to enable Cincinnati Reds to down St. Louis Cardinals 3-2.

Tommy Bridges' steady elbowing and a two-run triple by Frankie Croucher, in celebration of his graduation from the bench, gave Detroit Tigers a 6-4 decision for St. Louis Browns. Washington and Philadelphia Athletics were sidelined by cold.

JERSEY GIANTS WIN THREE IN ROW

Move Into a Tie With Buffalo Bisons for 2nd Place

(By the Associated Press)

Master Al Gettel and his father like son, but Jersey City Giants have been causing as much of a furore around Bison Stadium in League during the first week of the season as the parent's New York Giants, precipitated by manager Al Gettel's getaway in the International League race.

The Little Giants scored their third straight victory yesterday, taking the first of a three-game series from Buffalo Bisons 3-2 to move into a tie with the Bisons for second place in the only game played.

Frank Pearce subdued the hard-hitting Bisons, letting them down with five hits for his first victory of the year.

The Little Giants collected eight hits and all their runs off Earl Cook, who worked the three-game innings for the Bisons.

Wet grounds and cold weather put the damper on the rest of the program yesterday.

The boys' gymnasium was gayly and suitably decorated for the occasion with sport pictures and national flags adorning the walls to add color to the occasion.

W. J. Morrison, superintendent at the O.S.D. was the chairman of the evening and welcomed the school champions and guests before personally presenting the winners with their crests and tabs. Miss C. MONTREAL JRS. BEAT WINNIPEG IN SECOND GAME

Junior Series for Memorial Cup All Tied at One Game Each

Montreal April 25—(CP) — All square in their Memorial Cup playoff, Montreal Royals and Winnipeg Rangers prepared today to return to Toronto for the third game of their best-of-five Dominion Junior hockey final.

The Royals took three players who missed their opening 6-2 loss to the Prairie champions back in action, were good enough last night to level the series at one victory each with a 5-3 triumph.

It took a third period rally, good for three goals, to decide the game. Pete Conway, Winnipeg had overcome a two-goal deficit and carried a 3-2 edge into the third frame.

Ken Mosdell, slim centre of Montreal's second-string line, sparked the Royals' spurt in the final frame with a pair of tallies. He stole the puck in the winning zone to knot the count at 3-all and then beat Jimmy Peters' pass to give the Royals a 4-3 lead.

Goalie Ross Ritchie, one of three players writing college examinations here when Montreal bowed at Toronto Monday in the first game, returned to give a masterful performance in goal. The other two also were back, with Winger Leslie Morrison and Defenceman Bruce Ward.

Besides his two winning goals, Mosdell bested in another by Jim Planche. The other two Montreal tallies were by Sunny Glover and Bobby Carnegie.

The Winnipeg scorers were Don Bellamy, Hugh Miller and Glen Harmon.

Play Dangerous Games Trying To Call Feller's Pitches Says Manager

By EARL HILLIGAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chicago, April 25—(AP)—To the managers and coaches trying to call Bob Feller's pitches went this full challenge of warning today from softspoken Roger Peckinpaugh, Indians' manager of Cleveland Indians:

"Go ahead, you fellows who think you can call Feller's pitches, but it is not to be too bad for you if someone gets hurt."

Briefly, that sums up Peck's stand on the Feller problem which episode, brought to a lively climax at Comiskey Park yesterday when Robert Morris, in the fourth game in trying to tell what kind of a ball he was going to shoot up to the plate, fills observations came after the Indians' first exercise with Detroit and Chicago.

"It doesn't take a genius to call pitches. Del Baker (Detroit manager) was calling Feller's pitches all afternoon long in a game this spring in Florida. He'd yell 'Fast ball' if a fast ball was to be had and then call out the first name he thought of if he knew a curve was coming.

"If Upset Bob off and told him to grip the ball the same way for both pitches and you're going to cross them up if we can.

Luke Sewell, Indian coach and long-time catcher, a fine handling star, concurred with his boss. He said he often had called pitches correctly but emphasized that the danger comes in a mix. He said that Monty Stratton, former White Sox pitcher, once hit Luke Powell of the New York Yankees when a Yankee coach called the wrong pitch. Powell got ready for a curve but Stratton tossed his high hard one, catching Powell in the head.

FEE WEE OUT AT HOME

Pee Wee Reese, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, comes sliding home, safely but, he is out. Pee Wee tried to come in from third on Reiser's grounder to Whitehead of the Giants to put out. Ninth inning at Ebbets Field, in New York. Dodgers won 6-5.

ARMY ARMSTRONG TO REFEREE GAME

Former Belleville Boy Will Work in Senior Game at Regina, Saskatchewan

Regina, April 25—(CP) — Two days can see a wide change in hockey locale.

After Sydney Millionaires added an 8-5 win here Monday to their 8-6 victory at Calgary Saturday night Regina Rangers, the finals of the Saskatchewan capital just about gave up hopes of seeing their team add a thirteenth link-ring in Allan Cup competition.

Then Rangers went out and gained a 1-1 overtime tie at Saskatoon Wednesday to level the game of the best-of-five series for the Canadian senior title.

The fans here figure Rangers can cop Millionaires again in the fourth game here tomorrow night and Wednesday night and make the series a real thriller.

Both teams were scheduled for light workouts today following yesterday's rest. Millionaires planned a short skating session and Rangers a shooting practice.

D. G. W. (Curly) Wheatley, of Trail, B.C., and Army Armstrong of Oshawa, Ont., will be the officials tomorrow replacing Dick Davies of Winnipeg and Leo Reflon of Montreal, who worked the first three games.

Another crowd of close to 7,000 is expected for Saturday's game. Several department stores here have arranged to close early to give employees a chance to see the game.

The value of sponsorship in minor league sports was first pronounced and its true value given during a meeting of the Kingston Basketball League recently. Coming from scribe Bill Walshe's Kingston Whig-Standard it was "Juvenile" courts, the police and other corporations would have to have had a great deal more work had it not been for the field's splendid volunteer service in keeping young fellows busy in organized play." (Star Reid is, incidentally, the guiding light of minor sports in Kingston.) As a matter of fact, statistics prove that in cities where minor sports are encouraged and properly supervised minor delinquency and juvenile crime is a much lower ebb than in the centres where minor sports are not practiced as freely.

In addition to following local sporting activities in this district, your reporter also covers local police court proceedings for the O.P.P. Juvenile delinquency in Belleville proved a busy one. Reports last September that Rix Athletic Association, Bath, B.C., one day called us into his chambers and asked us to find out how the authorities could cope with the alarming increase in problem of wayward youth in this city. Our answer was quite simple: "Organized sports under supervised minor sports sponsorship." Then, through the Rix groups do a great work, but unfortunately the organization does not function throughout the summer holiday months of July and August in Belleville, that period when youth is most prone to get into juvenile delinquency. It is usually the result of the lack of something to do and "pranks" mind that boys are prone to turn to petty crime in their search for excitement and thrills. This little incongruity in the time school opens the police have reached the guilty and youthful culprits down, which we believe is the prime reason why delinquency reaches its peak in the autumn months.

Of course the city playgrounds provide recreation for the youth of the city, but they are not under any no supervision after the evening meal when most youngsters are free also the playgrounds are not equipped to function properly especially for the older boys, thus we get back to organized sports sponsorship as the only medium yet devised to combat juvenile delinquency.

"There is no doubt about it, supervised minor sports is the only salvation to curb juvenile delinquency in our community. It keeps their youthful minds occupied, even out of the street, by say nothing of the physical training that creates alert minds and sound bodies. Personally, I'm all in favour of supervised sports especially during the summer vacation," was Chief Inspector Hubbard when we called him on the 'phone relative to the subject yesterday.

With these facts in hand and bearing so much about "service clubs" in Belleville, here is a chance for some real service work that will be highly beneficial for our service clubs to seriously consider the matter of the control of juvenile delinquency in Belleville last year are available at Chief Kidd's office for those who are skeptical.

Elsewhere in today's issue is a photograph of Major Ron Church, formerly of Picton, and Lieut.-Col Howard Graham, O.C. of the 1st Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Major Church will be remembered as one of the district's outstanding baseball figures, whose diamond prowess as a player as baseball is played hereabouts.

We wish to thank the Kingston Hockey Club for an invitation to attend the civic banquet which was tendered the Intermediate champions in Kingston last night. Unfortunately we were unable to attend owing to a previous engagement to fraternize with the Ontario School for the Deaf athletes at their annual banquet and presentation of their sports awards. Annually this corner looks forward to mingling with the boys at the Deaf School, as it is an education which is seldom afforded the general run of the public. By sheer luck the feature was put prize registered by these boys is something hard to describe, but it is the product of sportsmanship and appreciation we even witnessed the spirit present is an education in itself.

The Belleville Anglers' Club met at the Y last night to ascertain if there was the remotest chance of the club functioning for the week prior to May 1st. "Sorry boys, but you'll have to wait until the very first day of May to catch those elusive trout this year." Fred Croft told the meeting there would be a valuable prize for the most speckled trout hooked, landed, weighed and officially measured on the opening day of the trout season. The contest lasts from 6 a.m. until the 4th. "Doc" Blaksley, in charge of rehearsals, told the club members where he had secluded the game fish and the location of their distinct lakes and streams where good angling can be enjoyed. Mr. Blaksley heralded Joe Shortt read a report from the Ontario Federation of Anglers pertaining to the fishing regulations and coupled with some fine angling stories the annual season meeting was otherwise a huge success.

"The show must go on."

Believe it or not the famous Epsom Derby was held well on in to England this year, to say nothing of the fact that the running of the races will not be "run at Epsom Downs" as in the past. Horsey gained world renown, but rather tied to associate with Epsom the fact it was held in Newmarket last year. It makes no difference where it is held as Belleville yet do not like the fact still remains it is hard to keep a secret when the world championship reigns supreme, down, (Hitler is finding that out.)

4th Sidney

Easter holidays are over and teacher and children are seen back to school assuming their duties having spent a very happy holiday. The hum of milk trucks are again heard wending their ways to different factories.

Sidney Town Hall factory was closed on Saturday last which will cause a delay in operations for a few weeks but work has already begun and it is hoped in a few weeks it will be in full swing again. The farmers are seen on every hand in some places and some seeding has already been done.

Mrs. W. Ross has received the sad news that her niece, Miss Myrtle Pomeroy died at the Belleville Hospital results of burns she sustained when their home burned. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Adams of Shannonville.

Mr. Robert MacPherson, Mr. Tom Laurence and Mr. and Mrs. P. Harris spent Wednesday evening with Mrs. M. MacPherson and daughter, Mis. Kay MacPherson.

Rufe Davis, Robert Livingston and Bob Steele, The 3 Mesquiteers in their latest western "Prairie Pioneers," now showing at the Capitol with Lloyd Nolan in "Mr. Dynamite" and the new serial "King of the Royal Mounted."

'Where It's Murder to Kill a German!'

Most of the windows in the airplane were glazed over with a frosty sheen so that you couldn't see out of them.

It was a bit uncomfortable sitting there, wondering if any shadow crossed visitors, were in the neighborhood.

The big Dutch pilot walked back and grinned.

"How are we doing?"

He nodded. "Fine. Be in Lisbon in another three hours."

There was nothing below but tumbling masses of fleece touched faintly by the gold of a mid-day sun. So we flew serenely on, and then we were over Portugal. And then we were banking in a tight circle. You have to circle and lose speed.

The Dutch pilot opened the door and said, "Lisbon." I stepped to the door of the Douglas, looked out and then instinctively recoiled in horror.

I caught myself then and remembered that this was a "neutral country."

Fifty yards away a big Junkers had lounged, a huge black swastika emblazoned on her tail and three Germans working nonchalantly on her motors.

It was the first time in eight months I had seen a German airplane that wasn't dropping bombs or burning or being pursued by British aircraft. It didn't seem possible. I walked past the Junkers, still a bit suspicious.

It seemed incredible that if I killed those three men now or if they killed me it would be murder.

Yet I had spent the whole previous night with the sound of German bombs in my ears; all night they had been over the west coast city where I had slept.

If I could have done anything to bring any of those German bombers down I would have been very happy. But we were in a neutral country—even though we were only six hours from London.

* * *

Today Lisbon in many ways is the most interesting city in the world.

It is crowded with ruffians, refugees and royalty.

Its normal population of 500,000 has been swelled by another 50,000, and under the weight of this migration the natives themselves are quite lost.

Portugal thrives in dread anticipation of the day when Hitler's scrutinity eye will light on her.

The refugees from Russia, France, Poland, Belgium, Holland and Germany feel that they are living on borrowed time.

The result is that thousands of them, scarred and battered from the strain of the past months, are trying desperately to get to Aperica.

There is a little thing called priority. All diplomats, military observers, and other government representatives are given "A" priority.

They get first call on clipper or ship reservations. Foreign correspondents are given "B" priority.

From there on, people stand in line.

There have been families standing in line in Lisbon for six months now, waiting for a mattress in a ship's corridor.

Official Lisbon tries desperately to keep neutral to letter if not the spirit.

The Diario Noticeas is Lisbon's largest morning newspaper. Each day communiques from both London and Berlin appear on Page One.

News from each city is given the same space, and the communiques are printed without comment.

If the London communique is 60 lines long and Berlin com-ents munique only 40—20 lines are chopped off the London story.

Lisbon doesn't want to make Herr Hitler or Dr. Goebbels angry.

* * *

The social centre of Lisbon is not in the city itself but at a place called Estoril. It has a magnificent hotel, a gambling casino and a beach.

The bar at the Palacio Hotel is where the boys and girls gather after playing golf or before dinner.

Here you hear news of Berlin, Warsaw, Vichy, Paris and Madrid before the official communique ever gives you.

I sat there the night I arrived with the two correspondents who had come from London with me.

There was a group of American Army and Air Force observers whom we had known in London.

They had been waiting for a clipper for a week. Here was a group of Frenchmen chatting vivaciously, and at the next table a group of Germans surveying the scene with complacency. At a third table there were three members of the British Embassy.

Near the door, sitting quite alone, was the inevitable tall, dark beauty with lustrous eyes who may have been a mannequin or a Mata Hari.

The Casino is one of the largest in Europe.

I went into the bar for a night-cap. The barman at my host-ess spoke English, which was quite ordinary.

The Portuguese are not linguists. Even in the larger hotels it is almost impossible to find anyone who can speak English, French or German.

But this barman had worked in New York and he was a cheery little chap. He hated Germans, too.

There was only one other man in the bar. The barman nodded toward him and gave me a surreptitious wink.

That afternoon he had been telling me about the German agents who infested the bars and this evidently was one of them. Well . . .

You are just from London," the middle-aged man at the other end of the bar smiled ingratiatingly. "It is pretty bad there?"

"Not so bad," I told him. "Two or three buildings hit—that's all."

He looked incredulous. "Come now," he laughed, "we hear that London is in ruins."

"It's just British propa-ganda." I lowered my voice to a confidential whisper. "I have lived there for eight months. There is a fish store in the East End destroyed and a German bomber fell in Kensington Gardens and scratched the statue of Prince Albert. That's all the damage I've seen."

He looked at me closely, but I was finishing my drink. "You are Swiss, I suppose" He said he was. They are always "Swiss."

"Talk German if you like," I told him in German. "I learned it in London."

"How was that?" the sucker said.

"The English have captured so many German airmen," I told him carelessly, "that there is no room for them in the prison camps.

"They have to lodge them in London hotels. In my hotel alone there are more than 90 German pilots.

"They like London, too. Seeing so much of them, naturally I picked up a few words of German . . . well, wiederschen."

* * *

Standing there in Lisbon, I wished I were back in London.

There was something unwholesome about Lisbon.

Perhaps it was because everyone was playing a part: the gamblers weren't enjoying their roulette; the loafers at the bars weren't having fun.

Yet it was bright and there was gambling and there were bands playing.

Why was there something macabre about Lisbon and the people of Lisbon? There was none of this atmosphere in London at its darkest.

Then, of course, I realized the cause of it all. Lisbon was a city under sentence of death.

Lisbon was virtually a dead city and knew it.

London was vitally, vigorously alive, pulsing with warmth and with activity.

London was gloriously strong and vibrant.

Lisbon! the lights in Lisbon were her own funeral candles; the music and the gambling there were the symptoms I'd seen in Paris when Paris was under sentence of death and knew it, and accepted it in last May.

They were symptoms that the end was near. — Quentin Reynolds in London Sunday Graphic.

Duce a Puppet While Italians Starve

From Collier's Weekly (New York)

Italy today is just another Nazi-occupied country, facing starvation and on the verge of complete collapse, according to Lowell Cecil Brown, wife of the Columbia Broadcasting System Italian commentator, who has just returned from Rome. Mrs. Brown's first-hand uncensored observations for Collier's.

Mrs. Brown, who released her story the moment her husband was safely out of Italy, exploded in her attempts to give a true picture of the situation there, enumerates five reasons why the Italian people are ripe for revolt.

The British blockade is really working. Thousands are undernourished or starving. Bread costs $1.75 a pound, veal $1.25. The butter ration is 6 ounces each a pound a month. The wheat supply will be exhausted during April and the new crop will not come in until June. The blockade also has crippled many Italian war industries.

Confidence in both Mussolini and the King has disappeared. Il Duce recently collapsed while making a speech. He is reported to sleep in a different place every night; sometimes in the armored railroad car Hitler gave him. King Victor Emmanuel spends most of his time with his stamp and coin collections.

Anti-Fascists are increasing rapidly in numbers. They welcome an opportunity to get into the army, feeling that this gives them the best chance to fight the Germans and to get their hands on arms and ammunition.

Increasing thousands would welcome a British raid—even a German victory, although they fear that a successful British invasion might make Italy the next great battlefield. British invasion might well be the signal for a general uprising.

The popular hatred of Germany has been increased by the fact that the Nazis now literally control all of Italy through men fi key positions and "Italy is really just another occupied country".

Mrs. Brown writes that there already have been incipient revolts against Mussolini both from inside the Pascist party and among anti-Pascists, and reports a well-authenticated story of a conspiracy last January among his Council of Ministers to do away with him before the Germans arrived.

"Members of the council discussed the possibilities of ' ng out Mussolini" she states. "They feared the increasing German control over Italy and a plan was evolved to take over the Government. To do that Mussolini had to be put out of the way. Having decided on this step, they drew lots and the Minister of Justice, Dino Grandi, was chosen to be the trigger man.

"The council had stipulated that Marshal Grazziani as head of the Italian army must be in Rome when Mussolini was killed and a new government set up. A definite time was set by the council for the assassination and Grazzani notified—but he didn't show up. The assassination was put off for a week, but during the delay Mussolini got wind of the plot. Instantly all the ministers, including Grandi, were ordered up to the fighting fronts.

"Now there is good reason to believe that when the Germans consolidate all of Italy under their control, Mussolini will be kept only as a figurehead. He would then become the Italian Quisling— a puppet dictator".

Lord Willingdon Tells Of His Trade Mission

By the Marquis of Willingdon, former Governor General of Canada and Viceroy of India, in the London Daily Mail.

How effectively Britannia rules the waves is well demonstrated by the experience of the official Trade Mission which, under my leadership has just completed a tour of South America.

Traveling in British merchant ships, without escort or convoy—for the company of a single fleet vessel on the outward voyage and of a couple of ex-American destroyers on the last two days before reaching Liverpool—we covered more than 30,000 miles, proceeding by an indirect route to Buenos Aires and returning from Valparaiso through the Panama Canal.

In all those vast stretches of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans we saw no sign of enemy submarine, aeroplane, or surface-raider, nor, as far as I know, was even threatened by mine, torpedo or gun.

South German Lloyd ships that as we sighted were craft that for many months have been lying in South American ports, from which capture by the Royal Navy if they ventured to put to sea.

One German warship did indeed come within our view. She was the wreck of the Graf Spee, scuttled in the River Plate. As a souvenir of British victory which brought her to that ignominious end, I was given a switch board from her fire-control station, which I had the honor of presenting to His Majesty the King last Thursday.

Under arduous conditions of travel, and amid the trying heat of the South American summer, I can very truly say that all the members of my Mission, worked tremendously hard, and we hope that what we have done will produce useful results.

The Latin-American nations are ardently devoted to the ideals of independence and political freedom. The moral support given by this country to their struggle for liberation at the beginning of the nineteenth century is not forgotten by them. They realize that today we are fighting in defence of South American liberties as well as of our own.

Everywhere we found the most sincere desire to show friendship and sympathy for Britain.

It was evident that the fall of France had been expected to bring about the defeat of Britain. The relief and admiration produced by this country's steady determination to fight on were increased, during our stay in South America by the news of the capture of the Greek Army, and by General Wavell's triumphant advance in Africa.

If I were to refer to special incident that impressed me on my tour, I should recall the dinner at Lima, to which the Peruvian journalists whom Britain invited the members of my Mission. Every speech delivered on this occasion conveyed the most ardent wishes for British victory.

During our visit to that country, the women of Peru publicly presented to Lady Willingdon three ivory-loads of woollen garments for the British. And during My wife cabled an announcement of this gift to Her Majesty the Queen in London, and received a gracious acknowledgment which delighted the generous donors.

All these South American States are intensely eager to learn more about the British war effort. They follow our fortunes with anxious interest. The arrival of our party of mainly middle-aged and elderly Englishmen, who had left London six weeks after the beginning of the heavy air raids last September, manifestly gave them a thrill.

In every country there was a great desire to get hold of first-hand information. The article of apostate Englishmen as to what the real position was throughout the Empire. There had been a great deal of extremely active German and Italian propaganda. South Americans had seen some rather lurid pictures of the effects of the "blitzkrieg".

I think that still greater energy must be shown by all our national institutions concerned — the Embassies and Legations in South America, the Ministry of Information, and the British Council—to satisfy the demand of that continent for fuller information about the achievements and resources of the British Empire.

The spirit of the British residents in South America is excellent. There was great enthusiasm among the younger members of those communities to come home and fight for their country. We were told back from Valparaiso not only British and French recruits, but South American volunteers as well.

The citizens of the various countries we visited are doing a great deal to support our cause. The British war charities there are helping in every way and subscribing generously to the various funds. The Argentine, where they gave us a pair of gold cufflinks and a gold brooch, each made in the form of a Spitfire, to be presented by Mr. and Mrs. Winston Churchill, as a mark of their admiration for the Prime Minister.

I have had long experience of official missions in all parts of the world, but never of one so enthusiastic and so full of hard work. We travelled by air from Buenos Aires to Santiago, across the mighty Andes, from one seaboard of the continent to the other. We had the tiring experience of crossing about in dense cloud at a height of 14,000 feet in the attempt, unsuccessful on the first occasion, to reach Quito, the capital of Ecuador.

The concrete results of my mission on behalf of the British Government will, I hope, appear in due course, and I have collected much information to lay before the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, when he returns to this country.

Everywhere I found the greatest keenness to buy whatever goods we can produce for export, and to send in return the valuable products in which South America abounds.

Of course, the war, which has produced shipping difficulties as well as difficulties of exchange, is the main obstacle in the way of fuller trade for the mutual advantage of South America and Britain. As these difficulties are progressively overcome, it is my sincere hope that we may prove to have done something towards strengthening the bonds of friendship and good will that have existed between us and those nations for so many years and towards increasing economic inter-course between this country and the Latin-American nations.

Canada hits her Stride!

With grim determination this young and virile nation dons her armour, buckles on her sword. From coast to coast the tempo of Canada's war effort accelerates. Tanks, planes, shells, foodstuffs, and equipment of every kind are being massed for victory. Canada means business.

Personal sacrifice must match this national effort.

Yours is the duty of providing the dollars so vital to Canada's war needs. Yours is the duty to save. Invest in war savings certificates regularly. Build up your savings account. Save for victory.

British Rear Guard Actions Inflict Heavy Casualties

New Zealand Anti-Tank Outfit Smashes 23 German Tanks Forcing Column to Retreat

GOING TO CRETE

Athens, April 26 (AP)— German troops driving toward Athens have pushed past Thebes, 35 miles from the capital, and also have taken Mesolongion, 100 miles west of Thebes, authoritative Greek quarters said today.

(Nazi spokesmen claimed earlier their forces had taken Thebes and smashed past it to within 30 miles of Athens.

The capture of Mesolongion the scene of Lord Byron's death in 1824 during the Greek war for independence, means that the Nazi drive down the Adriatic coast is on the west—where Greek forces capitulated Tuesday—has reached the Gulf of Patras.

Meanwhile, the British rear guard retreated doggedly under heavy German artillery fire and dive bombing attacks to the mountains north of the Gulf of Corinth and the circle pocket of the defended area.

The British guard, inflicting heavy casualties, were said to be in too small force to stop the drive by the Nazi military machine.

The Greeks reported their forces on the Island of Lemnos, 40 miles west of the Aegean entrance to Turkey's Dardanelles, still were conducting guerilla operations against a German landing force which seized the island after a fight with Greek police.

The New Zealand anti-tank outfit fighting a rear guard action near Veve Oeta, west of the Thermopylae Pass, smashed 23 German tanks yesterday and forced an attacking Nazi column to retreat, military quarters reported. Withering Fire Poured into Nazis

CANADA FINANCES VAST PROGRAM

Lieut.-Governor Matthews Tells of Dominion's Effort in Speech Prepared for Delivery in Boston

Boston, April 26 (CP)—Hon. Albert Matthews, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario said today in a speech prepared for delivery before Boston University students that Canada's war budget for 1941 will "exceed the total war budget of our country from 1914 to 1920." He said the 1941 war expenditures will amount to $1,500,000,000.

"This vast program we are financing ourselves," Mr. Matthews added, "Indeed, we are financing much of Britain's own purchases from Canada.

"In no year of the first Great War did our budget exceed 10 per cent of the national income, whereas this year it exceeds 26 per cent of the national income and it is expected that next year our war budget may take 50 per cent of the total income of Canadian citizens.

Mr. Matthews said the Canadian armed services had grown from nominal peacetime establishments to 725,000 men on active duty in Britain, Newfoundland, Iceland and elsewhere.

The loyal Canadian navy had grown from 15 ships and 1,774 officers and ratings at the outbreak of war to 150 ships with 13,000 men.

"We are now sending overseas 31 the rate of 16,000 airmen annually," he said, "and there are presently nine 450 American pilots in our service and over 10,000 applications from pilot young men to join our air service."

RAF Fighter Pilot Kills Nazi Air Ace But Shot Down Himself Shortly After

London, April 26 (CP). — Germany's air ace, Major Helmuth Wick, has been killed during combat, Isle of Wight last Nov. 28, was said today to have fallen to the guns of 26-year-old Flight Lieut. John Charles Dundas of the Royal Air Force who was himself killed a few minutes afterward.

This was the account the Air Ministry News Service gave of the aerial combat it described as the "last chapter" of the story of Wick, who commanded the Richthofen Squadron and was credited with 56 victories over Spain, Poland and France.

Dundas was in a squadron of R. A. F. fighter planes which sighted a "large circus" of German Messerschmitt 109's at 25,000 feet.

The Nazis dived on them out of the sun"—still in formation.

In the first clash, the squadron leader heard Dundas shout into his R/T telephone, "I've got a 109."

The squadron leader then heard over the radio but there was no reply from Dundas. Mates of Dundas later reported a ripped parachute was seen dropping toward the ground.

"Announcement of Wick's death by the Germans, together with their published details of the action," the news service said, "confirm that Dundas shot down Wick's Messerschmitt and was in turn shot down by its pair (accompanying planes.)"

STEPPED-UP RAIDS AGAINST BRITISH SHIPPING SEEN

Probably Cause Why U.S. Neutrality Patrol May be Extended

MAKE OCEAN SAFE

By J. F. SANDERSON

Washington, April 26 (CP)—United States naval experts today viewed a probable intensification of German operations against British shipping as a prelude to bringing about a far-flung extension of the United States neutrality patrol.

It was pointed out that with the arrival of Spring and Summer, German submarines and surface raiders feasibly could range even further to the west to attack Britain-bound ships from Canada and the United States at points where the Royal Navy and shore-based aircraft would be unable to protect them.

At a press conference yesterday, President Roosevelt told of the extension of the line of the Atlantic Ocean as safe as possible for merchant convoys—without actually assigning American ships to convey duty.

Responsibility Placed On Aosta's Shoulders Says Gen. Cunningham

London, April 26 (CP)—Britain declared today that the refusal of the Duke of Aosta, Italian commander, to lay down his arms "in the interests of humanity has placed upon his shoulders a heavy responsibility for" Italian civilians in Ethiopia.

The statement said that 14.-Gen. Alan Cunningham, British commander in East Africa, "accepted full responsibility" in his offer to Aosta for 41 Italian civilians in British-occupied territory.

"During the period that the Duke of Aosta delays his honorable surrender armed deserters from the Italian colonial forces have a chance to reconsider whether the arms not yet occupied by our troops."

Ethiopians have "shown commendable restraint and have implicitly obeyed Emperor Haile Selassie's orders not to revenge themselves on their former oppressors," the ministry added.

It concluded that the Fascist government in Rome had rejected Gen. Cunningham's "humanitarian proposals", thus "continuing the policy which led it to sink Italian ships and bomb a city like Larissa (in Greece) immediately after its devastation by earthquake."

Pembroke Farmer Tells Police Wing Hit Water and Sank in Few Seconds

Pembroke, Ont., April 26 (CP)—Dragging continued after military direction in Westmeath Lake today for a Royal Canadian Air Force training plane and the body of Aircraftsman Ernest Morgan, R.C.A.F. men off duty lists here, believed to be in the craft.

Cause of the accident thought to have caused the death of Sgt. Pilot H. G. Hyde of Ottawa and Sgt. Pilot R. Patterson of Toronto is obscure" R.C.A.F. officials said today. It was said last night, but the plane disappeared from sight in a few seconds.

Percy Moore, Pembroke farmer and apparently the only eyewitness to the accident, said he first broke police the plane was flying low over the farm at the extension of Ottawa River—when a wing hit the water and the plane sank within a few seconds."

Approximate position of the submerged plane was fixed and searchers early accurately by 9:1 patches which have appeared on the lake surface. If dragging failed to bring to the surface a diver was expected to be brought here to hunt for it.

The wrecked plane was on a training flight from No. 2 Service Flying Training School to Petawawa Airport, just outside Ottawa, R.C.A.F. officials said.

Petawawa Military Camp were directing the search for the plane and the body.

Bursts among the vehicles started fires and explosions, it was declared, and other machine-gun and bombing attacks also were attacked.

Several hundred prisoners and 12 Italian officers were captured at Mota.

Large forces of Ethiopians are rallying to help the British army in the attack on Desale, the general headquarters communique said.

Canadians Must Realize Gravity Of War Navy Minister Warns

Bowmanville, Ont., April 26 (CP) —Navy Minister Angus L. Macdonald said here last night that Canadians must realize the gravity of the war to the extent they did in the First Great War when almost every community suffered the loss of some of its members in service. In an address to the women's meeting of the Bowmanville Canadian Club, Mr. Macdonald said that Canadians must realize that the Dominion was totally unprepared for war and they should, for this reason, moderate their criticism.

"Germany claims to be taking a great sea toll," he said, "but over 4,400 ships have left Canadian ports in convoy, carrying over 26,000 tons of goods to war-torn Britain."

DIRECTORS DECIDE TO REBUILD FACTORY

The estimated cost of rebuilding the factory and equipping same was tentatively set at approximately $3,500, within tenders for erection to be called immediately.

The factory was burned one week ago today when the insulation in the curing room became ignited, presumably from a defective chimney. It is thought the concrete walls, which remained standing, will be suitable for rebuilding.

FIREMEN RESCUE DOG FROM RIVER

Clinging desperately and in an almost exhausted condition to a projecting rock in the river where it had escaped from a boat being bowled along by the strong current from a point presumably north of the city, a shivering fox terrier was rescued from the Moira River near the plant of the Belle Shirt factory by members of the Fire Department on Friday afternoon.

Wearing a Thursday tag of 1940 vintage, No. 230, the puppy is apparently owned by some person in that locality as it must have been fallen into the river outside the city limits as it was first noticed struggling in the current from the upper bridges. Members of the fire department, after being notified of the dog's plight, made a dash to the lower bridge where fortunately the animal was found to be refuge on a projecting rock near the bridge.

After being fed at the fire station and given a thorough coat heat from the stove, the terrier showed signs of returning vitality and awaits its owner at the fire hall.

PRICE OF FISH GREATLY REDUCED ON LOCAL MARKET

Trout and Whitefish Sell Below 30 Cent Mark for First Time This Season.

OTHER PRICES STEADY

The opening of ice fishing season resulting in greater quantities and more variety than has hitherto been offered on the local produce market was instrumental in forcing prices to the lowest point of the season. Trout and whitefish for the first time this season sold below the 30c mark and retailed at straight 30c per pound. Mudcats too showed a decline and sold at 15c per pound. Pike was two pounds for 25c and suckers four fish for 25c.

Otherwise the market was holding to a very slim attendance, quite the contrast to the past several weeks. Farmers being busy with seeding operation was given as the reason for the slump in their attendance.

Prices on the inside market were practically the same as last week's quotations with eggs selling at 25c per dozen for grade "A" large, and at 20c and 22c per dozen for other varieties. Butter also held at the usual price of two pounds for 79c, while chicken sold at prices ranging from 25c to 28c per pound with large birds being quoted at prices ranging from $1.20 to $1.75. Broilers were 50c to 60c per pair.

Fresh vegetables such as celery and onions sold at 5c per bunch, with rhubarb being quoted at 10c per bunch. Cabbage plants sold at 40c and 50c per dozen, while cut at 40c and 75c per flat. Pansies were also on sale, potted plants ranging prices 30c per pack and onions at 10c per pack, the quantity. Potatoes sold at $1 per bag.

Chick sexing is slowly decreasing, guys have disappeared almost entirely from the market, though a Belleroy found a ready sale at 50c per peck. Russets were $1.25 per bushel and the ordinary run of cooking varieties $1 per bushel. Corn meal was also on sale being offered and at the usual price while young growers were quite plentiful at prices approximating $5 each.

CHILDREN "PLAY WITH DETONATORS

Police at Needles, California, Warn Parents to Search Playthings for 400 Missing Detonators

Needles, Calif., April 26 (AP) — Children have been playing with dynamite and detonators in large quantities here, it was learned today.

Some used the detonators for whistles, blowing into the open end. A few boys even carried them to dinner tables with their parents unaware of the danger.

Others, realizing the tubes would explode, wrapped paper around them, struck matches to them and hurled them from hilltops outside the city.

This went on until Jerry Willis, 9, brought home what he called a metal firecracker and asked his brother, Freddie, 14, to light it. Fred did and lost a thumb and the tips of two fingers.

Mike Neva Hagaman, principal, recovered 25 caps from grade school pupils.

After that teachers, parents and police took 100 detonators from 50 children.

Police Chief P. M. Klainger issued a warning urging parents to search playthings for 400 other detonators, which had been taken from a warehouse, along with 160 sticks of dynamite, several months all but 15 sticks.

The officials said seven boys ranging in age from 8 to 15 took the caps from the warehouse in daylight and later used the caps to blow a lock at night.

Expected British Will Use Crete As Plane Base

(By KIRKE L. SIMPSON)

Washington, April 26 (AP) —An other Thermopylae has been fought and lost in Greece. A new and heroic defense of the "Hot Gates" by Anglo-Greek valor freshens the hates of the Hellenistic world of human bravery.

Yet now, in the dim past, Thermopylae is also a symbol of tragic defeat, as well as of new courage. Is fall before overwhelming German hosts must inevitably lead quickly to a grim call for Greece's Surrender of Athens, to save its people and the city from needless impending.

Just where the British troops and such Greek comrades as have not been cut off from the sea will finally be stand anew, south of Thermopylae, is not indicated. How many troops escaping from the Australian, New Zealand and Greek armies will be rallied for Greece's

RELATES FACTS WITH FIGURES CANADA AT WAR

Canadians Publish Record of Nation's Activities to Meet Desire in U.S. for Information

By J. F. SANDERSON

Washington, April 26 — (CP) — A misconception, if not an absolute ignorance of Canada's war effort, exists in the United States. The average American has no idea of the extent and diversity of Canada's contribution to the fight for freedom, freedom on this continent as well as Europe.

To fill this gap, to provide a comprehensive record of Canada at War, John W. Dafoe, editor-in-chief of the Winnipeg Free Press, has edited "Canada Fights, An American Estimate at War," which has been published in the United States by Farrar and Rinehart, Inc. It is the joint work of five Canadian newspapermen; Grant Dexter, Bruce Hutchison, George V. Ferguson, B. T. Richardson, Mr. Dafoe and Dr. Percy Corbett of McGill University.

It is a storehouse of facts and figures relating to Canada's war effort presented in a way to appeal to American readers. Indeed, the average Canadian will find in it many things he never knew about his own country's war effort or knew only in a shrinky sort of way; things that should fill him with pride.

For Information

A preface supplied by Mr. Dafoe says the book was written "primarily to meet what is known to be a desire on the part of many citizens of the United States for information, comprehensive and up-to-date, about the participation by Canada in the present democracy, in the war in defence of the democratic way of life; and also about Canada as joint partner with the United States of the integrity and independence of the North American continent against the designs of totalitarian powers."

The book starts with the Ogdensburg meeting in August, 1940, of Prime Minister Mackenzie King and President Roosevelt, when the Canadian-American Joint Defence Agreement was signed, and shows in the light of that historic pronouncement what Canada could carry her own weight in any war undertaken for the defence of the American continent. It goes further than that. It shows that Canada is making a tremendous contribution, in both men and materials, to the defence of the political and social principles that have made democracy the way of life.

Canada's Attitude

Canada's decision is sketched to explain why Canada alone among the American nations declared war against Germany seven days after Britain declared war in September, 1939. It points out that Canada made this decision voluntarily, on its own authority as a nation of sovereign power and with complete freedom of action. Many reasons are suggested for the spontaneous response of the Canadian people to the German attack on freedom, democracy and everything for which Canada stood, and it sums up Canada's present attitude as one of resolution, union and determination.

"This unity" it goes on to say, "so much more evident than in the last war, this grimness of purpose, this determination to throw into the struggle all that the country had available material and man power which also entrusts anything shown in the earlier struggle, springs from a single source — a clear knowledge of what this war is about, what its origins were, to what end it is directed and the consequences to Canada of victory for the Axis powers."

With great clarity and careful marshalling of figures, the book traces the growth of Canada's army, navy and air force. It is a remarkable story, a story that few Americans know in its entirety.

THERMOPYLAE

From 480 B.C., to 1941 A.D., is a long step which has seen the development of European civilization and an entire change of the outlook of the world, but there is one characteristic that is the same. It is the valor of Greeks who fought at Thermopylae so long ago against the Persian invaders and the valor of the British army these past two days at this same pass.

Thermopylae is synonymous with the virtue of heroism and courage. It has signified for centuries courage until death for freedom. And here courage and honor are exemplified by the British. Thermopylae was dedicated by the ancient Greeks with Leonidas and his three hundred Spartans. Henceforth it will also be associated with the British action there against the Huns.

Here the Hun, unable to shake British forces, drew up his heaviest artillery and yet the British held on. They threw back the German attackers.

In this rearguard action the British and Imperials covered themselves with glory.

PAY TRIBUTE 'IN DECISIVE ACTS'

"Let us pay tribute to the Greeks, to all brave soldiers, to all courageous civilians, from the Aegean to the British Channel, in decisive acts." So speaks the New York Times, telling of free Greece that it can "outproduce, outwit and outfight the Nazis."

Of the Greeks the editor says, "There are no words worthy of this little people, seven million strong, living on a rocky, sterile land, who broke the armies of Italy and withstood for a splendid moment the tanks, airplanes, artillery and overwhelming numbers of Nazi Germany. Britain sent the Greeks planes, fliers and at last an army as brave as her own."

Of the enemy the writer says, "the barbarians come again, worthless for any peaceful purpose incompetent in any but destruction. They are unfit even to tread the dust where Socrates, Plato and Aristotle walked, where Sophocles and Euripides exalted the human soul, where Phidias carved beauty into marble, where Demosthenes cried out for freedom, where men listened in wonder to the 'surge and thunder of the Odyssey.' Nevertheless they are there."

The glory of Greece in this struggle for the preservation of freedom will be remembered as long as Marathon and Thermopylae, the writer says.

The heroism of the British, Greeks and Yugoslavs has delayed the enemy and upset his plans, has forced the Huns to fight and has exacted of the enemy a very great toll in troops and war material and forced them to use up their oil and supplies.

ST CATHARINES STANDARD CELEBRATES

Fifty years ago this week the St. Catharines Standard was founded by W. B. Burgoyne, who carried on the business until his death, since which time his son, H. B. Burgoyne, has been the president and managing director. These two men have impressed their characters and ideals upon the newspaper and upon the community. Today the Standard exercises a wide influence as it has done in all its history from the first.

The Standard is representative of a section of Canada, the Niagara Peninsula, which is one of the most picturesque spots in Canada and has the appeal of history in its British associations and ideals.

This week the golden jubilee was celebrated by an edition of 96 pages with many illustrations of interest to the widespread reading public and with articles of value, historic, social, industrial, mercantile and civic.

St. Catharines has grown in the past half century from a population of under ten thousand to a much larger city and with it has grown the Standard, keeping fully abreast of developments in the Dominion and in the community.

The Standard is an excellent and enterprising newspaper, full of local as well as news of national and international interest and its editorial policy is marked by fairness and understanding of issues. The management and staff are to be congratulated on the fine jubilee edition.

VICTORIOUS VITAMINS

Lucio in the Manchester Guardian

("The Medical Officer of Health for Ipswich has discovered a new use for vitamins and proteins; they are good for weak arithmetic and poor spelling in certain cases of young patients."—Daily Telegraph.)

My speling was formerly quite inconcievable,
Gayly I flopped into every old trap.
Folts and misstakes that were gross and most greivable
Erned me reproch as a dunce and a sap.
Nor was arithmetic much to rite home about;
Simple addition would flore me at times,
And in the matter of fractions I'd roam about
Hoaplessly lost in my manifold crimes.

What was the reason of this abnormality,
Low as the level of Kaffirs or Kurds?
Was I, then, dogged by some dismal fatality
Spreding confusion in figgers and words?
Was the grey matter of feeble capacity,
Was my congenital helping ill carved?
No—I was lacking in mental vivacity
Simply because I was vitamin starved.

Look at me now, since the vitamins got at me,
Spelling and figures are both comme il faut!
No one will ever again have a pot at me,
Branding my style as unpolished and low.
Spelling bees I can surmount with agility,
Maths I can manage with infinite ease—
These are the triumphs I gain with facility,
Since I got wise to the vitamin wheeze.

Note from a Girl Guide:—

"Tell Mr. and Mrs. John Public that we are exceedingly grateful for the fine response they have given us in our current doughnut campaign. However, we shall be taking orders until next Wednesday, and we still have a lot of territory to cover. We hope those people we call upon next week will receive us with the same courtesy that we received this week. The campaign is going along splendidly—but we hope to do our bit a little better than last time. And we thank you all with the generous co-operation of the public."

P.S.:The doughnuts are really delicious.

Some of these Frenchmen are not such bad fellows after all. They're taking a lot of punishment in occupied France in more ways than one. But a lot of them are loyal and are doing their best to thwart Nazi efforts in their country.

For instance, in a converted factory now making planes for Germany, sabotage got out of control. The Huns were furious at the mysterious damage that was caused daily to plant and products. Finally the Germans took 14 French workmen out and lined them up against a wall. A machine-gun coughed its staccato of death as the men sank to the ground shouting "Vive l'Angleterre."

But the sabotage continued. The death of the French martyrs proved but fuel to the flames. Planes being tested suddenly exploded carrying the Nazi pilots to their deaths. Then the Huns got an idea. They issued a statement that henceforth French pilots would be used exclusively in the flying tests.

Along the French grapevine system the word was sent out to stop all sabotage, because Frenchmen would be killed. When a sufficient number of the planes were ready for testing, the French pilots were called. They took off and flew straight for England.

Ship Repairs In War Time

From the Leeds Yorkshire Post

Them is a branch of shipbuilding, indeed an industry in itself, which is rarely mentioned, receives no publicity, and yet is contributing largely to the defeat of the enemy at sea. The ship repair yards are performing a vital service despite unceasing greater attention. They are the doctors of the Merchant Navy, and since the outbreak of war have taken the Royal Navy on their panel as well.

Called upon to patch up "cuts and bruises", they have also to perform major surgical operations. There is infinite variety in their work. Like doctors of medicine their activities cannot be standardised; each case has to be "the subject of special treatment designed to meet individual needs." Like the doctors, their mission is to save life; and many valuable ships have been saved by the skill, ingenuity and determination of our ship repairers.

A few examples of the casualties restored to service include a deep sea tramp steamer so badly damaged by under-water explosion that her hull was out of line. The ship was cut in two, straightened, rebuilt, rejoined as a complete ship, and is in service.

Oil tankers with tanks twisted and cracked have been restored to service. A mess ship which had been set on fire by bombs, blazed for a week, has been remade and restored to service. Trawlers and other small craft have been saved by beaching and in some cases have remained there all Winter have been refloated in the Spring, reconditioned and recommissioned.

The weapons used by the enemy at sea in this war are more powerful than those employed 26 years ago. Explosives are more effective; the magnetic mine and the bomb, wreak destruction of a kind unknown to earlier ship repairers, and damage sustained by ships in the present conflict has created many new problems of repair.

But as enemies increase so does the skill and ingenuity of the shipbuilding industry. Ordinarily difficult conditions, not least that of which is an acute shortage of skilled labor.

In peacetime many British ships have been repaired in Continental shipyards, but now not only are they all repaired in this country, not British yards are called upon to repair a large proportion of the Allied merchant shipping formerly dealt with abroad. Normal maritime casualties have increased because of convoy and other war conditions, apart from casualties due to enemy action.

In addition the British ship repairing industry is called to repair and refit the fighting ships of the Allied navies, work never allocated to commercial yards in peace. This great expansion of work has been carried out with little increase in the labor force and under the handicap of shortage of labor.

The complicated character of much of the repair work calls for a higher degree of skill than is necessary in the straightforward construction of new tonnage. Now that the Government have undertaken the registration of the shipyard workers who have left the industry in the last five years it might be a wise move to switch over a number of skilled men from the Services to the ship repair establishments, replacing them with men recalled under registration.

"Trailer Travel"

By ARTHUR JONES

Trailer village, Jacksonville, Fla., April 25.—Let the first Spring warbling on Easter Sunday morning to be present at a Sun Rise Service held on the fishing pier at Lake Apopka. These services are popular in Florida and are well attended. This service we mention was conducted by Rev. Dr. Ralph Walker of Winter Garden. The Master of this lodge requested that the service be arranged for each year on Easter morning. Dr. Walker has complied and the service was started with Harry Jones, one of the trailer colony. Others were said when the pastor of the Baptist Church, gave a short sermon. We were pleased to see people arriving before 6:30 a.m. and others later.

The Ambition of One American

Our elderly trailer friend, often from Cleveland, Ohio, has made it his business to tell me twice of his ambition. His ambition should it be successful would result in his leaving Florida. He is a fine fellow we dead. I would go to Cermany and join the Nazi party for the one reason to assassinate Hitler. I would get close enough for my act. This I would gladly do. I feel my police experience would help me get close enough to him to make a sure job".

Drive the Beach at Daytona Beach

Tourists going north on entering Daytona can enjoy a ten-mile drive on the famous Beach without going out of their car. By turning right at the south end of the city and going a few miles you are able to enjoy the ocean, along with a swim in it as long as you have time for it. There is no danger at any kind at hand along this wonderful drive. On a week end it is common for a drive of some ninety miles from the east coast to Orlando over the road to Ormond Beach, remaining along the beach at Daytona prior to bathe, our privacy only disturbed by a number of cars ahead. The incoming tide started to flow under the car and trailer which made us move a few feet, but not into the water's edge.

Trailer Settlers Resident

We had a very pleasant experience on the Sun Dial Service in St. Saint Augustine, the oldest City in the U.S. featuring among other things the Fountain of Youth.

David Dunham, formerly Georgia Springer, daughter of our highly esteemed friend, Mrs. Ella Springer, William Springer. On being introduced by Comrade Walker, Dunham who remained seated in the car we remarked, "I am proud to be a 100 per cent American". "Indeed I am not a few of my friends call me Augustine.

Georgia, after a very kind invitation to stop over in her city, strongly reminded me that I must not tell her father and mother that she and family were all well.

Distributors Trailer Literature

The estimated value of Tourist Trade to Florida is $150,000,000. This hugh amount is a mark for our Canadian Travel Bureau to shoot at. The period covered is the summer months of 1940 and the spring of 1941. We are very glad to report that we are distributing for the first time Canadian Travel pamphlet. "Plan your Vacation to Canada in 1941". We find these literans are glad to get this pamphlet which amply covers border requirements.

Duke and Duchess of Windsor New at Palm Beach

It is extraordinary the love all Americans have for Edward, our former King. Paying his visit to Florida "Eddie" is very modest with it all. "After all I am only the Governor of the Bahama British Colony", he tells the Press.

Stewart Says

Washington—Governmental commandeering and operation, during periods of national emergency, of private, factories, either because strikers are balky about accepting Uncle Sam's contract terms or because they can't agree with their workers and are tied up by strikes, might result in complications that the plain's advocates don't seem to think of.

One blaze this direction generally raised in such official quarters as William S. Knudsen's production management outfit, by contrast with Dykstra's associates on the national mediation board and by labor departmental conciliators of the type of John R. Steelman, James F. Dewey and Father Francis Haas.

It's a policy, it is agreed, which might prove fairly satisfactory in the case of a company eoulgent to turn out defence supplies but immovably opposed to acceptance of orders for them, entered maybe for extortionate prices. However, there is another many, if any, companies like this. Contrariwise, as I've had occasion to remark before, quite a few concerns are rather short of funds, their plants governmentally taken over, and in need of immediate rentals.

Labor troubles are what cause most of the deadlocks in defence contracts and aid-the-democracies activities.

Now, assume that a factory is in a state of suspended operations due to a strike. Its management won't yield to the strikers and the strikers won't yield to the management. So the government seizes the plant, with the management more or less acquiescent, since it will be receiving rent. Then, the strikers are better than having its property lying idle on account of the strike.

Thereupon, it will be up to the government, thus, to ascertain the expert management of its own.

It may be pretty difficult to improvise an adequate one.

What About Strikers?

But suppose the government succeeds as to management. Then what about the strikers? It would seem a guess that they'll demand as good conditions from the government-management as they did from the original private one. Will the government grant them—even if they're excessive, as contended by the private private management? Or will it refuse? In that event it would appear to be a reasonable conclusion that the strike will continue. And obviously it will be aimed against means of the government as to a lot of workers on strike against the government than against a private company.

Chairman Hatton W. Sumners of the House of Representatives' judiciary committee already has told what he'd favor doing about it. He says if quoted him a few days ago from a congressional speech he made that he'd advocate declaring the strike leaders enemies of the country and sending 'em to the electric chair.

From talks I've had with any number of his fellow-legislators though, I don't believe he could get a majority for striking a law like that.

Think of sending John L. Lewis or Phil Murray to the electric chair!

Some more moderate chaps suggest conscripting industrial strikers into the military service if they won't work in factories. The flaw in that proposition is that, even if so drafted, they still wouldn't be getting their factories going again. Besides, a lot of 'em aren't of military age.

Well then, it's urged, conscript 'em industrially, regardless of age; make 'em work as slaves. That's another scheme I don't believe, from my chats with congressmen, could be possible to get a majority for.

So what?

Would the government, in charge of the operation of a plant, have to accept the strikers' demands for higher wages and shorter hours?

Trail in Other Plants?

If it did so, wouldn't workers in un-commandeered plants immediately strike for similar benefits from their private managements? And wouldn't strikes quickly become epidemic everywhere? Wouldn't the government have to commandeer all industry, at the peril bound to all wage workers?

Questions for headquarters like the production management's and the mediation boards and conciliators' these questions affirmatively.

Finally, here are a couple of additional considerations:

Suppose the government does take everything over, hikes pay in all directions? Subsequently it returns the commandeered industries to their original private managements. What management is going on record now to the effect that the strikers' present demands would ruin 'em. When they get their industries back from the government, won't they immediately want to cut down again? And won't that raise a strike?

It's an issue that's a terrible worry to Bill Knudsen's production management's chief economist Leon Henderson—post-emergency definition.

MONTHLY STATEMENT

"Life owes me a living," a young fellow said,
And an oldster who heard him replied:
"Just what have you done for the rent and the food
You imagine life ought to provide?
And if this is a debt should life pay it then
You have given the debtor an itemized bill?

"For what does life owe you this living you seek?
For services rendered, how much?
For schooling and study at so much per week?
For work, incidentals and such
For courses displayed and for patience and skill?
What fees would you charge on this itemized bill?

"What sort of a living is this you demand
And with what shall the payment be made?
Just what have you done for the rent in the land,
Or appealing for charity's aid?
Life owes you a living? Why, I say it but life ought to get
A statement of how you've come to the debt.

"For labor, for knowledge, for practicing long,
For what you've learned under the task,
For day by day standing up, steadfast and strong,
How much do you think you should back
And what would you say your accounts would disclose
If life made you sue for the living it owes?

You'd Be Surprised!

SKIMBLE SK AMBLE STUFF

In connection with national defense, and frequently is employed the word "material," which is the French form of "matériel." Meaning: "Material" is applied to material equipment, apparatus and supplies of a governmental, commercial or institution as distinguished from "personnel," which is "the body of personal" in the sense persons or employees.

George Rogers Clark, because of his exploits in conquering the Old Northwest during the Revolution, was known as "The Hannibal of the West."

"Venison" is derived from Latin "venatio," meaning hunting, and in the generations ago venison was the flesh of any edible wild animal or game bird taken in hunting or by the chase.

As originally used the term venison was more correctly applied to a hunted hare than to a tame deer.

The word venison occurs only five times in the King James version of the Bible and only in connection with the slay of fleed and his twin sons Jacob and Esau, where the term refers to the kills of wild game.

Since deer are among the animals most widely hunted, venison has been narrowed down in general usage today to be mainly restricted to the flesh of the deer family.

In America "venison" is generally pronounced "ven-i-zn" in two syllables, while in Great Britain it is generally pronounced "ven-rn," in two syllables.

Purists turn thumbs down on the pronunciation "ven-i-son."

Brevet is the name given in the United States army and other armies to a commission increasing an officer's rank but not changing his pay or duties.

In the United States army and marine corps rank by brevet formerly was and still may be conferred by the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, for "gallant actions or meritorious services."

The first instance of this kind in the United States occurred in 1814 when President Madison conferred the brevet rank of major on his second cousin, Captain Zachary Taylor, for his successful defense of Ft. Harrison on the Wabash against an attack by several hundred Indians.

"Brevet" is a French word literally meaning "letter or short and is applied in France to a government warrant granting a privilege, title or dignity.

"DAUGHTER OF DESTINY"

By ELEANOR ATTERBURY COLTON

CHAPTER I

"Are you Miss Devona Rathbourne?" Startled, Devona looked up, faced a pair of the bluest eyes she'd ever seen. "Why—yes, I am."

The tall young man studied her deliberately. "Yes, of course. Same beautiful big eyes. Same perfect mouth. Your mother over again—brunette version. I should have known."

Devona, still perched on the battered steamship trunk where she'd been marooned for the last anxious hour, outdistanced with a smile. "Are you Los Angeles' official greeter or is flattering strange women just a perilous habit?"

He grinned then and Devona felt her heart hesitate.

"No—neither. But" if every ocean-going liner deposits lovely cargo like this—then I'm for the job." The dark eyes teased. "I'm Dale Brasher. Your mother's message didn't reach me until half an hour ago. She's held up with a rehearsal call." That smile again, and little laugh lines fanning around his eyes. "I'm to play stand-in, temporarily. That is, if it's O.K. with you."

"Of course. Thank you so much for bothering," Devona murmured. She should have known her mother would be too busy to meet her. Popular actresses didn't waste meeting boats. Still, disappointment pulled at her.

Dale Adept at Surprise

"No bother at all," Dale was saying. The planet's definitely in favor of times but—never as parents! At that, you're completely evidently, it's damned disconcerting."

Devona laughed. "Am I interrupting something? Couldn't I take a train or—"

He shrugged that aside. "I'm told to meet a little schoolgirl who'll be waiting in my stead. Instead—" He stared at her again intently. "I find—this."

Devona laughed, glanced around the huge dock jammed with people. "But I am terrified." Or, she had been a moment ago!

Dale's black brows traveled coolly from the jaunty feather on her hat to the tips of her small brown pumps. "Yes, you look it! I'm the one that should be terrified."

Her glance faltered, went down defeated while she blushed. For some bright reason. After all 14 years in boarding schools or graywalled convents, or crude mining camps with her engineer father hadn't prepared her for—well, this, for instance. And she wanted so much that this charming stranger from her mother's smart world shouldn't guess, she was simply a schoolgirl in disguise. Expensive disguise it had been, too. From a smart shop in Shanghai's International Quarter.

"Hope we can rush your luggage through," Dale said as they followed a darky porter. "You wait here. I'll dig up an inspector."

Devona watched him stride off and wondered what it was about him that made her think of Norse Vikings and valiant sailing ships and Valhalla. He wasn't exactly handsome but his smile and the clear, blue flame of his eyes made you forget that. And his nice voice. Voices mattered. She'd learned that in the out-of-the-way corners of the world where language doesn't matter and you detected friend or enemy from the shadows in his voice. There were no shadows in Dale's deep tones.

Something in his manner commanded good service, too. The inspection was brief, and in another moment Dale was tipping the porter, leading Devona to a smart blue coupe at the curbing just outside the huge gray building marked "Pier B."

"I told Vera we'd try to make Palm Springs by dinner," he said as he guided the powerful car into the stream of traffic threading toward the city. "Unless you'd place out there for the Winter, you know?"

Devona didn't know, but she nodded. There was so much she didn't know about her beautiful actress mother. But, she hugged the thought close, from now on that would be different. Of course, she'd loved vagabonding with Dad. She'd never regret a moment of it. But, now that he was gone, she was lucky to have this new world to come home to.

"They're rehearsing the new play" Dale went on. "Going to try it in Hollywood before they take it on to New York."

About Her Mother

Fourteen years ago she and her mother, premature gray and all, had settled in Hollywood before they take it on to New York."

"No." He laughed at her. "But, it's—dangerous."

"They were pushing through cross-town traffic and for awhile Dale gave his attention to lights and crossings.

Dangerous? Devona wondered. What was dangerous? And why the fanning sun-lines around his eyes, explained his dark, even tan. The Fakir's Prediction

Then suddenly, Devona remembered what an old Indian fakir had pretended to read in the sand that day in Delhi, almost a month ago when she and her father had spent a holiday in Bombay.

"Daughter of a strange destiny," the fakir had muttered, peering at the lines he'd drawn. "A great sorrow and a great love will enter your soul before another moon. And the love will be more heart-breaking than the sorrow."

There was something so—romantic, so storybook about this place. She said that to Dale when, a little later, he helped her into the blue coupe again.

"Romantic!" He laughed. "Depends on what kind of storybook you like! This one wouldn't be healthy reading for a sweet kid like you."

"I'm—going on 19," she said, a little stiffly.

He Slumming Furtive

"Sorry." He was pushing through cross-town traffic and for awhile Dale gave his attention to lights and crossings.

Dangerous? Devona wondered. What was dangerous? And why the fanning sun-lines around his eyes, explained his dark, even tan. The Fakir's Prediction

Then suddenly, Devona remembered what an old Indian fakir had pretended to read in the sand that day in Delhi, almost a month ago when she and her father had spent a holiday in Bombay.

"Daughter of a strange destiny," the fakir had muttered, peering at the lines he'd drawn. "A great sorrow and a great love will enter your soul before another moon. And the love will be more cruel than the sorrow."

Then the sorrow had come within the week in a blunt message from Dad, who had accepted a company launch and of her father's instant death.

But the great love—

Abruptly she turned back that thought. School-girl dreaming over a fortune teller's promises. How Dale would laugh if he could read her thoughts!

Then the sorrow had come within the week in a blunt message from Dad, who had accepted a company launch and of her father's instant death.

But the great love—

Abruptly she turned back that thought. School-girl dreaming over a fortune teller's promises. How Dale would laugh if he could read her thoughts!

"Time out for lunch," he said, glancing at her. "And I hope you don't mind if I combine a little business with pleasure. After all, I'm just a poor, life-saving man, you know."

Devona glanced at the expensive well-tailored suit, at the handsome leather case he pulled off the back shelf. "Not too hard-working," she said, took his hand as he helped her out of the car.

Dale shook his head. I'll be on relief pretty soon if this chap in the white-tiled kitchen hands me some information that I'm after," he said as they walked through the ultra-smart white and red-tiled building where even in the Depression the hand-some sign blazed EL MEXICANO in red letters. "It looks a swank place, but the atmosphere is supposed to be interesting and the chili is really good."

The chili and frijoles were excellent and the "atmosphere" even even better, Devona thought a little later, sipping excellent wine from a dark blue Mexican glass. When the handsome manager who brought them thick, strong Mexican coffee himself, seemed chosen to match the "decor."

She Met Mexico Ike

"Miss Rasbourne, may I present Senor Macias," Dale introduced him.

Senor Macias, looking as if he might have stepped out of a movie set or a romantic novel, bowed elegantly.

"A great pleasure, Senorita Rasbourne." His smile was a white ivory flash in his swarthy face, and his eyes—

Devona didn't quite know what to think about his eyes. She felt herself flushing uncomfortably under their bold search.

"I hope you'll be my Senorita in the evening, my friend," he went on. "Then we have the music and dancing and singing. This is siesta time." He shrugged eloquently.

"Some time—maybe," Dale murmured, "is too enthusiastically. "And now, if you'll excuse me a moment, Devona, I'll wind up my business and we'll be on our way."

"Certainly." Devona smiling, watched the two men across the huge, nearly deserted dining room, enter a door marked "Private—Manager."

Strange that Dale should have "business" with some one like Senor Macias, she mused, idly watching him in Mexican costume who lounged against the iron railing of the imitation patio.

The only time she'd been near the Jungfrau, her father had forsaken her skiing. It was too dangerous.

Dad had always been like that. So afraid she'd be exposed to danger, he'd kept her wrapped in cellophane. Dad, darling dad. They'd always done everything together. Not an ice palace in Europe. Not a cathedral, not a waterfall, but they'd thrilled to it together. Mother, instead, friend—dad had been all of these. That had made being fun unimportant. And finding her mother now an important, busy person was a horrible place when it held no one you knew.

"You're certainly been around a lot, haven't you?" Dale asked suddenly.

"Some." Devona smiled to herself. Some of it was around admitting you've been raised like a Victorian. At least not to a fascinating some one like Dale Brasher.

At Palm Springs

They'd entered the desert slipped by silently. They'd long since exchanged green orchards for red-brown rolling hills, mesquite-studded, and the pungent odor of sage.

Suddenly Dale murmured, almost angrily: "It's probably a damned good thing you have." And then, as he caught her slightly startled look, "There's Palm Springs ahead now."

"Dangerous?" And—bone! Heart bumping, Devona saw the fine constellation of lights flickering against the blue velvet backdrop of the sky. Palm Springs. And in one light-a rush toward them as the blue roadster leaped over the white highway. Why was it a "damned good thing" she'd have a private secretary? And why should this tall, charming stranger be sorry for—for something? Twice within the last hour he'd hinted at danger ahead.

WALLFLOWER, 13 POPULAR AT 23 LOSING POUNDS

Typical of Women Wanting to Reduce Is Former Wife, 33½, and Mother of Two Children

By Kay Mills

New York, April 26 — (CP) — Happiest celebrant in New York among the many delegations to the big city is Mrs. Ollin B. Dole, who won a trip from her home in Little Rock, Arkansas, by losing 21 pounds of over-all weight and six inches of hipline. She and three other winners were guests of the beauty establishment which directed their reducing efforts by mail.

It is nice to be thin, Mrs. Baker testifies, but it wasn't easy to get that way. She and her husband live in a boarding house, and, although he cheered her efforts to beat off pounds by doing the "hip-spanking" exercise, the other boarders complained.

"They said I made the walls shake."

Mrs. Baker guesses she was born fat. She remembers being pointed out as the "fat girl" when she was six years old.

"I started being a wallflower when I was 13, and I kept on being one right through college. I didn't make a sorority and that broke my heart and life was awful.

"To comfort myself I ate candy and chocolate sodas and coke, besides three meals a day.

"Then I married a handsome man. I never understood how that happened. I never felt at ease with him."

He Liked Her Better

Then came the great reducing program, and true to formula, as soon as she was thin and beautiful Mrs. Baker became more popular with her husband and friends and got herself a new job besides.

"I'd been teaching school, but I hated it. Now I'm doing secretarial work, and like it."

This was Mrs. Baker's first trip to New York. She has, dropped to five stores. A new wardrobe was part of her prize. She has visited the theatre, been feted on Broadway plays, and believes now she'll be a playmate.

"If I can reduce, I can do anything," she advised four out of five women will agree.

Another winner of the course was Mrs. Olin B. Dole, a Nebraska farmer's wife, that area's smallest, the little "Mrs. John Doe," as being most typical of the American woman and husband, Mrs. Dole is 23½ years old and the mother of two young children. She was thin when she married and gained so gradually that she didn't think about it until she reached a weight of 194 pounds.

Ann Delafield, director of the course, found that of the 30,000 women now enrolled, 87 per cent want to lose at least 30 pounds and only five per cent want to gain. Fifty-seven per cent are married, sixty-three per cent married, and 38 per cent single. Forty-five per cent are housewives, 45 per cent are business women, six per cent are doctors, nurses, lawyers and dietitians, two per cent students, and two per cent factory workers.

Famous Pianist Inspiration To Ruth Draper

A native of New York with a quarter of a century of stage triumphs in her record, Ruth Draper, is the granddaughter of a lady whose yen for the theatre was frowned upon by the family and who visited Brook Farm in Concord, Mass., where along with Henry Thereau, Ralph Emerson, and Margaret Fuller she met Charles A. Dana later publisher and editor of the New York Sun, and married him.

Miss Draper attributes her devotion to the stage to her likeness to her grandmother, and to the encouragement she received from Ignas Paderewski during a visit paid to her home in 1913. As a child she "realized" as parlor entertainer and spent ten amateur years developing the gift for monologue character sketches. When she was fifteen, she saw Beatrice Herford whose comic sketches she studied done in Miss Herford's own natural voice and straight English, decided Miss Draper to strike boldly out on her own.

Sprung 20th, 1920 at 3.15 in the afternoon the curtain rose on the stage at Aeolian Hall in London and Ruth Draper was launched for good on her career variously called "Monologist" "Reciter", "Diseuse", "Impersonator", "Elocutionist" and other inaccuracies.

"I am not any of those." says Miss Draper. "I am Ruth Draper."

She trooped throughout England and Scotland and Ireland, "Specials" and headlining on variety bill programs. She appeared on one bill, preceded by a tame sea lion act, and remembers, this vividly because her cue to go on came when she heard the seal padding by her dressing-room door. She caught on quickly and England took her to its heart, with official tribute from "Punch".

"Babe Ruth," the Pitcher, leaves no old.

Though featured in my picture-

Another Ruth takes stronger hold.

RUTH DRAPER.

None who saw her can forget her "Opening a Bazaar," "Three Women at the Wells," "Italian Lessons", "On the Porch in a Spanish Village", "A Church in Italy", A Children's Party in Philadelphia", "Dr. Dundy Kerry", "Three Generations in a Hour of Domestic Relations."

She is the grandchild of the generation of Alexander Woolcott, and will be a revelation to those whose friendship with the theatre is of more recent years. Miss Draper's last appearances in Canada, where she also was presented under the auspices of the Canadian Red Cross Society, date back about sixteen months. Her return to the Dominion is in the nature of a gala holiday home-coming of a prodigal daughter.

The Box Office of the Capitol is now open and seats may be available at all prices. Don't miss this opportunity of a lifetime to see this distinguished stage star, an event that Belleville citizens will never forget.

City hall cognoscenti not only were startled, but absolutely flabbergasted when Miss Dorring told them it was resurrected from an old hat box—dated 1898.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Mother Wants Her to Marry Man She Doesn't Love

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 18 years old and keep company with a young man of 22. He has no bad habits, a fair job and has enough saved to build a home and buy furniture, and a car. He takes me to the best places but I do not love him. My mother insists I keep on going with him, and says I should tell him I love him. She thinks he will help my father start a new business.

I love another boy who is still in high school, lives in the same town, and I see him often. He is ambitious and wants to become a doctor.

My mother thinks money is more important in marriage than education, and this 23-year-old boy does not have much education. He has proposed to me and can give me everything. But I don't think it's fair to him, as I don't love him. My mother says she'll take your advice. Please answer, I need your help so much.

Kaie

You're absolutely right, whether your mother agrees with me or not, that it would be unfair to him to take to marry a man you don't love, especially as you're only sixteen years of age.

When your mother says she thinks this young man will set your father up in business, that is hardly fair to you, as I hope you'll be able to hold out against family pressure to force you into marriage for advantages to your family.

I hope before you marry anybody, you will at least be out of school.

Wants Athlete-Fiance to Break Training Rules

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My fiancee and I have decided to set your advice about a few things. I'm a boxer and have to follow strict regulations. Since I'm finished with amateur boxing I think I should keep these regulations, preparing for the time when I might go places in the boxing field. When I tell my fiancee what I want to go home early, she gets angry, and doesn't understand that I must get plenty of rest to keep fit.

I see her four nights a week, but I'm getting tired of the way she doesn't give us much time together. But why should she become angry when she knows it's for the good of both of us?

We are both 24 years old and have been engaged over a year. What do you advise to help us stop our quarrelling?

Champion

While it's highly flattering that your girl wants to keep you longer when you spend an evening with her, at the same time she's unreasonable in expecting you to break training rules. If you can't make her understand this, better take your hat and go home in time to get a good night's rest.

No doubt she'd feel badly if you didn't qualify as a boxer.

Younger Sister Causes Family Worry

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been married almost six years. When my sister was fourteen years old she came to live with us. We got along fine until she was old enough to go to work. There she met a boy and has gone crazy over him. Every week-end he goes home to another town, and I've been told he has another girl up there.

Whenever I try to give my sister advice she tells me to mind my own business. As soon as I've been transferred (I'm only 22 and she is 19). They see each other every morning, every night he stays until he's ready to leave, and comes early in the morning. They were to have been married last year, but after she had bought her trousseau, he backed out.

Please, I need some of someone's advice. Our mother has been dead for thirteen years and I don't know what to do. I have thought of asking her to go somewhere else to live, I hesitate because she's my sister.

Worried

I know of no situation more painful than the one you have described—a young girl falling in love when she only knows what tragic fate. A day or two ago I read in a paper where parents actually had their daughter committed for vagrancy because she insisted on frequenting questionable dance-halls. While one felt that was the wrong course to pursue, one could not help sympathizing with the distressed parents.

The young man in declining to go on with the marriage ceremony, after your sister had bought the trousseau, shows plainly he's not serious. In her present frame of mind, I would not tell the girl to leave your home. Better let her find that in spite of everything, you love her and have her interests at heart. The future is plainly up to the girl herself.

Tests Diets in Acne

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Acne, or, in plain words, pimples, is the bane of the young. It is a constant subject for speculation both by the patients and by dermatologists.

Many causes have been ascribed to it and many methods of treatment have been used from time to time. Perhaps the most logical treatment is ever going to be entirely gotten at by any method. However, the idea that food may have something to do with it. The old style dermatologists prohibit their "pasty meals" including candy and this is probably based on good experience.

A Canadian physician, Dr. Frank N. Cormia, of Montreal, Canada, has found that in about 30 per cent of his patients they are sensitive to some kind of food. In most not necessarily be candy, sugars, or fats, according to the old ideas. It simply means that the patients are sensitive to certain kind, of food. Some foods are white, drawn from the diet, improvement may be had. Good results in about 70 per cent of his patients.

The foods most commonly found to cause exacerbations of the skin condition, in the order of frequency, are chocolate, tomatoes, eggs, spinach and wheat.

Dr. Cormia's patients Doctor Cormia gives them elimination diets. The most strict diet the patient is told to stay on a certain kind of a diet for several days and if the skin clears up, it may be assumed that the foods in the diet are the ones to which he is sensitive. The diets are as follows:

Diet 1

Milk, 2 or 3 quarts daily for two days. Skim milk, buttermilk, cream and seltzer water.

Diet 2

Basic diet, to be continued for four days: lamb; rice, carrots, cabbage, pears, apricots, prunes.

Miscellaneous: olive oil, unsweetened fruit juices, maple sugar, sugar, butter and salt. Salt must be iodized. Cereals must not be thickened with rice flour or barley bread. Milk, if patient is not sensitive.

Diet 3

This is a changing diet, to be substituted for Diet 2. It consists of four meals a day, one of which is to be taken for three-day periods. However, foods listed in Diet 2 may be added if the skin is clear. Foods are:

1. Meat, fish, eggs: turnips, corn; apricots, prunes; tea.

2. Meat, fish, eggs; lettuce, cauliflower; grapefruit, apples, pickles; coffee.

3. Whitefish (fresh-water fish, if possible); potatoes, onions, celery; bananas, peaches; cocoa.

4. Pork and bacon (lamb may be substituted); string or wax bean; apples, grapes, oranges.

To the basic diet, with additions if necessary from Diet 3, Add successively, one at a time, for three day periods the following foods:

Cereals (not containing white bread).

Spinach; nuts; tomatoes; chocolate.

Q. C.:—Is there any harm in drinking a glass of tomato juice with my meal instead of breakfast? If there is no harm, what good does it do? Is the juice of a lemon in a glass of water as beneficial as a half teaspoonful of soda, night and morning?—Mrs. Q. C.

Answer—Tomato juice is an excellent drink, but not essential. It contains Vitamin C and probably has a laxative effect. It also promotes digestion and increases appetite. The combination of lemon juice and soda is not necessarily a laxative.

A. B. S.:—In a recent article you state that a high temperature was an important symptom of tuberculosis. Does a temperature approximately what temperature you mean by the term of a degree, one degree, or more.*

Answer—It is hard to make a definite statement. Usually one should say any temperature over 99 would be considered significant.

CENSORS FOSTER WARTIME ROMANCE

Leeds, England, April 26—(CP)—By permission of the British and German censors, Joan Pearson, 18-year-old cotton heiress, has become engaged to a British officer of the war in Germany. Every love letter exchanged between the two bears the censor's stamp and the couple refrained from cutting bits out of the lovers' letters.

Miss Pearson's fiancee is her childhood friend, Count William Lawton, 20, who went out to France soon after the outbreak of war and was captured after Prussian registration.

Their letters started off in merely a friendly way but eventually they found a letter of proposal and they became engaged. Now she is eagerly awaiting his return.

Sheppard, former proofreader. Mrs. Sheppard, after arrival of her child, found she had no job to return to and claimed compensation four weeks after the birth.

How to Switch Baby From the Bottle to Self-Feeding with Ease

When the time comes to take baby off an exclusively liquid diet and begin to feed him solid food, more than one mother has the problem on her hands that is described in a letter from a reader:

"My child is over two years old, and still he refuses to use a spoon or drink from a cup. He insists on a bottle. I have tried everything, even to not giving him the bottle and letting him go hungry but it doesn't seem to do any good".

That doesn't provide other details but I'll wager the trouble is the result of too abrupt a change. The transition requires planning and patience. It isn't at all easy for the child accustomed to getting his nourishment simply by using his lips to coordinate his movements and skillfully manoeuver a spoon, fork or cup to his mouth. He can no more change over abruptly than an adult accustomed to knife and fork can suddenly start eating adeptly with chopsticks. Trying to force this progress in this doesn't help matters.

It must be remembered that at the same time the child is being switched to these implements, he is also usually being introduced to new foods or preparations of foods. That is, his whole eating habits is being changed. Consider how much it is for you to change your own habits radically.

Less or no difficulty will be experienced in affecting the transition if a short time before he is to begin to use spoon and cup at his meals, the eating utinsels are placed before him on his highchair or table as he has his bottle. Inevitably,he will begin to handle them and to put them in his mouth as he does nearly everything else within his reach. If the Germa adults eating with them, he will imitate their movements. Thus in a short time without forcing he will be handling cup and spoon just as they do. Then you can begin to give him small portions of solid food to eat with them after he has had his bottle. Soon he will be ready to eat all his food from a plate.

Not long ago a groun of pediatricians made some interesting observations of a large number of children in this transition stage. They found that babies who were introduced to cup and spoon in the manner described above, made much faster progress in learning to feed themselves, than others. Also the children given this "conditioning" never insisted on a bottle after a year and a half. Children who had been subjected to forceful methods were sometimes three and a half years old before they could be weaned completely from a bottle.

A baby is a lot like a grownup in so many more ways than many parents realize. You can accomplish a great deal more with one with a little understanding than you can with threats and force.

"I Was Young Then"

By GENEVIEVE FOURNIA

I have been reading a very interesting book "The Great Tradition" by Frances Parkinson Keyes, describing life in Germany and Austria-Hungary during the last twenty years. It has reminded me of descriptions of the political scene which I have given me. He was in Germany when Herr Von Papen became Vice President of the Great War. With his wife and child he was billeted in a private German home. There were two beds in the room with springs and mattresses, but no sheets. Everyone was expected to make shift as best they could with their army blankets. The weather was bitterly cold. There was a stove in the room, but no fuel for it. The boys ate at their canteen. When they got out to the household, they observed that these Germans had no meat, no soap and no cigarettes, and had had none for many months. These boys got home from home frequently and they began sharing the soap, cigarettes and canned meat they contained with their host. The Germans soon thawed out and were kindness itself to the Canadian boys. They had scrubbed floors and clean sheets for the beds and plenty of wood for the stove.

In the same way in Hillier township at the time and the Women's Institute met, a large tin of canned chicken to send to my husband who was in hospital in Germany. He immediately showed it to the Commandant, and they offered to prepare a splendid feast for him and his friends, cooked with each other. The only exception was the eldest daughter of the family. Her fiancee had been killed in the war and to the end remained stony-eyed and aloof with the boys.

To encourage aviation in Kyrgz the government has resumed the payment of bonuses to citizens who obtain pilots' licenses.

Wedding Invitations

Dear Miss Beeckman:

I have just received my first invitation to a wedding. The wedding is to take place in the morning and I am expected to go to the church ceremony.

My only problem is what is wear. If I attend, I must take the morning dress with me, because I am wondering if a sports outfit would be correct—a brown sports skirt, brown shoes and yellow blouse—or should I wear a dressy outfit, with a hat—colored coat?

2.—Am I expected to send a gift to the couple?

3.—Is it necessary for me to answer the invitation?

Ty. A.—Should you attend the ceremony, is it correct to send a telegram or card on the morning of the wedding, or should the telegram or card be sent to the couple after the services, when they wedding is over?

5.—What should be said to the couple after teh services, when they stand in the rear of the church to greet those who were not invited to the wedding breakfast?

Bewildered

1.—A sports outfit would be quite appropriate for you to wear to this morning church wedding.as Wear a street-length dress, however, if you may be as simple as you wish, but choose your hats and other accessories carefully, to match or contrast with the color of your dress.

2.—If you are a close friend of the bride or of the couple you will probably want to send a gift for the new home. One is never really obliged to send a gift—that gracious gesture depends on your own wish.

3.—It is not necessary to answer an invitation to the church only, unless the invitation is a written note.

4.—If you cannot attend the ceremony, it is correct for you to send a telegram to arrive after the ceremony has taken place.

5.—When the couple greet their friends at the rear of the church, offer "best wishes" to the bride, and "congratulations" to the groom.

Head of Committee

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am head of the committee of the organization that is giving a dinner in honor of a man who is very well-known in public life. There is a difference of opinion as to who should sit on his right and left. Should the guest of honor sit at the I am told that, as chairwoman, I should sit with the guest of honor, and that I should introduce the toastmaster. Please let me know if I am right.

Elizabeth

Whoever your Association chooses as a master of ceremonies should automatically sits at the center of the dais table. At the right of the master of ceremonies is the next highest ranking guest, and at the other places at this raised table are the other speakers or guests to be honored.

You as chairwoman of the committee that has arranged the dinner, might sit at the left of the master of ceremonies, and you might. If it is the general wish, introduce the toastmaster.

THIS BALING-OUT NEEDS SYSTEM TO "HAPPY LANDING"

It's a Complex Process and Every Man Must Know His Time and Place in the Circus

London, April 26 — (CP) — "The crew baled out." It's a simple sentence but for every airman it holds a wealth of meaning.

"Bailing out" is a process as complicated as it is dramatic. When the captain of a Royal Air Force aircraft decides there is nothing else to be done he warns his crew with the words, "prepare to abandon aircraft." He then signals to the tail-gunner by making a magnesium loaded bulb flash in the rear turret.

This is acknowledged both vocally and by a special signal lamp. The crew then waits for the final order, "abandon aircraft.....ready .....bale out."

The tail-gunner leaves first, followed by the wireless operator, the observer, the second pilot and, lastly, the captain. They all climb through the escape hatch or the side door.

When the rear-gunner goes "over the side" he first reaches behind him for his parachute, clutches it on to two hooks on his chest. Then he lifts the escape hatch, at the same time taking off his helmet and so getting the benefit of the fizz of the inter-communication system.

Go Feet First

If he takes a header or has his legs curled he will probably get somersaulting down and get tangled up in the cords of the parachute. So he is careful to go feet first, with his legs straight. He has no sensation of falling and after counting three he pulls the rip-cord.

Immediately a miniature parachute flies out, and if the gunner does not hold his head well back he may get a blow on the jaw, when the small parachute is caught by the wind and drags out the main chute.

A jerk on his shoulders tells him that the parachute is open. There is still hardly any sensation of movement; he feels suspended in the air, but the noise of the engines has gone and there is complete peace and silence.

By reaching up and manipulating the cords he can "spill" the air from the parachute and guide his descent. When he reaches the ground he feels about as much shock as would be felt after jumping from a 10-foot wall. There is always the chance of getting a bad sprain, or he may hurt a rib if the parachute drags him along the ground.

To come down successfully in the sea needs skill and presence of mind. The feet hit the water first and the body goes straight down. The jumper must act swiftly to get his harness off and dive underneath the canopy of the parachute. Then there will be either a swim to land or a long wait until he is picked up.

STARS CONTRIBUTE TO I.O.D.E. AUCTION

Hollywood, April 26 — (CP) — One sarong in green banana print; three daintily embroidered handkerchiefs and a leather-bound travel log travelled by air to Vegreville, Alberta, where they will be auctioned off by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire at their annual spring fair May 15, for Canadian war charities.

The auction items are the personal property of Ella Neal, Dorothy Lamour and Virginia Dale, respectively, and were cheerfully surrendered to Bob Fraser, Paramount studio property man on the set of "Aloma of the South Seas" when he chanced to remark that they might bring goodly sums at the Alberta fair.

Each item is accompanied by a personally autographed photo from the donor, expressing good wishes to the Vegreville chapter of the I. O. D. E. which has done fine relief work since outbreak of hostilities. Since Miss Dietrich recently sold one kiss for $1,000 for the American Red Cross, it is not unlikely that Miss Neal's sarong, Miss Lamour's handkerchiefs and Miss Dale's book will add welcome sums to the Canadian war charities fund.

MOIRA W. A.

Moira — The April meeting of Moira W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Albert Clare. The meeting opened with hymn 163. Prayer by Mr. Stewart. Roll call was answered by a verse of Scripture pertaining to the Crucifixion or Resurrection. Hymn 185 was sung followed by the Scripture lesson read by Mrs. Albert Clare. A vocal number was given by Williams sisters. Mr. Stewart gave a religious talk. A reading "Thoughts by the Way" by Mrs. Don Hobert. Hymn 295 was then sung.

Plans were made for putting a new fence around the church yard. It was left to the committee of Stewards to buy wire, etc. Mr. Stewart suggested appointing a flower committee to look after flowers for church each Sunday, also plants of flowers and baskets be bought. Pieces for Dresden plate quilt were put together. The meeting closed by repeating the Mizpah benediction. Collection from pot luck dinner and fees was $5.80.

RELATIVE HEALTH MAY SETTLE SEX

London Doctor Talks of State of Parents as Determining Factor

London April 26 — (CP) — Sex of a child is the sex of the weaker of the two parents at the time of conception, Dr. Edward W. McCormick said in an article in "Medical World" today. He emphasizes the parental health theory on the predetermination of sex.

"It is nature's ingenious method of keeping the species equal to its, and by waiting until the one whose sex it is required to duplicate is in a state of health below that of the other the sex of the child may be predetermined," Dr. McCormick wrote.

"Success of the method was dependent on duration of ill health at the time of conception and might prove of use where a male heir was essential.

Dr. McCormick quoted a case to show that nature is wiser than man. A famous athlete became the father of a boy although, according to the predetermination theory, it should have been a girl as the mother was ill. Six months later the husband developed acute appendicitis.

JOHN BULL CALLS EFFICIENT GIRLS

Ability Rather Than Good Looks Stressed by London Wartime Employers

London, April 26 — (CP) — "Experience and ability rather than good looks are in demand in offices and business establishments nowadays, said the head of a large London secretarial agency.

About six months ago employers insisted on attractive girls, preferably blonds, as secretaries, with the result they could type with only one finger. Now they want girls who are efficient.

Although glamor girls never made good secretaries they were always in demand, the agency said. Blonds were favorites, but brunettes came into their own when the fad arose of a lovely girl — whether fair or dark — always being able to find a job.

Now the positions are, reversed and the efficient girl is in demand. Some employers specifically ask for girls who discard make-up.

AIR NEWS SERVICE FAMILIAR CAPTION IN BRITISH PRESS

Born With the War Clouds of 1938, it Has Become Vital Agency in Providing Records of R.A.F.

BY LOUIS V. HUNTER

Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, April 26 — (CP) — "By The Air Ministry News Service." This credit line at the start of a story is as familiar to newspaper readers of the United Kingdom as "By The Canadian Press" is to readers of Canada's daily papers.

Just as The Canadian Press, Canada's co-operative news gathering organization, and its allied agencies "cover" the world for the Dominion, the Air Ministry News Service "covers" the widespread activities of the Royal Air Force.

It operates like any of the best news agencies and differs in that it concentrates exclusively on the R. A. F. and, as a Government agency—probably the most unique of its kind in the world—its output is available for the asking to news associations and publishers of daily and weekly newspapers in the United Kingdom.

Many of the stories published in Canadian papers relating the activities of the R. A. F. originated with the Air Ministry News Service. Other stories, particularly in connection with the R. A. F.'s Canadian squadron, were obtained by CP staff writers during periodic visits to the station.

"Unique Source of News"

As a news service, the Ministry organization is a baby. But in its development has been phenomenal. Offspring of the comparatively long established Air Ministry Press Section, it is a unique source of news. No such organization had ever been attempted in Britain.

The service dates from the crisis of September, 1938, when war clouds were gathering and Air Ministry authorities realized that if the new R. A. F. then being built, ever went into action, a detailed news service would be demanded and it was obvious that official reports which would come to the Ministry in the normal way could not enable a news service of that nature to be provided. It was decided to set up, in effect, a service press agency to relate the activities of the R. A. F.

The manner and methods by which complete stories became available in secrecy in wartime, a task was twofold: How best to provide news from the operational and other commands stationed at home and how to do likewise in respect to overseas commands which might be actively engaged in a major war.

Promoting British

Besides being a fertile source of news, the Air Ministry News Service is a vital link in the British promotion chain. As well as its news stories, the service provides material for recruiting campaigns, prepares radio scripts and now is working on a motion picture which will take the movie fan on a bombing trip against enemy objectives. A weekly news letter primarily for use by weekly newspapers is published.

The man responsible for organization of the service is C. P. Robertson. Air Ministry Press and Publicity Officer. His scheme developed fast after the crisis of 1938 and early in 1940 the Ministry created a Directorate of Public Relations, which incorporated the news service.

Air Commodore H. Peake, a former director of the Auxiliary Air Force, was appointed Director of Public Relations and for the first time the personnel of the news service came under the immediate control of a serving officer.

Dynamic Dimag Tapering Off In His Hitting But N. Y. Yanks Continue To Win Games In Loop

Tiny Bonham Throws Three-Hitter to Subdue Senators 6-0

N.Y. GIANTS WIN

By SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Writer.

It's just like trying to make one and one add up to three, but the fact remains that New York Yankees are bouncing along up there in the American League driver's seat despite the fact Joe DiMaggio has tapered off his fence-busting. Yesterday's 6-0 whitewashing of Washington Senators, fashioned with nifty three-hit pitching of tiny Ernie Bonham, left the Yanks with a three-game winning string and one full game in the lead.

Yet, in those three games, dynamic DiMag, the pitchers' poison, collected one hit in his 11 batting chances.

If you're trying to figure it out, you can blame a lot of this sudden reversal of happy days to the Bronx on (1) the pitching staff and (2) Wee Will Dickey, long regarded as the chief cog in the Yankee machine, who has started to carry the mail again.

For the last couple of years, the Yanks, clouting ensemble was largely Red Rolfing. But Rufus the Red opened on a sour note this season, while Lefty Gomez has blossomed out once more like a bed of Rhododendrons. And I scoop of comparative newcomers — Bonham, who's called Tiny because he weighs a mere 205, and Marius Russo, are stepping right along with him.

Dickey Hitting Again

Dickey meantime, has hit for .320 in the last four games and has driven in four runs.

Two deadlocked rivals are in second place—Boston, Red Sox and Cleveland Indians. Young Heber (Dick) Newsome made his first start for the Sox and chalked up a five-hitter to whip the Athletics 5-1, with the help of Jimmy Foxx's first homer this season. The Indians went all out with a three-run rally in the ninth to knock off Chicago White Sox 3-1.

Rudy York's two-run single in the ninth inning gave the defending champion Detroit Tigers a 12-11 decision over St. Louis Browns in a circus performance that saw eight errors committed.

For doing his hard way however, the day's bouquet went to William Thomas, National League leading New York Giants who had to score the run in the ninth to flail the Phillies 7-4.

Kirby Higbe finally won his first start as a dodger by pitching a four-hitter to give Brooklyn a 5-0 decision over Boston Reds.

Chicago Cubs pulled one out of the hat with a three-run outburst in the ninth inning to nip Pittsburgh Pirates 4 to 3. St. Louis Cardinals cuffed Cincinnati Reds 8-4.

Lou Salica Retains Bantamweight Crown

Baltimore, April 26.—(AP)—Lou Salica still sported the bantamweight boxing crown today—but at 126 pounds, hardly an ample.

The Brooklyn battler was almost dethroned by Lew Transparenti in a 15-round title bout here last night and had to summon all his skill and power to gain a unanimous but hard-earned decision.

The Baltimore boy, a fast-and-tiff scrap and had a slight edge over Salica for eight rounds. Then the champion rallied, added into Transparenti with rights and lefts and had him on the verge of a knockout at the end.

The 22-year-old Transparenti defended his title in a non-title, over-weight match at 126 pounds.

Salica weighed 117 1-4, Transparenti 117 3-4.

BOB CARRAGHER LIKE H. MORENZ SAYS NORTHCOTT

Can Increase Speed as Soon as He Receives Puck Says Coach

GOOD PAIR OF LEGS

By ROBERT CLARKE

Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Toronto, April 26 (CP)—A lot of praise has been heaped on the head of Bobby Carragher of Montreal's Junior Royals' but the highest tribute of all came today when Lawrence (Baldy) Northcott, coach of the team, declared that the little fellow reminds him "in some ways" of the great Howie Morenz.

Baldy speaks from experience and best from hearsay, for he was a star in his own right with Montreal Maroons during part of the span that the late Morenz rocketed to fame with Montreal's old National Hockey League Club, the Canadiens. Now he has each carragher perform in two games of the Memorial Cup final against his Toronto

In the first contest, which the Rangers won 4-2, Carragher scored both his team's goals. Royals won the second game 5-3 with Carragher getting a goal and an assist. It has just been a continuation of the great work displayed by Carragher in the eastern final, against Oshawa Generals, when he scored goals and had six assists to lead all pointmasters.

Can Skate Fast

"Like Morenz the fellow Carragher has the knack of skating fast when he hasn't got the puck and then being able to jump up his pace even faster as soon as the puck touches his stick," said Northcott. "It's a hard thing to do but Carragher can do it. Once the puck hits his stick he doesn't even need a couple of strides to get going full speed. He just seems to leap ahead.

Although Carragher is on the small side—he's short and weighs around 150 pounds — Northcott thinks that he would have a good chance of making the grade in major pro hockey.

He'll probably add another 10 pounds and it certainly won't take anything off his speed. All you have to do is take a look at those thick legs of his to know that he has the power to drive fast as fast even if he weighed a few pounds more. He has legs just like Morenz."

The third game of the best of five series will be played here tonight.

Gallahadion Favored For Clarke Handicap

Louisville, Ky., April 26—(AP)—Milky Way Farms' Gallahadion which raced to glory last year by defeating Col. E. R. Bradley's favorite, Bimelech, in the Kentucky derby, was the bettors' choice today to win the fifth running of the Clark Handicap, feature race on the opening day at Churchill Downs.

Coupled with the 1940 derby winner was Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Up the Creek, winner of the Clark last year. Gallahadion will carry top weight of 122 pounds while his stablemate has been assigned 112 for the mile and one - sixteenth $7,500 added handicap.

The 19-day meet at the Downs is topped by the derby to be run next Saturday.

Toronto Leafs Nosed Out in Ninth by 8 to 7 Count

RUN FORCED HOME

By The Associated Press

With the exception of Buffalo, the International League clubs which opened the season on the road have been waging a losing battle against the home forces.

Montreal, Toronto, Rochester and Buffalo return to their parks May 1 for a long stand, and a chance to recoup their losses before the real merry-go-round begins.

Buffalo, with five victories and four defeats, is the only member of the quartet playing better than .500 ball.

Yesterday was an especially bad day for the invaders who went down to defeat on all fronts.

Newark Bears continued in the lead by nosing out Toronto Maple Leafs 8 to 7 in a thriller. Rochester with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning drove home Don Lang with the winning run. Art Jones, who had allowed only one hit in 3 and 2-3 innings, issued the pass.

Syracuse Chiefs, backed up Les Hinckle's seven-hit pitching with an 11-hit assault on three Montreal hurlers.

Hal Feldman, 21-year-old right-hander, turned in a five-hitter for the Little Giants, beating Buffalo for his second victory of the year.

HOCKEY INTEREST STIRS REGINA

Expect Sellout of 7,000 for Game With Sydney Against Regina Rangers

Regina, April 26 (CP)— Hockey interest in Regina today is to such an extent that was reminiscent of the days of the famous Patrick line of junior fame as Canada's two top senior clubs, the Leafs and Rangers of Regina and Sydney Millionaires, prepared for a resumption of their Allan Cup struggle tonight.

The 1-1 tie eked out by Rangers after Leafs had declare defeats in the first two games has injected renewed interest in the best-of-five series and a standing room crowd of 7,000 was expected for the fourth game. Arrangements were prepared to close early to permit their employes to see the game. Reserved sections have been requested from fans living in Moosejaw and other country roads in good shape, large numbers are expected to flock into town for the contest.

Rangers with four junior age players and three freshmen to senior ranks, are banking heavily on the defensive scrutiny of Leafs playing on home ice to prolong the series, after having lost their home ice before yielding to Lethbridge in the Western Canada Series.

On the other hand, Millionaires, who won first game of the series in Regina, are confident of duplicating their effort and taking the championship that went to Sydney Crescents' ice hockey McCarthy, 199½, Chicago, (4).

Philadelphia, 21, Minneapolis, 13, Minersville, Pa., stopped Freddy Domico, 142, Philadelphia, (1).

Speaking of hockey greats, Frank Nighbor, one of hockey's greatest seven men and master of the poke check, recently told Bill Westwick of the Ottawa Journal, that Bill Cowley, of the Boston Bruins, was the trickiest man he ever met at centre ice. Cowley never made the same play twice and kept his opponents guessing all of the time, stated Nighbor as he added that "Newsy Lalonde was the toughest hockey player and the best all-round gained an edge at any price or play, but the late Howie Morenz, of the Stratford flash, was the greatest all-round player I ever saw." Nighbor and his Ottawa cohorts could stop Morenz was to have the puck taken from him, but Morenz was a care-free gent and looked down the sweetest way to evade the best of them at times. It has often been said that Morenz was at his best when he was the greatest speed and that no man ever saw his equal for sheer rapidity extend himself to the limit of his speed and ability.

In reference to the disposal, Oshawa Junior "Bees", in the O.H.A., George Campbell, Model City sport scribe, had this comment—"They played as strangers in a lonely land the entire season, victims of partiality which is bound to be shown to Memorial Cup teams. Next season the "Bees" will not have to compete with this and maybe they'll have more supporters."

(unquote)

One would almost gather from that statement the mighty Oshawa Generals will not function during the 1941-42 junior puck campaign. (How the mighty have fallen.)

When he refers to the Oshawa Bees he is guilty of a form of partiality—Scribe Campbell should know just that, as he was as big a stranger to the Motor City hockey bees as the rest that, according to those who have cared, rated the Oshawa minor hockey team first these many years.

"And a little child shall lead them."

Through the efforts of Sam Curry, publisher of the Tweed News, and other civic-minded citizens in Tweed, the kids of that village are in for a great treat next Thursday night. The villagers are providing a banquet for the boys of the age of which Aubrey (Dit) Clapper, captain of the world champion Boston Bruins, will be the principal speaker. Now just what boy would miss the opportunity to frame-up with one of hockey's greats, "Dit" Clapper? Once reported when Clapper for many years and he's actually in his glory when mingling with the kids, the Boston Clapper is the idol of the kids and he never ignores or passes up an opportunity to stop and tender an autograph. Such is a great scribe and an example to young Canada.

A. W. "Army" Armstrong, well known Oshawa resident who obtained the rudiments and primary knowledge of hockey in good old Bellefield is back in Ottawa after all the word "senior" attracts attendance at the intermediate game despite the fact there is little difference in the playing field.

Tonight's Memorial Cup game at Toronto should just about decide the issue as to whether or not Montreal Royals will capture the championship of the Dominion. See by the a.m. sheet Harry Rollins was officially announced as vice-president of the O.A.H.A. "Congrats Harry," we'll wet your thumb and over she goes.

Forewarned is forearmed, therefore wings from our readers (?) an excerpt from Kingston Scribe Bill Walshe's column, which reads:

"The theme of the evening emphasized combination and it's a hint dropped by Dr. R. C. Wallace, principal of Queen's, means much to Limestone City when combined teams in the future. W. A. Hewitt also spoke of the combine plan for sports while Capt. James Sutherland, in a telegram expressing regrets that he could not attend, gave advice to prepare for next year."

Combination, which carried Kingston to an Ontario championship, was evident in the appearance of Ken Farrow Rangers' world famous forward line of Frank Boucher and the Kingston Cook brothers.

It seems the American boys, who are training with the R.C.A.F. at both Trenton and St. Thomas, are anxious to play baseball, their national game. However, owing to the prevailing conditions the Yankee Aliens-in-Canada-training affiliated with any league or the O.B.A. for obvious reasons, but still they are anxious to test their diamond ability against that of Canadian ball clubs. S. C. Tyrrell, an American lad training at the Technical Training School at St. Thomas, was in Belleville recently and informed Jack Corby, who formed one of junior fame as Canada's two top senior clubs, the yesterday Rangers of Regina and Sydney Millionaires, prepared for a resumption of their Allan Cup struggle tonight.

The 1-1 tie eked out by Rangers after Leafs had declare defeats in the first two games has injected renewed interest in the best-of-five series and a standing room crowd of 7,000 was expected for the fourth game. Admiral Evan's Story

—Admiral Sir Edward Evans ("Beatty" of Jutland fame) appears as London Regional Commissioner in two mobile cautionary movies by Messrs. Symington and Co., said: "We are winning because we are absolutely together. We are all helping to piece together this immense jig-saw puzzle into a seven-letter word — Victory. The Axis has not and never can be welded together."

An example of the spirit that prevailed throughout London, Admiral Evans told of a rescue worker in a bombed building who tugged at a "tuft of grass" while digging out of a patch of gravel. It was the hair of a little girl of nine, who exclaimed, "Look out, you are pulling my hair!" and who when rescued said, "Us kids had a bit of a fright today."—Manchester Guardian.

AT THE BELLE

"Down Argentine Way"

The torrid tempo of the Samba, the enchanting melodies of Alice Faye, the dazzling dancing of Don Ameche, and the dancing or Carmen Miranda, were all flimed in glorious technicolor as they took place in "That Night in Rio" now on the Belle Theatre screen.

As the American-born wife of a wealthy Brazilian diplomat, Alice Faye has an opportunity to wear many beautiful gowns and extravagowns, which provide a spectacular background for her delightful singing.

Don's role was one of the most difficult he has had to date, but his dual Technicolor part—that of a Brazilian Baron and an American night club performer. The problems presented by the dual role were many, but that of making the beauties and color qualities of each American scene complement those of each Brazilian scene, was the most exacting by when they appear together on the same piece of celluloid.

Said to surpass the elegance of Irish Crosbie's Latin Quarter, the American musical extravaganza, "Down Argentine Way," which introduced Carmen Miranda to movie fans in the American screen. "That Night in Rio" gives her a chance to display her stress an opportunity to the smooth flow of the dance of the fire and énoie she does.

To make sure that nothing offensive to Brazilian sensibilities or unrepresentative of native customs would appear in the picture, Jason the studio submitted the script to the Brazilian Embassy in Washington for approval. As a double check, Carmen Miranda's mother in Hollywood was hired as a technical director.

"The Samba, Brazil's national dance, is introduced to the American continent public through the first time by Miss Miranda and a troupe of trained Samba dancers. According to the leading dance masters, this wild yet graceful dance will become the favorite dance of the United States during the next year.

Furnishing the musical background for the dance are the songs of Mack Gordon and Harry Warren, the latter a team who wrote the hit numbers of "Down Argentine Way." For "That Night in Rio," Warren and Gordon have written "Boom Chic" and "Tyi Yi, Yi, Yi" which Carmen Miranda sings "Chica Met In Rio," sung by Alice and Don. And then there is "Chica Chica" a native number in the tempo of the Samba, sung by Carmen.

In addition to the musical background, there is one of beauty — dividing all of the picture's scenes, specially imported from New York for the production.

Irving Cummings directed "That Night in Rio" which has a cast including S. Z. Sakall, Leonid Kinskey, Curt Bois and Leonid Kinskey.

The Belle latest world news events Pluto's Playmate," Walt Disney's latest color travelstalk completes the program.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Barnyard Follies"

Old MacDonald and his farm full of chick-chicks, quack-quacks and moo-moos have had nothing on Republic studios during the filming of the Armand Schaefer production, "Barnyard Follies."

An idyll went out for every available cow, hen and duck, plus horse and donkey in the vicinity, and no farm ever had more fun and enjoyed swarming with livestock than the Republic troupers and cast unstructionist Ralph Oberg erected on the Republic lot.

The hundreds of children playing in the film's 4-H Club members with Mary Lee as their leader, had the time of their lives climbing haystacks. Many even brought their hand at milking cows which had to be done several times because the first two week contract with the studio.

A tender heel, however, is no back up as good as any car, caught the eye of Ann Gaffey, Republic's Hollywood and Mary Jane Demrik of the National Barn Dance radio show", and it was love at first sight. The smart little hen mimicked every motion of the girls' hands and the trio of moving heads was the most chickenlicious scene on the set. Lady Hilda and the girls also had a fine time cackling back and forth at each other, and so similar did they sound, that no one could tell the difference.

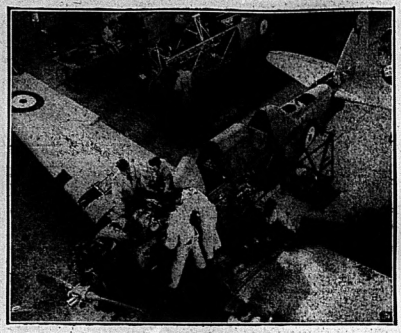
Hilda, who is a streaked white Brama belongs to L. F. Conquet, San Fernando Valley ranch owner, She has been in pictures for three years and has done a number, including "Little Miss Marker," "Paris Honeymoon" and "Farmer Takes a Wife." Ann and Mary Jane have as other actors given the same response to direction as has Hilda.

You can see Handsome Hilda at the McCarthy theatre at the first of next week. Barnyard Follies stars Mary Lee, Ralph Morgan, Jane Storey, Ralph Bowman, Rufe Davis and the Our Gang kids head the cast.

"The Mummy's Hand"

Your teeth will chatter, your knees will falter, your hair will creep, your heart will leap when you get a glimpse of Universal's gruesome, bandage-festooned chiller-thriller, "The Mummy's Hand" co-starring Dick Foran and Peggy Moran which will also open next at the McCarthy theatre, Belleville. Gruesome will also be given to every lady patron for only five cents extra over the regular evening admission and with the piece of resistance will also be handed out for the following matinee. In place, you must have coupon to obtain this large piece.

GETTING THEM INTO THE SKY



Feverish activity is the predominant note in this assembly room of a Canadian aircraft plant turning out Harvard trainers. A great number of these machines are used for advanced training under the British Commonwealth Training Plan.

TRUCKLOAD OF SMILES

These happy Canucks are shown on manoeuvres in England as they smile from the back of their camouflaged truck. From left to right they are Privates W. C. Pflughaupt, of Edmonton; Y. C. Miller, of Edmonton; Pete Yves, of Winnipeg; Gordon Murphy, of London; R. Collins, of Vancouver; T. H. Wilson, of Sudbury and R. F. Greaves, of Duncan, B.C.

STORY OF ESCAPE FROM DEATH TOLD BY A NEWSMAN

Cut Off From Outside World for 19 Days and Taken for a German Spy

SEIZED BY SERBS

Chicago, April 26 (AP)—A story of cool nerve, death before a firing squad of Serbian vigilantes who considered him a spy, and his escape by Sam Brewer, Balkan war correspondent, in a dispatch published today by the Chicago Tribune.

The Tribune writer arrived yesterday by Budapest, Hungary, and Yugoslavia, where he had been cut off from the outside world for 19 days.

Brewer said he reached the outskirts of Belgrade April 6 as scores of German dive bombers, "wheeling like flocks of birds," headed toward the Yugoslav capital.

Entering the burning city he was seized by eight Serbian vigilantes armed with shotguns and pistols.

"Who are you and about me," Brewer recited. "The others said they would search me first. Under the glare of the flames they dumped my belongings and my typewriter on the pavement . . . They found the typewriter very heavy. A cell of wire used to repair the typewriter, a spare flashlight battery, and a pair of boots."

Suspected Wire an Antennae

Suspecting the wire was an antennae, the Serbian vigilantes suspected the writer was radio transmitter. Brewer's boots and typewriter a radio instrument, and his notes, German code.

"The fireworks were postponed because they could not find me (in the darkness)," Brewer said. "They called to him: 'Parachutist, 5 ft. and over.'

"Refusing to listen to anything I had to say, they told me the Major had me bundled into a second car, and off we went. There I stayed 12 hours."

Brewer said the MAJOR informed the guards that "he would deal with me" at nine o'clock next day. At that hour the newspaper reporters arrived on the scene. Brewer discovered the Major and one of them had mutual friends, but the Major "was not in a position to recognize me."

The writer was arrested and put under guard when he sought to intervene.

"A third colleague who came to rescue found that the editor was also a Colonel in the army reserve and a friend of the Major," Brewer continued. "Arrested and held for judgment, the 'Major turned me loose.'"

Brewer reported that at least half of Belgrade's buildings were destroyed and that the death toll probably reached 7,000.

PRISONERS HAD ENGLISH NOTES

Money Given Them by German Authorities Before Starting on Raid of England

Medicine Hat, Alta., April 26 (CP) —Two 21 English notes were found on the person of Sergeant-Major Karl Heinz Grund, 28, and Sergeant Hans Gerlach, 24, two members of the men who escaped with 26 companions from the prisoners-of-war camp at internment camp a week ago, when they were recaptured here Thursday, it was learned yesterday.

The men said they were given the notes by German authorities prior to setting out on a bombing expedition over England, and were encouraged to retain them.

They said all airmen participating in English raids are given the notes so that they may use them if shot down and taken as captive.

Picked Up Information

Lieberk said the authorities had not obtained considerable information on military and air force activities in Canada in his six-day search from Estevan to Alberta. Lieberk and Grund were, arrested in Medicine Hat railway yards Thursday afternoon after they hitch-hiked and rode freight trains to the city.

Liebeck said he believed he would have some interesting things to tell if he had reached Germany. The two Germans walked from Estevan to reach Vancouver and catch a boat to Japan.

Planning for a police escort in the Medicine Hat jail, the men said they were caught because they became too sure of themselves after getting so far. They said Canadians were "very, very friendly people but inquisitive."

An escort is expected to arrive here Saturday to take the men east. All the 26 men who escaped early last Saturday have been rounded up.

BRITISH REAR

(The Nazi High Command claimed yesterday the pass had been taken in an "embracing" movement.

(British authorities, making no mention of withdrawal, said last night the British Expeditionary Force had been "regrouped" after their withdrawals and that important troops were maintaining an unbroken line (in the pass that assailed.)

Athens Quiet, famous in mythology as the scene of Hercules' deeds, lies on a plain nine miles northwest of Athens and last night's reports from there indicated that the new British-Greek defense line might be thrown across the narrow neck of land leading from Thermopylae to the capital.

Attack Beaten Up.

A Nazi attack on the big island of Euvoia (Rhodes) just off the Greek mainland in the east, was beaten by the ministry said. German assaults on the island were launched yesterday as an indication that the Nazis wanted more air bases from which to pound shipping.

German planes were said to have machine-gunned the city of Mediterranean hammering at everything from fishing boats to amusement.

The Greek government was reported to have held its first meeting in Athens since the war began yesterday, acting on "service matters" and issuing a proclamation calling upon Greeks to help their leader in German yoke.

The strictly-supervised Turkish press commented on the German victory last night the mastery of Germany over the Balkans and discussed the possibility of a Nazi crossing into Turkey.

The government maintained silence with reference to rumors of negotiations with Soviet Russia. The cow. London heard that Berlin had given assurance of Soviet neutrality in return for cession to Turkey of a portion of Greek Thrace and that Berlin had also given Moscow assurance that the Soviet share in control of the straits.

NEAR AGREEMENT

Under the proposed plan originally formulated by Foreign Minister Gaston Gerard Tuesday, the 21 American Republics would uphold the right of each republic to defend its "vital necessity of belligerent countries living idle in its ports and operate them in the service vital to the nation's economy, particularly in the maintenance of United States defenses.

After a "pool" of ships sufficient to meet the needs of the hemisphere shipping requirements has been set aside for operation—largely in the western hemisphere—the rest of the ships would permit surplus tonnage to be sold to countries in Europe or other countries.

The United States has taken 69 idle vessels (30 Danish, 38 Italian and 1 German) into "protective custody" and is expected to turn at least some of them over to Britain to help transport supplies to President to take action.

In Buenos Aires, Argentine American ports, it was said, there are an additional 40 Axis vessels idle and each reported number of French and Danish ships which might be united under the flag.

Nad Freighter at Rio

Rio De Janeiro, April 26 (AP) — The blockade-running German freighter Anneliese Essberger, reported located and apparently ready today for a dash to Europe, was reported to have beat an anticipated Inter-American agreement to requisition German and belligerent ships.

When the 2,200-ton ship, first German merchant vessel to pierce the British South Atlantic blockade, docked at Santos, the 1,000 master, Friedrich Brinkmann, said the Lech probably remain in port "until the end of the war."

Brinkmann said however the Lech began taking on a cargo which included 140 barrels of fuel oil, 1,256 pieces of cottonseed oil, 38-228 salted hides and 2,500 bals of cottonseed.

New Process Of Producing Magnesium Metal

Hamilton, April 26 (CP)—A NEW process of producing magnesium metal, which is declared extremely useful in war material, has been worked out by a Hamilton metallurgist. It is said to say that his method may cut the cost of the metal by 50 per cent, or more.

The inventor of the process is Ralph Kroll, who has carried on work as an engineer in Northern Ontario mining fields. The University of Toronto, one of the members of the syndicate which has been financing the experiments, says the estimates areasy worked out indicate that the manufactured magnesium metal may be reduced to less than 10 cents a pound, and that a plant with a commercial cost runs from 27 to 30 cents a pound.

Tests have advanced so far that a small laboratory unit in which the metal has been produced may now be set aside and plans are ready for construction of a small plant which would be able to turn out 1,000 lbs. a day.

It is used for incendiary bombs, aerial lights, signal lights and airplane metal alloys.

PLYMOUTH RAIDS

Interrupted by a voice shouting "Five in front back," the Fuhrer replied, "with the reinforcements from the Balkans which the army is bringing in every day we shall be in a position to do what my friend suggested."

Many Made Homeless

Many additional homes besides the bombing have been rendered uninhabitable making new homeless. Many who stayed in the city files churches, some of which had been damaged.

Warehouses, cars, buses and trucks streamed from the city carrying people and their belongings. Ambulances filled with injured were driven, and a reporter for The Press Association, British news-gathering agency, wrote:

"Even in a war which has one awful motto, 'help thy neighbor,' those drivers have ignored the signals of the transiting soldiers and refused to give lifts.

One hospital was halted by a woman with three small children. Refusing to leave, she pushed on her bicycle with the remark: "I'll give their kids a lift."

About 2,000 had left earlier in the week following the first heavy air-raids among women and children. Most children had been removed from London early in the war but many returned when air attacks failed to develop.

Oddly enough, this withdrawal was almost unnoticed, such was the gravity of the occasion was obvious

No More Tears Left

One father who gravely walked with his wife and children, carrying his wife and two children goodbye that have resumed up the reason he said:

"Sometimes there just seems to be no more tears left."

A woman whose husband is in the Royal Navy said: "I cried on Saturday crowds to get to the station I did not."

"My man would clout me for cry and I would a bad example for the little ones."

"If it were not for her," said a woman, pointing to her 3-year-old girl, "it'd be sticking. Home, Liverpool, I'd be back there being away."

Many other hand some cheerfully accepted the departure, remembering the efforts made in the early before to make them feel at home.

Nazi Bombing Of Certain Areas Suspected To Have 'Invasion Design'

London, April 26 (CP).—Thought-ful London observers are beginning to suspect a definite invasion design in the bomb pattern strikes the German air force has brought over Britain during the last eight months.

It is argued that the important docks and ports which have been attacked, despite the heavy nature of the attacks, have been overlooked with other objectives which could be reached but which have barely been touched.

Aside from the autumn's air blitz on London, principal ports, the areas most frequently named in raid reports have been:

London, Midland: Coventry, Birmingham, Sheffield;

Southeast: Hull; Scotland: Clydebank, Glasgow; south: Portsmouth, Southampton, Plymouth, Bristol, Southwest: Bristol; northwest: Liverpool and Merseyside; Wales: Swansea, Swansea and several East Midlands districts.

Raid Centres Alone.

All of these are important seaports, but they are not principal ports. Another fact, but the question frequently asked is why the very obvious targets ignored?

There are mostly which, if hit, would really hurt the British war effort. None of them is out of the way for the Nazi bombers and have passed over every time they come inland.

It can be said that interior transport, particularly railroads, have been left practically unharmed. Ports have been attacked but a survey of the bomb-damage in the nation indicates that damage has been negligible.

Nothing has been attempted here to hit the materials in what the Royal Air Force has done to the Western German railway junction Hamm.

This, it is now suggested, is because the Germans have a definite invasion plan than these facilities be preserved to enable conditions.

Except for occasional "nuisance" raids the Germans have been methodically picking one or another of the areas named for their nightly visits.

They arrive in procession and they have developed a routine of attack guided by the defenses.

Those who have made a close analysis of the raids insist that if the Germans posses all the planes that are claimed for them, there is nothing to prevent them from attacking the ports of Britain every hour of the day and night.

To Use Planes, Not Barges

That's why they are suspicious that the Germans do so much "beating up" of certain objectives.

The next few weeks may answer the question.

Turkey To Search Nazi Ships Passing Through Bosphorus

By WITT HANCOCK

Ankara, April 26 (Official) (AP).—Turkey has decided to halt and inspect German ships en route from the Black Sea through the Straits of Bosphorus and Dardanelles to determine if they are carrying troops or war material into the middle eastern war zone, it was reported today.

Reliable informants heard that Turkish German freighters plying presumably from occupied Rumania were being searched for arms through the straits recently without warning or firing from Turkish naval fleet.

One of these, of Turkish waters, it is reported that they remove the German ensign and continue their journey in disguise.

If Germany is sending troops or material through the straits, Turkey may contend this is a violation of the Montreux convention of July 20, 1936, under which Turkey was permitted to remilitarize the straits.

There is nothing in this convention concerning German occupation of Bulgaria, Rumania or Demothrace and Lemnos, off the Dardanelles.

As for direct Turkish-German relations, there is an unconfirmed report that Germany is considering this country away from her Italian alliance, offering to create a strip of Greek territory through Thrace to connect Bulgaria with Istanbul and Adrianople. Turks to the border now cross into Greek territory to reach Thrace by railway.

Turkey is reported to have rejected the offer out of hand.

Turkey pressed her defense preparations today, mobilizing more soldiers in both Istanbul and Adrianople, commandeering trucks and stocks, and enrolling 800 high school graduates in air schools.

Premier Inonu made high praise for the heroism of the Greeks.

FOR FREE FRENCH IN COMBINED DRIVE

London, April 26.—(CP)—A combined drive for funds among French sailors has been opened somewhere in England, it was learned. The issue was made possible by the British Red Cross and the Order of St. John of Britain. Vice-Admiral Muselier, Commander-in-Chief of the Free French fleet, has issued a letter expressing his thanks and that already 1,000 pounds has been received for the naval forces, Free French sailors and airmen would also be welcome.

'Battle Of Britain' Pilots' Courage Saved Britain

(By H. M. PETERS.)

The fourth and final stage of the daylight assault on Britain in 1940 began October 5 when Goering withdrew virtually all his long-range bombers and tried to achieve his end by sending over his Royal Air Force by means of fighters and fighter-bombers.

This was the surest proof that he had received such a battering as to make it impossible with his depleted bombing force by daylight. The failure of the Nazi air force is told briefly in "The Battle of Britain," which is a best seller throughout the United Kingdom.

From then on the bomber force was sent over at night, in increasing numbers, but at a great sacrifice in accuracy of bombing.

The daylight tactics of the Germans from October 5 until the battle ended October 31 were:

"In the early stages he reduced the size of his formations and used the fighters between them to protect the bombers. Later he depended more and more by Messerschmitt 109 fighter-bombers. Eventually this new plan did not achieve the results he hoped, and from the third week of October he reversed the order of things, and used the fighters as 30,000 feet or higher.

"To enable them to break through the British fighters and upset the tactics of direction. Whenever the weather was favorable these new fighters appeared almost continuously over England, and sometimes during the cover these provided, very high bombing attacks were made. The frequent and rapid attacks on the London area. On sighting our fighters they jettisoned their bombs and made off. They did not, as a rule, attempt to engage, but when they did so they generally succeeded in avoiding our surprise owing to the height at which they were flying.

"The R.A.F. fighter command always tried to meet this type of attack, and on October 15 the Fighter Group (presumably charged with the defense of London) had accounted for 167 Nazi aircraft in the previous 15 days at a cost of forty-five British pilots.

"It is possible to detect a feeling of despair in the hearts of the German pilots attacked by some of the struggle," the booklet relates. "Try as they might, and did, our defenses were unbreakable. Their losses were overwhelming."

The final stage of the attack it began to be noticed that the average attacker, however determined in his ability of the Royal Air Force to protect him in the target area, and began to take that protection for granted. Then when route-markers —the Prime Minister Mr. Churchill —signalled that danger was imminent, the whole force turned and fled as one does."

"There can be no better tribute to the men of the fighter squadrons."

The booklet states that when the time came for the German assault on Britain the German air crews was undoubtedly high.

"Their confidence in their own superiority as individuals and their omnipotence as a whole was complete. They not seen in the first weeks of the attack any sign of flagging. Interrogations of their leader come to light.

"Disillusion awaited them. . . . Still flushed with victory, they were to see their comrades spin to earth or sea in flames.

"Doubt crept in.

"Nevertheless, let it be said for the German airmen that they never approached to fanaticism, that is never sacrificed their humanity to their fighters."

On Oct. 31 the great eighty-four-day daylight battle was over.

"It did not end in victory. It did gradually away; but the British pilots were none the less certain and convinced that they had defeated and at last taught the enemy the lesson of daylight raids. He took the cover of night.

"What indeed did the Germans accomplish in all their attacks? At the outset they sank five ships and damaged five others, mostly in coastal convoys; they next did interference and sometimes considerable damage to airdromes; they scored hits on a number of factories and caused production to slow down for a short time.

Losses Kept Down.

"In London they did considerable damage to the docks and to various famous buildings, including Buckingham Palace, but they destroyed in some thousands of houses; they killed 14,000 men, women and children, nearly all of them civilians. . . .

To what height would those figures have arisen had there been no Hurricanes and Spitfires on the alert from dawn to dusk?"

"It is the Germans had failed to do was defeat the Royal Air Force and that failure meant defeat of the German plan of invading Britain. During the eight-four days the Germans lost 1,733 aircraft, known to have been destroyed in daylight, and probably hundreds of others which formed a "melancholy procession of the defeated" heading back to bases in France.

"Truly it was a great deliverance. It was not achieved without cost. The Royal Air Force lost 375 pilots' killed and 352 wounded.

"Such was the battle of Britain in 1940. Future historians may consider it the decisive battle of Waterloo, Trafalgar and the Marne."

STEPPED-UP RAIDS

During the press conference Mr. Roosevelt declared that he was sure that Axis forces had not occupied any of Greenland. Danish colony off Canada's northeast coast. The President said he was taking steps to discern the situation.

If Germany is using any part of Greenland it will be the first time that the existence of such installations has been occupied by Axis forces, it was learned. It is known that Germans are within 500 miles of the Greenland coast.

Much Speculation Seen

The Greenland question came here after Mr. Roosevelt referred to the sparsely-settled island taken under the protection of the United States. It was suggested Nazi submarines might be using it in order to refuel and allow crews to rest.

Mr. Roosevelt made more likely, however, that Germans who flew over the island might have been forced to land there. It was established a meteorological station there to assist those flying the Greenland route. Increasing naval vessel encountered hostile aircraft in the Greenland patrolling.

Meanwhile, Senator Lister Hill (Democrat), Alabama, administration whip, said that American convoys would continue in order to get United States war materials and food to Britain.

Hill expressed the view that the German air force might attempt to all that we would send an expeditionary force aboard." He declared there is no place to land an expeditionary force in Europe and that Germany is not capable of invading the British—why send additional troops to be destroyed unnecessarily?

Asked at his press conference what he thought of Admiral Raeder's statement, Senator Hill answered:

"I think the President can simplify the reason for placing the convoys under the Navy on that basis, two speeches scheduled in the senate early next week will give him an opportunity. He will speak here Wednesday, inaugurating the drive for the Red Cross funds and May 4 he is to deliver an address in the senate attached to a memorial birthplace of Woodrow Wilson at Staunton, Va.

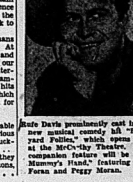
Berlin, April 26 (AP). — Nazi radio broadcasts today began reporting on President Roosevelt's press announcement yesterday that axis forces had not occupied any Greenland, that Mr. Roosevelt is "suffering from hallucinations".

British Comment On Statement Of Pres. Roosevelt

London, April 26 (CP)—President Roosevelt's statement that United States patrols are operating far from the west to detect possible aggression and his assertion that the administration is not aware of concentration of convoy escorts brought confident smiles but no comment in authoritative London circles today.

The same circles, commenting on the President's statement that it is possible the axis has partly occupied Greenland, said that "suspicions for a long time."

British papers gave prominence to Washington dispatches crediting observers with the belief that the speeches last night by members of the President's cabinet were intended to obtain a show of public opinion toward convoys and prepare the way for concrete action to protect shipments to Britain. The general view was that those utterances would never have been made unless the prospects were good for such action.



Kute Davis prominently cast in the musical comedy hit "Barnard Fuller," which opens next at the Belleville Opera House. The companion feature will be "The Bandwagon" finally featuring Dick Foran and Peggy Moran.

BLITZ OR NO, LONDON CROWNS A MAY QUEEN

Death and devastation fail to stand in the way of traditional pageantry so dear to the British heart—London is to have a May Queen again this year. The child-like pagan pomp of her springtime majesty and her retainers stands out against the stark ruins left by recent Nazi air raid. Fourteen-year-old Doreen Garbet is the queen, fifteen-year-old June Parker is her Prince Charming. This photograph was made during rehearsal.

THE WAR TODAY

By DON GILBERT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The campaign in Greece approached its end today, a valiant rearguard of British and Imperial troops keeping the Nazi advance in check with their anti-tank and machine guns.

The ultimness of dispatches from London and Athens dealing with the military situation — speaking tersely of an unbroken line and orderly retreat—suggested that the bulk of the expeditionary force already has embarked on its return to North Africa.

The full story, in all likelihood, will be unfolded tomorrow by Prime Minister Churchill in his address to the Empire.

It seems unlikely that the Prime Minister would schedule a speech of such importance unless he were assured that the safety of the B.E.F. will have been sealed by that time.

The Greek press described the fight as "very near its end" and the Greek government from its new headquarters in Crete called on Greeks remaining on the mainland not to lose hope under German occupation.

Next Move In Mediterranean

The Germans say their next move will be in the Mediterranean. But it is not usual to announce plans in advance. However, the alternatives are few and the Nazi foreign affairs commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland says: "The Reich has no intention to halt midway (in the Mediterranean) but intends to press for a final decision here, which next to the British Isles is the most important war area."

Whatever Hitler plans it is obvious that the going is getting tougher. Gibraltar has been preparing for the expected assault since before the war and yesterday it was announced in London that the "Tiger" Cort has been sent out to head the British garrison in the fight it will put up if the Germans strike through Spain.

At the other end of the Mediterranean the Germans have occupied the islands of Samothrace and Lemnos, the latter forty miles from the entrance of the Dardanelles. The Germans may seek to occupy European Turkey, thus reaching the Straits and effectively closing them. But to cross the Straits to Asiatic Turkey is a land drive for control of the Middle East would be a more difficult task.

Rather, it is thought, the Germans will attempt to enlarge the scale of their North African operations and strike at Suez through Libya and Egypt.

SHIP-BUILDING TO BOOM IN B. C.

Five Major Yards on Pacific Coast Announce Cargo Steel Ships to be Built

Vancouver, April 26 —(CP)— Preparations for the biggest ship-building boom in British Columbia's history, a vast $175,000,000 program involving at least 36 steel cargo ships of 9,300-tons each—were made last night by five major yards on the Pacific coast.

The program, which the Munitions Minister, Hon. C. D. Howe said at Ottawa Friday had been outlined to him by H. R. McMillan, president of Wartime Merchant Shipping Ltd., the government-owned company, sends the value of shipbuilding in B.C. yards ahead of this war over the $210,000,000 mark.

Burrard Drydock Limited at Vancouver is believed to have the largest individual order, with from 24 to 43 ships to be built. The company, already constructing eight 9,300-ton freighters at its north Vancouver yard, has announced plans to build additional ways on the south shore of Burrard Inlet for new ship construction.

Other B. C. yards reported involved in the vast program were North Van Ship Repairs, Ltd., North Vancouver, 36 ships; Victoria Machinery Depot, Victoria, 10 ships; Yarrows Ltd., Esquimalt, B.C., 10 ships and the Canadian National Drydock, Prince Rupert, 10 ships.

PLAN BLACKOUT TEST ON W. COAST

May 22nd Set as Date for Blackout of 600 Sq. Miles of Territory in British Columbia

By SAM G. ROSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, April 26 — (CP) — Civilian Protection Committee members of Canada's Pacific Coast rolled up their sleeves today and went to work under co-ordinating supervision of the British Columbia Provincial Police to prepare for a blackout of approximately 600 square miles of land area May 22.

The big job of instructing around 625,000 people in what to do in case unexpected air raids may some day happen, was thrown into high gear when Major-General R. O. Alexander, Officer Commanding in Chief of the Pacific Command, ordered the blackout after consultation with the British Columbia Cabinet.

Plans to be Worked Out

Detailed extent of the blackout has not been determined but on the lower mainland it will include Vancouver, New Westminster and surrounding municipalities covering an area of approximately 400 square miles and a population of about 350,000. Local authorities are at work mapping plans for the test.

In the lower Vancouver Island area, the blackout will extend over the city of Victoria and the defence area of Esquimalt as well as the municipalities of Oak Bay and Saanich and some unorganized territory. It is estimated the blackout will cover about 200 square miles of island area with a population of about 75,000.

The B.C. cabinet constitutes the Senior Provincial Civilian Protection Committee under chairmanship of Premier T. D. Pattullo. From this authority it branches from the department of the Attorney-General, Hon. G. S. Wismer, through the B.C. Provincial Police into local authorities responsible for their own areas.

2 COMMANDANTS RELIEVED OF DUTY

Action Taken After Break of 28 German Prisoners a Week Ago

Ottawa, April 26 (CP)—Defence Minister Ralston said today two camp commandants had been temporarily relieved of their duties at a northwestern Ontario internment camp pending an official inquiry into the break of 28 German prisoners a week ago.

The men relieved of their commands are Maj. C. S. B. Lindsey and Maj. E. V. Torrance.

Col. Ralston said he understood Maj. Lindsey had been acting commandant for only a week when the 28 German prisoners made their break for freedom. He was taking the place of Maj. Torrance who had gone to other duties.

The Minister said that relieving the officers of their duties pending the inquiry was not to be considered as prejudging them and the fullest inquiry into the escapes would be made.

NORTHEAST TOWN SUFFERS DAMAGE

German Attacks Believed Centred on City of Newcastle

A Northeast English Town, April 26 —(CP)—The thickly-populated area of this town suffered its most serious raid of the war last night and casualties were feared heavy as rescue crews worked today in the debris of homes and shops.

(Nazi sources said the overnight attack was concentrated on Newcastle.)

The raid lasted only a short time but throughout the attack planes were overhead constantly. The anti-aircraft barrage was the heaviest ever fired here.

The raiders dropped flares first followed by showers of incendiary bombs and high explosives.

In another northeast English town at least seven persons were killed, a large number injured and several hundred made homeless. Residential areas bore the heaviest attack.

Experienced observers said, considering the severity of the attack, it was amazing the death toll was not higher.

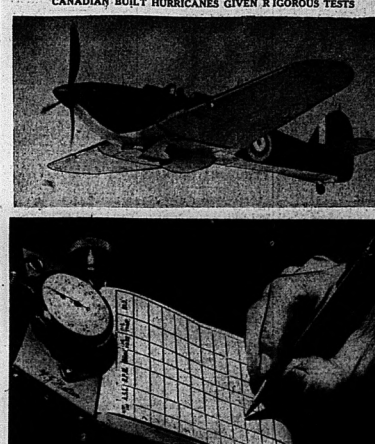
Hon. Col. Ralston Announces Limited Recruiting Drive Will be Made

Ottawa, April 26—(CP)—A limited recruiting drive to obtain about 22,000 men for the overseas Canadian army in the next few months was announced by Defence Minister Ralston today at a press conference.

The minister said the men were required to fill up shortages in recent monthly quotas for overseas requirements and to bring all active service troops in Canada up to the required strength.

CANADIAN BUILT HURRICANES GIVEN RIGOROUS TESTS



In a great plant at Fort William, Canada is turning out Hurricane fighters for the defence of Britain at the rate of fifteen a week. Each machine, as it comes off the production line, is TOR tested by the veteran pilot V. O. 'Shorty' Hatton. This is the supreme note pad, so it will be handy as he races the machine through its tests.

CANADIAN DOUBLE-SHOOTERS

This co-operation squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force must be tops as marksmen shooting with cameras or machine-guns. The camera, however, is the principal weapon; for the duty of the squadron is to photograph enemy movements and ground defences. The machine-guns come in handy in the event that the enemy doesn't take kindly to being photographed.

Battle Of Atlantic Enters Upon More 'Favorable Phase'

Prime Minister In Lengthy Review Describes Events In Grecian Campaign

CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

London, April 28 (CP)—The vitally-important battle of the Atlantic has entered upon "a far more favorable phase", Prime Minister Churchill declared in a Sunday broadcast to the Empire and the United States.

"When I said 10 weeks ago 'give us the tools and we will finish the job' I was not trying to tell people then within our reach," Mr. Churchill asserted, "and that is what is now seems Americans are going to do and that is why I feel a very strong conviction that though the battle of the Atlantic will be long and hard and its issue by no means yet determined it has entered upon a more hopeful and even some time a far more favorable phase."

Although expressing confidence in ultimate victory, the Prime Minister, in a 30-minute war review, told his listeners that now more expect the war in the Mediterranean, on the sea, in the air and on land—than all in the air to become very fierce, varied and widespread.

"The war may spread to Spain and Morocco, it may spread to Switzerlands; to Turkey and Russia. The Germans may lay their hands for a time upon the wheat fields of the Ukraine and oil wells of the Caucasus.

"But there is one thing which is certain . . . Hitler . . . in order to win this war he must either conquer this land by invasion or he must cut the ocean lifeline which joins us to the United States."

Speculation Rises Over 30-Day Trained Men

Ottawa, April 28 (CP)—Speculation arose today over the possibility of further calls for compulsory service to the 75,000 odd men who received 30 days military training during the autumn and early winter in view of the fact that they remain men now undergoing the new four-month training period in the army for service in Canada.

The 30-day trained men, like those called for four months' training, are members of the reserve army under the National Resources Mobilization Act and regulations made following its passage.

As such they are liable to be called for service further than the military duty in Canada as the Minister of National Defence may direct.

The four months' training period is in itself designed and designed to fit a man to take his place in a unit already on active service as a reinforcement. Before the men who trained for one month could be assigned to army units they would probably require further training.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, April 28 (CP)—The weather has been fair and warm over the week end in the Prairie Provinces but showers are occurring this morning in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. It has become somewhat cooler farther north.

LITTLE PROGRESS MADE BY AXIS IN EGYPT DRIVE

British Armored Division is Once Again in Contact With the Enemy

TOBRUK HOLDING

Cairo, April 28 (AP)—Axis forces which have penetrated five or six miles inside the Egyptian frontier near Salum made "little or no progress" yesterday British general headquarters said today.

The daily communique did not mention British forces in Greece but said "light elements of a well-known British armored division are once again in contact with the enemy" on the North African front.

The enemy failed to extend some 15 to 20 miles inland from the coast, recalled the situation of last September when Italian forces passed Sollum to Sidi Barrani, fifty miles beyond Sagia.

A British general headquarters communique yesterday said Axis detachments "crossed the frontier at several points" Saturday night but British authorities expressed belief they were far short of the strength of those sent into Egypt in the Italian fast fall.

The withdrawal of Britain's garrison from Tobruk to positions "which would be much less extended" was disclosed by the communique.

"Although I have been on 31 raids" the pilot said, "I have never seen anything to match the effect of this bomb," which the Air Ministry said the bomb was used on Berlin, Kiel and Bremen.

POWERFUL BOMBS USED ON HAMBURG BY RAF FIGHTERS

Great Port Left Huge, Heaving Mass Like Volcanic Eruption

MILITARY CAMP HIT

London, April 28 (CP)—One of Britain's new flaming heavy bombers made a "daring and successful attack" on the German city of Emden today, the Ministry of Information announced.

The great plane came down to low altitude—presumably to do so—and dropped its heavy bomb load and then opened machine-gun fire from the light of a land.

The foray came after German radio stations had subjected Portsmouth to a particularly sharp attack—one of the further heavy' casualties.

Roaring in during Prime Minister Churchill's broadcast to the Empire, the German bombers caused heavy explosions and a large number of incendiaries on the town. Some damage to residential and business sections in a three-hour attack.

A communique said the number of persons killed was not large and added that there were no reports of casualties at all in attacks in the southwest of England and on the northeast coast of Scotland.

One night's raid is said to have been shot down over the south coast.

Royal Air Force fighters "joined with Britain's powerful new bombs hammered at Hamburg Saturday night in an assault which one pilot said left a half mile of the great port a "mass of flames like a volcanic eruption."

They did not discount, however, the possibility that the new thrust might develop into another threat to Sidi Barrani, the Italian advance point of last December.

Rome Newspaper Says Japan Might Help

Rome, April 28 (AP)—The newspaper Il Popolo di Roma suggested today that Japan might be ready to help Germany and Italy in the effort to prevent United States war supplies from reaching Britain.

The newspaper said Hitler's warning that any ship carrying supplies to Britain would be sunk was duplicated by Italy "and likewise by Japan, whose spokesman recently declared themselves ready to fulfill their obligations under the tripartite pact."

Stillness Of Death Hangs Over Innumerable Narrow Streets

The east end of London, first to suffer seriously from German night attacks, comes in for occasional poundings, though the events now gain little prominence in the press. The first of two articles a Canadian Press writer has written on conditions in one of the devastated areas.

By D. E. BARRITT

Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, April 28 (CP)—Abandoned and desolate, some of London's humble eastern boroughs present the most dismal of modern war scenes.

Here a stillness of death hangs over the innumerable narrow streets where the people have left, form what once were rows of little homes.

These barren places, built mainly of prison-grey brick and gloomy though in their day, are still standing among the thousands of British homes destroyed by Nazi bombs.

They form a picture different from other districts attacked so far back as last September. In other sections, gaunt structures still stand in main thoroughfares and debris heaps appear along any route. But in traffic still passes. People live and move in those parts.

Here there is only the desolation of a ruined, deserted city. These little streets, looking small in the bright sunlight, are littered still by debris and broken glass. Here and there are ruins to show where German bombs demolished homes.

In the main, the districts still stand. At the top of any of these roads you can look down and see rows of houses still intact — you think. But you find they have been stripped. Doors, windows, even inside doors, windows and chimneys gone, carried away for fuel.

Houses not ruined were evacuated because the Ministry of Home Security ruled the district an "unsafe" area.

Now, for block after block, street after street, little buildings that became probably the busy street, the street cleaner or chimney sweep once knew.

Most of their belongings were packed and sent away or sent to other areas; many mothers and children to the country. But even those who left with the rest of the district, threatening only the lives of themselves and dependents, remain at night to bury incendiaries under bags of sand which stand propped in almost every deserted doorway.

Maintain Watch

They alone maintain watch over this unreality, this world among a city of the dead, a city deserted by all but a few who have been settled without warning.

Those who know the cockney swear that as soon as the plague has passed he will return to reclaim his broken home.

In the districts which, while heavily attacked, have not been deserted, the cockney still hangs out his washing, keeps his allotment, goes to Union Jack, or varied signs indicating that the British is wanted in the shops so that no one is disturbed.

SAYS VON WERRA HAD NAZI HELP TO JUMP BAIL

Attorney - General Jackson Says He Has Evidence German Consular Officers Helped Flier to Leave Country

BREACH OF FAITH

Richmond, Va., April 28 (AP) Attorney-General Jackson asserted last night that the Justice Department had "positive evidence" that Baron Franz Von Werra, Nazi flier, jumped his bail in the United States and got out of the country with the connivance and assistance of German consular officers."

That setting of consular officers "had not been disowned in this date by their country," Jackson said in an address prepared for a meeting of the Richmond Law School.

Von Werra escaped while en route to a German camp in Canada, and crossed the border to the United States. Arrested and charged with violation of immigration laws, the flier was released on bail and early this week disappeared, reportedly en route to Peru.

"Von Werra's conduct," Jackson declared, "was unlawful and ungracious. That he should have been encouraged and abetted in such a course by persons enjoying consular privileges within the United States is inconceivable."

"This breach of faith was followed by a breach hi-property. After Von Werra's escape, the German consular officer, when asked about Von Werra's departure, said with a chuckle: 'I really can't say. When I last heard of him he was living in Winchester with one of our boys—possibly wrung his neck.'"

Jackson said the Justice Department "has tried to observe with the utmost fidelity the principle that in the administration of justice we will not discriminate against German or Italian nationals in this country, even though most of us, as Americans, view the enterprise in which they are engaged as something worse than reprehensible.

"The treatment of American citizens abroad is in marked contrast. American Nationals have been seized in Germany and Italy and informed of the charge against them. They have been detained in prison without the right of counsel, without the right of communication, and without the right of bail. The only thing that the German and Italian governments can say for themselves is that they treat their own citizens as badly as they treat Americans who happen to be within their power."

BOY HOOKS BODY OF HIS UNCLE WHILE FISHING

Adam Corby, 63, Deseronto, Missing From His Home for Nearly Two Weeks

INQUIRY OPENED

While fishing for mudcats off the Deseronto dock near his home, 11-year-old Richard Brant hooked the body of his uncle, 64-year-old Adam Corby over the weekend. Corby had been missing from his home for the past two weeks.

Richard, but his family thought little of the incident, as it was believed he had obtained work on a farm in North Hastings.

Young Brant was fishing for mudcats, when he thought he had hooked a shoe and carefully pulled his line towards the shore. As the lad reeled in his line he was suddenly confronted with the fact, that his hook had caught into the hair of the drowned man. The frightened lad summoned a passing motorist and the body was brought ashore.

Chief Ernie Beatty, of Deseronto, was notified and later Dr. J. Boyce ordered an inquest looking into the death.

Corby left home two weeks ago, seeking employment and as no word had been received regarding his whereabouts, his 89-year-old mother thought nothing of the incident, as Corby has been in the practice of leaving home and obtaining employment. The Brant lad did not recognize his uncle until the body had been brought to shore and placed on the dock.

Big Powder Plant In Maryland Burns

Indianhead, Md., April 28 (AP)—Fire destroyed a building early today at the United States navy's big Indianhead powder plant. Captain M. L. Herron, in command of the plant, said only three men were working in the building and that none was injured. Cause of the blaze was undetermined, he said. "but there is absolutely no question of sabotage."

At Washington the Navy Department said the fire was confined to the ether house and estimated the loss at about $150,000. It was emphasized that no explosion though there were reports at Indianhead that other tanks blew up.

DESSIE CAPTURED BY S. A. FORCES IN FIERCE BATTLE

Last Italian Stronghold in Ethiopia Now In British Hands

HELD FOR FIVE YEARS

Nairobi, Kenya Colony, April 28 (CP)—South African troops entered Dessie, Italian stronghold 160 miles northeast of Addis Ababe, on Saturday, it was announced officially today.

Fall of Dessie followed reports that Thursday that South African forces had routed Italian defenders from mountain barricades before the fortress in the fiercest fighting of the East African campaign.

The announcement said:—

"Dessie fell on April 26. Our troops entered the town at 1930 (6 p.m.)."

In the Italian-Ethiopian war five years ago Emperor Haile Selassie established his military headquarters at Dessie and Italian planes, raiding the town Dec. 7, 1935, destroyed the Emperor's Palace there.

International Red Cross representatives protested to the League of Nations against bombing of the American Hospital but Italy denied that French Red Cross had hit the hospital.—

Marshal Pietro Badoglio announced the capture of Dessie by Italian troops on April 11, 1936, indicating the complete collapse of Haile Selassie's defenses in the south Addis Abeba fell to the Italians only a few weeks later, on May 5.

PHYSICALLY FIT MUST DO DUTY

Gen. Lafleche Says Any Such Attempting to Evade Duty to His Country Will Find Effort in Vain

St. Hyacinthe, Que., April 28 (CP) —"Any physically fit man can evade his duty to his country and his fellow citizens under the National Resources Mobilization Act, Maj.-Gen. Georges P. Vanier, Canadian Minister of National War Services, told Saturday's audience.

Addressing men from a training camp nearby, he said: "Every effort has been widely said that some young men of your age became imbued with a feeling that they could buy themselves out of their obligations under the law which brought you here."

"As much as I respect you boys, I hold in as deep contempt those who would attempt by purchase a temporary freedom from their legal and moral obligations.

"No man, unless he is physically unfit, will be allowed to evade his duty. If anyone has any fear to do this, he will find that his efforts have been in vain."

Athens 'Ringed By Bombs' By Nazis Last Word Received From Capital

New York, April 27 (CP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation said Sunday night that the last message broadcast by the Athens radio before the city was occupied by the Nazis was that Athens was being "ringed by bombs."

The BBC added that it was believed the Nazis avoided bombing the ancient Greek capital itself because of the British threat that if Athens were raided Rome would be bombed.

An earlier report quoted NBC as saying that the BBC had reported Athens was being bombed and that radio streets machine-gunned by German planes. The BBC in London today denied this report.)

Largest Force Of Canadian-Trained Imperial Fliers Yet To Reach U. K.

LARGE CONVOY

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

Somewhere in England, April 28 (CP Cable)—New blood for Britain's fighting forces, a large contingent of Empire airmen and Canadian soldiers and sailors recently arrived from the Dominion today were being rapidly posted to squadrons and units.

The convoy included at least 1,000 pilots and air crew men from the Commonwealth Air Training Plan, reinforcements for the Royal Canadian Navy overseas, and men for nearly every branch of the army.

The airmen went directly to a Royal Air Force reception depot where some left within 24 hours for operational service after a few days on bombing raids in a few weeks.

Air Superiority Essential

It is understood the Canadian airmen will go to new Canadian Royal Manning Pool in England and from there assigned to Canadian destroyers.

The air contingent was welcomed by Wing-Cmdr. The Duke of Hamilton who said: "Whatever happens in this war, every precious so far has proved beyond a shadow of doubt that success depends on air superiority."

Belleville Boys' Band And Assisting Artists Display Fine Talent

Concert Nets $92 for Benefit St. Julien Chapt. I.O.D.E.

Musical youth of Belleville demonstrated in no uncertain terms Sunday night that they are rapidly approaching the artistic ability of the grown-ups, when the Belleville Boys' Band, under the baton of Mr. Alfred Cooper, assisted by other artists, gave a capacity McCarthy Theatre audience a fine musical treat.

The concert was held under the auspices of the St. Julien Chapter Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire. A silver collection taken at the door amounted to ninety-two dollars.

Exemplifying the marked improvement which has characterized former performances, the band gave a sterling performance that drew the well-merited acclaim of the large audience. The marches, "Our Director," "El Albanio," "Left, Right," "The Challenge" and "On a Canadian Farm" were well rendered and as well received. The waltzes "Sunset on the St. Lawrence" and "Missouri" were also well played.

A musical novelty and one that was thoroughly enjoyed particularly among music lovers of the city, was the Belleville Accordion Band. This group of players, Mrs. Hicks and Arthur Snare and the Misses Betty Snare, Dorothy Le Page and Mafalda and Mary Pigeon, their playing of "Tell the Lights of London Shine Again" and "Marshall Foch" received a splendid ovation and they responded to an encore with "Roses Remember." Richer credit on not only their own ability but that of their instructor, Mrs. Hicks, and Scout Stebbins and eight-year-old George Locke, are due for the success of this city, gave sterling performances which met enthusiastic and correct respectively. Young Stebbins' solo bespoke fine training and his encore was also his chosen instrument. A clarinet solo by Mac Wilson, composed of a set of variments) offering.

A cornet trio by Jack Green, Ronnie Moorman and Cyril Smith and Marshall Foch received the splendid ovation and they responded to an encore with "Roses Remember."

Text Of Churchill's Address To Empire

London, April 28 (AP)—The text of Prime Minister Churchill's speech broadcast last night:

I was asked last week whether I was aware of some uneasiness which is was said existed in the country on account of the critical situation.

So I thought it would be a good thing to go and see for myself what this uneasiness amounted to.

I went to some of our great cities and seaports which have been most heavily bombed and to some of the places where the poorest people have got it worst.

I have come back not only reassured, but refreshed. To leave the offices of Whitehall with their ceaseless hum of activity and stress and go out in the frosty air which I mean the streets and wharves of London, Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow, Belfast and Bristol, is like going out of a hot house on to the ledges of a fighting ship.

It is a tonic I should recommend to any who are suffering from fretfulness to take in strong doses when they have not got it. The keynote true I have seen many painful scenes of the effects of explosions and acres of cottage homes blasted into rubble and heaps of ruin, but it is just in those very places where the malice of the savage enemy has done the worst and where the ordeal of men, women and children has been most severe that I found their morale most high and splendid.

Indeed, I encompassed by an exaltation of spirit in the people which made me feel that here and its troubles shows level matter-of-fact-ness and that joyous serenity we think belongs to a better world than this.

To Conquer or Die

Of their kindness to me I cannot speak. I never saw anything in or dreamt of it and can never deserve it. I can only assure them that I and my colleagues, or comrades indeed, for that is what they are, will toil with every scrap of life and strength we have to give the lights that are granted to us, and nothing that people or be wholly unworthy of them, the faithful and generous regard.

The British nation is stirred and moved as it never has been at any time in the past by these new and famous history, and it is no backward step or confession to say they mean to conquer or die.

What a triumph life in these battered cities is over the wreck that fire and bomb can do! What vindication of the civilized order decent way of living we have been trying to work for and work towards in our island!

What a proof of fortitude of free institutions! What a test of the quality of our local authorities and of the customs and societies so sturdily built!

This ordeal of fire is in a certain sense even exhilarating the manhood and womanhood of Britain.

Proud to be Under Fire

The sublime but also terrible experiences and emotions of the battlefield which for centuries have been reserved for soldiers and sailors now are shared for good or ill by the entire population. All are proud to be under the fire of the enemy.

Old men, little children, the crippled, the veterans of former wars, aged women, the ordinary hard-pressed citizen or subject of the King as he likes to call himself, the sturdy workman with his hammer in shirt, skilled craftsman, members of every kind of A. R. P. service, are proud to feel that every shaft and every bomb with our fighting men, when one of the greatest causes is being fought out, as fought out it will be to the end.

This indeed is a grand and heroic period in our history and the light of glory shines upon all.

You may imagine how deeply I feel my own responsibility toward these people, my responsibility to bear my part in bringing them safely out of this long, stern ordeal. We are sustained in what we are marching and not to demand of them that their sacrifices should be in vain.

Call We Could Not Resist.

I have thought it this difficult period, when so much fighting and heavy slaughter is proceeding and reserves are going on that it has been imperative to concentrate and conduct should be upon the highest level and that honor should be our guide.

Very few people realize how small were the forces with which General Wavell—that fine commander whom we cheered in open days and will back through bad—how small were the forces which took the buff of the Italian masses in Libya prisoners. In none of his successive victories could General Wavell maintain in the decisive fighting within at one time more than two divisions or about 30,000 men.

When we reached Benghazi and what left of Mussolini's legions had retreated on the dusty road to Tripoli, a call was made upon us to which we could not refuse. I will tell you about that call. You will remember how in November the Italian dictator fell upon the unoffending Greeks and without any warning invaded their country and how the Greek nation, revived by their glorious past hurled his armies back at double speed.

Meanwhile, Hitler, who had been conducting a campaign in his way steadily forward, doping and poisoning and poisoning one after another Balkan State. They passed, they gaste, suddenly made it clear he would, if neither of their help-less made common cause with them and even if we left them to their fate.

That we could not do that. There are rules of war that kind of thing, and to break those rules would be to lose the light which is the very essence of the British Empire, without which we could neither hope nor deserve to win hard war.

Difficulties Can be Overcome

Difficulties of strife difficult people different ways, but I am sure there is a deep underlying unity in the British Empire and the United States which we will find a new object in life in making sure that when we come to final reckoning this absurd imposter shall be abandoned to public justice and universal scorn.

While these grievous events were taking place in the Balkan Peninsula and in Greece our forces in Libya have sustained a vexatious and damaging defeat. The Germans advanced sooner and in greater numbers than we or our friends had expected. The bulk of our armored troops which played such a decisive part in beating the Italians had to be refitted and the single armed brigade which has been judged sufficient to hold the frontier until about the middle of May was overrun and its vehicles largely destroyed by a somewhat stronger German force.

Our infantry, which did not exceed one division, had to fall back upon the very large Imperial armies that had been assembled and can be nourished and maintained in the fertile Delta of the Nile. The fortress of Tobruk which flanks any German advance on Egypt we hold strongly.

There we have repulsed many attacks, causing the enemy immense losses, and taking many prisoners.

War to Become More Fierce

That is how the matter stands in Libya, and on the Egyptian front. We must now expect the war in the Mediterranean on the sea, in the desert, and above all in the air to become very fierce, varied and widespread.

We have cleared the Italians out of Cyrenaica, and it now lies with us to purge that Province of Germans. That will be a harder task, and we cannot expect to do it at once. Indeed, I never try to make out that defeats are victories, and the more advanced the German as a warrior, indeed, I told you a month ago that the swift upon which our victories we had gained over the Italians could not possibly continue, and misfortunes must be expected.

There is only one thing certain about war—that it is full of disappointments, and also full of mistakes.

It remains to be seen, however, whether it is the German who has made mistakes in trampling down the Balkan States and making a river of blood between themselves and the Greek and Yugoslav peoples.

Makes No Prophecy

It remains also to be seen whether they made a mistake in their attempt to hamper with their the forces and means of supply which they must have got.

Taught by experience, I make it a rule not to prophesy about battles which are yet to be fought. This, however, I will venture to say, that I should be very sorry to see the task of the combatants in the Middle East compared with that General Wavell's armies to be in the position of the German forces. That is not a very pleasant opinion. I can well understand there may be different views.

It is certain that fresh dangers besides those which formerly beset may come upon us in the Mediterranean. The war may spread to Spain and Turkey and may spread westward to Turkey and Russia.

The Germans may dominate the Black Sea; they may dominate the Caucasus.

They may dominate the Black Sea; they may dominate the Caspian. Who can tell?

But I can tell you what I see before me and fight them wherever they are, but there is one thing which is certain. There is one thing which I can tell you that our relationship with is very sure and solid and which we see in his season can subdue, with the help of God, safety from avenging justice in the East, Middle East or Far East.

In order to win this war he must use either our resources or the resources or he must cut the ocean highways on which joins us to the United States.

Let us look into these alternatives, if you will bear with me for a few minutes longer.

Let us look back to you early in February many people believed the blockade would be strangled. Britain was about to begin. It has not been strangled. Our imports and exposes we grow stronger on the sea, in the air and in the numbers, and the organization and equipment of the great armies that now guard our island.

When I compare the position at home at the end of February, 1941, was in the summer last year, even with the help of Dunkirk and with a month more elaborate mechanical preparations for the part of the enemy, I feel that we have very much to be thankful for and I believe that the Navy, the Army and our vigilance are not relaxed even for an instant, we may be confident we shall give a very good account of ourselves.

More than that it would be boastful to say, more than I am entitled to say, about the future. But how about our lifeline across the Atlantic? What is to happen to it? Already our merchant ships are sunk that would have been sufficient to bring us nourish our brave people?

Threat in Atlantic

What if supplies of war materials and munitions which the United States is seeking to send us in such overwhelming abundance in large part be sunk under water? What is to happen then?

Well, I think you may remember, that bad man in one of his public speeches declared that a terrifying increase in numbers and efficiency of his U-boats and his air attacks, not only on our food ships, but, thanks to the use by French and Norwegian harbors and thanks to the denial to us of Irish bases, he had got the upper hand of us out into the Atlantic.

Thereupon we set and are taking all possible measures to meet these dangers and we will find a new object in life in making sure that when we come to the final reckoning this absurd imposter shall be abandoned to public justice and universal scorn.

While these grievous events were taking place in the Balkan Peninsula and in Greece our forces in Libya have sustained a vexatious and damaging defeat. TRAIN MEDICOS IN MANY LINES OF WAR DUTIES

Water Testing to Storm-Keeping One Range of Special Work for Members of Canada's Army Medical Corps

By FRANK PLEARDY

Ottawa, April 26 (CP)—Water-testing is one of the important jobs of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps. Men of the corps in training at the medical training centre here learn how to test water supplies for poison and for sterility.

Each medical unit carries a number of water-testing kits in action and the task, with the equipment provided is reasonably simple. Even poison test includes a chemical but not a very difficult one, with the assumption that the only safe water is chlorinated there is no need of an exhaustive bacteriological test to determine what, if any germs, may be in the water. It is just a question of finding out how much chlorine need be added to make the water safe for men to drink.

Water on a battle field may be a dangerous weapon in the hands of the enemy or accidentally by the use of medical personnel who are absorbed by water and make it unfit for consumption.

Other Features

Water-testing is only one of the more or less specialized tasks of the medical corps. All men in the corps receive a general training in this as in other subjects at the training centre and they develop into specialists later when they take their places in the medical unit on active service and are assigned to particular jobs because of special interest or aptitude.

The hardest but most important of these tasks is that of the stretcher-bearing. The stretcher bearers must be on the watch out of step when carrying a wounded man so that the feet of four carriers putting the same foot down at the same time will not make things uncomfortable for the wounded.

A thorough training in gas protection is also a part of medical corps training. The men must know how to protect themselves and their patients from poison gas in its various forms.

Companies clerks are an important group in any medical unit because extensive records must be kept. Cooks and their assistants suitable for the sick also need special training.

Army medical work involves a complicated system of store-keeping than other branches of the army and specially trained storekeepers are required. In addition to the quartermasters' stores of food, clothing and other supplies carried by all units, medical units have technical medical stores and steward's stores.

The steward is the man in the hospital who keeps track of rations and must be a good bookkeeper to see that hospital rations are not over-drawn. If they are the officer commanding must answer for the excess out of his own pocket. He must draw his rations carefully on the basis of the number of patients on each hour's diet.

Drugs are usually looked after by men who were druggists in civilian life and are skilled dispensers. Sometimes they learn enough about dispensing through working under another dispenser to do the job even if he is not a qualified druggist.

X-Ray Specialists

A few men with a gift for electricity receive training in x-ray technique. Men who are particularly good at first-aid may be assigned to hospital duties as dressing-room attendants. Sometimes men are of smaller than the average stature and are given this work because they are not suitable for the duties of stretcher-bearing as the bigger men of the unit are.

When a man is wounded in the field he usually gets his first attention from members of his own unit. Each combatant unit has a stretcher-bearing section. Ordinarily a wounded man goes first to his battalion aid post.

There he is picked up by the medical officer if his attendance can't reach the aid post, he must be carried to the post by stretcher-bearers. His next step is at the advance dressing station, which is usually set up near the main dressing station and then to the casualty clearing station.

This later is the most advanced medical establishment equipped to do first-class surgery. Emergency operations may be performed, if pressure is not heavy wounded men may get considerable attention at the field or ambulance but in nearly only the more acute cases will resuscitation be tried. The more serious cases will be shot straight through on their way by train or motor convoy to hospitals.

CHURCHILL'S ADDRESS INSPIRES

Prime Minister Churchill's Sunday broadcast was probably his greatest of all the series of great addresses. He gave the reason for the confidence which there is in the British people that they will crush the enemy. His speeches and addresses are so all-inclusive, realistic, practical and reasonable as to provide the perfect balance which means so much to the people. He pointed out that he was not one to make defeats appear as victories and said that war was full of disappointments and mistakes, and that he had been taught by experience to make progress step by battles yet to be fought but he said he would be sorry to see the tasks of the combatants in the Middle East exchanged. He said fresh dangers may come upon the Mediterranean besides those which threaten Egypt and that the war may spread but "Hitler cannot find safety from avenging justice in the East, Middle East, or Far East.

"In order to win this war he must either conquer this island by invasion or he must cut the ocean lifeline which joins us to the United States."

He explained the steadily increased strength of Britain as a fortress and Britain would give a good account of herself if Hitler attempts invasion.

As to the Battle of the Atlantic he said Britain must rely on salt water and effective-ness as she won the Battle of Britain last August and September in the air.

News that the U.S. fleet and flying boats have been ordered to patrol the wide waters of the Western Hemisphere and to warn shipping of all nations outside the combat zone of the presence of lurking U-boats or cruisers of the aggressor nations brought Mr. Churchill a great sense of relief because it will allow Britain to concentrate on the routes nearer home and to take a heavier toll of U-boats there.

The fortitude of the British civilian population was extolled, the glory of Greece was praised. He spoke of the war of the Balkans and how Yugoslavia found out where she was being taken, too late to save her territory, but not too late to save her soul. Britain stood by her pledge and in honor sent aid to Greece, Britain's small force in North Africa had gained along the north coast a great series of battles against the Italians.

Mr. Churchill assured that nothing happening now is comparable with the dangers of last year.

The British leader declared "no prudent and far-seeing man can doubt the eventual and total defeat of Hitler and Mussolini is certain in view of the respective and clear resolve of the British and American democracies. There are less than 70 million malignant Huns, some of them are curable and others killable." Most of them are already engaged in holding back even when they now bully and pillage. The people of the British Empire and the United States number nearly 200 millions in their homelands and in the British Dominions alone. They are determined not to be trampled on and the world's tide of progress will not be turned back by the criminal dictators.

'THIS WHIPPED JACKAL MUSSOLINI'

If ever a boaster and faker was whipped by the lash of scorn, it was the latuer dictator on whom Prime Minister Churchill poured words of strongest condemnation for the Duce's pretence and fraud in his proclamation of congratulation to the Italian army in Albania "on the glorious laurels" the Duce assured them they had won over the Greeks. Said Mr. Churchill, "Here surely is the world's record in the domain of the ridiculous and contemptible."

Then he turns upon the Italian leader with these words, "This whipped jackal Mussolini, who, to save his own skin, made all Italy a vassal state to Hitler, comes frisking up at the side of the German tiger with yelps not only of appetite—that could be understood—but even of triumph."

The British Prime Minister added "I am sure there are a great many millions in the British Empire and the United States who will find a new object in life in making sure that when we come to the final reckoning this absurd imposter shall be abandoned to public justice and universal scorn."

ARMCHAIR CRITICS

I doubt if those who legislate
Know of the Great Triumvirate—

Those paragons of knowledge—
Who daily use my office for
A place to split their martial lore
In critiques of the present war

As seen from Grandstand College
How can our counsellors avoid
Using Smith and Jones and Murgatroyd?

These worthy, disputatious men
Know the why and how and when
Of every kind of fighting.
A scouting sortie is their meat;
They fight a dogged, stiff retreat;
Their aerial actions with the fleet
Are triumphantly exciting.
No General Staff should be devoid
Of Smith and Jones and Murgatroyd.

Ottawa, April 23, 1941 —S.D.H.

(Overheard on a George Street verandah):

'Tis midafternoon and the local "Churchill" and "Roosevelt", are discussing the war.

"C." — "We shoulda had this war won long ago, Bill. Seems to be sumpun wrong with the higher-ups somewhere. What we need is action — take the war to Germany and wipe 'em up for good and all."

"R." — "Yiggs, that's you're right. This guy Hitler has been marching wherever he likes and we don't seem to be able to do much to stop him.

"R." — "Another thing," why didn't they bomb Tripoli before they did. Last week I said that is what they should have done, and I don't know whether Churchill believes in mental telepathy or not, but sure as guns within a day or so after I mentioned it the fleet blew the daylights outa the joint."

"C." — "If I was runnin' this bloomin' war I'd have that French coast raked to pieces by now. "Sure, the R.A.F. is doin' a swell job, but it is concentrated action we need. I'd have those bombers over there day and night until there wasn't a d..... Hun left in that country."

"R" — "Yeah, and all those Italian prisoners of war would have been sent places where they could earn their keep. They built good roads in Ethiopia and Libya, and I'll warrant that part of business I'd have those babies with picks and shovels building good roads where they are most needed. I think I'll write Churchill a letter about it."

"C." — "Good idea. And while you're at it, you might mention my name and advocate that the British take over the Irish air and naval bases. Make that point pretty strong will ya? I say it is action we need — sumpin that will show the Huns that we ain't to be trifled with."

"The club is in full swing, I see," murmured a gentle feminine voice in the "generals'" ears.

"Oh, hello Mame, sure, we were just talkin' about the war. Sit down, yuh might learn sumpun."

"Upstairs," said the wife, Bill, she likes to hear about the war, especially from fellers what know what they're talkin' about. Now as I was sayin', if we can get the Germans out into the open. Now what they should do is this," pointing with a stick to an imaginary war-plan on the verandah floor, "they should put the artillery over here, the tanks up ahead with motor cycles to patrol the country in front. Then bring up the infantry, and brother, we would get some action."

"So its action you want, eh?" murmured the ball-and-chain in his ear. "Well do you see that rug over there. Imagine Hitler's whole army is on it. Here is the navy, the army and the air force all in one lump," and the little woman handed him a carpet-beater. "Now you've been raving and ranting what you would do and how things should be done. You want action. Well, get down there and lick the stuffin' outa the whole German army. You should be able to do it in a half-hour."

(The above is purely an imaginary conversation).

OFF THE RECORD

By ED REED

"Did you notify the draft board where we'd be for the next few weeks?"

THE BUILDER

As the morn of youth gives promise
Of a useful span of years,
There is seems naught to dim the vision,
Or to fill the heart with fears,

For the eyes of youth look forward,
With a faith beyond compare,
There is hope and trust and longing,
In the message written there.

If we build a sound foundation
In the morning hours of life,
We can raise a super-structure
That will weather storm and strife.

Others too may catch the vision
Gather courage for the fray
Lay foundations strong and lasting
That will never pass away.

Will the home that you are building,
Stand secure when storms appall,
Bring you joy and peace and comfort
When the evening shadows fall?

Conservatives May Ask Adjournment Of Budget Debate

OTTAWA, April 28 (CP)—Conservative sources said today the Conservative group in the House of Commons will ask for an adjournment of the budget debate until Friday after Finance Minister Ilsley brings down the budget Tuesday afternoon.

Needle of the opposition financial critic has not been announced yet. In the last budget debate J. H. Harris (Con. Toronto-Danforth) led off for the opposition and had the task over the same task this week. The final decision probably will be made at a conservative caucus Tuesday.

It was reported today the caucus also will discuss conscription. So far Germans out into the open. Now what they should do is this," pointing with a stick to an imaginary war-plan on the verandah floor, "they should put the artillery over here, the tanks up ahead with motor cycles to patrol the country in front. Then bring up the infantry, and brother, we would get some action."

"So its action you want, eh?" murmured the ball-and-chain in his ear. "Well do you see that rug over there. Imagine Hitler's whole army is on it. Here is the navy, the army and the air force all in one lump," and the little woman handed him a carpet-beater. "Now you've been raving and ranting what you would do and how things should be done. You want action. Well, get down there and lick the stuffin' outa the whole German army. You should be able to do it in a half-hour."

overseas service.

With the members just back from their constituencies following the Easter recess it was expected the situation would be canvassed to find out what the Conservative members feel would be the attitude of the country to a demand for conscription.

Compulsory service at present is limited to defence duties within Canadian boundaries, under policy announced Saturday by Defence Minister Ralston of detailing to defence posts men who completed four-months' compulsory military training under the National Resources Mobilization Act.

ON THE RECORD

Report From Texas

El Paso, Texas—Out here on the Mexican Border people are worrying less about Greece, the Balkans, North Africa, Russia and Hitler, and more what is going on just over—and sometimes across the Rio Grande. It's all part of Hitler's machinations, they say.

Police and federal authorities are looking for some Germans who have been spending months for queer things that innocent or unpatriotic Americans would not do. Some of them, Parachute silk, for instance, Others, Nazi literature. Apart from the incidents, there is continuous evidence that the Nazis are "penetrating" Mexico and from Mexico as a base are establishing contacts with residents of Texas. Through them a great deal of Nazi propaganda has penetrated Texas itself, and among a small minority Hitler is a popular personality. Some Americans who will regale you, with story after story, about the little German girl governess for instance who was such a jewel, who spent her vacations in Mexico and travelled for a brief visit to Germany on a luxury liner in a cabin that cost her nearly half a year's salary. When she came home she was plucked by the F.B.I.

It would be an exaggeration to say that these residents are hypnotically nervous, but they are soberly concerned, and the unconcerned often have no illusions whatsoever that this is a "European struggle" in which American democracy is in no way involved.

On the other hand, they take comfort in the presence of the American Army and Navy, which is a remarkably husky and personable mass of selected service men, and they are grateful for whatever might happen. Fort Bliss, at El Paso, is filled with soldiers. One thousand recruits, Barracks, tent cities, mess halls, hospitals, theatres, service canteens house and recreation centre are going up. Everything is on a generous, spotless, solid and imposing. The papers have morning carry pictures of the new light tanks recently arrived.

By universal agreement, the morale in the men at Fort Bliss encampment is extraordinarily high. Most of the soldiers are from southwest area, and they are as handsome and healthy a crowd of men as I have ever seen. It seemed to me that the average height was six feet. Many of the officers, like Col. Pollia and the Tummies I had seen in Prague and Berlin, were bodies, bones, and teeth contrasted disadvantageously with the lean, hard bodies, all of whom looked in the pink. It was a pleasure to see some soldiers for Democracy that look as though they could lick anything in sight.

When I asked one of the officers about morale, he said, "Morale don't always judge that by the number of men the guard house carries. Figure out that out of twenty-one thousand men recently only four were in the guard house yesterday, and for minor misdemeanors.

* * *

General Swift allowed me to participate in a "problem" which involved the capture of a well—the source of water for a large area. The well was, theoretically, guarded by a few men stationed there. Our job was—who were the enemy—were to capture them. It was desert warfare with a terrain-map involving highly armored scout car that ploughed across the desert and all around hummocks—they call them bombimos—and cactus, mesquite and greasewood, and before it a river I was full of mosquitoes. Anaacs fighting in Lybia, and covered with sandy black oil.

I discovered that the horse is not outlawed by modern mechanized warfare. Any reconnoitering across the desert at thirty miles an hour, with our car about to fall to lights out of us at four or five miles.

* * *

Soldiers eating a meal in the desert, cooked over folding stoves and wood fires, were faring excellently —corned beef "an' canned tomatoes, beans, bread and jam, coffee and canned apricots, all tasting delicious on horseback. The men seemed to me to be enjoying a rather serious picnic.

And the camp has furnished a lot of activity for the neighboring El Paso, who are busy planning dances and other entertainment for the boys while on leave.

* * *

What a country to defend! The southwest —vens an almost desert, the empire in the eastern eyes with its magical mountains. Its sweeping deserts, its rich towns, its beautiful ranches. At a girl's school that I visited, every child learns Spanish from the first grade, and the children at table —ng Spanish songs as easily as English. A factory from the tight green and white villages of New England, the eighteenth century elegance of Virginia, the tense classicism of Chicago and Detroit, the cosmopolitanism of New York. But all over America—one nation, one Volk—but one common belief, one faith in America, one common passion for freedom.

I've talked with a lot of army men, officers and privates, here and in other camps in the Southwest about Lindbergh. Funny, I find many industrialists and a great many women who are Lindbergh enthusiasts. Not yet an army man. Their viewpoint was about summed up in the words of one officer: "Even if he thinks that way, he shouldn't give expression to his thoughts. Not now. Maybe we misunderstand him, it fit in no time for people not to be very clear. No time for definitions."

Out here pioneering days are not yet ancient history. Sam Houston's era was just opposite the other day to fill out a term in the Senate. He's very old, but his name in the papers was a reminder of how new this country is.

Yet, in Dallas, I stopped between planes to shop for a couple of hours in the finest store for women's clothes off Fifth Avenue. The Southwest stimulates a wholly artificial sense of youth and daring. I bought a hat which I would have rejected in New York as much too bright, and shipped the hat I'd on was wearing home. When I looked at the label, it said, "John Frederics." That master hat-maker always seemed a little French because he has, in New York, but not as much so in Texas.

I shall put it on and move to Abilene.

Two Paris Papers Suspended By Vichy

Vichy, France, April 28 (AP) — Two former Paris newspapers now published in unoccupied France were suspended temporarily today by the Petain government.

One was Le Figaro, published in Lyon, which was suspended for two days, it was said, for pro-British tendencies.

The other was Le Mot D'Ordre, owned by former Cabinet Minister L. O. Frossard and published in Marseille. It was suspended for two days for incorrectly saying Otto Abetz, Hitler's diplomatic envoy here, was definitely scheduled to arrive in Vichy at the end of last week.

In the Paris newspaper L'Oeuvre, arriving here today, Marcel Deat, leader of Pierre Laval and a leader in the National popular movement, urged support for French-German relations, said Frossard had turned in favor of collaboration with Germany.

Deat said Frossard was the first of an eventual "horde" ready to join the bandwagon in view of German Balkan victories.

GREAT AND HUMBLE

One time I had the chance to meet
Where famous people dwell,
And hearken in my eager way
To all they had to tell.
But little else they talked about
Than art and fleeting fame
And crowds, where'er they ventured out,
Who pleaded: "Sign your name."

At first I thought it fortunate
To meet with folks of fame
With human beings truly great
The people flock to see;
But as the days were speeding by
For earnest talk the proud and I
Possessed no common ground.

Of fame few words had I to tell

And none of art at all,
And crowds were of glamour's spell
I'd find no recall.
But there were others on the scene
Who toiled with wheel and grip,
And I grew chat with them and glean
The best of fellowship.

They talked about their children small
And summer gardens say,
Of pies and skeletons' roof and wall
And all that fills the day.
They told of griefs they'd had to bear
As bravely as they could.
Left the great to take a chair
With men I understood.

You'd Be Surprised!

MACHINE TOOLS

In present-day warfare the Lord is on the side of the nation of the greatest number of machine tools and makes the best use of them.

Under ordinary conditions the average civilian probably gives little thought to the highly important and strategic place that machine tools occupy in our industrial system.

One, entire industrial system of mass production, with its interchangeable parts and assembly lines, is based on machine tools.

The American defence program has created a shortage in the supply of machine tools and the National Defence Advisory Commission is making an inventory of all existing machine tools to conserve them and to direct their distribution.

Everybody is familiar with hand tools—hammers, saws, planes, files, gimlets, screw-drivers, awls, axes and the other implements of manual labor.

The Anglo-Saxon root of the word "tool" means to do or to make.

But machine tools are the machines that make the parts of other machines.

Most hand tools are made with machine tools.

A tool-maker is not a person who makes hammers, saws, axes and other hand tools, but a highly skilled workman who builds machine tools.

Machine tools make mass production possible but they themselves are not susceptible of mass production.

That is why we have "bottlenecks" in the production of machine tools and the very ninety percent of the first ten billion dollars of National Defence contracts went to about 600 large companies.

Machine tools include all sorts of lathes, drills, planes and machines for turning, shaping, milling, grinding, stitching and punching.

Such machines must be made of special alloy steel and with sufficient hardness and toughness to withstand the strain of high speed and the terrific heat generated by the friction of the tool against the metal being machined or tooled.

The strain to which ordinary hand tools are put is nothing compared to that to which high-speed machine tools are subjected.

Quick speed and uniformity of product are made possible by the use of power to operate tools.

Good tool-makers are scarce and many of the materials used in tool-making are limited in quantity.

"DAUGHTER OF DESTINY"

By ELEANOR ATTERBURY COLTON

CHAPTER II

The great Spanish hacienda at the end of the palm-lined drive blazed with lights. For a minute, as Dale stopped the car in the curving graveled drive, Devona saw the whole picture wash together in a blur of tears. Hoofbeat she whispered past the lump in her throat. Beautiful, spacious, bright—able past anything she'd dared dream. In another moment she'd step through that wide doorway and for the first time in fourteen years, she would be—home.

A Chinese house-boy opened the car door, helped her out.

"Hello, Wong." Dale greeted him. "This is Miss Rasbourne, Miss Vadne's daughter."

The boy bobbed a bow at her. "Welcome, Miss Rasbourne," he said with an astonishingly British accent. "Miss Vadne has a pet returned, May I show you to your room?"

Feeling of Fear

"Thank you." Devona expressed a little shudder. He was so terribly homely and so different from the friendly people Chinese coolies she'd seen in Shanghai. There was something actually hostile behind the impassive Oriental mask of his face. His eyes, perhaps. Or that unbelievably British accent. It was silly—but she loathed him, instantly.

"When do you expect Miss Vadne?" Dale was asking as they crossed the wide verandah.

"Any moment now." She expected to be here when Miss Rasbourne arrived."

Devona felt a little of her disappointment dissolve. At least she'd another day before she had intended, had wanted to be here to welcome her. Some surprises, some unavoidable delay had made it impossible.

"Don't mind," Dale, smiling as if he'd read her thought, took her arm. "Vara's always late. Wong will show you upstairs. Dinner's never until 8:30 anyway. You'll have plenty of time to change."

"You're staying, too, aren't you?" suddenly panicked at the thought of being alone, a stranger in a strange house with only a malevolent-looking Chinese servant! Dale already seemed an old friend.

"Sure." He grinned at her, blue eyes teasing again. "I'm bored, are you?" A- world traveller and—"

"No, of course not." She managed a smile and started up the tiled stairway after Wong. "See you later."

"Don't make it much later," Dale called after her. "I'll be waiting for you in the patio."

Devona Annoyed

Flushing, Devona ran the remainder of the way. Dale was so nice. Surely some one must already have discovered that. American men were different from Europeans. Different, she decided a little shyly, and nicer. Lots nicer.

Wong led the way around a covered hallway, past handsomely furnished bedrooms. His padded slippers made no sound on the polished floor. Only the click of her own heels as they made a little procession of two through the deserted hallway. Finally, Wong entered one of the rooms, set down the luggage.

"Will there be anything else, Miss?" His slanting, Oriental eyes studied her coolly, his yellow face impassive, unreadable.

Still Devona sensed the strange antagonism. As if he'd resented her coming.

"No, that's all, thank you," she said, abruptly.

"Very good, Miss." His bobbed that stiff little bow at her again before he closed the door behind him.

Annoyed, Devona tried to shrug off the ridiculous feeling of cold horror. It was something like the sensation she'd known once when a dead cat clothes raised its hooded head out of her bathtub.

Cats—Her Feeling

But that—she mustered a little chuckle—was faraway India. This was California and Wong was undoubtedly only a harmless, well-trained servant. Her strange life had plunged into far places had made her super-sensitive. She must remember she was no longer in a country where danger often swirled silent, horrible death, behind closed doors.

There could certainly be no danger lurking in this beautiful place. She glanced around the lovely room. Her room. Her very own. Cool blue drapes against soft sandy walls, rich carved oaken bedstead, dressing table. A carved chest that might have come directly from some old Italian chapel. The whole like a lovely picture.

And beyond, a startlingly blue bathroom with square fish and sea-horses prancing from the mosaic tiles on the walls.

From a long window opening onto a grilled iron balcony, she looked down into a garden. A fountain splashed cooly somewhere in the shadows. For a moment she half expected some handsome, gallant troubadour to come Jose Mardan guitar in hand —to serenade her from the flagstoned patio.

Like a story book or a movie set—a dream. Perfect. And all this—she turned back into the room again—her very own home. And now, her own home, too. A place where she could forget about trunks and storage bonds and passports. A place where she'd never ever say language but her own. Never see famine or war or pestilence stalking through the streets.

"I'm so lucky," she whispered aloud. "So very lucky."

Someone tapped softly at her door.

Vara Vadne returned? her heart racing. Devona called, "Come in."

The door opened carefully. A maid, trim and pert in a gray uniform, smiled her way in. Devona's heart went back to normal. "Buenos noches, Senorita." The girl stepped short, her big dark eyes wide with surprise. "—I beg your pardon. Have I a mistake? You are the Senorita Rasbourne?"

Devona nodded. "Yes. Why did you think you'd made a mistake?"

The pretty dark-skinned maid still hesitated. "I thought, they said you were to be but the small girls." Then, recovering her manners, "May I help you, Senorita? Dinner will be served in one hour."

"Why—yes. Thank you."

Even a maid to help her dress! Devona plunged herself in a bath she wasn't dreaming.

An hour later, when Margarita had smoothed the last touch of rouge from her cheeks, gleaming shoulders, tucked a tiny rhinestone comb into a recalcitrant curl, she stepped back, smiling.

"You, too, are beautiful, Senorita," she said shyly.

"Thank you, Margarita."

Exuberant threading through her veins like heady wine, Devona thrilled to the new version of Vara's self the mirror gave her. Would any one ever guess this was the girl who'd run off in the third worn a real evening gown? Dad had always insisted on formality.

"Time enough when you're grown-up," he'd laughingly say, and pinch her ear affectionately. Dressing for Dinner

Dressing for dinner. Devona pirouetted slowly. Her hair piled into a cluster of curls on the top of her head, her clear white skin catching the rose of the gown, her tinted velvet dinner gown, she was grown up. Dad would be proud. Even itself was as simple and as subtle as the skill of a famous French couturier. Dad would be proud. And as cooly as the Shanghai merchants. Feeling

But—she decided now—it had been silly to be afraid. Her heart slyly cupped her breast, long silhouette lines that followed the graceful sweep of her slim figure, one could call her "little school girl" now.

"Was there anything else, Senorita?" Margarita hesitated at the door.

"No, thank you."

"May I say, Senorita," the little maid added with a shy little smile, "that you look very lovely. Her room. Her very own. Cool blue drapes against soft sandy walls, rich carved oaken bedstead, dressing table. A carved chest that might have come directly from some old Italian chapel. The whole like a lovely picture.

Apply the Cream for Fine Skin

By HELEN FOLLETT

Our old friend, cold cream, is the most useful of all the cosmetics of which the sisters buy plenty. For general, every day purposes, there is nothing better than a cream of light consistency; it goes on easily without friction, it is more or less penetrating, it is not greasy, removed with tissues.

It keeps the skin smooth by preventing excessive desquamation, that natural flaking that goes on all the time because dead cells are departing, giving way to new ones. It is an excellent cleansing agent though some women prefer liquid oils for this purpose. It is soothing when the skin has been subjected to biting winds, harsh soaps or strong sunlight. If the beauty budget limits one to a single economical, cold cream is about the best buy.

Heavy Cream

For massage to tone tissues and to keep wrinkles from forming, a heavy preparation is necessary. It over night.

keeps the fingers from slipping, so the friction has more of an effect upon the underlying muscles. The seeker after rejuvenation must not forget that a large part of the success in treating sagging tissues is due to the manipulations; which should be brisk. Patting, slapping, tapping with the fingertips will bring a glow, showing that sluggish blood cells have stirred themselves, got on the job.

Foundation creams are pleasant luxuries, but every woman who uses them should realize that they need to be well rubbed into the skin and then wiped off lightly or they will be richer for that.

The woman who nag and grow old and homely and quintereating are the women who have no outside interests. They don't get the old griefs and complaints and "enjoy poor health" as the saying is. Some recreation or concerns to keep them in touch with the world. I'm sure you wouldn't admire your wife half as much if she lived a narrow life. Marriage does not make a Man blind

Drinking

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been going with a young man of mine for close to two years. He is 23 years old and has always been a heavy drinker. He is very good to me and has asked me to marry him several times but I hesitate. on account of his drinking. He says I'm the only one who can help him. Would my love, happiness and devoted care sober him up for good? Or would I be making a mistake to marry him before he's cured?

In Doubt

Many trusting women have hoped that love and devoted care would help to make a drinking man sober. But there is nothing convincing about the experiment, which seems to have met with more failure than success. A man must have the strongest character to combat this habit.

Wants Him Back After Quarrel

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Five weeks ago I met a man with whom I fell in love. He said he loved me and we planned our marriage. He has a good job and can give me a good home and everything I could want. My parents, too, are willing for this marriage to take place.

Last month we had a quarrel and I didn't see him for three weeks. Although I met quite a few men without seeing him I went to his home, which is in another town. He was home and acted as though he were glad to see me. But when we were alone he was indifferent. Do you think he loves me any more? Should I write to him? Trust him. I love him, Miss Fairfax, and do want him back. Do you think it would be all right for me to go to his home again and tell him I love him and ask him to come to me then?

Disappointed

He may be doing what is known as "teaching you a lesson". The fact that he was glad to see you when you arrived and didn't put on his show of indifference until you were alone is encouraging. Let him see that you have made up your difference to you this time. And don't quarrel again.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Outside Interests Make Life Richer

Dear Miss Fairfax:

What I want to know if always hoped it would be someone who would be satisfied with housekeeping. But I didn't want a marriage where the wife goes to every dance, bridge, tea-party minute before dinner and mixes up something out of a can. When I became married I persuaded my bride to give up her job.

We had a nice little apartment, well furnished, and I provided her an ample allowance for running expenses and to have good food I can say she's a perfect housekeeper and puts on excellent meals. But what I can't understand is that she insists on going to her bridge club once a week, and not joking. It is a women's club, and she belonged to it before we married.

Then she's always having concerts. I don't care for that sort of music, so she goes alone or with her mother. She always seem to be doing something. I married for companionship, but my wife seems to prefer gadding around several times a week.

Bachelor Husband

My advice is that you make your self sometimes, my dear man, especially to concerts. No one is too old to learn how to appreciate good music. Why not attend a class in music appreciation? These are held in all large cities. Learn something of the theory of music. Your wife will be richer for that.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Can you touch the floor with your fingers without bending your knees? Not shame on you. Anybody can do that. Well, if you say you can't, it is high time you got busy and limbered up. Keep on trying. When muscles limber up you'll be able to do it fast. Wonderful! Ten minutes night and morning.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wants to Reciprocate

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A neighbor has invited me to her home to meet a few of her intimate friends, and to play bridge. They were delightful and I would so much like to return the favor by asking her to come to my home. Do you think it would be all right after the first time? Should I or wait until at least one of the group invites me to her home with her consent? I am not at friends of the group, besides the hostess, should she not know if they would welcome me.

Roberta

I agree with you that it might appear a little forced, if you immediately invite the group, and only this group, to your home. But when you have had the chance to repay courtesies and grace, is to combine this group of your hostess' friends with a few of your own close friends. You might vary the type of party by your friends' time, for example, a dessert-and coffee party, followed by bridge or some other game.

Stepson's Marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I married a divorced man, and now his son by his former wife wants to be married very soon, at a church wedding.

I am completely confused as to the seating procedure at the church.

What pew should the boy's mother and her husband occupy, and in what pew should my husband and I sit?

Dorothy

At the church ceremony, the bridegroom's mother has her husband will sit in the front pew at the right side of the aisle. If the bridegroom's mother has other children, they will sit in this first pew with the bridegroom's father. family will all in the second pew. The bride and the bridegroom's father and the nearest relatives of the bridegroom's father, sit in the third or fourth pew.

Personal Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend of mine has been so ill that she has been in bed, and I want very much to send her a gift, in appreciation. What do you think would be appropriate for me to send?

B. P.

I suggest that you send her something that could be personalized with her initials or monogram, or the facsimile of her signature. For instance, you could have her initials or monogram, or the facsimile of her signature worked on a pen and pencil set. Or her initials put on her. Or you might have her initials. a monogram or her first name embroidered on some lovely handkerchiefs, or on a matching scarf and handkerchief.

Extra Ushers

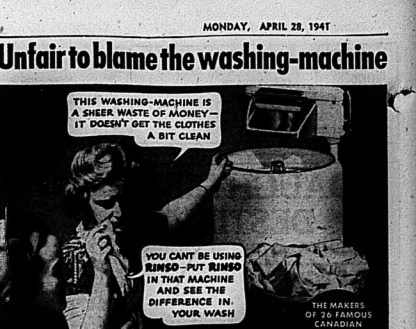
Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper to have more ushers than bridesmaids? We seem to need extra ushers to seat the guests.

T.

It is not necessary to have the same number of bridesmaids and ushers. The ushers walk together, after the bride, the processional and they also walk together, two by two, in the recessional. The bridesmaids, walk together, two by two, following the ushers, in the processional. They walk together, two by two, before the ushers, in the recessional.

Unfair to blame the washing-machine



HOWEVER good your washing-machine is, it's unfair to expect perfection unless you use the right washing preparation in it.

For best results you need Rinso! It dissolves instantly in hard water, rich, lasting suds that get clothes spotlessly clean. Whites are left white as snow—colors fresh and glowing. When you see how splendid your wash looks you'll never be satisfied with anything but Rinso again. Remember! Rinso is recommended by the makers of 26 leading washing-machines. So be sure to get Rinso for your next wash-day.

Weddings

DUDGEON—LAHEY

A quiet but pretty wedding took place in the chapel of Sacred Heart Church, Madoc at 10.30 a.m., on Monday, April 14th, when Miss Helen Pauline Lahey became the bride of Mr. John H. Dudgeon of Thomasburg. Mr. and Mrs. John J. Lahey acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. Athol Dudgeon, brother of the groom was best man.

Following a wedding dinner the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes on a trip to Montreal and Montreal, the bride travelling in a suit of dusky rose.

New Styles Not for the Curvy Gals

By HELEN FOLLETT

If a girl will get sufficient exercise, pay heed to her eating habits, she will grow a crease of firm fibres, and won't need a foundation garment any more than a kitten does.

The woman who has taken on adipose upholstery will find that with every movement should encase herself in a well-fitted foundation garment; there should be a law about it. With her bones laden with fat, a few bones applied to her exterior won't do her any harm. Dear friends, some of the new foundations are boned; boned aplenty.

Bestrids These Curves

With transparent velvets, chiffons and all the other lavelliere and flimsy fluff-stuffs now the rage for evening, women seem to be too straint on too abundant curves. Old Lady Fashion is never kind to the heavyweight girl, but doesn't do a thing of her. She designs her models for the lucky slimpsies, and the girls who are born bits like Mamie can go cry their eyes out for all she cares.

To select the proper garment when there is lip spread and tummy shelves requires professional skill and understanding; only the trained corsetiere can pick out the most flattering model. Thus the following hints are perforce, abide by the opinions and decisions of the wise one.

Can you touch the floor with your fingers without bending your knees? Not shame on you. Anybody can do that. Well, if you say you can't, it is high time you got busy and limbered up. Keep on trying. When muscles limber up you'll be able to do it fast. Wonderful! Ten minutes night and morning.

That good old exercise is the best there is for slithering down heavy thighs and to tighten up flabby arms. Stand with feet apart, hands at the sides. Lift the hands high above the head, bend the body low, try to pull yourself apart at the waistline. Down on the heels, down with the hands, straighten the floor without bending the knees.

If you can't do it, don't despair. Keep on trying. When muscles limber up you'll be able to do it fast. Wonderful! Ten minutes night and morning.

Ruth Draper Here Tuesday Night To Aid Red Cross

The late Charles A. Dana, one of the most prominent figures in the history of American journalism, was editor and part owner of the New York Sun for nearly thirty years up to the time of his death in 1897. Although he was blind for during mark upon many fields of his country's development he is best remembered and loved as a great newspaperman. Writing after a short record of his career one is struck by a highly revealing, sentence—"Success in life seems to be the style of the Sun—simplicity, strength, clear-ness." The latter part of this statement might well be used as description of any of the famous character sketches created by Dana's illustrious grandaughter, Ruth Draper. It is rather difficult to draw Miss Draper out on the subject of herself or of the preparatory work in the creation of her inimitable portraits but she has admitted that, beginning with a substantial amount of original material for a sketch, she will try it and whittle it down and, finally, "only keep the essentials." Here, it would seem, is a clear case of the handing down of the most vaunted trait of character, Her sketches are never set down on paper; they are thought out, developed and tested and carefully cut and polished that no single gem that each one of them finally becomes. They are "simple, strong, clear, bottled down".

Ruth Draper will appear here at the Capitol Theatre on Tuesday, April 29th, under the auspices of the Canadian Red Cross.

Good seats are still available at all prices at the Capitol Theatre Box Office, phone 376. We urge you not to miss this opportunity to see this great artist in her character sketches

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

An interesting celebration on April 20, was the 75th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Reddick Acker, 2nd Concession Sydney.

Mrs. Acker was born in Rawdon Township and is a native of Hastings county.

Better keep him home, if possible, until he is old enough to give you there. If you must take him to the theatre, you can't expect much on him and make him think he is playing hookey.

At home, pick out a few things he must never do. Tell him so just once, emphatically, and then see that he obeys. Tell him so just once, emphatically after he does the forbidden thing, and don't be cross or give a tantrum, act as if you don't notice the fact relating to these few forbidden acts allow no exception to occur. Be sure he always gets a good spanking. Don't tell at him. As soon as he learns the meaning of NO concerning these few forbidden acts, extend it to a few more.

Another Punishment

When you are sure he will stay in one place without being tied or tied, try another punishment for misbehavior. Make him sit in a chair within your view for exactly twenty minutes, letting him know he would get a spanking or paddling if he left the chair without permission. In this way you can abandon spanking.

Show him lots of affection when he is good. Answer all his questions. Enjoy his company. Be ever crude. Read to him a great deal.

Training a Toddler In Obedience

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

We want the tot and runabout to obey us when we are with him away from home. He will do so, as a rule, if he has been correctly trained.

A worried mother writes of her boy 21 months old: "Dear Dr. Myers: . . . He is hard-headed, stubborn and it is almost impossible to make him mind. He has always had lots of attention everywhere we go. Demands it when we have company in our home. He is also an only child.

"When we go in a store, etc., he immediately goes through everything. If I try to correct him, people say Oh, leave him alone, he's just all boy. Orh of these fine days they'll start saying there comes that darn ——— kid; I wish his mother would make him mind."

Determined Child

"This is the type of child that will do or die. If I tell him to leave something alone he keeps on until I take away from him. . . .

"If we are out and I make him stop doing something he immediately shows a fit; oftentimes falling on the floor and screaming. Please tell me how I can stop this. I have tried making him wear a harness; but he pulled on it until he fell down and then people looked at me like I had lost my mind, putting one of those things on a little child. I will appreciate anything you can tell me I enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope."

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

A Doctor's Dramatic Experiment on Himself with Round Worms

Dr. Assagioli decided to make himself as the guinea pig in an experiment, to find out more about the effects of worms on the human system. He wanted to know whether certain authentic stories corresponded to the stage when these worms are in the body.

He collected about two thousand round worms and swallowed them. On the fourth day he suffered from nausea, which developed a lot as in cases of asthma and sometimes brought up blood as in cases of pneumonia. Then such parasites were present in his sputum.

Of course, his symptoms were unduly severe because he swallowed so many of the eggs. Anyone known to most children, and who has swallow a small number of eggs.

Riddell calls for the spread of useful drug which in unskilful hands can be very dangerous as can other types of home treatments of children for worms.

I recall one recent case in my practice, that of a little girl who had all the symptoms of worms known to most children, and her mother undertook to give her a drug to kill them. The child went into convulsions a short time afterwards. The worms were killed but the little girl was left with a partially paralyzed side, probably for life.

I advise parents not to undertake treatment for worms until the child has been examined by a doctor and a treatment prescribed in accordance with the condition of its heart and body in general.

The most effective and safe method which I referred above, is given early in the morning, one drop for each year of age. It is given in sugar, usually, and followed by a dose of castor oil. This method is a strong one and this is one of the reasons why I recommend that you advise parents to give children Epsom salts a week later. Your doctor will recommend that the laxative be given every couple of months.

If the treatment is going to be effective, worms will begin to appear in the faeces shortly after treatment has begun. If it isn't a success, the worms may not appear for a few hours and a physician probably will not be rid of them until further treatment.

It is often advisable for a doctor to be present, for occasionally when the child begins to work a dose of these worms will create congestion in the lower intestine, and an enema must be given to help loosen the mass.

As all this indicates, the treatment for round worms is severe. Prevention is much easier and safer. The best means making sure that all fruits and vegetables are thoroughly washed, and that the personal habits are clean.

Moves Here

Jack McFarland and Elmer who have been employed at Trenton operations since the latter shut the large wood factory at Crook Lake have in the last few days, come across more miles of the province of wives in Lake Township. No less than six carcasses of deer were seen by trappers, one being of a fine specimen of which only one of the horns of the antlers were left. "The wolves are like the Germans, ruthless" said Mr. McFarland. "They always know where to find their victims. They slightly come back to finish off their carcass and they might be back."

The Canadian National Railways has a gang of about 200 men at work tearing up the railway track between Eldorado and Cordova Mines. It is expected the work will take about three weeks. SOMETIMES MEN CAN NEVER RETURN

'Another business trip over. 'Away only a week this time but even that is too long. Not very keen about these journeys away from home and those two growing youngsters; but, he had not much choice about this trip. However, he was back once more and would soon see them again. They will have missed him.

When he left, little Janny had been hard at work trying to get that little patch of flowers pushed up to show him what a helper she is. She won't fail to point out how they have grown while he was away.

And at that, how these youngsters do grow! It seems only a few short years ago that Ruth was the entire family. Must be about sixteen now and looks just like her mother.

Come to think of it, only seventeen years since he married: happiest years of his life. Mary had made a real home for him and he had been fortunate in keeping away from the horrors of the world men work in. As long as he could, he would keep it that way, though he knew that some day he might have to leave and never return to them.

Well, he had guarded against that time. No doubt about the sound wisdom of having an experienced executor-trustee named in his Will to look after the investments and property of his estate—they know what to do to make an estate earn the most. But best of all would be certainty that nothing happened to him, Mary and the girls would be under a sensibly business-like yet friendly protection.

WINNIPEG GAINS GAME LEAD OVER MONTREAL JRS.

Score 6-4 Victory and Need One Game to Win the Memorial Cup

MEDYNSKI STARS

By ROBERT CLARE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, April 28 (CP)— Winnipeg Rangers were confident today that they could need to feed only one more coin into the Memorial Cup slot machine to hit hockey's jumior jack-pot.

The westerners set the stage for this Saturday night when they defeated Montreal Royals here 6-4 before close to 9,000 customers in the third game of their best-of-five series for the Dominion title. The teams meet in their fourth game tonight in Montreal, while a fifth game, if necessary, will be played here Tuesday night.

Hero of the third game, which was lightning-fast from the opening start to finish, was Lou Medynski who fired the winning goal with less than a minute and a half to play. Medynski played the game despite the fact he suffered a head gash in practice some weeks ago that required 16 stitches. Coach Baldy Northcott was forced to use him because of an injury to Bob Macey, who ordinarily holds down the left wing spot on Winnipeg's second line.

The other Winnipeg goals went to Les Horner, Bill Shmyr, Bob Ballance, who made it a play for Medynski's winning goal, and Sammy Pahos, who scored on a breakaway only 22 seconds from the end of the game. Bunny Glover of Royals was the only player to get more than one goal, while the other scores were made by Jack Hamilton and Bill Southwick.

Medynski's score came just when it appeared certain that the game would head into overtime. Coach Lorne Wabbs of Royals was so sure that the game would go into extra time he had just marked his defence-ace, Southwick, to give the player a much needed rest in preparation for overtime.

The standouts of the game were the two pointsiders—Ross Ritchie and Hal Thompson—with the latter getting the nod for being particularly brilliant in the opening period and Ritchie consistently dangerous throughout the last two sessions.

'Cobra's' Showing Most Satisfactory

Buffalo, N.Y., April 26 (AP)—A Royal Air Force test completed performance tests yesterday in a Bell Aircraft and Company official announced "the tests proved the fighter plans to be the fastest single-shaft aircraft now in production."

Although forbidden to discuss performance specifications, a Bell Aircraft Corporation spokesman added that a "ceiling in excess of 35,000 feet was established" and that the plane's cannon and six machine guns had been tested satisfactorily at altitudes above 30,000 feet in temperatures of 66 degrees below zero.

The plane's top speed has been reported to be around 400 miles an hour.

In war paint, the interceptor pursuit was piloted by Wing Cmdr. James R. Adams. The series of tests was completed in 67 minutes. Adams said he was "entirely satisfied with the Cobra's showing."

The ship, from the Buffalo plant's production lines, carried 420 pounds of ammunition beside the cannon, which fires through the propeller hub in the nose, and the 50 and 30-calibre machine guns.

The manufacturer's guarantees were "exceeded with an average of eight per cent. to spare" in every test, the firm said.

Basketball

Kingston Hi-Y hoopsters beat the Belleville Juvenile cagers 40 to 34 in a Belleville basketball game played at the Y.M.C.A. here on Saturday. The game was a return match of a previous match played in Kingston some time ago when the Kingston sit-Y kids again proved too strong for the Belleville juveniles.

Ben Ogilvie and Glen Robertson paced the homesters with an even dozen points each, James following with six. Bowering and Armstrong were the big threats with the visitors, however.

The line-ups:

Kingston Hi-Y: Yates 4, Bowering 14, Armstrong 13, Warminston, Grey, White, Guernsey 2 and Chabot 7.

Belleville "Y": Robertson 12, James 6, Ogilvie 12, McClelland, Lancaster, Mott 4, Cameron and Hart.

Referee: Ed. Shortt.

REDS ARE COMING

By JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

This is the week end and the west coast for the first frantic showdown of the infant major league campaign. The two circuits cleared their decks for action during the week-end by elevating a pair of new leaders—Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Cardinals.

The intersectional strife is scheduled for a flitting start today at Cincinnati as the Cincinnati Reds collaiding with the Dodgers.

The Reds will be in expert signal rocket for the full fireworks that will be aloft tomorrow.

Both opponents are cruising at full speed after being left at the post. Since losing its first four games, Cincinnati has won seven of its last eight and has mopped up everybody in the west except St. Louis. The Reds completed their divisional dynamiting yesterday with a 3-2 triumph over Pittsburgh Pirates as Bucky Walters bested Rip Sewell in a pitching duel.

The Dodgers, after dropping their first three games to New York Giants, have copped 10 of their last 11 contests and bumped the Giants out of the National League lead with a 7-5 decision yesterday. That was Hugh Casey's third straight victory, all at the expense of the Giants. He wasn't around at the finish, getting way to a pinch-hitter in the sixth.

Ball Field Triumph

The Cardinals nailed down their fifth triumph in six starts with an 8-5 conquest of Chicago Cubs. The St. Louis sluggers pounded four Chicago hurlers for 15 hits.

In Sunday's other National League game Boston Bees have snapped out of their losing streak with an 8-3 decision over the pitiful Phillies.

Cleveland gained the American League lead by topping out Detroit Tigers 3-1, while Washington Senators ambushed New York Yankees 6-3. In the spectacular mound struggle at Cleveland, Schoolboy Rowe gave only five hits to six the Tigers collected off Bobo Feller. But Rowe was victimized by a two-run homer by Jeff Heath in the seventh inning.

Steve Sundra, who was sold to the Senators by the Yanks earlier this month, held his old teammates to five hits to get even revenge. Meanwhile Cecil Travis, returning to the Washington lineup after an injury, slapped out two doubles and a triple to lead a 12-hit attack.

Chicago White Sox shaded St. Louis Browns 7-6 by getting 15 hits to the Browns' 12.

Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Athletics were rained out.

"TIRED" ALL THE TIME

She felt nervous, dizzy, sleepless—how to sleep—how to regain energy! She felt she was losing health's greatest blessings, until a friend suggested Dodd's Kidney Pills. At once she began to feel better. She "pushed out" feeling that was soon replaced by new energy and restful sleep. Headache, backache and other ills of faulty kidneys disappeared.

TORONTO LEAFS SCORE 3-1 WIN OVER THE CHIEFS

Buffalo Bisons Wheel Into Second Place Behind Newark Bears

MONTREAL CLIMBS

By The Associated Press

Buffalo's baseball fans, who hardly knew whether they'd have an entry in the International League this season until Detroit Tigers began sending down unwanted players, probably spend their spare time now pinching themselves with crossed fingers.

The pinching is to reassure themselves about seeing the hastily assembled Herd up in second place, and the fingers are kept crossed lest something happen to the Tigers that might bring about the recall of some of the valuable players farmed out to Buffalo.

The Bisons took second by handing the league-leading Newark Bears their first shutout of the season, 3-0, in the opener of a doubleheader and then carrying the nightcap to an extra inning before losing 7-6.

Toronto Maple Leafs shoved Jersey City down from a second-place tie by whipping the Little Giants 3-1 while Montreal's Royals moved up a notch to Buffalo's only doubleheader victory, beating Baltimore 6-4 and 9-5. The remaining twin bill saw Syracuse and Rochester split a pair of 10-inning games, the Chiefs winning the first 2-1 and Rochester's Red Wings the second 6-5.

Tracks Allows Only 2 Hits

Virgil (Fire) Trucks, up from Beaumont, was mainly responsible for whitewashing Newark. He gave up only three hits and fanned 10 men to bring his strikeout to 20 in 18 innings. It was his third victory of the season. Newark tied up the nightcap in the seventh inning when Pat Mullin, Bison outfielder, dropped a fly that would have ended the game, and won out in the 10th when Ed Levy singled, Tim Padden doubled and Bose Berger's base-hit scored Levy.

A 20-hit attack paced by Johnny Hudson, who drove in four runs with five blows, effet Baltimore's home run clouting and gave Montreal its two victories.

Good pitching marked the other games although Porterfield, Walters and Sewell all have had from V-I- ile Eaves in holding the Jersey Giants to six hits. A costly error by Red Davis led to a pair of Maple Leaf runs in the fourth inning that decided the ball game.

Work has been begun between Omaha and Sacramento on the final link of the first all-cable transcontinental telephone line in the United States.

NEARER ARMY NOW

Hank Greenberg, slugging outfielder of the Detroit Tigers, whose salary this year is reported to be $40,000, leaves Harper hospital in Detroit, Mich., after undergoing a medical examination that may keep him off the diamond. A few hours later, while Hank was playing with his team, Chairman Sen Shepherd of the ballplayers' local draft board, announced that "it is the judgment and belief of the medical advisory board that Henry Greenberg is qualified for general military service." Now that Greenberg's classification of 1A has been confirmed, that $40,000 yearly salary may soon dwindle to $21 a month as an army private.

FOR A PEOPLE AT WAR

"Democracy can only be measured in the sort of men and women it produces, and unless it does do it will collapse. In Fascism they teach that fraud is better than truth; violence is better than reason; ignorance is better than knowledge; and hate is to be desired rather than love".—Rev. R. R. Latimer, rector of Holy Trinity Church, Chatham.

Between the Lines

with Ken J. Colling

"As Others See Us"—could well be the title for today's column.

Rev. Hamilton Hemmings Aitchison in Kingston a large number of boys from the Royal Air Force in England have been training for some months. These airmen have a weekly publication of their own called "The Pioneer," in which was recently set an English lad's impression of hockey and other Canadian sports, which is far-fetched, we pass it along. The author calls himself "Cecil" and he gives his impressions; which about coincide with some Canadians' idea of cricket or soccer.

At any rate Cecil's ideas of hockey are as follows:

"This mostly for our children, we will talk about hockey, and by hockey I do not refer to that gentle game as played on the green fields of Britain by:

(a) Schools or Seminaries for Nice Young Ladies.

(b) Members of Colleges and Clubs for Nice Young Men.

(c) Always when, seeing is an unfortunate mis-spent youth, are unable to participate in more respectable sports.

The hockey to which I now refer, should be played in Canada, on ice; a manly skeletal imitation of Association Foot and that mayhem, well fitted to take the place assigned to it in other games of Western Hemisphere, i.e., baseball; football (American variety) and (ob bathes) basketball.

From a brief and but recently acquired acquaintance with ice hockey, I gather that its male function or object is the same as that of the circuses of Ancient Rome, namely to please and kill a maximum number of individuals in a minimum of time. Or, to misquote a great statesman, "Never have so few done so much to so many."

A subsidiary function, of course, is to enable the spectators with a legal excuse for committing acts which, in other places and where would earn them at least ten years' enforced sojourn in the penitentiary.

There would appear, however, to be certain rules governing this exhibition of mass homicide and fel-de-se. These may be summarized briefly:

(A) The contestant players are equipped with steel skates and wooden clubs (or sticks), an advantage not enjoyed by the spectators. Some protection in the exercise is provided with skates but denied a club (or stick) which is for the purpose of self-defence. As far as I can discover hockey sticks are not regarded as a standard item of equipment.

(B) The combatant players are garbed in raiment of disconcertingly brilliant colors, presumably to ensure that they make good targets.

(C) By hockey etiquette, the activities of players and spectators may not include firearms. They may charge of firearms. They may include, however, the following order of ferocity:

(1) Mute discontent.

(2) Disparaging comment.

(3) Increased vocal displeasure indicated by hurling invectives.

(4) Fisticuffs.

(5) Throwing of missiles. For this purpose eggs are found to be extremely suitable; hence the familiar expression "eggs mark the spot."

I hope, dear children, that the above will have given you some idea of the possibilities of ice, hockey.

Oh, and finally, there is used in this game a small circular article known as a "puck." I intend to conduct a research into the reason-d'etre of the puck, which research will require several months' work. If successful I hope to be able to tell you why a "puck" is almost invariably present when ice hockey is in progress.

Do you remember when Benny Leonard then holder of the world's lightweight boxing championship, scored a technical knockout over Willie Ritchie 40 seconds before the end of the eighth and final round of a bout at Newark, 22 years ago tonight? Leonard retired undefeated in 1924.

With the month of May, when outdoor sporting activities open locally, just a matter of a few hours in the offing, the Belleville softball moguls are preparing for action. President Ted Schwalk instructed Secretary Barney Smith to call the girls' executive together tonight, while Secretary Harry Knott has announced the men's league will hold conference on Tuesday night, with schedules being the chief business on the agenda at both conferences.

They're having a rel outing in the two major ball loops, where a new day practically assures a new leader. Today it's Cleveland and St. Louis Cardinals out in front, Bob Feller leading the Tribesters yesterday, while Washington turned tables on the Yankees, Brooklyn proved to Bill Terry and the Giants that the pesky Dodgers are very much in the National League this year, as the Flatbush nine not only beat the Giants, but in so doing cooed 'em out of first place as the Cardinals beat Bill Lee and the Cubs to take over the leading shot, but never worry, the old Giants will find their own level and baseball will resume its long grind.

SPORT SPICE—The International League opens in Toronto on Thursday, let in the meantime hockey is still with us ..... It was a great week-end for the western clubs when they won the Minneapolis Juniors beat Montreal 6-4 while in Regina the Rangers beat Sydney Millionaires 4-3 to keep in the Allan Cup picture..... Although there is to be no Ottawa this year, the Y.M.C.A. team are holding an impromptu open night on Wednesday evening at which time the public is cordially invited to attend and cast a vote for what be-ing done among the teen-aged boys of the community. Ice Revues ..... Reads like old times to see Arsenal and Preston N. E. encountered as usual finishing over the pond..... England beat Wales 3-1 in an exhibition football tilt..... There!

AT THE CAPITOL

"Shadows On The Stairs" A hair-raising mystery film, packed with excitement, thrilled Capitol audiences Sunday night, when Warner Bros' "Shadows On The Stairs" had its initial local showing. It is the story of a gang of ruthless criminals who use a London boarding house for their hideout.

Frieda Inescort, who has never given a poor performance, keeps up the good work with her current role as the owner of the boarding house who tries to restore peace to the place. Phil Kavanagh gives a smooth, realistic portrayal of a person who is anxious to get to the bottom of all the mysterious goings-on in his own peculiar manner. Heather Angel is charming as Miss Inescort's daughter and gives the film a touch of feminine charm, she falls in love with Bruce Lester, who gives a splendid performance as a young playwright. der and Phyllis Barry lead the supporting cast in the roles of two treacherous but unknown innocently involved in the crimes.

One morning Cavanagh is found murdered in his room, evidently because his investigations revealed too much. Scotland Yard and the Yard is called in, they show that anyone in the house could have killed him. After many an exciting moment Cavanagh told himself: "I'm going to be saved. They'll get me out—but I must find evidence.

The next thing I remember was Barry dropp ed a revolver trickling down my throat."

Cavanagh reached a few hours before Cormack but died in hospital the same night.

AT THE BELLE

"That Night in Rio"

The pulsating tempo of the Samba is taken from the screen to Belleville Fox hit, "That Night in Rio," now at the Belle Theatre. Carmen Miranda, who does the Samba sensationally, was discovered in "Down Argentine Way," but as this latest musical feature proves, was capable of all doubts were dispelled. It's even greater!

Catchy tunes by Mack Gordon and Harry Warren, exciting dances by Carmen Miranda and Don Ameche as stepping stems (Carmen incidentally is playing the lead in a full length role in an American film), clever comedy lines by Don Ameche and the alluring appeal for Alice Faye in a delightful setting story, make "That Night in Rio," one of the season's best entertainers.

The technicolor camera has captured the richness and full tropical beauty of Rio de Janeiro, and this holds true for the interior sets and exterior shots. The original costumes by Yolanda Cuomo fashion show up unusually well, too.

The story is one of situation. Don Ameche portrays two roles, an American night club performer and a Rio man-about-town, and in the night club performer he is engaged by Carmen Miranda and Curt Bois. The Baron, he is married to Alice Faye. But foe a sum of money the night club performer impersonates the baron, whom he resembles to the last hair of his mustache, and they begin popping when the two impersonators meet each other.

We mentioned tunes by Gordon and Warren. There are five to be exact: "I'll Remember April," "Chica, Boom, Chic," "Boa Noite," "They Say It's Wonderful," and "You're On Is In Conference." All except the last two are sung by the three principals, and Carmen sings all of them, sung.

The supporting cast has some very amusing comedians, particularly S. Z. Sakall, Curt Bois and Leonid Kinskey. J. Carrol Naish plays the part of an overbearing Brazilian banker.

"That Night in Rio," is the title of a funny color cartoon to be presented at the Belle tonight and with the latest World News Events, and Caribbean Sentinels in color travelfalk.

WRECKAGE TOMB FOR EIGHT DAYS

Glasgow Man Survived Experience, But His Pal Died After Rescue

Glasgow, April 28 (CP) — John Cormack, 22, was tired out when he reached the Clydeside tenement where he lived. Through enemy bombers were overhead he went to bed. A tremendous crash woke him a few hours later. The building was rocking. The light in the room came on and went out. He discovered he was trapped in bed by debris.

Eight days afterwards Cormack was dug out of the wreckage. Rushed to hospital, he collapsed later he had recovered sufficiently to describe his nightmarish experience. Doctors were astonished he lived so long without food or water.

After the bomb fell Cormack found a heavy beam lay on inches in front of his neck. He couldn't move his head forward. He could not move his legs at all. The bedclothes were wrapped around him, trussing him like a mummy. Dust choked him. There was a smell of gas. He realized he wasn't hurt. He felt no fear. He started to walk — —

Later he heard faint voices calling for help. He answered and was that of Fred Clark. Clark, 32-year-old war reserve policeman, said something was jammed on his legs. Subsequently Cormack heard Clark crying for water. He himself felt neither hungry nor thirsty. Later still he heard Clark start: "Dyou hear the sirens?"

He had some nightmares, all of them about snowstorms. A long time afterward he heard voices digging. Trying to keep a grip on memories Cormack told himself: "I'm going to be saved. They'll get me out—but I must find evidence.

The next thing I remember was Barry drops of a revolver trickling down my throat."

Cormack was rescued a few hours before Cormack but died in hospital the same night.

GREECE'S FIGHT MUST CONTINUE IN LITTLE ISLES

Premier Tsouderos Says Destiny Has Chosen Isles of Britain and Crete as Last but Worthy Ramparts of Free Races in 'Europe

HISTORY CITED

Canea, Crete, April 28 (AP)—Greek Premier Emmanuel Tsouderos declared today that Greece's fight must be continued unflinchingly "in our little islands."

"Destiny," he declared, "has chosen two islands as the last but worthy ramparts of the free peoples of Europe: The great island of Britain and this great island of Crete.

(Crete, off the southern coast of Greece, is the island of Premier Venizelos, King George of Greece and his government moved there before the Nazi occupation of Athens in order to carry on Greek resistance.)

"Here, whatever may be the determination the peoples of these islands, they will today a supreme battle of liberty," Tsouderos said.

"I am speaking from Crete, a country which has defied violence has swept over Europe. Hungary has fallen and Italy and similar barbaric invasions but the civilization of Crete has not been defeated and will not.

"What now remains for us to do? The fight must be continued in our little islands without flinching.

"The British Empire and government are here among you for the supreme task of the defence of Crete and the honor of Greece.

"Sacrifices do not count....I am sure Britain will not forget the help given in Athens and that Greece will not only be free but the greater because of her struggles."

Alexandria And Crete In More Vulnerable Area

Washington, April 28 (AP).—Whatever military course following the conquest of Greece, one seeming certainty is that his bombers soon will be within easier full flying range of the British Mediterranean fleet and Egyptian bases.

Prime Minister Churchill forecast that "we shall soon be fighting the air in the Mediterranean and "above all in the air" would become fierce and widespread.

Alexandria, vital base of British manpower, Egyptian wheat lines and pipelines reach the sea, and the naval itself is the important instrument that facilities may be destined to severe bombing.

There are two reasons to believe, however, that by aerial attacks alone neither Egypt nor Alexandria as a naval can be more than harassed. Whatever military course the Axis and East demands a successful drive by ground which air raids can only supplement. What such a drive is a new phase of the struggle between air and sea power.

Advantages For Luftwaffe.

The occupation of Greece and the panther divisions' desert drive assisted in Egypt would be a triumph for the German airmen numerous important advantages.

Skirmishing with the British forces at Salum, on the Egyptian frontier, they now fly from bases more than 300 miles by air from Alexandria and Cairo, only 475 miles from the canal.

Greek airfields numbers are some 600 miles from Alexandria and some 700 from the canal, whereas Italy's Mediterranean bases are 1,000 miles now are in a position to reinforces and supply the Libyan forces for bases are but 270 or so miles from Alexandria and communication and pipelines are even closer.

And Crete, the Grecian island which British war has quite to convert into an outpost bastion, is only an hour's flying time from Greece itself the Greek Peninsula or Rhodes, in the Dodecanese.

Thus for the first time the Axis is in a strong position to imperil by air British domination of the eastern Mediterranean.

Difficult To Block.

But sea-level Suez, depending no more than a few hours' bombing than the Panama Canal.

German experts have acknowledged that in an emergency a new ship channel could be dug through within a few days through the soft sandy banks around any sunken ships that might block the canal. A complete blocking could only hamper the flow of supplies to Egypt, as long as British controls the Red Sea, since ships could pass between the two seas is paralleled by both railway and highway.

Britain's prospects of holding on in the Middle East are brightened by several considerations. Foremost is the confidence of the stubborn Britons themselves that they can halt their foes, and that even should they lose the Mediterranean and the Near East they can hold Africa, Africa, the rest of the Empire and the United States will continue the war with United States aid.

AUSSIES BEING WITHDRAWN FROM GREEK CAMPAIGN

Considerable Losses in Heavy Material to be Expected

NO DISUNITY

Sydney, Australia, April 28 (CP) —Withdrawal of certain Australian troops from Greece has begun "and as far as this has proceeded it has been successful," Australian Premier Percy C. Spender said today. He added he was unable to confirm or deny reports that the majority of the Australians and New Zealanders had been removed safely from the Hellenic Peninsula with their weapons.

Official sources in London reiterated immediately to confirm or deny the withdrawal.

R. S. Poll, Minister of Information, said last night Australia would be told when the Australian soldiers' activities and the equipment they carried in the Greek campaign when Parliament meets.

He declared the Australian people had not disapproved the sending of Australian forces to Greece.

Mr. Spender said Australia's remarkable losses in heavy material are expected to mount. Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, Officer Commanding the Australian Imperial Force, has been ordered to evacuate the men before the tanks and other equipment.

Hitler's next aim, he said will be to strike at Britain's life line in an attempt to close the Suez Canal and the Straits of Gibraltar no air and land attacks.

Had to Keep Bond

There had been some criticism of the campaign in Greece that Australians knew some war losses would be incurred and realized they had to keep their bond with Greece.

Chief Minister Harold Holt cabled Prime Minister Menzies in London that Australia supported him unanimity in Australia is "utterly false." The industrial situation is better than it was before the war began and there is no hold-up or stoppage in munitions or any industry, the Labor Minister said.

Mr. Spender said the industrial war working well, co-operation with union leaders is increasing and workers are showing a keen understanding the enemy threat to their industries and their country. Total war effort, the concentration upon the war effort which has been ordered is having results.

Australia, he declared, was not seeking scapegoats for recent events but will review the present realities and seek to reform weaknesses as strength.

PILOT KILLED IN NIGHT FLIGHT

Plane Crashed After Taking Off From Airport at Carberry, Manitoba

Carberry, Man., April 28—(CP)—The first fatality at the Royal Air Force, was killed last night when the Harvard plane he was flying solo crashed just after taking off from the Aerodrome Flying Training School at this town 100 miles west of Winnipeg, Leo. Pernsky, 20, of Carberry, it is listed as his father, L. Pernsky, of 36 Ellison Avenue, in the Middlesex, England, was on night flying exercises when the crash was not determined.

FOREST FIRES IN ALTA.

Edmonton, April 28 —(CP)— Forest fires, mainly about Alberta areas during the weekend, taking toll of life and property.

Two groups of firefighters were trapped yesterday in the Rocky Mountain House district, 127 miles southwest of here, and in the Wetaskiwin area, 75 miles southeast of Edmonton, a volunteer aiding a forest patrol died when overcome by smoke.

The victim, fighting a fire at Pigeon Lake, was H. E. William, 57, who suffered a heart attack.

More than a dozen fires were reported in the Rocky Mountain House district where mills and farm homes have been destroyed, causing thousands of dollars damage.

LITTLE PROGRESS

Tobruk, the beleaguered British garrison 70 miles to the south inside Libya, still held out against repeated German-Italian attacks and occasionally the forces there were making some forays of their own.

Air Activity

Alfredo Signoretti, Italian commander-in-chief in East Africa, declared in a broadcast today that the virtually-completed Axis conquest of Europe would be used as a springboard for attaining new prizes in Africa and Asia—British Africa, that is.

Observers in London explain and different ideas on the future course of the war, however.

Diplomatic circles in Vichy expressed belief Germany's next thrust will be toward Soviet Russia's Ukraine—a possibility also mentioned yesterday by Winston Churchill.

Officiality of Vichy "diplomatic" speculation is open to question because of well-founded belief it is sometimes inspired rather than accurate flying, engendered by strategically-dropped planted rumors.

In Moscow, Red Star, organ of the Soviet army, said spring manoeuvres were getting under way around the Black Sea and reported for the first time that Soviet "airmen" were in the Greek Islands of Samothrace and Lemnos, which island within the Dardanelles entrance to the Black Sea.

The paper threw no light on the Russian attitude toward the German occupation of Greece, however, commented that Lemnos had "great military significance."

The Turkish press also remarked on the occupation of the Greek islands as a menace to Turkey and the newspaper Vatan declared the Greek islands must be "strongly armed" to accept even the smallest demands as a declaration of war".

Significantly, observers generally showed interest in the new, but defective of Nazi armed force. The Rock's new governor and commander-in-chief, Lieutenant-General chief of the British Imperial Staff and commander-in-chief of the expeditionary force in France last year, arrived there yesterday with his staff.

LATEST ARRIVALS

"Production is of no use without trained airmen and ground staff," the Duke said.

Start Training at Once

The soldiers went to a Canadian base holding unit where gunners, bombardiers, wireless operators, engineers launched immediately into overseas training or went direct to their regiments.

A road construction company of 300 men with modern equipment expected to start construction work in a few days.

The first representative group of the Canadian Legion overseas for British armored formations where they will be trained in mechanized warfare with the latest instructing Canadian tank men later.

The air force establishment was the largest group of Canadian-trained Imperial Army men to reach the United Kingdom. Their arrival was announced yesterday after they had been landed train, to their new stations and the convoy had disembarked.

With the new arrivals came the first recruiting party of the Canadian Armoured Corps and a large contingent of men for the Royal Canadian Engineers, complete with their equipment, including tractors.

Infantrymen, army doctors, dentists, chaplains, provost detachments and a number of new troops as well as a huge batch of general reinforcements.

Canadians, New Zealanders, Australians, Britons and soldiers of Americans were included in the air force detail in the convoy.

With the arrival of these new additions to the Canadian Corps, came the announcement that two Canadian brigadiers had succeeded to posts in the command staff of the corps held hitherto by out-standing British officers.

"Establishment of the Canadian Junior war staff course from which the first graduates will soon become available has made it possible to appoint a steady flow of replacements in staff appointments," Ottawa said. Brig. Gen. Naughton, commander of the Canadian Corps organized in France. Brig. E. L. M. Burns, Ottawa, becomes Brigadier of the General Staff, and Brig. H. D. Turner, Fredericton, N.B., was named Deputy Adjutant and Quarter-master-General.

Both will assume their duties the corps of the General Staff which thus be completely Canadian.

Appointed to Shore Or Ship Stations As Sub-Lieutenants

Victoria, April 28 (CP)—Three Victoria boys, approximately the young men from all parts of Canada, have been named to the Royal Canadian Navy as probationary sub-Lieutenants in the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve, it was announced by R.C.N.R. Royal Roads.

Following, without ceremony of any kind, they were posted to shore or ship stations as sub-Lieutenants, having passed their examinations in seamanship, gunnery, navigation, pilotage and other phases of naval training.

Among the first graduates were: Oswald Orr Paddon, St. Thomas and Frederick Thomas Cook, Strathroy.

DESSIE CAPTURED

Only Two Strongholds Left

London, April 28 (CP)—Military circles in London said today the Duke of Aosta, Viceroy of Ethiopia, had not moved his headquarters there, last was reported in the vicinity of Dessie but were unable to confirm reports that he had been captured when the town fell.

These circles said Gondar, 250 miles northwest of Addis Abeba and 100 miles southeast of Lake Tana, and Jimma 160 miles southwest of Addis Abeba, now are the Italians' last strongholds left in Ethiopia but that there probably are some other pockets of resistance.

The port of Assab, in Eritrea near the southern end of the Red Sea, also remains in Italian hands, they said.

Roads run from Dessie, a town of about 36,000 population, to Asmara and Assab, Eritrea, to Gondar and to British-occupied Addis Ababa.

The Information Ministry described Dessie, a town on a high plateau, as the key to communications the Duke of Aosta had selected for his headquarters.

Only last week the Italian Viceroy announced that, in view of unconditional surrender.

Meanwhile, the British forces had been attacking from all sides was said by the Ministry to have driven the Italians from Amba Alagi, rising from Addis Abeba. The Ministry said the British were receiving and ammunition for three months of vessels has been diverted to the patrol. Their types have not been announced but it was said assumed they included destroyers, torpedo boats, mine sweepers, sweepers and the larger yachts converted into naval auxiliaries. Widespread mining of the coast is also operating in the patrol).

The Prime Minister disclosed for the first time that Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, British commander against the Italians in Africa never was able to bring more than two British divisions, 30,000 men into battle on the desert front.

Drawn from Army of 500

Despite the small size of the forces available for the fight in Africa Britain felt obliged in fulfillment of her pledge to help the army to Greece, when that little country resisted the Italian invasion over the Italians, that she had to fight Germany as well.

There sent to Greece were drawn from the army of the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealanders, the rest from Britain, the Prime Minister said.

He added that German preparations had been made for months ing to promote bad blood between Britain and the antipathies dominions by suggesting that the British contributed little to the defence of the Dominions into a fight in which it was necessary to risk forces from the homeland.

He added he would have it to the House later that charge.

Suffered Defeat in Libya

"While grievous events were taking place in the Balkans peninsula and in Greece," he continued, "our forces in Libya sustained a reverse, which we greatly regret.

"The Germans advanced sooner and in greater strength than we or our generals expected."

"But," he added, "we drained the Italians out of Cirenaica and it was only when we had to withdraw our forces from Libya to the province of Cirenaica.

"That was a disorder task and we cannot expect to do it at once.

"There is only one thing certain about war and that is that there are disappointments and mistakes."

Mr. Churchill said Britain proposes to be seen whether it is the Germans who have made a mistake in trampling down the Balkan states and in making a new front there and have between themselves and the Greek and Yugoslav peoples.

"It remains to be seen whether they have made a mistake in their attempts to break the British lines forces and means of supply which enclose them.

He did not venture a prophesy of the outcome of the campaign but said that if he who offered battle he would be defeated as he was in Gen. Wavell's position than in that of the German African command.

British Press Cautious

London, April 28—(CP) — The Press played up today Prime Minister Churchill's statement that United States aid in the Battle of the Atlantic, for which Britain was expecting too much comfort from the Germans.

The Manchester Guardian predicted that the United States navy shall see something like a division of labor between the American and British fleets, but a division of labor that does not break any political ties.

The Daily Herald called for "the full use of the American navy's weapon, a mood in which, by a united effort, we can overcome the menace of submarine warfare.

This newspaper warned against "the danger of Nazi taboo which stick to their rose - colored spectacles . . . beaming in the direction of the United States."

The Daily Mail commented: "Britain has been fighting and has suffered a serious reverse in Greece, but the struggle is not to the United States to, comfort. It is to the United States to make our own effort. . . . The United States navy . . . is a breakwater help. That help can not be given one time to come be decisive."

Washington (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's high appraisal of the role of the United States navy's extended offshore patrol in the Battle of the Atlantic aroused keen interest today in Washington.

Secretary President Roosevelt disclosed on Friday that naval ex-

BATTLE OF

Predicts Total Defeat

But, Mr. Churchill continued, "No prudent and far-seeing man can doubt that eventual and total defeat of Hitler and Mussolini is certain in view of the respective and clear resolve of the British and American democracies.

"There are less than 70,000,000 malignant Huns, none of whom are ready for defeat, among the 45,000,000 people of the British Empire and the United States number 300,000,000 in their homelands and in British dominions and allies. They are determined that the cause of freedom shall not be trampled down.

He said the winning of the battle of the Atlantic was imperative and that that was why he learned with "inexpressible relief" of President Roosevelt's patrol decision. Which he said would make it possible for Britain to concentrate on ocean routes nearer home.

Patrol Can Spot Subs

"The United States naval patrol extended far into the Atlantic under orders declared last Friday by President Roosevelt, is in a position to spot and report enemy submarine or surface raiders at very great distances," he declared, adding that by timely warnings Allied and neutral shipping to avoid the areas in which submarines are known to be operating. It has been reported also that a large number of vessels has been diverted to the patrol. Their types have not been announced but it was said assumed they included, destroyers, torpedo boats, mine sweepers, sweepers and the larger yachts converted into naval auxiliaries. Widespread mining of the coast is also operating in the patrol).

At the convoy discussion proceeded, meanwhile, Secretary Knox, Senator Lodge-Nebraska and Richard Russell (Dem.-Georgia) came out in favor of convoying United States naval vessels to Britain because of the emergency.

Norris, who fought unsuccessfully to have a provision against convoys written into the British-aid bill, told reporters he favored giving British battleships, cruisers or other fleet units needed to protect her convoys.

Difference of Opinion

If the United States navy should undertake convoy duty, he said, it might tie up most of the fleet. He said he doubted that Japan to try further expansion in the Pacific.

While saying he was anxious to have a convoy system set up Russell informed reporters he did not yet favor convoys and would not vote for the bill if United States warships to the British.

Senator Nelson (Dem.-Minnesota), strong supporter of administration policies, said reports were he wanted "to deliver the goods - Great Britain needs right now."

"I am in favor of convoying the goods we sell or give and if necessary carrying them in our own merchant ships. It is time to start convoying and I believe we ought to be doing it long ago."

An informal poll of the Senate, said to have been taken by leaders as a result of Churchill's statement, indicated that at least 45 of the 96 members would oppose any legislation specifically authorizing convoying.

Berlin Communique

Berlin, April 28 (AP). — Leaving the swastika on the Acropolis over the ancient glories of Athens, Greek people today their war southward across the Peloponnesus today, carrying them in our new barrier ahead of the German spearheads, Berlin said, in a communique announced and straking roads across the southernmost part of Greece.

The capture of the Acropolis of Nazi high command claimed German troops under the command of the Argos-Tripolis area, in the heart of the Peloponnesus.

(How many British troops have been evacuated by sea has not been disclosed, but the fate of the remainder of the Greek army, of the defenders of the mountains on the island of Crete to fight to the death.

(Some of the British and Greek forces apparently fell back through the gulf of Corinth to establish a rearguard action to cover further embarkations.)

The German high command occupation of Athens—fourteenth European capital to fall before Hitler's forces have moved—were received immediately in Berlin.

The special communique announced by martial music over German radio, said the occupation reported yesterday "troops of the German Army have begun in the pursuit of the enemy over the Peloponnesus. They arrived in Atlanta at 9:25 a.m."

(A dispatch sent by an Associated Press correspondent in Athens five minutes after the entry of the first German troops into the city said as German motorcyclists rode into the centre of the city.)

AUSTRALIAN REINFORCEMENTS REACH SINGAPORE TO AID DEFENCES

By GUY BROADEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Somewhere in Greece, presumably in Peloponnesus Harbors, the British Expeditionary Force was believed today to be embarking aboard transports and evacuating the little kingdom it failed to save from the vast German horden that poured southward from conquered Yugoslavia.

How big the force was and whether the evacuation had been completed was not disclosed for the moment. But Prime Minister Churchill announced in his radio address yesterday that its retreat was being covered by New Zealand and Greek forces.

Only official word on the situation came from Army Minister Percy Spender of Australia who declared at Sydney that the evacuation was under way and that "as far as this has proceeded it has been successful."

Fulfilment of the evacuation or its failure will probably bring near render to Greek forces remaining in the open country in defiance of the Nazi conquest of continental Greece.

Thus, on the face of it, withdrawal of the British might be evaluated as the failure of a mission. Actually the value of intervention has been judged only by the knowledge of losses by both sides, including those involved in the British evacuation.

There seemed every reason to believe that the German losses were staggering, for they were reported to have employed their steamroller tactics involving hundreds and thousands of closely-packed men at a time, men who were moved down by machine-gun and rifle fire until they came in such numbers that the defenders could not kill fast enough to hold them back.

The fact that the nearly-outnumbered defenders were able to effect their withdrawal in relatively order could in itself be taken as an indication that they inflicted heavy losses in compensation, while those they suffered themselves.

With the Balkan war apparently over there appeared every reason to expect greater German assistance to the feeble Italian effort in Africa, which yesterday had put the Ethiopian stronghold of Testa which South African troops had been hammering in the hardest fighting of the East African campaign.

A diplomatic offensive is believed underway against Turkey to obtain passage for Nazi warplanes and inland bases from which to strike at Suez.

Pte. Churchill yesterday mentioned also the possibility of the war spreading to Turkey, which has many reaches for Gibraltar and the rich wheatfields of Ukrainia.

More husky Australian soldiers, equipped with modern transport, artillery and mechanized fighting machines, arrived at Singapore recently as Britain prepared to defend her Far East bastions against any threat from the eastern end of the Axis. At LEFT a group of the Australians are shown as they disembarked to take up stations throughout the Malayan peninsula. At RIGHT is a "digger" officer typical of the tough warriors sent from the southern Dominion.

Letters From the Troops

Following is a letter received by Mrs. J. Collins, Roslin, from Pte. R. Reed, now in England with his regiment.

England
March 11, 1941.

Dear Friends,—

Just a line to let you know I received your most welcome parcel today and thank you very much. We all have good times over any parcel that comes and as we haven't had one for quite a while you can guess the enjoyment we got out of it. There are eight of us in this room and any parcel that that come we share out the cake and sweets, chocolate bars are not going to be a special treat; these days ever here, and they are dearer and smaller than when we first came, so you can see that chocolate bars are a treat. I wish we could be over there and thank you all personally for all the gifts we're able to do that some of these times pretty soon now. If they would just let us Canadians at them it wouldn't take long, would it? I guess we are being saved for when it wears somebody to go in and win.

We have had it nice and quiet around here for a few weeks now, but he is getting around to the bombing again this last few days. He was over London one night and Sunday night, for the longest time since last rail and last night he was close to us. In fact, he got a direct hit on a house not over three-fourths of a mile from this billet. There were some people killed and two or three children in the house, accounts that I have heard. We don't mind how many bombs he drops around here so long as he doesn't hit anything but the fields. It seems we can sleep better when he is over dropping them and the anti-aircraft guns are going and that is the truth. I am not lying to say how brave we are or anything like that, it is the actual fact, we are so used to them.

It makes us mad when he kills civilians, children and women especially children. But it is wonderful the way the people stand up under the heavy going and it is a marvel to the rest of the nations. Of course nobody is starving, by any means and we are not in need of any stuff that they cannot get like onions and eggs, mother could get all the fresh eggs she and she mailed in the queue for two hours for those and say also that she had to go to the store first thing in the morning to get that stuff. Also she could get so much and no picking out what she wanted, only take what she could get, and most everything else is rationed. But they manage to get along pretty well. There is some talk of rationing the canned stuff but nothing definite as yet and nobody says much. The army gets plenty to eat, but there are not too much fancy stuff, but then we don't mind that, we are used to it now.

Well, I will close for this time and thanking you for the parcel and thing and wishing your group the best of luck and happiness to you all the year round,

Yours sincerely,
PTE. ERNEST REED.

Khaki Closeups

By ROSS MUNRO

(Can. Press War Correspondent)

Somewhere in England, April 28 —(CP)— Two former Canadian Governors-General and Under-Secretary Lord and Lady Bessborough and Lord and Lady Willingdon — attended the final wind-up of the junior war staff course at an "at home" given by the "Khaki College."

The 50 student - officers who graduated were there and the Bessboroughs and Willingdons chatted with men from all over the Dominion, meeting many who knew in Canada. Several British generals attended along with a number of senior Canadian officers, including the brigadier - general staff from Canadian Corps Headquarters.

When the King and Queen came to the 2nd Division and the Queen visited a Canadian general hospital Chief Inspector Henry Cannon of Scotland Yard was always in the background. But it wasn't unusual for in peace or war he is the man who accompanies Their Majesties. Chief Cannon, with the look of a polished movietack sleuth, is the best pistol shot in Britain.

These trips to the camps were a reunion, in a quiet way, for Cannon himself, for he was with the King and Queen in the royal tour of Canada.

Preparing decent meals for troops on the move was the problem but it doesn't phase Sgt. Cunnell McCully at Vancouver who used to shake cocktails in a fine Dominion bar. Some of the best meals in the field with the Canadians now overseas are enjoyed by officers of a western infantry regiment, thanks to this Sergeant who runs the officers' mess at battalion headquarters.

In the midst of air raids or when it's cold and damp he always turns out appetizing dishes that would put most mess sergeants to shame.

Taxi trouble caused Sgt. D. C. Gillan of Ottawa, whose father is a Major at National Defence headquarters there, a hectic half hour on his wedding day.

He got to the church to find his English bride-to-be hadn't arrived and three other couples very waiting to be married after him.

The girl was finally found after reaching Christine Welch's home but it finally got to the church. Mrs. Gillan is the sister of a girl who married Lt. Packer, of the Dominion, attached to the same branch at Canadian corps headquarters at Sgt. Gillan.

MILLION-DOLLAR HOUSING SCHEME IS ANNOUNCED

Community Centre to House $250 Single Men Included in Scheme to Accommodate War Workers

Hamilton, Ont., April 28—(CP)—Plans for a $1,000,000 emergency housing scheme to accommodate war workers employed in Hamilton war industries, including erection of a dining hall, dormitories for single men and possible building of several hundred—and four—bedroom homes for married with families were announced today by J. B. McCoy, chairman of the Hamilton War-Time Housing Commission. The commission will work under the government-owned company, War-Time Housing Limited.

The latter company with F. C. Riddy, R. P. McBride and Stewart Chambers as the other members will call for tenders today or tomorrow for construction of the single men's community home, completion of which is scheduled for July 15. The project is to be built on land loaned to the Crown by the International Harvester Company, and will be situated on Hamilton's West Mountain, near the latter Company's plant.

The single men will be self-supporting and based on a reasonable return for investment and a reasonable amortization period, Mr. McCoy said. "Rentals will be based on what the men will earn interfere with the local real estate situation."

No Barrack-Like Type

No barrack-like type of building is under consideration. The community centre will be of rough, clap-board, painted silver gray with cream window-sashes. Its design will be adorned with an imposing portico.

GREEK CREDITS IN U. S. FROZEN

Designed to Keep Money From Falling Into German Hands

Washington, April 28 —(AP)— President Roosevelt issued an executive order today freezing Greek credits and cash in the United States immediately.

The action took cognizance of the conquest of most of Greece by Germany. It was designed to keep Greek credits or cash in the United States from German hands.

Similar freezing orders were issued after other European countries had been conquered by Germany.

Greek assets in the United States are estimated by government officials at between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000. Assets of 13 other countries have been frozen, and today's order brought the total of frozen funds to more than $2,000,000,000.

The order means that no Greek assets can be taken from the country or sent outside the United States without a special permit from the treasury.

Other countries against which similar action has been taken are: Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, France, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Yugoslavia.

9 VIOLENT DEATHS DURING WEEKEND

Four Airmen Die When Planes Crash on Saturday

(By The Canadian Press)

Nine violent deaths were reported in Ontario during the week-end, four of them members of the newly-formed Royal Canadian Air Force and the Royal Norwegian Air Force. Two deaths were caused by the collision, of a car with a Canadian National Railways passenger train. Two other persons died from injuries received when a car left the road and a young boy drowned when he fell into the cistern on his parents' farm.

LAC Pilot H. G. Hyde of Ottawa and Lac. R. Patterson of Toronto died when their R.C.A.F. plane crashed into Westbrook Lake, near Pembroke on Saturday. Four-year-old James Hawden tumbled into a deep cistern and was found dead before search-parties could find his playground.

MADE FORCED LANDING

Peterborough, Ont., April 28 (CP) — Flying Officer Ian Dylands Grant Airport in Ottawa and piloted by leading Aircraftman W. G. Lewis made a forced landing in a wheat field about one mile east of here today.

The flier was not hurt or the plane damaged.

SCHOOLBOYS' GOOD DEED

Danville, Ill., April 28 (AP) — You know it isn't right, but it will add after all—and here's a case in point: A half-dozen school boys, learning of the plight of Richard L. Hedge who has been ill for 20 years and bedfast most of that time, came from their school six miles away to spade the most of his garden. They knew his only source of income was from the bulbs and flowers he sells from his small plot.

FIVE AIRMEN DIE IN PLANE CRASHES

Three Were Members of R.C.A.F. and Two of the Norwegian Air Force

(By The Canadian Press)

Five airmen died in crashes over Ontario, three members of the R.C.A.F. and two of the Royal Norwegian Air Force. Two Norwegian fliers were killed while searching for a companion believed down in the bush district near Matawa.

The bodies of one of two airmen missing since last Friday was found in Westbrook Lake, near Pembroke late Sunday. It was that of Sergeant-Pilot Harry O. Hyde of Ottawa. The body of the other, Leading Aircraftsman of Toronto has not yet been located.

Victims of the weekend fatalities are: 2nd Lt. Kenneth Allan of Ajax and Cpl. L.A.C. K. L. Anson of Kingston, L.A.C. H. M. Crampton of London, England; 2nd Lieut. Hans Schwencke, pilot, and private Nielsen.

Two training planes were involved in the accident which resulted in the death of Kennedy-Allan and Anson. The machines collided in mid-air near Richmond, P.E.I., it was established. Kennedy-Allan and Anson were in one plane and Flying Officer G. A. Wagner and Aircraftsman H. Rankin were in the other. Wagner and Martin escaped with cuts and bruises but Anson was born off the plane in which two men died, it plummeted to earth near the home of William Green, a farmer.

L.A.C. Crampton was killed on a training flight near Brideeved, Sask. He was the only occupant of the Harvard training plane when it hit the ground. Cause of the fatality were disclosed.

Two Norwegians who crashed in the northern Ontario bush were flying a two-seater Fairchild training plane, Lieut. Schwencke, who had just completed his advanced training as a fighter pilot was at the controls.

According to A. Renaud, a Nipissing Junction farmer, both men were still alive when he reached the wrecked ship, but both died a few seconds later. Clinging to the far-off several large trees, the Fairchild training ship plummeted almost straight down from a height during its motor fire feet in the bog. Rescuers had to wade through mud and forbade any one to see or photograph the crash until Norwegian Air Force authorities arrived.

BRITISH COURAGE SHOWN AT BEST

Churchill's Fortitude and Peace Plan Highlight "If" in Action" by New York Newspaper

New York, April 28—(CP) — The New York World-Telegram, in an editorial inspired by Prime Minister Churchill's Sunday speech, said today:

"If Britain wins, the victory will come because of the qualities in the British makeup which was symbolized by the Prime Minister's speech of Sunday. . . . The ability to take and bear defeat. . . . The will and still go on. . . .

"Yugoslavia down, the Grecian victories wiped out. Athens falling in the hands of the Germans and the British Expeditionary Forces in retreat. And yet, Churchill, viewing the future with fortitude and courage and no slightest sign of a quiver in the voice that carried to a wearied and beset world one of the greatest of his orations. It was Kipling's "If" in action.

"That, contrasted with another national trait—the German. Great while winning. Scuttlings and sailings in Norway, Holland and the late turns.

TROOP AIRPLANE IS DESTROYED

Germans Attempt to Land Troops by This Method at Benina

Cairo, April 28 (AP)—A German troop carrying airplane was destroyed and others badly damaged by a machine-gun attack while they were embarking soldiers at the Italian airport at Benina, a Royal Air Force communique announced today.

The attack on an unstated number of junkers troop transports on the flying field at Benina, about 10 miles east of the Gulf of Sidra, like part of Bengasi, was described by the communique as one of the many sighting operations in north and eastern Africa.

British fighter planes machine-gunned motor transport at Alemein, Bidnaya, yesterday, causing heavy damage and set fire to gasoline dumps at Alemein, Bidnaya.

Heavy casualties and considerable damage were inflicted in the day by four, it added, in an attack "on a convoy of motor transport which was carrying enemy troops."

Col. Lindbergh Resigns From U. S. Air Corps

New York, April 28 (AP).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, "greatly disturbed" at implications which he said President Roosevelt had made "concerning my loyalty to my country today made public a letter to the President announcing his commission in the United States Army Air Corps Reserve.

In his letter, the flier referred to remarks made by Mr. Roosevelt at a press conference last Friday in which the President classed Lindbergh with appeasers who urged peace during the revolutionary and civil wars on the grounds that those conflicts could not be won.

Lindbergh said the remarks had "disturbed me greatly", and that he had "hoped that I might exercise my rights as an American citizen to place my viewpoint before the people without appearing in time of peace without giving up the privilege of serving my country as an Air Corps officer in time of war," Said Germany May Win.

In a speech in New York last Wednesday night, Lindbergh said that "the United States cannot win its war for England, regardless of how much assistance we extend." He has repeatedly asserted that Germany is almost certain to win and has criticized American foreign policy.

Lindbergh's letter to the President said Mr. Roosevelt had "clearly implied that I am no longer of use to this country in any capacity," and in view of other implications that "I have made statements disloyal to my country, my character and my motives are such that I have no alternative to tendering my resignation.

The text of Lindbergh's letter:

"My Dear Mr. Roosevelt:

"Your remarks at White House press conference today, and in inviting my reserve commission in the United States Army Air Corps, have (of course disturbed me greatly. I had hoped that I might exercise my right as an American citizen, to place my viewpoint before the people of my country at a time of peace without giving up the privilege of serving my country as an Air Corps officer in the event of war.

"But although in your capacity as President of the United States and Commander in Chief of the Army, Navy and Air, you clearly implied that I am no longer of use to this country as a reserve officer, and in view of other implications that you, my President, have concerning me, I have made concerning my loyalty to my country, my character and my motives, I see no honorable alternative to tendering my resignation as Colonel in the United States Army Air Corps Reserve. I am, therefore, forwarding my resignation to the Secretary of War.

"If this had come to me in the utmost regret. For my relationship with the air corps is one of the things that has meant most to me in life. I place it second only to my right as a citizen to speak my mind to my fellow countrymen, and to defend what I believe to be peace, war and peace which confront our nation in these days.

"I will continue to serve my country to the best of my ability as a private citizen.

Respectfully,
Charles A. Lindbergh."

Classes Lindbergh With Appeasers.

President Roosevelt, at his press conference last Friday, asserted it was unsafe to consider any conflict inevitable and classed Lindbergh with appeasers who urged peace during the revolutionary and civil wars on the grounds that those wars could not be won.

Lindbergh's name was brought into the discussion when a reporter asked why the flier had not been called into active service, although he held a commission in the Air Corps Reserve.

Replying, Mr. Roosevelt said that during the civil war numerous foreigners, though not citizens, fought on both sides, and that at the same time both sides let certain people go, that is, they were not called into service.

He said the people who were thus ignored were the Vallandighams. He explained that the Vallandighams were people who, from 1863 on, urged immediate peace, arguing that the north could not win the war between the states.

Clement L. Vallandingham was a member of the House from Ohio. In 1863 he was arrested for alleged "treasonable utterances" and banished to the Confederate States. He was known as a "peace at any price" copperhead.")

Lindbergh has been a colonel in the air corps reserve since 1927, the year of his non-stop Paris flight.

His last appointment was in 1937 after the passage of the recent Air Corps Act which increased the reserved every five years. His present appointment would have expired in 1942.

He has been on active duty with the Air Corps three times, first in 1926 while a captain. He was on duty for a few months in 1927 and again in the spring of 1939 when he made a confidential inspection tour of Air Corps facilities.

Washington.—(AP)— The White House had no comment today on Charles A. Lindbergh's resignation as a colonel in the United States Air Corps Reserve.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said that a letter from Lindbergh to President Roosevelt announcing the resignation, had not been received.

POLICE COURT

A polished warning was issued Belleville motor vehicle drivers during Monday's criminal court proceedings by His Lordship Magistrate K. J. Butler, K.C., when several traffic cases were heard.

"The only way to stop this speeding business is to" cancel the offenders' driving rights and all present agreed, His Worship when pleas of guilty were accepted in several charges of speeding preferred in the court. "Speeding will either be continued unless severe punishment meted out by this court, I can truthfully warn drivers relative to the violation of the double parking by-law in Belleville.

POLICE BLOTTER

Thomas Carter, 337 1-2 Front Street, found a complete set of false teeth on Pinnacle Park early on Sunday, the set, an upper plate, were given into the custody of the owner, but no report as to what set "store molars" was received by police.

Ernest Lawrence, Martin Transport driver, complained to city police early Sunday of the loss of his wallet, containing $80.00. Lawrence is of the opinion that the purse had been lifted by some "light fingered gentry" while he was obtaining a meal in a downtown restaurant. The wallet was found in a street, especially after another man, who gave his name as James Lawrence, found the same story, after losing his wallet early Sunday.

Two inebriates fell into the clutches of the law on Saturday night when they were held in intoxication in Monday's court. Otherwise city police report a quiet week-end prior over the weekend.

Motorcycle Patrol Reported

Motorcycle Patrolmen working out of Belleville reported a heavy volume of motorized traffic throughout Hastings County Highways over the week end. "The summer-like weather enlisted the season's largest turnout of motorists on Fair day," stated Motorcycle Patrolman J. H. Hazlet today as he reported not even a single case of serious motor collisions over the week end locally.

REVENUES FOR FISCAL YEAR REACH $871,571,000

CROSS-CHANNEL ARTILLERY FIRE VERY INTENSE

309 Millions Increase In 1940 Says J. L. Ilsley

Finance Minister Estimates 950 Millions Increase In National Income This Year

NO NEW DEPARTURES

Ottawa, April 18 (CP)—Dominion revenues for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1941, reached a new all-time recorded total of $871,571,000, Finance Minister Ilsley disclosed today in the financial review with which he opened his presentation of the budget war budget to the House of Commons.

He announced an over-all deficit on the year's operations of approximately $395,056,000, "a very large deficit but nevertheless substantially smaller than that estimated by my predecessor (Hon. J. L. Ralston) last June." (Col. Ralston's estimate was $550,000,000 to $600,000,000).

Mr. Ilsley intimated that in addition to the $1,450,000 estimated as the total cost of war for the current fiscal year, Canada was pledged to finance much of Britain's purchases in Canada estimated at $1,500,000,000 for the current year.

He praised the new arrangement with the United States as a "magnificent contribution to the common struggle" but said it was not by any means the complete answer to Canada's exchange problems.

The economic figures—chiefly estimates since the books have not yet been closed on the fiscal year—showed an increase of $309,000,000 over the previous year and were $100,000,000 higher than the estimate made in the second war budget of last June.

Revenues Compared

Mr. Ilsley compared the 1940-41 revenues with those of 1915-16 when the total was $172,000,000 and with 1918-19 when they had grown to $312,000,000.

Gross liabilities of the Dominion at March 31 just were $4,744,057,000, the Minister said, adding that the figure were, active assets of $1,077,741,000, leaving a net national debt at that date of $3,666,316,000, compared with $3,270,980,000 a year before.

The Minister estimated an increase of $950,000,000 in national income this year and said there would be a special burden of $309,000,000 on public and financial institutions other than banks than hitherto.

Mr. Ilsley warned that the budget would not contain any new departure from previous budget principles. Those who expected such departures would be disappointed.

Mr. Ilsley said Canadians would have to be prepared for the loss essential of our civilian requirements" in the interests of maximum war production.

Expenditures for improvements to residences, and for personal conveniences should be postponed until after the war, he said.

Expenditures on war account during the first three months of the present fiscal year, he said, would be slightly over $393,000,000 of which approximately 70 per cent is accounted for by interest.

PLANE CARRIES PILOT TO DEATH SOUTH OF TWEED

Name Unavailable and Machine Bursts Upland Airport at Ottawa.

TERRIBLY MANGLED

Tweed, Ont., April 29 (Special)—As an yet unidentified Royal Canadian Air Force pilot of No. 2 Training Service School at Uplands Ottawa, crashed to his death on the farm of Jack Lajoie one mile south of Tweed, at 11.30 this morning, when his Harvard Trainer plane went out of control and plummeted to the ground in a hill a flaming wreck.

The pilot is believed to have died instantly. His motors still running after it had plowed for some distance in the soft earth and crashed into a large maple tree, the machine burst into flames, farmers working in nearby fields rushed to the scene, and threw dirt on the blazing wreck. They succeeded in extinguishing the flames and extricating the body of the dead pilot.

A wing ripped off the machine when it struck the earth. Pieces of wreckage were strewn over a large area of the field. The machine was completely wrecked, while the body of the pilot was terribly mangled by the force of the impact.

In Flight of Three Machines

The plane was one of a flight of three machines, which had been manoeuvring over the district earlier in the day. According to eye witness reports, two of the machines had suddenly banked in a southerly direction. The third machine continued easterly, then banked sharply to the south and went over the other machines. As the pilot swung his plane over, it began to plunge straight suddenly to earth.

Provincial Police, who was working in a nearby garden was an eye-witness to the crash and rushed to the scene, only to find wreckage, "Pieces of the plane lay all over the ground," he said, "and the motor was torn completely off the machine."

Ambulance Called

Harry Chaffey, William Booth and Roy Marsh, farmers working in the vicinity also witnessed the tragedy and raced to the ill-fated machine and managed to extinguish the flames and gather the bits and debris on the blazing machine.

BRITISH BOMBERS ATTACK BREST DURING NIGHT

Battleships Scharnhorst And Gneisenau Again Targets For the R.A.F.

INVADING BOMBER HIT

London, April 29 (CP). — The Royal Air Force raided the two battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau at Brest last night for the fifth time in a month and a well-informed source said the vessels were still in the French port because they were so badly damaged the Germans couldn't move them.

The Air Ministry officially has claimed only one hit on one of the 26,000-ton men-o'-war, but this source said their continued presence in the harbor was proof that more than there had been more.

The Royal Air Force for the Germans to do, he asserted, would be to move the two powerful surface raiders the minute British airmen showed they knew where the ships were. He recalled that the German cruiser Hipper "disappeared" from Brest after it had been damaged once by the R.A.F. on March 2.

Several British communiques have said that British bombs straddled the warships, one of which is in dry dock and the other tied up beside a wharf. Military quarters reckoned that a hit on a dock gate would be almost as effective as a direct hit. Or a hit on a battleship it was said, might wipe out essential crewmen.

The German air force, in turn, concentrated the weight of its night fighting strength on Britain's east coast with a two-hour attack in which the government said seven fires were started, but casualties are not believed to have been heavy.

The German night activities extended as far north as South Wales in the region of the vital Bristol Anglia.

One invading bomber was reported destroyed.

Berlin Communique

Berlin April 29—(AP)—The German High Command reported today that German troops had advanced into the southern half of Greek Macedonia.

The "mopping up," today's communique said, "in the mountainous area round Ypsilalis, in the heart of the Peloponnesus."

The High Command claimed its air force sank five ships aggregating 34,000 tons and raced to the ill-fated machine and managed to extinguish the flames and gather the bits and debris on the blazing machine.

Churchill Answers "No" To Suggestion Of Small Supreme War Council

War Debate Will be Held Next Week in British Commons on Question of Approval of Policy of Government in Sending Help to Greece and of Declaration That Operations in Middle East and All Other Theatres of War Will be Prosecuted With Utmost Vigor

By HAROLD FAIR
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 29 (CP Cable)—Prime Minister Churchill announced a blunt "No, Sir," to Edgar Granville's question in the House of Commons today if he would consider establishment of a small Supreme War Cabinet and inclusion of statesmen of the "calibre of Prime Minister Menzies" of Australia.

Pressed by the Liberal National member in a supplementary question whether he would invite Premier Menzies to serve in an Imperial War Cabinet because the whole empire is involved in the war, Mr. Churchill said the question was fully discussed in the House some months ago and he had nothing to add.

Questioned further by Mr. Granville if he contemplated summoning Mr. Menzies to London, Mr. Churchill replied: "At present there is no such intention."

War Debate Next Week

Meantime Mr. Churchill announced a war debate would be held next week and agreed it could occupy two days if necessary. The Prime Minister said the debate would be on a motion that the House "approves the policy of His Majesty's Government" of sending help to Greece and declares its confidence that operations in the Middle East as in all other theatres of war will be pursued by the Government with the utmost vigor."

House Cheers

The reference to the Greek expedition brought loud cheers from the House when did not press for details of the campaign. In the debate Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is expected to report on his diplomatic mission by which he sought to build up an anti-Nazi front.

Mr. Granville moved to inject the question of an Empire War Cabinet in next week's debate, talking an motion by the Prime Minister's motion asking, among other things,

AXIS TRANSPORT PLANE DESTROYED NEAR BENGASI

R.A.F. Inflicts Casualties On Axis Troops About To Board Plane

FOE IS HARASSED

Cairo, April 29 (AP)—Axis detachments which crossed the Egyptian frontier have been "considerably stationary," while in Greece the British withdrawal is "continuing," British general headquarters announced today.

The German and Italian forces in the Salum area of the Egyptian-Libyan frontier "are being harassed by our patrols," the communique said.

From the Libyan front, the British command reported capture of 2,000 Italian and 400 Colonial soldiers in connection with the setting-up of defensive positions.

"While operations of our troops are developing successfully in other areas," the communique added, "certain activities are rapidly extending all over the country."

A Royal Air Force communique announced that "considerable casualties" were inflicted yesterday on troops about to board fast transport planes on Benina airfield, near Bengasi. One of the big planes was destroyed and others damaged.

Restrictions Against Use Of Foreign Exchange To Continue Says Ilsley

Ottawa, April 29 (CP)—Definite assurance that the restrictions against use of foreign exchange for tourist travel in the United States would continue was made by Finance Minister Ilsley in his budget address today in the House of Commons.

"This administration would abandon that prohibition immediately if it could be done without injury to Canada's war effort," he said. He added, however, that all restrictions are removed "...in the opinion that we would have to find some $170,000,000 or $180,000,000 for pleasure travel."

American funds would be provided for necessary business travel, for certain family remittances necessary, and for educational purposes in certain cases.

Mr. Ilsley Canadian arranges to visit United States relatives or friends who provide lodging and other fares for that purpose no objection will be raised, Mr. Ilsley said.

There had been criticism that some people were allowed to travel in the United States, Mr. Ilsley said, but he had ascertained that there had been "practically no discrimination" in dealing with applications for travel permits.

Mr. Ilsley said United State, tourist travel in Canada this year has been disappointing. He expected more would come this year and suggested that with naval units, occupied the Island of Thasos, in addition to the Aegean Islands of Samothrace and Lemnos off the mouth of the Dardanelles. Thasos lies near the Greek coast, which is also true of other two, and farther from the Turkish-guarded sea gate from the Aegean to the Black Sea.

It still was not specified what naval units were involved in the operations.

Gun Emplacements Near Calais Raided By R.A.F. Fighters

Excellent Visibility Across Channel Assists R.A.F. In Locating Batteries

FIRE FOUR HOURS

Dover, England, April 29—(CP)—For nearly six hours today German guns on the French coast shelled the Dover area—the heaviest such cross-channel action of the war and the sort to be expected with any invasion attempt.

(Berlin reported a speedboat attack on that section of the English coast, apparently timed to coincide with the shelling.)

British guns replied, making it a mammoth duel across some 20 miles of water, and the Royal Air Force droned out to blast at the Nazi emplacements.

The Admiralty Association reported at 3:30 p.m. (10:30 a.m. E.D.T.) that the shelling had stopped and added that damage to the establishments on the England—long known as "Hell's Corner"—was negligible, confined to cottages.

Later it was reported that three men were slightly wounded.

HINT NAZIS MAY ATTACK CRETE

Germans, Says Berlin Report, Talk of 'New Tasks' for Nazi Forces

Berlin, April 29 — (AP) — The Nazis suggested today that Crete, Greece's largest island and now a base for British forces, is next in line for German attack.

Voelkischer Beobachter, Hitler's newspaper, asserted, "Crete no longer is a pleasant anchoring place for British warships."

The newspaper declared that every mile of the Nazi advance into the Peloponnesus brings Crete, with its Suda Bay naval base, "still nearer and more definite danger" of Greek-based German bombers.

The Thasos occupied by Germans already are talking of "new tasks" for the Nazi forces. Although these new tasks have not been specified, military spokesman predicted yesterday that action in the Mediterranean theatre would continue. He said conquest of Greece was regarded as only a part of a larger plan now unfolding.

German military reports from Greece said German troops, co-operating with naval units, occupied the island of Thasos, in addition to the Aegean Islands of Samothrace and Lemnos off the mouth of the Dardanelles. Thasos lies near the Greek coastline than the other two, and farther from the Turkish-guarded sea gate from the Aegean to the Black Sea.

It still was not specified what naval units were involved in the operations.

ITALIANS CAPTURE BRITISH MINISTER TO YUGOSLAVIA

Sir Ronald Campbell, Col. Clark, Military Attache and N. Y. Times Correspondent Seized

Rome, April 29 (AP)—The newspaper Il Messaggero said today its correspondent in Belgrade had been informed that Sir Ronald Ian Campbell, British ambassador to Yugoslavia; Colonel C. S. Clark, British military attache, and Ray Brock, war correspondent of the New York Times, had been taken aboard an Italian torpedo boat when they attempted to leave the Dalmatian coast in a ship bound for Crete.

The dispatch did not say where the men were now.

Huge Four-Motored Bombers Leave For Britain Almost Daily

McChord Field, Wash., April 29 (AP) — Four-motored, long-range bombers, identical with those the Air Force insignia and bristling with weapons are leaving here almost daily now for Britain.

Manned by R.A.F. crews temporarily on civilian status, three bombers have left since Friday. Two more were being gassed up and checked over today for immediate departure.

Half of the twenty planes on the agrons of this army air base have been purchased and signed the lease-lend bill have been flown here for German attack.

Voelkischer Beobachter, Hitler's newspaper, asserted, "Crete no longer is a pleasant anchoring place for British warships."

The newspaper declared that every mile of the Nazi advance into the Peloponnesus brings Crete, with its Suda Bay naval base, "still nearer and more definite danger" of Greek-based German bombers.

Anzac Line 'Was Never Penetrated' In Brilliant Rear-Guard Fighting

New York, April 29 (CP)—The BBC last night relayed a first-hand account of the fighting in Greece credited to Correspondent Cairo by Chester Willmott of the Australian Broadcasting Corporation in which he said that the Anzac line "was never penetrated" in brilliant rear-guard fighting.

As heard by CBS, the BBC quoted Willmott as saying:

"For more than a fortnight, a small Anzac force, backed by British artillery and tanks, has fought the whole of the German advance. But in spite of the enemy's strength, the Anzac line has never broken. It was never penetrated, even during the most difficult and dangerous days, when they had to withdrawal."

"The Germans with their superiority in numbers and mastery in dive-bombing the forward troops and to bomb and machine-gun the lines of communication and smash the ports through which reinforcements might have been brought. The Anzac Force worked ceaselessly with the two planes they had. They could have protected the front, or the roads, or the ports, but could not cover all three.

"The forward troops stood the dive-bombing. They dug in, and had very few serious casualties. But the transport and the troops could not withstand it. They had 40 or 50 raids a day and drivers had to stop every 10 or 15 minutes and take cover in the fields.

"In spite of all this, the Anzac force fought a brilliant action for 2½ ghastly weeks.

Held North of Larisa

"At one stage, it looked as though the Germans would be held off long enough. It was just north of Larissa, and we had sent Australian infantry on the left to help the Greeks and another force on the right to help the New Zealanders, who had been fighting a bitter action for several days. After a night withdrawal from positions, a handful of Anzacs manned one of the most dangerous, sharply-rising hills commanding a mountain pass, then, they had an ammunition dump of more than 1,000 35-pound shells, and when the Germans came within range, they let loose one of the fiercest continuous fires that the war has known.

"For more than eight hours, the Australian Gallants fired a round almost every minute. No wonder the Germans thought they had grown of dozens of German tanks and lorries, and hundreds of men. Through bomb and shell and machine-gun fire, these men stuck to their guns and they held reliable until the last round was fired. Then they spiked them, blocked their guns behind their tractors, and left. But the thinning out the thousands of men whose lives they had safeguarded that day."

PRIME MINISTER PLEDGES CANADA'S RESOURCES, MEN

Mr. King Warned to be Ready for Further Reverses but Confident of Ultimate Victory

REVIEWS WAR

By FRANK FLAHERTY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 29 (CP)—In a battle for freedom which gives wider and more ferocious Canada will spare "neither resources nor manpower," Prime Minister Mackenzie King said yesterday as the House of Commons assembled after the Easter recess.

His declaration, coming on the eve of the presentation of what is expected to be the heaviest taxation budget in Canada's fiscal history was by way of commentary on the fierce conquest of Yugoslavia and Greece which occurred while the House was adjourned.

Mr. King warned the members to be ready for further reverses but said that Britain as a Great Britain stood no reverse could be decisive. The possibility of an attack on Singapore at the same time as attempts to seize the Suez Canal and the Straits of Gibraltar and to invade Great Britain was envisioned by Mr. King as the predicted fighting would spread to wider areas with increased destruction and loss of life.

FIRST RECRUITING CAMPAIGN OF WAR IS ANNOUNCED

Col. Rearson Will Seek Assistance of Citizens' Committee in Each Province

30,000 OBJECTIVE

Ottawa, April 29—(CP)—Assistance of Citizens' Committees and members of parliament will be sought in the organization of what Defence Minister Ralston termed Canada's first recruiting campaign of the war, it was learned today.

The Minister told the House of Commons a Citizens' Committee in each province would be formed to help obtain a certain number of men for the army.

The Minister said the objective would be from 25,000 to 30,000 men to fill up present needs for reinforcements and continuing to bring active army units in Canada, such as the 1st Canadian Division and units of the 3rd and 4th Divisions up to strength.

Mr. Ralston made his statement after Conservative Leader Hanson had criticized delay in starting the present recruiting situation and described recent monthly quotas for enlistments as a "failure."

Allegiance Made

He also alleged methods appeared to have been used in Canada to induce men in reserve army units to volunteer for active service.

Princess Juliana Will Celebrate Birthday Away From Homeland

Ottawa, April 29 (CP)—Princess Juliana of the Netherlands celebrates her 32nd birthday in Canada—on-the-home first time she has spent a birthday away from homeland.

Princess Juliana's children — Princess Beatrix, three, and Princess Irene, two, "are not old enough to be only members of her immediate family with her tomorrow. Her husband, Prince Bernhard, is serving with the Netherlands forces at Britain's side. Also in England is Queen Wilhelmina, also in England with the Netherlands government.

A special message from the Netherlands merchant marine which is carrying food, arms and munitions to Britain is being sent to the Princess. Thoughts of "all these brave men who, without even a home port to look forward to, are risking all they have" turn to her as a symbol of their homeland, a Netherlands spokesman here said.

Women of the Netherlands Red Cross, working for Netherlands sailors, soldiers and refugees, have designated a Mrs. Cocchius of Montreal to convey a tribute from Netherlands women all over Canada and many more tokens of sympathy and affection have arrived.

Some of these messages, the representative said, were from the Netherlands East and West Indies from many part of Canada, the rest, of this country, from Britain, Africa, Asia and Australia.

Police Open Drive On Double Parking Of Trucks On Front St.

Belleville police opened a concerted drive against double parking in the downtown streets this week, issuing continued warnings to truckers, who have been making a practice of double parking along the main streets while making deliveries.

As pointed out by Magistrate E. J. Butler K.C., in Monday's police court sitting, truckers are entitled to the complete use of unloading of merchandise at the rear of the business section of the city, or adhere to the parking regulations pertaining to the matter of blocking traffic on city streets. "There is the by-law and it must be observed," was the only comment made by Chief Kidd after issuing instructions to the police department to curb the double parking practice along the main streets.

GOOD FISH HAULS IN GREAT LAKE WATERS AFFECT PRICES

The exceptionally warm, bright weather of the past few days has been 'too good' for fishing in the Bay of Quinte, according to local waterfront frequenters who state that rapidly falling fish prices since the closing of the ice on the bulidups, have been caused by exceptionally good catches in Great Lakes fisheries.

"People will not buy mudcats and bullheads when they can be caught in bay waters when they can purchase white fish and lake trout from Lake Huron at low prices," it was stated. A great many fishermen have already pulled up their hoop nets in Bay of Quinte and have left or proceeded to Lake Ontario for the summer months.

Much lower prices than the 25c per pound figure which was quoted at the opening of the market was predicted for white fish this coming Saturday.

Grey Squadrons Of Canada Geese Wing Way North

Eight grey squadrons of Canada Geese winging their way to the northern haunts early today, honked a raucous salute to city residents during the early hours in the east. Another flock of the birds were heard at approximately two a.m. the sound of their flailing wings and honking announcing many people as they winged northward at a low altitude.

Ascertained by those who heard the first squadron of Canada's famous wild game, the flock was an extremely large one. The "dawn patrol" sighted by early risers is also a large one and flew in the "V" formation familiar to these birds.

It is believed the second flock routed in the wee hours of the day here overnight, before continuing their journey to the north.

Illustrated Lecture Given On Beautification Home, School Grounds

The Teachers' Council meeting was held at Foxboro, the evening of April the 24th, with fourteen represented from Thurlow and ten from Sidney. Also visitors, trustees and ratepayers were present.

Mr. K. O. Birkin, Inspector of Public Schools, Napanee, acted as chairman. He called upon Mr. H. J. Fair, agriculture representative, Stirling, to introduce Mr. John F. Faulkner, Head of Horticultural Societies' Branch, Department of Agriculture, Toronto, who gave an illustrated lecture on the urgent slides on the Beautification of Homes, Schools and Highways.

The dilapidated and unkempt conditions of some farm homes and buildings in Ontario were shown. A marked contrast was seen after improvements had been made over a period of ten or fifteen years. Trees were advocated to hide the barn buildings, thus framing the home, making more attractive in its setting. Unkempt conditions of cemeteries were shown and the contrast when the grass was mowed and trees and shrubs were planted along the fences.

Suggestions Were Made

Suggestions were made on how to keep the school grounds in order too. Sticks and stones must be kept picked up and ash heaps in conspicuous places are unsightly. Depressions in the ground should be levelled off. Walks, fences, gates, wire tightened and suitable gates used at the entrance. Shingled roofs of schools, sheds, out buildings and even fences should be covered with a preparation of crank-case oil and dye in tones of red or brown. Green must not be used on tin.

The cost of a lawn mower, flower seeds, bulbs, perennial plants, shrubs may be secured in the agricultural grants. Other grants are available to the boards for fencing or enlarging the school grounds. It is given that the cost of a lawn mower it should be cut at least three times by a farm mower to keep down the grass. This cost includes the care of the roadside in front of the property. The trustees should provide for the care of the grounds and school garden where there is one, during the summer months so that the efforts of the teacher and pupils in the spring will not be lost.

Planting of flower beds should be done at the proper time at first grass cutting by the pupils of the school boundaries. These may be secured from the Agricultural Branch or from a nearby woods. Suitable trees for the Province and in locations on the school grounds were given. Trees are useful in the playground area or with access of light to schoolrooms. Foundation planting around the school is a very important.

The outside of the school as well as the inside should be attractive because once the "Art of Home Life" is spent at school and for thousands of children that is all the training they will be their only university.

Mr. Fair explained his hope that the Mount Julian Sidney and Thurlow schools would enter the School Improvement Competition for the Sir Oliver trophy. A minimum of five schools would be required to be requested and the winner may then compete in the Provincial Competition for the contest award.

Messrs. Ira and E. A. Birkin moved votes of thanks to Mr. Clark. Remarks from Mr. J. H. Faulkner, Trenton, also after which Dr. Madill from Peterborough, moved a vote of appreciation at being able to be present.

CITY FINANCES IN GOOD SHAPE SAYS ALD. CLARKE

Over $91,000 Paid in on First Instalment of Taxes Not Due Till May 3rd

SHORT SESSION

The finances of the City are in a splendid condition, according to the information supplied by the Chairman of Finance, Ald. H. J. Clarke, who informed the City Council at their regular meeting on Monday night that more than $91,000 had been paid into the Treasurer, H. B. Stock on the first instalment of taxes due on May 3rd and that more than $30,000 had been taken in on back taxes. "This is a fine record" said a member of the council as the announcement was made. The business of the council was the lightest in some weeks and the session was of short duration.

Mr. F. Hughes, representative of the Financial News of London interviewed the Council with respect to advertising the industrial possibilities of Belleville and the members were generally agreed the proposition was sound seeing there were so many British firms liable to seek new sites in this Dominion and there is a possibility the Chairman of Publicity will recommend to council an expenditure in this regard. A delegation from the Horticultural Society met the council asking that the rider attached to the grant to this Society that no beautification be attempted unless on city property be removed and the council was in agreement with the suggestion. Ald. Harvey, a former president of the Society took up the cudgels for the delegation and remarked there should be no restriction on how the society spend their money as they have done a very useful work." Mayor Thompson informed the delegation that the council had no wish to curb their activities and assured the members that the grant would be forthcoming as promised and they could spend the money as they saw fit.

No Room to Spare

The Provincial Police were refused more parking space in front of their office than already allotted them by the Market Clerk. "This property is owned by them" said the Chairman of Market and City Property, "and being short of space he feels he cannot allow anymore space be allotted for 'no parking' area." A request by Stanley H. Wilson for the removal of the boulevard at the upper end of Front Street for the reason of it being dangerous to traffic was granted and no action taken. A letter from the Army and Navy Veterans requesting some adjustment of their taxes amounting to $428.13 was referred to the City Assessor for a report. The Kiwanis Club was granted May 24th as a 'Tag Day for the British War Victims' Fund. A request from Mr. Kiser to build a boat house near the water's edge was refused when the members agreed that if a precedent was set others would be requesting the same privilege. Ald. Harry Rollins requested that the matter of betting back in the Committee but Ald. Clapp took the stand that the members in committee had voted against the request and therefore the stand could be substantiated in council. Ald. Harvey stated the lot did not belong to the City and therefore the request should be given but the Chairman of the Committee informed the member that the lot had been returned to the city due to back taxes not being paid.

Complained of Parking

Ald. Jeffery asked if the police were to receive summer uniforms this year. Chairman Thompson as a member the matter was under advisement. In reply to a question by Ald. Rollins thanked the members for attending the Police and Fire Chiefs' convention at Ottawa and he stated that his views had been materially changed regarding the organization he believed it was doing a splendid work. By-laws affecting the property to Blake Weese, J. M. Gilbert and Dean Lennox who purchased from the city were passed also repeal of by-laws respecting other property sold by the city. Two letters were received, one from the City Engineer and one from the special committee appointed re-garding the matter of Victoria Avenue and they are herewith given.

His Worship Mayor Thompson and Aldermen of the City Council, Belleville, Ontario.

Gentlemen,

Re: Dufferin Avenue Sanitary Sewer Along Victoria Ave. to Bleecker Ave.

Your special committee appointed to consider the construction of a sanitary sewer, water main and macadam roadway along Dufferin Avenue north of Victoria Avenue and along part of Victoria Avenue from Dufferin Avenue to Bleecker Avenue beg to report as follows:

The committee visited the locality on Friday, April 25th, 1941, and discussed all matters while looking over the ground. As the greater majority of the lots along these streets are owned by the city, it was considered a good investment by the city to carry out the local improvement and offer to open up this area for residential purposes. The cost of building the construction work in abeyance until after the war is under consideration. It was finally decided to advertise the notice of intention as required under the provision of the Local Improvement Act and to take all necessary steps to have all details completed so that the actual construction work could be started at a moment's notice.

Yours truly,

Re: Dufferin Ave. Sanitary Sewer

Your special committee appointed to consider the construction of a sanitary sewer, water main and macadam roadway along Dufferin Avenue north of Victoria Avenue and along part of Victoria Avenue from Dufferin Avenue to Bleecker Avenue beg to report as follows:

The committee visited the locality on Friday, April 25th, 1941, and discussed all matters while looking over the ground. As the greater majority of the lots along these streets are owned by the city, it was considered a good investment by the city to carry out the local improvement and offer to open up this area for residential purposes. The cost of building the construction work in abeyance until after the war is under consideration. It was finally decided to advertise the notice of intention as required under the provision of the Local Improvement Act and to take all necessary steps to have all details completed so that the actual construction work could be started at a moment's notice.

Yours truly,

H. Rollins, Chairman Public Works, H. J. Clarke, Chairman of Finance, F. H. Marshall, Chairman Special Property, H. D. Bateman, Solicitor and Councillor; Charles A. Mott, City Engineer.

Sinking Of Steamer Ocean Wave Recalled

Point Traverse, April 29.—Reminiscences of the saddest lake tragedy in Quinte's history were recalled by old lake mariners who recall the tragic wreck, or stories concerning it, of the loss of the steamer Ocean Wave, which sank in Lake Ontario, a few miles off here, just eighty-eight years ago today, April 29, 1853, with a loss of twenty-eight lives.

The steamer Ocean Wave carried as her cargo, passengers and freight. The wreck of the disaster lay for the few survivors who were rescued by a nearby vessel and fishermen from the shore.

It is related that all the company's earnings for the season were aboard the ship when the disaster occurred.

The large amount of gold and silver is still believed to be in the ship's strong boxes or safes. Numerous attempts have been made to salvage it.

Community Shower.

A large gathering of friends and relatives assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moore, South Bay, when a community shower was given for Miss Daughter Marjorie (Mrs. Howard Helmer). The bride and bridegroom expressed thanks for the many miscellaneous gifts. Refreshments were served by several of the young ladies.

Mr. and Mrs. Helmer will reside at Point Traverse, making colony during the summer months.

INDUSTRIALIST DEAD

Sir James Woods, K.C.B.E., prominent industrialist, financier and philanthropist, is dead. The 86-year-old trade expert succumbed at his Toronto home after a short illness. His work on the British purchasing mission during the first war brought him a knighthood in 1918, and international recognition of his business ability and knowledge of world trade was accorded him.

Film Portrays Evolution Of Lubricating Oil

The evolution of motor oil from the crude product to the present-day high-class lubricant; the various methods used in development and removal of foreign bodies was graphically portrayed in the Belleville Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon, in a film "Protecting Fighter" shown by Mr. Ron Cunningham of the Imperial Oil Company, Toronto.

The narrator, seated in a fashionable restaurant with two friends tells in a highly informative manner, illustrated with diagrams, of the progress made by research chemists of his company during the past quarter-century. The film brought out the problems which chemists of the early days faced and of their ultimate victory over the primary enemies of present day lubrication.

The film pictured the laboratories and chemists making exhaustive tests of the various products used to extract foreign bodies from the crude product. Gasoline and kerosene were the first products made from crude oil, the narrator pointed out, but a better method brought about the discovery of a lubricating oil.

Early Oil Contained Asphalt

The early crude oil, he said, contained asphalt, a black, sticky material which proved ruinous to motor car engines. This asphalt formed in cold weather and a dark colour oil which broke down completely which subjected to engine friction. The new refining method which remained provided a distillation problem which at first puzzled the engineers.

The vacuum distillation method discovered in 1921 was not perfected until 1926 when the first battery of vacuum distillating stills were erected.

The residual oil, however, still contained a large percentage of low-grade lubrication oil and wax. Finally chemists found a solvent by which these could be removed the wax bits was called the dewaxing operation.

Filter separators, the film revealed, resulted in the discovery of a solvent by which the low-grade oil could be treated without disturbing the higher-class lubricant.

Benzene was the solvent finally used.

The final process was called the hydrofining process. Clay is treated with the oil and heated in a high temperature, which turns the mixture into a heavy black color and density. When filtered, however, the clay removes the color and impurities and the oil is returned through the filter cake, a light amber color.

Oil chemists, and research men, the film related, are still working on other methods, and processes to bring modern motor lubricants to a still higher point of efficiency.

Mr. Cunningham was introduced by Rotarian Mac Mahon, manager of the Imperial Oil Company bulk plant. A hearty appreciation was expressed by Rotarian Lloyd Hicks.

During the luncheon, final arrangements were made for the appearance of the club at the annual district convention to be held in Toronto, on May 4-5 and 6th. The local club will be the host club at the luncheon to be held in the Royal York Hotel on Monday next. Practically 80 percent of the members signified their intention of attending.

MEMBERS AWAIT ILSLEY BUDGET

Finance Minister Will Announce How Gov't. Proposes to Get $2,000,000,000

Ottawa, April 29 (CP)—War in terms of money occupies the attention of parliament today as members wait for Finance Minister Ilsley to answer the questions in the minds of millions of Canadians.

Delivering his budget speech this afternoon Mr. Ilsley will announce how the government proposes to get the huge sum—about $2,000,000,000 needed to finance Canada's war and other governmental activities in the fiscal year which began with the present month.

It will be the third war budget and like the one in June 1940, this is expected to hit more deeply into the pockets of Canadian taxpayers.

Along with the announcement of what Canada's war effort may be, Mr. Ilsley will indicate what portion of the amount needed is to be obtained by borrowing.

Mr. Ilsley is faced with the problem of obtaining about $1,450,000,700 for war purposes, $400,000,000 for the normal non-war activities of government and a further large sum to finance British purchases at war materials in Canada through the retained funds of Canadian securities held in Great Britain.

All across Canada the budget is awaited with interest, not only by taxpayers but by provincial and municipal governments. These governments are interested about the extent to which new taxes may cut into their own sources of revenue.

Mr. Ilsley is also expected to hint at the possibility of the Federal government handling such provincial fields as succession duties and gasoline taxes.

Papers Predict Next Nazi Drive Will Be On Syria

London, April 29 (CP Cable) — Speculating on Germany's next drive after the Balkan campaign several morning newspapers predicted today an attack on Syria through the Aegean Islands.

They suggested Crete would be one stage of a pincer drive on Suez, the other stage of which would come from Libya.

The News Chronicle noted Nazi seizure of Dodecanese and Lemnos, two islands near the Dardanelles, and said that other islands in which Hitler is interested would link Germany with the Italian Dodecanese islands.

"If the Germans can establish the base, down goes the throat of Turkey, and if their agents in Syria have done their work, they may be able to 'by-pass' Turkey," the Chronicle said.

The Times remarked in an editorial that the enemy's purpose appeared to be to control the approaches to the Straits to seize strategic positions suitable for putting pressure on, or actually attacking Turkey, to establish a link with Dodecanese and perhaps to 'by-pass' Turkey on the route to Syria."

The Daily Express in a frontpage article discussed the occupation of the islands near the Dardanelles was the beginning of a "map-free movement" to reach Palestine with a detour around Turkey.

Deafness in Many Cases Not a Disease

Medical authorities have proven that in a large number of cases deafness is brought about by conditions not due to disease. Auritne Ear Balsam, a prescription, has proven a blessing to many people. Used since 1925 by those who are deafened and bothered by ringing, buzzing head noises due to hardened or coagulated wax (cerumen). Over a million packages sold. Make a no-risk test. Must satisfy or money refunded. Ask today for Auritne Ear Balsam at Doyle's Drug Store or other leading druggists.

GREEKS CARRY ON

Greece has given the world a demonstration of courage and fortitude that is rarely seen. Her ally Yugoslavia defeated, her own capital, the most famous city of the ancient world for poetry, philosophy, commerce, the arts and democracy falling into the hands of the unspeakable Huns, the Greek government has moved to the Isle of Crete, thence to carry on with her ally Britain. What a story is here told of valor and faith!

If any nation deserves the highest crown, it is this small state which breathes the very air of the great immortals whose fame is still known where there is culture.

Lord Byron who fought for the incomparable Greeks in the War of Liberation over a century ago wrote

"The mongrating look on Marathon
And Marathon looks on the sea;
And gazing there an hour alone
I dreamed that Greece might still be free
For standing on the Persians' grave
I could not deem myself a slave."

Greece won her war of freedom and showed her loyalty to the nations which helped her to liberty. To Britain she has been a most loyal, a most valiant friend. It is a heartening sight to see a great nation and empire and a small nation, fired with the inspiration of liberty, standing together against the might of aggression.

The Greeks gave a happy farewell as the troops marched away to take up the fight from Crete and elsewhere for they knew that wherever the battle and difficulties, the day will soon dawn when the dust of the Hun will be shaken off.

The Greece of freedom today knows the brutal Germans in occupation but the Greeks know something the Huns does not know. Greece will be free and the aggressor bound.

When the foot of the savage Hun touched the sacred soil of Greece, Germany committed a crime of which civilization is ashamed, for if ever a nation earned a right to be free and lead its life as it will, it is this Greek nation which has done so much in the world and has enriched mankind so many gifts priceless beyond all comparison. If the ancient gods which dwelt on Mount Olympus could look down they would send winged messengers to blast those of Hitler who have sought only to destroy.

Whence came this greatness of soul in the Greeks? The answer must be found in the ages which preceded the rise of this people before the dawn of history. First in Europe to bear the lamp of freedom, they are still carrying that light and will never renege their duty as free men. They are the point of contact between the west and the near east, the spearhead, or the most progressive and enlightened and keen-minded of the peoples in and around the eastern part of the Mediterranean. The rabble were confined to the mountainous country in which they lived, by the countless indentations of the coast line, which was a natural incentive to commerce. A brilliant race, developed and guarded by nature's mountains, fostered by the culture of nearby races, and with the soul of beauty, these Greeks became world leaders. Their leadership in the things of the spirit they have never yet lost though their territory was for centuries under foreign sway. The centre of the world that grew up in Greece and in the Grecian Isles was one of the world's marvels. That was ancient Greece.

That culture did not weaken the Greek people. After centuries of repression they took their place in the modern world to do noble deeds for democracy.

Well might the Hun ponder as he stands on Marathon and thinks of the Persians who died there, slain by the Greeks in the great battle which saved the western world and civilization. As he looks at the Acropolis and the honoured ruins which crown this famous rock, the Hun should wonder how short his stay is to be for on this hallowed ground of Greece, dedicated to liberty from the first, there is something that will drive off the uncouth and savage Hun. Here the destroyer is in the presence of everything that, even in its ruins, breathes the spirit of life. The Hun cannot endure that presence, this famed holy ground of the Greek people, and will in time be forced away.

(News Item:—" 'Knight of the Road' cooks muskrat for dinner on Victoria Park.")

Turkey, fried chicken, roast duckling and caviar,
Lobsters, stewed oysters and dishes like that
Are fancied by kings, connoisseurs and the upper class
But for me nothing beats a fine succulent rat.

You can have tasty roasts, guinea hens, and the suckling pig,
Potatoes French fried, roast and boiled or 'au gratin'
Pork chops, juicy steaks, or mint sauce with the lamb with it
But for me nothing equals a fricasseed rat.

Roast squab brings delight to the palates of many men
Fresh pigeon in pie is enjoyed with ecla't
A broiler, or duckling is common to all of them
But for me none compares with the haunch of a rat.

Filet mignon, mushroom sauce and the rest of it,
Trout, cod, and scallops and sea-food like that,
Gastronomically furnish delight for a lot of folk
As for me, I'm content with a life, fed with rat.

*Poetic Licence 12478632.

The old fellow, a bit roadworn and weary, bent over the fire, as he turned the slowly roasting muskrat on the improvised spit. He cocked a quizzical eye at several curious young boys and a few oldsters who stood by watching the preparation of the meal. A more or less palatable aroma filled the air. He drew a soiled handkerchief from a pocket with a greasy hand, and wiped a stubbled chin.

"You fellers don't know what you're missin'," he grinned, "I'm a-tellin' like muskrat. I've bin eatin' 'em for the past twenty years and I'm a long way from bein' dead. Most folks would walk a mile for a pork chop or a chicken leg if they was real hungry, but would turn up their nose at a fat muskrat."

"You see," he said, as he turned the carcass upside down on the spit, "these here animals eat only the best food. And furthermore they wash it down with a morsel of it before they eat it. They're clean livin' little fellers and make as good eatin' as you could wish for."

"As for me," he continued, "I've eaten purty near everything that swims or flies. The toughest eatin' I ever had was a scrawny old shikpoke I caught in a marsh once. He had meat on him like leather shoe laces and the flavor was a mixture of salmon, varnish, iodine and turpentine. He had me floored. Another time I had to kill a chipmunk and gobble him. He wasn't bad, but you couldn't make him for a roast turkey if it was dished up to you."

"As a matter of fact," the old fellow said, "if you're real hungry, purty near anything will taste good to you. Once in the Boer War we had to eat the ham taken from an army mule, and believe me, those babies are as tough to handle with a knife and fork as they are with a pair of reins."

"I only got fooled once, or nearly fooled," he ruminated. "I was workin' with a Mex down Tia Juana way, when one day he brought a rabbit with him for dinner. He offered to share it with me and I accepted. He said his wife shot the animal after it had been a nuisance making a noise at night. 'Just a minute, Juan, I said, 'What kind of a noise does a rabbit make?' "

"He grinned. 'Plenty Senor,' he said. 'This one sounded like Meouw.' "

What puzzles us is how they change

MANHOOD

These things all men admire:
Real courage;
Clean living; strength of will;
High faith, and hard-earned skill;
Soul's depth and breadth of vision;
The grace of being kind.

These things all men will praise:
Greatness with simple ways;
True sympathy which shows
Knowledge of hurts and woes;
Good nature that can win;
Under life's fretful care.

Who in opinion climbs?
How much is the mean of time?
How come to manhood's goal?
Work with both heart and soul.
Seeking again, again,
All that's admired by men.

Honor, temptation proved,
Faith steadfast, staunch, unmoved!
Speech gentle, thoughtful, kind;
These show the tolerant mind.
These since the race began
Always have marked the man!

Pen-Portrait of Queen Elizabeth

By AUDREY STANLEY OF ALDERLEY

The Queen's Canadian Fund for Air Raid Victims has been given the right to use her name through its supporting newspapers Lady Stanley of Alderley's authoritative and sympathetic pen-portrait of Queen Elizabeth, published in British Vogue and copyrighted 1941 by Conde Nast Publications Inc.

The officers of the Fund are confident that Canadians will appreciate this tribute to the gracious lady under whose name they are proud to appeal for relief to the air raid victims of the United Kingdom. Queen Elizabeth's action in recent months have shown how deeply she is stirred by the distress of those who suffer from the indiscriminate bombings of the Empire. Lady Stanley of Alderley here tells in moving words of Their Majesties' visits to the stricken areas bringing consolation in stricken areas.

Contributions to the Queen's Canadian Fund can be sent to the Royal Trust Company at Montreal or any branch office.

I was presented in a London drawing-room as the Duke and Duchess of York. I have seen her mother, Lady Strathmore, in the Garden as Queen, when she blushed charmingly at the reception of the applause. I have seen her come out on the balcony at Buckingham Palace with the King to receive the cheers on Coronation Night. On each occasion I was struck by the graciousness, her sweet expression, her beauty. Yet none of these gave the radiance of her smile.

Now that the war has brought her before her people, they know her also to be compassionate, understanding and of a dignified impression on everyone who sees her. Everywhere she goes she is mobbed affectionately.

Queen Elizabeth is dark with pink and white complexion, deep-set eyes, strongly marked eyebrows, a low, musical voice and deep laugh, has captured everybody's heart by her composed, considerate, completely natural and unaffected manner in everything she does.

Her special gift for creating a happy atmosphere in formal surroundings and on formal occasions has made many people think royal wives feel welcome and happy when, perhaps, they have not been spend a quarter of an hour with her on their arrival in England.

It is natural to her to make those small, charming, spontaneous gestures which help to put one to warm the relationship between Queen and commoner. Instead of seeing her arrive at Camarron, The Lieutenant and Councillors of the Mayor and Corporation with a Guard of Honour of the Royal Guards, one goes up to meet her. When she stepped out, she shook hands with and then kissed them, then went out of her way to pat the Regimental mascot, a fine goat with gilded curly horns—thus extending her greeting to every man in the ranks.

Visit to French Soldiers

She always says how nice for a friendly word with individuals, and makes people feel that the conversation is personal. It was characteristic of her that when the Governor Maurois to tell him how distressed she was for Paris and for the French people in the occupied zone. The same night she broadcast to France, giving a message of sympathetic that came straight from the heart. When the Governor General Maurois could express with his pen what she had expressed with her voice. Later she visited wounded Free French soldiers and spoke to them in French. They all knew when she left, that she had given them courage and strength.

The Queen has great artistic sensibility. She is President of the Princesses to the Children's Concerts and she herself plays the pianoforte. She has an intelligent connoisseur of modern paintings. She has made valuable additions to the Royal Collection—including several portraits.

She reads considerably among the books of the day and enjoys both religious subjects, novels and plays. But she reads, too, among the literatures of the past, especially poetry and especially Wordsworth, from whom she quoted the words of quotations, written on the occasion of her visit to Grasmere, to another invader, and sent it to the Prime Minister, to his great delight.

The Queen's clothes are in keeping with the rest of her and reflect the formidable yet gracious side of her character. She has altered her style to suit the needs of the time. In the days when she wore frilled decolleté dresses and full-skirted skirt of sequinned net. Now she wears simple woollen dinner dresses in her latest garments, but still keeps the Victorian neckline which becomes her so well. In the daytime she favores straight skirts, short jackets standing away from the skirt, and occasionally, in the coldest weather, a soft fox collar and fox fur toque.

Hess Little Jewellery

Norman Hartnell, their dressmaker, finds her characteristically thoughtful in choosing her clothes. Realizing that she is small, she wears high heels and never chooses pale shades, with the express purpose of making it easy for the crowd to see her. Her especially simple determining her choice of hats, which must fit closely to the head rob that they can never cause anxiety, even when worn in an open carriage) and must turn off her face, so that her every expression can be seen.

Since the war she has worn little jewellery, usually the same pieces, such as her pearl necklace, which can be shortened or lengthened to make four or five rows, and the famous favorite is made of her diamonds given to her by the King before they went to Canada, which she wears on the lapel of her coat.

When she visits the R.A.F. she pins in her hat a pair of diamond wings given to her by the King as an engagement present, and on other occasions regimental badges, in particular those of the various regiments of which she is colonel-in-chief.

Her home also reflects her personality. When she came to the Throne she redecorated the private apartments at Buckingham Palace and Windsor in delicate green, Wedgwood blue and soft pastel shades, but left the State Apartments changed little.

Her rooms are filled with flowers, which Her Majesty often arranges herself. You can see in her face that it hurts her when she is given a bouquet which is bound tightly with wire, and so takes the first opportunity of liberating the imprisoned stems. Gardening is a talent for gardening from her mother, Lady Strathmore, is a clever at grouping herbaceous borders, and planning color schemes.

Royal Dogs Fond of Children

The Queen accompanies the King whenever possible, driving or riding in the same carriage—dancing with him at Court functions, watching him at sport. But as well as being his constant companion she is also a practical and loving mother. She helps the Princesses with their lessons, takes them in the terrifying stairch-and-grab game of Hunting-the-Slipper, and a great interest in every detail of their education.

Both the King and Queen have always liked living simply, so they usually adopted a family routine. They are rationed like everyone else and have cooked meals. Dinner they have quiet, plain food with a sweet and coffee served. Never more than three courses—sometimes only two. The Queen rarely eats puddings or cakes, and will therefore not miss these, which are rationed the most severe.

The King and Queen have made many journeys to visit the people in badly bombed districts and have seen sad sights with sorrow in their hearts and eyes full of appreciation of sympathy and indignation.

They travel either in a shrapnel-proof car in the middle of a train, which slows up but never stops during visits. The Royal Standard flies as a palace on wheels, in which they sleep and have their meals. Their Majesties suite is attractively furnished with arm chairs in loose chintz covers; and the atmosphere in this is needed, as their journeys are often long and tiring.

Everywhere people have wanted to know whether Their Majesties lost any of her belongings when Buckingham Palace was bombed—and to exchange confidences with her. It was, in fact, her private sitting-room that received the worst damage, and several of her favorite things were destroyed.

When Their Majesties arrived in Sheffield they toured devastated areas patiently and there broke down with emotion. A moving ceremony took place in a factory when, at the request of the workpeople, the managing director was kissed in his their presence, instead of at Buckingham Palace. Both the King and Queen drove round the poorest and most badly-hit part of the city. One of the women called to a neighbor: "We couldn't have stood it if Their Majesties had not come and shown us that they cared."

TOBRUK GARRISON HARASSES ENEMY

Make New Sallies Against Axis Forces in That Area

London, April 29 (CP)—Axis forces which have assembled in advancing into Egypt five or six miles beyond the frontier post of Salum were held in check yesterday by the harassing action of British patrols, authorized sources declared today.

Australian troops garrisoned at the Libyan port of Tobruk, 80 miles west of the Egyptian border, were reported, meanwhile, to have made new sallies against German-Italian forces in that area.

The axis troops were said to be taking up defensive positions around Tobruk to combat the British forays.

On the Ethiopian front, British troops were reported continuing the pursuit of Italian forces retreating into the hills from captured Dessie and Harar, meanwhile surrounding up the Italian troops in the trackless hill country south of Jimma.

Ethiopian natives co-operating with the troops are under control, but many native troops have deserted from the ranks and are running wild in Ethiopia.

WORD FROM A FRIEND

(Collier's Weekly)

Rumors have been going around for several months past to the general effect that Canada had pressed by its war effort, is daily turning up new gadgets for squeezing another dime or dollar out of tourists from the United States.

Some of the stories are ridiculous on their face, some sound so circumstantial that they are believed.

Fact is, Canada is doing no such thing. However, there may be isolated cachpenny sales taxes here and there, but they're made for tourists, just as there are in some of our own states. But the policy of the Canadian government is to encourage tourists by every legitimate means.

Canada remains the delightful vacation spot it has long been, just as our Canadian friends remain our Canadian friends. Canada's Provincial Publicity and Travel Bureau, You can rely 100 percent on anything they tell you, and you can have one guess as to where those above-mentioned rumors are coming from.

A Chuckle!

VOLTE FACE

A number of loyalist prisoners in the Spanish civil war complained at the military campe under conditions much less unpleasant than those to be found in the ordinary military prison. Most of these approached their commandant's good fortune, but one young fellow complained about the humanity about the battle of Guadalajara.

"The insurgent soldiers, when they ran out of ammunition, reported the matter to their general who commanded them to charge.

"I understand," said the general to the men, "that you are continually limiting the men with reference to the battle of Guadalajara. Is that long enough and I'm going to give you a choice of two penalties. Either you take the oath of allegiance to the insurgent cause or you will be executed. Which soon. Choose."

The prisoner was silent for a moment, then said in a resigned tone:

"I'll take the oath."

The oath was duly administered, and the general said: "Now I might speak."

"Sir," agreed the general. "What is it?".

"I was just thinking, general," he said, "that certainly did give us a licking at Guadalajara."

CAPTAINS AND SINKING SHIPS

Hundreds of letters have been written to the U.S. Navy Department and to American newspapers protesting against the recent code of the sea" requiring a captain to go down with his ship.

The interesting thing about this is the fact that there is and never has been a code, practice or tradition in the U. S. Navy that the commander of a naval vessel should go down with the ship if she is sunk either in time of war or peace.

When a naval vessel meets with disaster the captain is the last person on board to leave the ship, but after doing his utmost to save his men he is expected to try to save himself.

For instance, Captain Charles D. Sigsbee did not go down with the Maine when she was blown up in Havana Harbor in 1898, and for him to have done so would have been a useless and foolish sacrifice of an able officer who later was promoted to be an admiral.

Captain Harold R. Christy of the U. S. Navy was later promoted to admiral, something he did not go down with the armored cruiser San Diego when she was sunk by a mine off Fire Island, New York, during the first World War. Such a practice or tradition requires a commander to go down with his ship and there is not a naval precedent or tradition requires a commander to go down with his ship and there is not a single ship even if all men and valuable supplies have been saved.

If "Conservation Nonsense," the newspaper published in Vatican City, referred to the practice as tantamount to suicide and contrary to Christian teaching.

But American naval authorities state emphatically that no such code, practice or tradition has ever existed in the United States, British and French navies, and that the Italian navies are among the oldest in the world and the most steeped in tradition.

"DAUGHTER of DESTINY"

By ELEANOR ATTERBURY COLTON

CHAPTER III.

A muffled step outside her door, followed by a discreet tap. Whisking away a betraying tear, Devona stiffened, forced composure into her voice. "Who is it?"

"It is I, Wong, please miss."

Reluctantly, Devona opened the door. "Yes?"

"I have a message, please miss." Bowing, he smiled his strangely sinister little smile. "From Mr. Brasher, please."

"Thank you." Devona closed the door before she read the message scrawled on the card: "You've had time to change a dozen dresses. Come on down and let me show you off. D.B."

Strong, bold handwriting. It boosted Devona's sagging spirit at once. Dale would know what she should do, of course. It was as if a familiar landmark had loomed suddenly in a strange wilderness. Drawing a deep breath, she opened the door and looked around her, along the long, curving hallway.

Devona Sees an Display

Her heels clicked like muted castanets on the tiled steps and her heart drummed a muffled accompaniment. Dale, cool and clean-cut and at ease, looking in white linens, waited at the foot of the stairs.

"Gorgeous," he pronounced her and reached both hands for hers. "What did she say, exactly?"

"Well, only that I mustn't call her mother. It doesn't want people to know I'm her daughter, and—"

"So what! That's only natural. After all, her public thinks she's about 30. She can't afford to jeopardize her career, surely you can understand that."

Devona nodded. "Yes, but —" How to tell him about the coldness, the feeling of uncertainty, of—

Dale Defends Vara

"But what?" Dale persisted. "That's nothing for you to get all blurry-eyed about. And I suppose she didn't exactly take you on her knee and tell you bedtime stories. Look here, Devona. Surely, you're not going sentimental on us, are you?"

"N-no. Of course, not."

"That's more like it," he said, as a frail little smile struggled across her lips. "Now come—meet one of these cockeyed people."

Still Devona hesitated. "Be sure you don't tell them—who I really am, Mother—Vara. I mean—it doesn't want them to know."

"Okay. Some of them do already. I didn't know it was a secret. But—come along. You won't need any explaining."

Drawing her arm through his, Dale led the way to Vara's dressing room. It swarmed with men in white mess jackets, women in encumber cool chiffons, studiedly informal costumes. Devona saw instantly why Vara had approved of the sophisticated red velvet. Her impulse to escape came an instant too late. Dale was already introducing her.

"Look, everybody, what I've found. Miss Devona Sacbourne to you and—" he hesitated, grinned down at her, "very dear to our Vara."

Introductions

A dozen pair of eyes turned toward her and Devona felt her cheeks burn furiously. Dale had warned her, and even Vara's attitude had prepared her for some of it. But, as she intercepted cocked eyebrows, strange little smiles, she felt like a curiosity out of a glass case.

Eventually it was over. She'd automatically acknowledged each introduction, kept her smile even. "That wasn't so bad, was it?" Dale whispered as he steered her toward a windowy balcony.

Devona clung to his arm. "It was awful."

"Well, here's George Barnard," he said to the tall, gray-haired man who'd been standing near by, what apart, watching the proceedings with a little smile. "He'll keep the wolves off until I dig up a drink. Barnard is one of the ones who knows your secret, so you can relax now."

The older man smiled at her. "Hello, Devona. We've been looking forward to having you here."

"I'll be back in a flash with strong spirits to drink a toast to that," Dale grinned. "You probably need libation at that."

Another of Vara's Worshippers

Devona smiled her thanks. "Maybe it would help."

"You afraid of us, are you?" Mr. Barnard's eyes, deepset, grey, almost laughed.

"I suppose so." He studied her deliberately. "You're much like your mother, as she was when I first saw her. Prettier even, if possible."

When Devona could bear the scrutiny no longer, she said, "Have you known mother—Vara—long."

He laughed. His face was really quite nice when he did that.

"A lot longer than she likes to admit. I've been her manager for 15 years.

"She's been a marvellous success, hasn't she?"

Barnard shook his head. "Not always, of course. But usually. She's a pretty little soul for the parts she insists on. There, abruptly, "your father's dead, isn't he?"

"Yes," she said simply.

"A fine man. I knew him slightly. He loved her. That was his sin," Barnard seemed unaware that he spoke aloud. "But, I suppose, it's the only one he ever raised slowly, almost sadly," she always gets what she wants, no matter at the start how."

Vara's Grand Entrance.

Devona stared at him. This granite-faced man loved Vara, too! His eyes showed it now as plainly as spoken words. He loved her, devoutedly and—hopelessly. Hadn't Dale said that every one who knew Vara adored her?

Vara moved into the room slowly, in the soft folds of white gown rippling as she walked. Startling in its simplicity, the dress might have been borrowed from some vestal virgin of ancient Rome. The girdle of gold rope that embraced her slim waist exactly matched the hair curling softly around her face.

Even Devona could see Vara looked young enough to be her sister. Her head held proudly, each guest with just the right word, the right gesture, she couldn't help flushing with pride. That was her mother.

Devona flushed as Vara came up behind Dale, slipped her hand through his arm.

Devona Meets Tal

"Who is what?" she asked, letting her glance drift, smiling, from one to the other.

"Who is going to have a drink?" Dale ad-libbed instantly and lifted his own glass. "Here's to our lovely newcomer," he toasted and caught Devona's glance as he touched his glass to hers. "We hope she likes us."

Vara's glance followed his, but her smile didn't change. "Of course she will. Come, darling," taking Devona's hand she guided her across the room to the big concert grand where a tall man sat alone absently fingering chords. "I want you to meet Talbot Brasher, Dales brother. You'll adore him, too."

Talbot, suspended between silence and standing, nodded. "Hello. Sit down, won't you?" indicating the other end of the piano bench.

"Thank you."

"I suppose you're this mysterious daughter we've heard of lately." One arm propped against the music rack, he stared at her calmly. "I'll bet Vara doesn't go for it much."

Writes Vara's Plays

"Why do you say that?"

He laughed, a short, harsh sound that had a ring in the end. "I know Vara. I wrote my play for her."

"You mean the one she's rehearsing now."

He nodded.

"Is this your first play?"

"Lord, no! The attics full of them. They all stink. Not my first, but probably my last," he added, punctuating his cynicism with a series of haunting, minor chords. "And it's my one big chance, too. I doubt I've muffed it. I always do."

"Heavens, why so pessimistic?" she laughed. "The play hasn't failed yet, has it?"

Tal grinned in half-hearted response. "Nope. But give it time. And now you're turning up." He turned to look at her again. "I suppose that will be one more thing to distract her."

"What do you mean?"

Down Dale Love Vara?

"First it's love. Then it's getting a good cast. Then it's money. Now—you. And she's as temperamental as a weather vane." He shrugged, went back to his chords.

Bride's Program At Annual Meeting Of Melrose W. I.

The Melrose W.I. held their annual meeting in the church hall on Thursday, April 24th. Mrs. R. C. English was hostess and was responsible for the expenses of this meeting. It proved an ideal place for a meeting of this kind the one open room enabling every one to hear the reports, discussions, etc.

Following the opening exercises the Secretary-Treasurer read the reports of the previous year's Annual and the minutes of the March meeting. After these had been accepted the Financial Statement was given. This showed a balance on hand of $28.73 besides an investment of $48.00 in War Savings Certificates. The Auditor's Report was given stating the statement was correct.

Acting on previous arrangement, Mrs. Harry Murphy was called to the chair to conduct the election of officers. Open nominations and voting were decided on and the following list of officers were voted for 1941-42: President, Mrs. J. F. Blathewick; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. Roy Badgley; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. Arthur English; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Grant MacLaren; District Director, Mrs. Thos. Leslie; Additional Directors, Mrs. Homer Hagerman, Mrs. Claude Clarke, Mrs. W. D. Robertson, Lt. Mrs. F. D. Pringle; Social Committee, Mrs. P. Milligan, Mrs. J. C. Milligan, Mrs. R. Sherwood, Mrs. E. Whiteman, Mrs. Wm. McMechan; Chief Councillor, Mrs. Percy Haight, Mrs. Clarence Hagerman, Mrs. Clem Haight, Mrs. S. Tomille, Mrs. H. Murphy, Mrs. C. Whiteman; Auditors, Mrs. R. C. English, Miss Amur Reginald; Delegate to District Annual to be held at Hamilton in June were: President, District Director, Mrs. Clem Haight, Mrs. Roy Badgely and Mrs. Mc. Leslie.

Following a lengthy discussion, as to how the Institute would carry on its war work it was decided to register under "The British War Charities Act" for this year. Conveners were appointed as follows: Red Cross, Mrs. Leslie, assistant, Mrs. Russell McFarlane. For other specialties: Mrs. Wm. McMechan as assistant, Mrs. G. Walker.

It was then decided that the regular meeting program but, due to the season, only a minor part of it was given. The bride's parade and the display of wedding photographs under the Roll Call were all the items called for. A dainty wedding cake which graced the centre table during the meeting was sold for $2.00.

Regrets were expressed that the complete "Bridge Tea" could not be carried out according to plan but the remainder of it will be held at the June meeting at the home of Mrs. J. C. Milligan. Collection for current year amounted to $2.95 and seven membership fees were paid.

Parent In The Role of Prosecutor

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

In the child of three or sixteen you can't prevent deception without destroying integrity and co-operation by holding court and playing prosecuting attorney. Your child must be open and protect your child from temptations he cannot withstand, but don't be a detective. Don't put your child on the witness stand forcing him to testify against himself, when you suspect that he has erred.

Like most other circumstances, those in the following instance have made their little child grow more dishonest and deceptive while they were trying their best to lead him to be honest and truthful. Parents want the child to learn early that deceit doesn't pay and that it brings unhappiness to the deceiver, and they don't get far if they center their attention on catching and punishing him when he lies. This will only make him worse. If a mother compels her child to confess one time, she has prepared him to lie more skillfully and steal more successfully the next.

The Letter

"Our five-year-old boy has been taking money out of his Dad's trousers. When he is caught he declares persistently that he found it or that baby took it and he took it away from her to give to Dad.

"Yesterday I left him alone in the house for about ten minutes. When I came back he had taken two eggs out of the refrigerator and broken them against the house outside . . . Today I asked him if he had broken the eggs and opened the refrigerator. He admitted reluctantly that he had. When I came in yesterday I saw the fresh eggs running down the house and asked where they had come from. He told me some boys came by and threw them there . . ."

The Doctor's Advice

Parents need to build up a relationship with a child which will make him want to do right. Then they can help him in doing right because he feels worthy and loved. Therefore, I advised the mother, who wrote the above, not to hold court with her child. She should put emphasis on keeping him from temptations to deceive and on building up his good traits and showing him more approval, love and affection when he does right, especially since he has a baby sister who is getting her share of loved more than he is. Dad, of course, should do likewise.

Solving Parent Problems

Q.—Do you advise giving the tot as early as two or three a hammer, soft wood and nails? Suppose the child endangers another child or all the furniture with these things?

A.—Supervise the youngster while he has access to a regular place, until he is able to be entrusted with these alone. Do likewise when at four or five he is given a saw and other tools.

When Boy Friend Abruptly Disappears Leak for Domesticated Wife

A letter in this morning's mail gives a possible solution to that often-asked question: "Why doesn't he come to see me any more?"

The letter goes on to say: "He was devotion itself until he suddenly dropped out of sight. Now when I meet him on the street he just speaks and goes on."

Perhaps a wife's letter which came today may explain the sudden drop in zero on the part of many boy friends.

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I'm always amused when I read letters in your column from young ladies, telling that their ardent lovers have suddenly quit calling. Has it never occurred to them that there might be a possibility of a wife in the background who has suddenly discovered her husband's latest romance?

"Mine was supposedly spending his evenings in the company of an amateur photographer, where he was improving himself in the art of picture-taking. He was also spending every Sunday in trips to the mountains with this expert photographer.

"I wanted to believe him so desperately that I did not question his interest in picture-taking. One day I accidentally discovered some snapshots of a very attractive girl standing by our new automobile on a resort many miles from home. Put on the spot, my husband admitted the photographer was a girl in whom he was interested.

"He says he has dropped her since the discovery of the snapshots. It's hard to believe that a man who had been making a girl could break off so abruptly without explanation. I would advise this girl, and many others like her, to look around and see why the boy friend calls no more. Many times there are no scot free of the suffering and heartache they cause not only the boy's wife at home but the girl to whom they have lied? I have not met this girl and naturally my husband withholds all information about her.

"I do feel, however, if she is the innocent young thing he tells me she is, that she would be glad to talk things over with me. I hold no ill-feeling toward her, for she has been actually deceived as I.

"I wish, above all things, to preserve our home for the sake of our little children, but I cannot bear my heartaches and sorrows a second time and can only wish that this girl is not as unhappy as I am to ever the duplicity of a man we both love.

"A Wife"

This letter requires no comment. But it might be well for girls who meet attractive men casually to find out something about them before they accept such attentions as all day Sunday outings. You would not buy a new car without a refrigerator or a washing machine without knowing something about it.

Why accept a boy friend on faith alone?

Dr. Dafoe's Column on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Last Measles Quarantines Imperilling Many Children

Measles is something medical science hasn't been able to go far conquering, that is, wipe out to the extent it has smallpox, yellow fever and typhus. It is as common now as it was 100 years ago. Many parents have gotten in the habit of looking upon it as inevitable in every childhood and of taking the attitude that the earlier the child has it and the other childhood diseases and get them over with, the better.

This attitude is unfortunate, for while measles may seem a pretty mild illness in most cases, every year it causes the death of many children and injuries others for life. There is always great danger for any child in measles. Even when the case is comparatively mild, it can have complications endangering the patient's life.

Since doctors cannot do a great deal about this disease once it has a start, it is important that all preventive measure be neglected, especially strict enforcement of quarantine in every family in which a case is discovered. It is because quarantine is so often neglected that measles frequently reaches epidemic proportions. New York City is having a "measles year" now, with the largest number of cases in 20 years. Studies indicate that ordinarily 95 to 98 per cent of all children exposed to the disease will be susceptible. And, of course, the younger the children are, the less natural immunity they ordinarily will have to the infection.

I have been a health officer myself, and I know how difficult it is for authorities to quarantine all cases and make the quarantines effective. Parents are naturally reluctant to have the house quarantined and have activities of members of the family restricted. They will sometimes avoid calling a doctor to attend an obvious case of measles, because they know the doctor will be duty bound to report the case to local health department. Thus they deliberately expose other children while a child's life or future health. Or they will sometimes call a doctor to treat a child because they are under the impression the child merely has a cold and provide the contagion an opportunity to spread.

Measles start out with a cold in the head and with a fever. The rash, stage, and even before the characteristic rash appears, is when measles is most infectious. One such case, when not diagnosed quickly and a quarantine enforced, can produce dozens of them. Time and again, I have seen measles sweep through a whole family, and entire school and then the families of most of the pupils in the school. The duty of taking steps to prevent such wholesale infections in a community rests upon any parent who detects any symptoms of measles in a child.

It is always a wise course to isolate a child who has measles or who regardless of whether any professional symptoms are present. Quiet and flat is always a very beneficial treatment anyway, and this safe course helps prevent the child from developing something really serious, like pneumonia or an infection to others.

So far, there is not any serum for measles that has proven to be reliable all of the time. However, there is one serum derived from convalescent cases, that I have found will prevent or modify measles in a large enough percentage of cases to justify trying it. A great deal of experimental work is being carried on in this direction, and we can doubtlessly look forward to a fairly efficient serum being developed. In the meantime, the best way to keep your child from being measles victims is to prevent them from getting it.

The large sale of tickets was in a good measure due to the fine cooperation of Mr. D. Martin and Wentworth's.

The Chapter realized the sum of $142.95 from the draw.

St. Julien Chapter loses no time in putting to use funds for war work which come into their hands. With the proceeds of the band concert on Sunday night in the McCarthy Theatre the members of the chapter had by last evening purchased new underwear, trousers, shirts and other clothing for the men of the Merchant Marine and packed three large cartons which will be shipped out at once to his destination.

Joseph E. Shortt Holds Winning Number

Mr. Joseph E. Shortt of this city held the lucky number 574 in the draw for the afghan and cushion donated by Mrs. William Short to the St. Julien Chapter I.O.D.E. The draw was made last evening by Mr. Ray Reid of the T. Eaton

Finance Minister Ilsley's Budget Address In House

Ottawa, April 29 (CP)—Partial text of Finance Minister Ilsley's speech delivered in the House of Commons today, follows:—

This is one of the wartime budgets.....

There will be no disappointment for those who believe that the financial burden of war should be distributed on a basis of equality of sacrifice, having regard to ability to pay.....

As explained by my predecessor (Hon. J. L. Ralston), the budgetary task of these years of war is that of devising financial policies which will assist in attaining the single object of both the government and parliament the mobilizing of the maximum war strength of this country. In planning these policies, the government set for itself two objectives:-

First to bring the country as rapidly as possible to the full limit of its resources and manpower....

The government's second objective was to follow "as far as may be practicable" a pay-as-you-go policy."

Reasons For Borrowing

During the past fiscal year, the government has found it necessary to borrow for the following purposes: First, to finance its deficit; second, in financing the non-dollar part of the deficit of the United Kingdom, to provide the dollars required from the United Kingdom and the canadian public; third, to meet Canadian guaranteed securities held there to the extent of the dollar exchange. Third in respect of $325,000,000 .10 enable the Foreign Exchange Control Board to meet the cost of foreign exchange acquisition order, the sale and purchase exchange of the Bank of Canada and others; and, fourth, to refund maturing maturing issues amounting to $200,000,-000 and held by the public.

In round figures the total borrowings of the government during the past fiscal year are classified as follows:-

Borrowing Classified

From the public $385,000,000 made up of $325,000,000 war loan bonds $53,000,00 (cash value) of war savings certificates and $6,000,-000 of non-interest-bearing certificates; from the bank of Canada, $261,000,000; and from the Bank of Canada, $100,000; making a total of $1,023,000,000.

Many of the tax increases imposed last year, will be in full yield revenue in the past fiscal year....

It is, however, clear that, having, in their entirety, the taxes now imposed upon ourselves the greater financial burden of the present fiscal year, we shall have to appeal to the public and the financial institutions, other than the banks, for a much larger amounts than hitherto....

Taking the 12 months to the end of March as a basis of comparison, our expenses for the United Kingdom increased by 45 per-cent in the past year, but our receipts in United States have increased by about 21 per cent. We all countrie the increase has been 30 per cent.

Expert of Gold Increased

Exports of gold have declined by about eight per cent, but our receipts from tourists declined by approximately 50 per cent receipts were increased only because of the increase in the price paid for Canadian gold.

For the first quarter of this calendar year, our rapidly rising war expenditures were five times the figure of the first quarter of last year and at the rate of more than $1,000,000,000 annually.

In comparison with the same period a year ago, the general volume of business in Canada in January and February was 15 per cent higher. While the volume of manufacturing was 21 per cent higher....

Increase in Total Debt

It has been estimated that our national income for the calendar year 1940 was $6000,000,000 in excess of the figure for 1939, or $5,400,-000,000, $368,000,000 was in salaries and wages, $1,000,000,000 in business, professional, agricultural and investment income....

Somewhat over $600,000,000 went into increased Dominion revenues. Without increases in taxes by provinces and municipalities have experienced little appreciable gain in revenue....

That our plans call for war expenditures of $1,450,000,000, nearly double those of last year, is already known. It is estimated that the United Kingdom has intimated that its purchases of supplies for all purposes will be made in Canada to the value of $1,200,000,000.

Under the stimulus of these purchases, it is expected that national income will increase greatly. Against an estimated increase of $600,000,000 from the calendar year 1939 to 1940, it has been estimated that the National income in the fiscal year 1941-42 is likely to rise $950,000,000 above the figure for 1940.

Increase of 35 P.C

Such an increase in our National income, to a level 35 per cent above that of 1939 will make possible a powerful contribution to the success of the struggle in which we are engaged jointly with the other British countries and the United States.....

We can postpone till after the war the purchase of many wholly desirable and convenient products, and thereby give right-of-way to the equipping and maintaining of the fighting forces that stand between us and Hitler.

Up to March 31, Britain's deficit in her balance payments with Canada was approximately $765,000,000. In the calendar year only $1.4 per cent was met by the transfer of gold to Canada, approximately $70,000,000, the remainder by the repatriation of Canadian securities held in Britain, and by the accumulation of sterling balances in London.

Since early December no gold has been received from the United Kingdom and Canada is presently making Canadian dollars available to the United Kingdom for the full amount of her deficit with us, which for the first quarter of 1941 accounted to approximately $180,000,000.

During the present fiscal year our shipments of munitions of war, raw materials, and agricultural products to Britain, should reach approximately $1,500,000,000 for the United Kingdom.

The House, however, I am sure will agree that it would be unthinkable that Britain should be unable to purchase vitally-needed supplies in Canada because of a lack of Canadian dollars.

For that reason it has been necessary for Canada to secure Britain, and Canada would meet such proportion of that loan as the net exchange of the Bank of Canada and others; and, finally, to refund those maturing issues amounting to $200,000,-000 and held by the public.

Canada To Meet Payments.

For that reason it has been necessary for Canada to secure Britain, and Canada would meet such proportion of that loan as the net exchange of the Bank of Canada and others; and, finally, to refund those maturing issues amounting to $200,000,-000 and held by the public.

Despite all the measures that were taken to prevent the accretion of a growing deficit in our dollar transactions with the United States, by the end of Dec. 15, 1939 (the date on which foreign exchange control was established in Canada), the deficit had risen to $765,-000,000 (all figures are in Canadian dollars.)

In order that all the measures taken to curtail non-essential imports, we have undertaken relief, particularly from the United States (this fiscal year we anticipate $325,000,000, of which $428,000,000 will represent purchases for our purposes. More than half of this total will not be actually accounted for by components and materials which will be purchased in the United States to execute British war contracts in Canada. For purposes of the United States the expenditures period were estimated at $475,-000,000.

Tourist Receipts Disappointing.

Tourist receipts in the present year proved very disappointing, and . . . it is probable that the total of tourist receipts from this source of more than $150,000,000.

Taking these and other relevant items into consideration, the best estimate we were able to make a few weeks ago indicated a probable deficit in our dollar exchange for current purposes and current account with the United States for the current fiscal year of approximately $475,000,000. This figure as recently been reduced by $11,000,000 as a result of a partial renewal of a Dominion obligation amounting to $11,000,000.

Perhaps I have said enough to indicate to the House something of the magnitude of these complex exchange problems. A dramatic and significant contribution to their solution was made by the Hyde Park declaration.

It is difficult to make any precise quantitative estimate of the net contribution which the agreement may make to reducing our shortage of United States exchange.

However, I must warn the House that the Hyde Park agreement is not generous and helpful as it was, does not provide for the full conservation of foreign exchange.

No Reduction of Far on Dollar

It would be foolish, for instance, to assume that it will mean the reduction in part or the Canadian dollar in New York....Or to assume that it will enable us to remove the present restriction upon the use of United States dollars for pleasure travel purposes in the United States....

If all restrictions were removed, I am of the opinion that we would have to find some $70,000,000 to $80,000,000 for pleasure travel....

I wish now, Mr. Speaker to review government's accounts for the fiscal year which closed on March 31.....

Our revenues during the past year were of unprecedented magnitude.

Our present estimate is that they will reach $871,271,000, an increase over the previous year of over $309,-000,000 or approximately 55 per cent. For no earlier year in our history have our receipts approximated this huge total. Even the amount what.courageous estimates made by the government last June were exceeded by more than $100,000,000.....

Revenue Exceeds Estimates

In 1915-16 the aggregate revenues of the Dominion amounted to only $122,000,000, and even in the closing year of the last war they had risen to only $313,000,000.

The very large increase in our revenues as compared with those for 1938-40 is to be explained by four principal factors. In the first place, we imposed last year a number of new taxes and we increased the rates of several of our existing taxes. In the second place, the substantial increase in business activity, in personal and corporate incomes and in consumers' expenditures... have provided a broader base for all our taxes. Third, and...

Finally, there was a much less net refunding than still existed-many of income taxes not normally payable before April 30.

Total tax revenues now are estimated at $778,271,000, compared with $468,000,000 in the preceding fiscal year.... Sales tax alone was collected to the total of $180,000,000 and the war exchange tax for $120,000,000.

Income Tax Assists.

The Income Tax was the second most important source of revenue. In the case of individual incomes, the 18 per cent tax on corporate incomes and the special tax to increase individual dividends, we received a total of $220,000,000, or more than 30 per cent in excess of any previous year in our history. Our estimate for the present year is a total revenue of $28,000,000 while the Excess Profits Tax we collected $24,000,000.

It is estimated that about 110,000 persons will pay income tax for the instalment prepayment plan and that the number will be increased to 1,000,000.

Despite the important steps we have taken to restrict non-essential imports, our revenues from customs duties rose from $104,000,000 in 1939, to $128,000,000 in the calendar in 1940-41. This is larger than in any year since 1930, and substantially below most of the pre-depression years.

For the past fiscal year we now estimate that our ordinary expenditures will be $778,271,000, the same 000, of which total approximately 70 per cent will be paid by interest, and other charges on the public debt, by subsidies, by the normal cost of operating the postal service, and subsidies and special grants to provinces. Of the total $5,000,000 less than the corresponding figure for the previous year. Of the total expenditures decreased to $3,405,000 from slightly over $7,000,000 in 1939-40.

Railway Debt Increases.

The largest decrease in our expenditures was in the category of so-called special expenditures, representing chiefly the cost of unemployment relief, payments under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act, and grants for capital works in respect of wheat.

There was also a substantial decrease in losses of, and non-active advances to, government-owned enterprises, chiefly the railway owned railway system. During the past year our net investment in these account was $18,182,000 as compared with $27,079,000 during the preceding year.

To come now to the last important category of Dominion expenditures, namely, those on war account. Our net war expenditures for the year, total cash disbursements for this purpose $130,000,000 less war taxes . . . will approximate $816,150,000, of which $781,000,000 is estimated to be consolidated fund and $34,380,000 will represent loss in our exchange. We estimate that as active assets in our account.

In the corresponding fiscal year of the war, namely 1915-16, the expenditures of the Dominion amounted to only slightly over $196,-000,000, or less than 25 per cent of the year of the war, to only $447,000,000.

New Record For Dominion

If we add the amounts which I have just given for the various categories of expenditure charged to consolidated fund, together with certain miscellaneous other charges against income, and deduct from the total receipts of assets, we get an aggregate expenditure for the year of $1,046,627,000 which total. . . also represents a new record for the Dominion.

Our revenues for the year of $871,-271,000, we reach an over-all deficit for the year of $175,356,000.

This is, of course, a very large deficit but nevertheless it is substantially smaller than that which was incurred by the previous year-last June. It compares with a deficit of $118,700,000 in 1939-40 or, as a result of the over-all deficit of $295,000,000, the net debt of the Dominion rose to approximately $5,-066,318,000 as at March 31, 1941. Comparable figures that date are estimated at $4,764,667,000. On the other side of the balance sheet, the Dominion has active assets, including cash on hand, sinking fund assets and other loans and investments amounting to $1,077,741,000.

Funded Debt $4,371,831,000

At the close of the fiscal year there was outstanding unmatured direct funded debt (including treasury bills) amounting to $4,371,831,-000, of which $3,292,000,000 were held in sinking funds against certain issues payable in London, Bonds and debentures stocks bearing the guarantee of the Dominion and outstanding in the hands of the public totalled $894,018,379, as at March 31, 1941. These unlisted securities were decreased by $100,462,552 during the year. There are also outstanding certain other contingent liabilities relating out of guarantees given under relief acts and various other statutes.

309 MILLIONS

est and other charges on the public debt.

Deficit of $383,856,000

Other miscellaneous expenditures, representing chiefly write-downs of assets, would bring total expenditures for the year to $1,268,627,000 which, placed against total receipts of income taxes not normally payable before April 30.

For the corresponding fiscal year of the last War, Sir Thomas White and Ilsley noted that war expenditure was slightly over $160,000,000, and for the last year of that conflict $819,750,000 and the war exchange tax for $120,000,000.

Income Tax Assists.

In the case of individual incomes, the 18 per cent tax on corporate incomes and the special tax to increase individual dividends, we received a total of $220,000,000, or more than 30 per cent in excess of any previous year in our history. KREISLER INJURED

FRITZ KREISLER

One of the world's greatest violinists, Fritz Kreisler, 66, was struck by a motor truck and gravely injured when he was tripped in New York traffic while crossing Madison Ave. during rush hour. Unconscious and suffering from a fractured skull, he was taken to the hospital, where his condition was described as "satisfactory."

THE WAR TODAY

By GUY ROHDEN

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

A Nazi move to dodge the tough Turks and attempt to grab Iraq's oil fields through a coup d'etat as observers watched Axis occupation of outposts in Libya and pointing toward the Italian Dodecanese groups.

British strategists looked for an simultaneous move against Egypt by simultaneous thrusts against Syria and Iraq, the latter necessarily through Persia or Iranian territory.

In connection with the latter it was noted that four riots had occurred in Syria with such violence that military authorities were called in to restore order. Whether these riots were connected in any way with Nazi-Fascist ambitions in the Near East could not be determined, but there were some who took the view that disorders in any country coveted by the Axis could safely be presumed to be Axis inspired.

Meanwhile reports emanated from Vichy that British forces and those of Free France under the leadership of the Free French army commander, General Catroux, had entered Syria, seeking to drive the Nationalists into surrender to the Allies.

The exact intent behind such reports remained obscure as they were denied by both British and Free French sources. It was generally said that if any move arose in French Somaliland to open negotiations with the Petain administration it would undoubtedly turn out to be an abortive attempt to country itself.

It was considered possible that the report was spread by Axis propagandists in an effort to discredit French colonial administrators ignoring and finally openly condemn the mandate over Syria and give the Axis an excuse for going to the Syrians' "protection." Direction of Possible Drive.

Whether news of a possible axis drive eastward was seen as something like this:

Control of the Italian forces, already claiming possession of the Cyrenaican Hinterland, Benghazi and Thaza, would seek to extend this drive to the Nile Delta. The Italian Dodecanese which they could use as bases for an assault on Syria.

Simultaneously, the air-supported axis forces in North Africa might launch a drive to counteract any attempt to advance through Egypt to the Suez Canal. It was pointed out that the canal, lockless and zone banked, is eminently susceptible to air attack, because dredges can step around any ship which might be sunk in the existing channel and can dig a new channel in a few days. Thus the canal, to be immobilized, must be captured by ground forces.

Germany, apparently, hoped at one time to obtain a telephonic victory from Turkey's neutrality or a renewal of tough utterances by the Turkish foreign minister, Saracoglu, to indicate that German diplomatic wires were humming with activity, despite what was believed the prelude to a fortnight's ultimatum demanding acquiescence in Nazi demands on the Dardanelles.

Turkish journals press yesterday said with some asperity that Turkey, well prepared and determined, was in no mood to treat any new axis demands as a declaration of war.

Meanwhile, the Nazi in a drive toward Iraq the axis would by-pass Turkey, and would attempt to bring the one-time ally's feelings to grab Iraq's oil fields and the strategic value of the dwindled liquid fuel supplies without which the Nazi and Italian mobile war machines would die.

Britain Favored In Win Over Axis In A Long War

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington, April 29 (AP)—Now that the Nazi drive in Greece has resulted in victory for Germany, Hitler is confronted with the necessity of making a major decision, it is said.

He has promised his people defeat of Britain this year, but Prime Minister Churchill has declared that this cannot be accomplished through German victories in the Mediterranean area, or anywhere else except theatre of war.

"There is no win this war," Mr. Churchill said, "the (Hitler) must invade the British Island by invasion, or he must cut the ocean highways which joins us to the United States."

If that British conception is sound it is declared, the axis must be broken at sea or by invasion within the next few months, for it is clear that lapse of time winter will again increase Britain's inner danger both at sea and ashore.

Next Move East.

German failure to concentrate the full force of the air arm for the attack against Britain now that the weather has improved, and that its armies of occupation would imply that Hitler's campaign is only in need of a short war. And despite clear-cut Nazi victories wherever the German National Socialist air force has the continent, the odds in a long war still favor Britain.

Mr. Churchill stressed that in his Sunday broadcast. While Britain's atlantic lifeline is unbroken material resources of the British Empire are ample. Its manpower sphere are here to draw upon. Utilizing British Empire resources, England's sea gateways are kept open, it is assured. It might be attacked within another year.

Nevertheless there are intimations from several sources in Europe that Hitler's next move will be eastward and not westward. Among other fruits of his Balkan victory and the British forces struck at Britain in North Africa, he has gained a strategic advantage of the initiative. He has imposed a grave threat on Britain that he might, with his victorious armies march through Turkey to seize the Suez Canal as all of the material of tal oil resources in Iraq now feeding British sea, land and air forces in the East.

Threat Gravely Regarded

A two-pronged Nazi threat to close the Mediterranean somehow by the masking, if not the capture, of Gibraltar is also rationed as possible, even by Mr Churchill, that was what he had in mind when he and Morocco meant; the British reinforcement of the Rock and assignment of Viscount Gort a that command shows it is not a lightly regarded threat.

Even a German thrust into Russia for food and raw materials, or to limit Russian aid to Turkey, is within the range of possibility it has caused a manoeuvre mobilization of Red Army forces in the Ukraine.

All of these possibilities were surveyed by Mr. Churchill, to be dismissed as inconclusive even if further Nazi victories were the result. Britain herself, backed by increasing United States help, still could and would win, he contended. And unless Hitler's armies achieve new triumphs in the East, abandoned hope of victory over Britain this year, it still remains the main effort must be there.

Japanese Papers React To News Of Patrol By U.S.

Tokyo, April 29 (AP)—The newspaper Nichi-Nichi declared that the United States decision for extended patrolling of the Atlantic as far as the western hemisphere "means the United States has but a step from entering the war."

"The United States navy is taking a step from war to England, which should be the work of the British navy," the paper said. "No one can deny this.

"In the meanwhile conflict will begin between the United States and Germany.

The Tokyo Advertiser, controlled by Japan's foreign ministry, declared a headline "war worry causes general price drop" over a story that "Washington is in a state of alarm" over the United States action.

Hyde Park Declaration Contains Full Effect Of Arrangements—King

Ottawa, April 29 —(CP)— The "Hyde Park declaration" represents the full effect and significance of all the arrangements entered into between Canada and the United States, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said in the House of Commons Monday.

The Conservative House Leader, Hon. R. B. Hanson, asked the premier if he had seen an article in the Christian Science Monitor indicating that a statement issued by President Roosevelt and Mr. King after their conference April 20 at Hyde Park did not include the whole arrangement.

"There were no reservations, no conditions, no undertakings except those given in the usual way," Mr. King said. "The declaration made by the President and me is nothing that does not appear on the surface of it."

PRIME MINISTER EXPLAINS VIEW

Mr. King Says Decision Has Been Approved By Members of Dominion Prime Ministers in London

Ottawa, April 29 (CP)—A conference of Dominion prime ministers in London has been considered since the end of March but the decision so far has been against it, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said in the House of Commons today.

If he believed he could better serve the war effort by going to London he would not wait for an invitation, Mr. King continued, but with the Excelsior Life Insurance Co.

Mr. Justice Urquhart is hearing the case. The Edmonton company contends that Mr. Ross died from coal gas and was dead when burning of the house began. It has refused to pay payment under the double indemnity clause of the policy in case of death by accidental means.

Mr. Ross was not dead, his body badly charred, in the ruins of the house in Bowmanville on March 1 last year.

Dr. Robbins, Toronto University pathologist, testified for the defence witness that he was of the opinion that death had been due to carbon monoxide poisoning, and that there was speed in the fire that the body was badly burned though apparently no effort had been made by the accused to get up and escape the flames.

SHARP ATTACK ON PLYMOUTH

Report Says Assault Less Intense Than Previous Ones

Plymouth, England, April 29 (CP) —Thousands of incendiaries and oil bombs were loosed on this seaport by Nazi planes during a sharp attack last night and early today.

Neither damage nor casualties were large.

The attack, less intense than previous ones, came only a few hours after the victims of the three raids still were being buried in a communal grave.

Dodgers Beat Champion Reds In First Clash Of The Season Between Sectional Leaders

Brooklyn Had 'Zip' That Challengers Sometimes Get and Champions Eventually Lose

INDIANS WINGING

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati Reds are the same team they were last year. They were the world champions then, and they may be again, but at this early date it must be said that other teams have improved while the Reds have remained stationary.

The champs came east yesterday and the first stab out of the box bumped into Brooklyn Dodgers, one of the improved clubs in the National League.

Their clash was a battle of titans, but the Dodgers entered with their seventh successive victory, 3-2, and took over first place in the senior circuit, while the Reds were left languishing in fourth place.

The Reds received good pitching —a six-hit job by their veteran ace, Paul Derringer, and their old customary flawless fielding — including one of the most spectacular catches of the young season when Val (Pinkie Dry) Goodman stood almost against the rightfield fence, 300 feet from the plate, and jumped as high as he could to spear a liner in the sixth inning. They had as good an offence as the Dodgers' six hits, including a home run by Buck McCormick.

Dodgers Had "Zing"

But the Dodgers had that "zing" that challengers sometimes get and champions eventually lose.

Whitlow Wyatt, bordering on 31, struck out 10 of the champs and held them to six hits. When the Reds tied the score through Ernesto Natali Camilli's triple in the seventh, the Dodgers had what was needed to win in the ninth — a single with two on by old Whit Wyatt himself.

You can bet that the fighting is going to be a lot fiercer this year. St. Louis Cardinals are in the middle of it, also. They were idle along with the rest of the league yesterday.

American League

The American League action has switched to the west. While the eastern teams were travelling yesterday, Cleveland Indians reinforced their grip on first place by drubbing Detroit Tigers 7-2 and Chicago White Sox into a tie for third place with a 2-1 edge over St. Louis Browns.

The contest at Cleveland started out as a hurling duel between Jim Milnar and young Hal Newhouser, who was a pitcher before developing arm trouble.

Newhouser showed he still is a potentially great pitcher by striking out nine batters and allowing only four hits in six innings. The 19-year-old southpaw gave nine walks and had to be removed with nobody out in the seventh when he made a wild pitch with the bases loaded on two passes and an error.

FOXBORO BALL CLUB TO DISBAND

Players Will Devote Their Interest to Baseball During Present Season

After a lapse of nine years, during which the youth of the village produced baseball, the Foxboro Baseball Club is giving up the ghost as well as the South Hastings baseball league, and this spring the baseball fans will see no baseball in the form of baseball for their amusement. This was the outcome of a meeting held on Monday evening by members of the team, when the boys almost unanimously voted to toss in the sponge insofar as baseball was concerned and to join in after devote their interests to softball.

Softball is no stranger to the Foxboro aggregation however as this village has represented in the first "mushball" league to operate in this district, namely—The Belleville and District softball League. This league was organized and died in 1931 and was comprised of two Belleville teams, two Foxboro and Ontario intelligencer with Cannifton and Foxboro.

Present aspirations of the Foxboro lad, who boast of the cream of the softball players in this district, are to enter a league with Bata Shoe Company, represented at Frankford, and Stirling, making a three-cornered league. It is said they will seek affiliation with the O.A.S.A. as an Intermediate "A" team, adding a new link into the playdowns.

No word as to the future of the South Hastings Baseball League has been forthcoming from the league officials, who usually are thinking of their interests at this time of the year. Time rumor has it that the Cannifton nine will not field a team this season, and if so, it is extremely doubtful if the league will operate, as with only three clubs Shannonville and Latta to carry on. Thus it would appear that when the league which has kept baseball alive in the Bancroft district for the past number of years after a couple of lean years, baseball-loving interest is ready to toss in the sponge.

FRANK MERRIWELL FINISH WINS FOR MONTREAL JRS.

Score Two Goals in 40 Seconds to Defeat Winnipeg Rangers 4-3

PLAY WEDNESDAY

By JACK MITCHELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, April 29—(CP)— All that hopes for Montreal's amateur hockey supremacy of both Montreal Royals and Winnipeg Rangers, had two ticket-holders in the annual Memorial Cup lottery, last night advanced today on one last whirl of a Big Four title chance.

A 4-3 victory by the Royals here last night put the teams all even for the best-of-three, total goals, of-five final, scheduled for Toronto tomorrow night.

Royals came through last night with a typical Frank Merriwell finish to level the series. The split-second timing of Pietro's hero act came fast as Eastern Canada's champions, within 40 seconds of eliminations, rallied for a pair of quick goals.

A 2-0 lead wiped out by the western champions' three - goal spurt in the first frame, Royals seized advantage of a Ranger penalty for both last-ditch tallies. Slim Grant Morrison fired the first at 19:11 to beat the count and Roland Bleau, little utility man, got the winner 25 seconds later.

Bleau's playoff goal last night was the first of the series for the utility winger and also his first point of the game. The other three Royals' goals were scored by Morrison, Bobby Carragher and Jimmy Peters, with Morrison and Carragher each getting an assist as well as Bill Southwick, husky rearguard, making the play for two tallies. The Winnipeg counters went to Lou Medwick, Bill Mortimer and Sammy Fabro.

SIMPSON GRADS BEATEN AGAIN

Vancouver Thunderbirds Win Second Game From Toronto Squad 51-42

By STAN MONCRIEFF
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, April 29—(CP)—University of British Columbia Thunderbirds clashed to within one game of the men's senior Canadian basketball championship here last night when they beat Toronto Simpson Grads 51-42 to win their second of the best-of-five series. Varsity won the opener 42-34 here Saturday.

Third game is scheduled for Wednesday night and if fourth and fifth games are necessary they will be played Friday and Saturday.

Grads showed better form in the early stages and held Varsity in check to grab an 11-8 lead at the end of the first quarter. Vancouver forged into a 23-19 lead at the half and were up 33-28 at the three-quarter mark.

The Ontario team depended largely on long floor shots but found difficulty in finding the College Players in Lineup Are Supplying the Winning Spirit

TORONTO WINS

Newark Bears, who started starting out in the International League race as if to make it the same Kind of runaway they had back in 1937, can furnish a lot of heating for the experts who claim that colleges are supplanting the sandlots as reservoirs of baseball talent.

In the Newark line-up yesterday at the Bears triumphed, 4-1, in a seven game winning three-run rally in the last inning, were two college players. Bill Knickerbocker, who started and finished for the Bears, is a product of the University of Alabama. Ed Levy, a Rolling College graduate, and Dave Cullen, Long Beach Junior College. The pitching was ably handled by Knickerbocker and Wake Forest College, who turned in a five-hit game for his second victory of the season.

The Jamboree, of course, have done their share although they're pretty well outnumbered. One of them, Nino Bongiovanni, opened Newark's game-winning three-run rally in the last inning with a single and scored when Earl Cook lanced three passes.

In the other contests, Toronto's Maple Leafs made it two straight over Jersey City 2-1 and the champion Baltimore Red Wings whipped Syracuse 6-1 in a game that might have been even more lopsided.

Toronto made only five hits off Frank Carswell, while Walter Lanfranconi allowed the Little Giants 10, but the Leafs bunched three in the fifth inning for their winning runs with the aid of a balk and two outs had given them a first-inning tally.

REGINA RANGERS GIVEN AN EDGE

6-5 Favorites to Win From Sydney in Even Series for Allan Cup

Regina, April 29 (CP)—The Allan Cup finals resume tonight and Wednesday when Regina Rangers, defying ice for five on Regina Rangers' 2 to win although Sydney Millionaires have won two of the previous four games, lost one and tied one.

Since the series began in Calgary Monday a berth in the Ice Lawrence League with Perth, Brockville, etc., has been the new International loop suggestion holds a much greater chance of responsibility, but then they were always willing to make it known to Kingston as many new faces the Kingston entry should flourish.

With their extensive War Service program in full force and vitue, it will be impossible for the O.A.A. to stage its annual athletic display and circus. Instead, how ever, the midget and juvenile members of the 14 odd municipal display of group games and athletic demonstration in the "A" Memorial Hall to which the public is invited at no cost. The War Service is concerning to maintain its conventional program for the youth of the community and has extended War Service program that must be carried on in favour of Canada's fighting forces.

Do you remember when Tommy Gorman signed the 20-year contract to manage Montreal Maroons six years ago today? Gorman, who now is connected with Montreal Canadiens, came to the Maroons from Chicago Black Hawks to their first Stanley Cup title in 1926 and he made it two years later when he brought Montreal home in front in 1935.

President Clem Beeler's local setthalkers will convene tonight with a meeting to prepare plans to the opening of the season. We were in conversation with Manager Baker of the Trenton League over the week-end and Baker says they're playing intermediate "A" softball in the O.A.S.A. in 1941. "Why should we trek all over the province to play softball playdowns when there is plenty of opposition in Kingston, Belleville, Oshawa or Peterboro?" rightfully asks Baker. The Trenton League has two entries from the town, one from the R.C.A.F., another from the "S.A.N.D." centre, while efforts to form a third team by affiliating with the Trenton League are strong today. Trenton's second team is new to the effect that the South Hastings League may play. If not, the Foxboro club carries out its threat to revert to softball, where the expenses are much less, local fans will be treated to a softball circuit right at their doors.

With June-like weather in our midst, softball schedule squads are taking full advantage of the spring recess period. After the holiday, the teams worked out at St. Mike's grounds and two more at the Collegiate prior to last night's girls' meeting when a 42-game schedule was adopted, with playing dates announced elsewhere today. The league executive are introducing players' certificates this year in order to protect clubs from being raided when another season rolls around. Under the rules of the league, the teams don't introduce gloves for all of their hands is beyond the corner. The feminine scribblers in other centres have gloves at all positions, so what's to stop 'em in the Belleville loop. Actually the press boys wearing gloves creates more confidence to the individual, as there is less chance of a player sustaining minor hand or finger injuries. And of course gloves are purely optional.

Fourteen answered the call and worked out with the Corbys' A.C. intermediate last night. Several veterans putting in their initial appearance of the year, Fred Arel Art Cole have into sight accordingly. Traffic Officer Jack Hatch, which prompted Coaches Hartzman and Bongiovanni. The mystery was cleared up when Officer Jack took the chance to report for duty at the Corbys at the Collegiate campus and hindered up the works. Even when Johnnie Rensky wasn't toe with Cole took a few pokes around first. Connie Harris and Sydney Hartzman "ran over for batting practice and when Alfie Alexander and Ken Hall, Skipper Bawdoin's smile was as broad as—well anyhow it was plenty broad. Ken Hall "ran over the Corby management is still looking around and at least one more infielder. They'll practice at Coleman Park on Wednesday evening. If you're at all interested.

SPORT SPICE — Confining the bulk of energy scoring to the third period, it's all even in the Memorial Cup series after the Montreal Royals beat the Peg Rangers 4-3 last night. . . . The fifth and final game is slated for Toronto on Thursday, while the Allan Cup finals continue at Regina today, despite the fact the temperature hovers around the 70 mark in the Saskatchewan capital. . . . Perhaps the Montreal Royals hockey morals will endeavour to conclude their season at the same game, before the golf season is halfway through. . . . Hockey fans in this week, Fort Worth and Dallas, both in Texas, have been admitted to the Texas League. . . . Here's something that loop a 1,000 mile hop from St. Paul to Dallas-Fort Worth. . . . Now it's the Dodgers pacing the National League, the "daffiness boys" doing ahead as the result of a 3-2 win over the Reds. . . . The league's only game yesterday. . . .

AT THE McCARTHY

"Adam Had Four Sons"

Timeless saga of a family's right to survive, tense drama of the ageless war of women for the men they love, Columbia's "Adam Had Four Sons" opens next at the McCarthy Theatre to reveal one of the most amazingly candid stories ever brought to the screen, the heart-warming story of five fascinating women and the men in their lives! Hailed for its intimate, burning reality, "Adam Had Four Sons" is based upon the sensational best - selling novel "Legacy," by Carlos Bulmer and stars Ingrid Bergman and Warner Baxter with a stellar supporting cast.

Featured in the memorable new film are Susan Hayward, Fay Wray, Ross Wallace, Richard Denning, Johnny Downs and Robert Shaw. Gregory Ratoff directed the scenes of unbridled romance, of daring, struggle and victory which has made "Adam Had Four Sons" one of the most talked-of motion pictures of the year.

Baxter is seen as Adam Stoddard, proud father of four fiercely independent boys. He watches them grow, helps them through their loves and wars and amazing adventures, and as a maddening-eyed girl capture first one, then another of the men they see fit seek greedily for new victims, finally succeeds in winning Ingrid Bergman, the brilliant star of "Intermezzo," is cast in "Adam Had Four Sons" as Emilie, fiercely devoted mother of his youngsters, hauntingly lovely, gallantly loyal, understanding and courageous.

Miss Hayward, as Cousin Scarlett O'Hara, lovely Susan Hayward is said to give the most powerful performance of her young career, a performance that should be the talk well on the way to stardom. Miss Wray is cast as Lucy Baxter, Adam Stoddard's young wife, whose death precipitates the drama and the disaster which face the Stoddards for years, and Helen Westley is said to be at her best in the role of character performance as Cousin Phillipa, the cigar-smoking old maid who aids Adam bring up his four sons.

Lesser players are equally noteworthy, according to advance report, with Richard Denning, Johnny Downs and Robert Shaw capturing honors as three of the four sons. Advance praise has also been accorded Ratoff for his sensitive direction of the many emotional scenes of the human heart, this saga of the Stoddard family with its feuds and passions, loves and conquests.

2 Soldiers Arrested For Tampering With Car On Parking Lot

Trenton (Special) — Constable Fred Pringle and Constable Ernest Bryan, both of this city, have only been on the force for three weeks, made his first capture early yesterday morning, when he arrested two soldiers on a charge of attempted theft of an automobile.

The two accused men are Pte. Clayton Heath and Pte. Robert Young, both attached to a regiment at Camp Borden.

Constable Morgan was patrolling his beat when he noticed two men tampering with a car on the sales lot of Mr. Howard Ketcheson. He was in the automobile and the other was standing near the door, as if he was tampering with the lock.

When the constable approached the car, both men fled down a lane-way. In an effort to stop them Constable Morgan fired a shot into the ground but the men disappeared into the darkness.

Sgt. W. Fewer, after hearing the shot rushed to the scene and aided Constable Morgan in the search. The constable located one of the men in a laneway behind the Episcopal Church, and brought him to police. Later the second man was arrested in his home.

The two soldiers informed the police that they had unsuccessfully tried to hitch-hike to Borden for money for the fund.

Funeral Held

The funeral of the late Mercy Bartlet was held yesterday from the family residence. Intermeint was made in the Mount Calvary Cemetery.

Dies Suddenly

The late Mrs. Bartlet died on April 25th, suddenly, after a short illness. Born in England, she had resided in this district most of her life. She was in her 85th year.

Rev. Father O'Neil and Rev. Father Hennessy conducted mass and the funeral service. The pall bearers were six grandsons, Ed. Hogle, Ed. Hogle, Vincent Brennan, Joseph Brennan, Ed. Hogle, Jr., and Reporter Eaillis.

AMERICAN "EAGLE" SQUADRON IN ACTION

The Eagle Squadron of the Royal Air Force, made up of fighting pilots from Uncle Sam's domain who are anxious enough for a crack at Hitler to join Britain's sky warriors, is now an operational squadron ready for front-line action. At TOP is pictured a group of the Eagle Squadron pilots at an English flying field; below the pilots sprint for their machines when orders to "scramble" come through from headquarters directing the air defences of Britain.

P.M. SALUTES "HOME FRONT" DEFENDERS

Winston Churchill causes amusement amongst the onlookers as he raises his famous "John Bull" hat onto a stick in acknowledgment of their cheers. This was at Swansea, where the prime minister visited during tour of Nazi-raided South Wales and Bristol.

A fetching closeup of Miss Susann Shaw, whom newspaper publishers selected as "Most Beautiful Model" in the contest in New York. The picture was made in Miss Shaw's New York home.

NEW FIRE-BOMB EXTINGUISHER

A new fire-bomb extinguisher to douse Nazi-dropped fire-bombs is shown getting its first test in London. An asbestos lined metal case on the end of a long pole, is dropped over the blazing luftwaffe calling card. A moveable metal plate is slid underneath, and presto there the bomb is, safely encased in the air-tight case where it quickly smothers, and in which it can be carried off and disposed of.

LAST NAZI CAUGHT

Pictured here is the end of a week's freedom for the last four of 30 German war prisoners who escaped from a Northern Ontario camp. They are shown as they came back under guard. The captive Nazi smiling in the front is Sgt. Helmuth Ackenhausner, who told newsmen: "I want to get to America, then back to Germany, fly over England, drop bombs."

Among supported stocks were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem; Chrysler, General Motors, Anaconda, Dulce Corporation, Du Pont, United Aircraft and U. S. Penney.

Canadian issues showed gains to more than a point. McIntyre Mines bumped 1 1-8 and would go from the Canadian Pacific list "rights" in the mood market Canada 4s were up 1-4 point higher.

Grecian King May Establish Gov't In England

New York, April 29 (CP)—John McVane, NBC correspondent in England and a guest broadcast from London last night that it was reported that King George II of Greece already has left Crete for a middle east base where he will set up a Free Greek Government.

McVane said another rumor was that Gen. Franco of Spain will be displaced as head of the Spanish Government by Ramon Serrano Suner, his brother-in-law and now Spain's Foreign Minister. Then Germany will be invited into Spain to attack Gibraltar.

He said according to this rumor secret plans have been made for Franco to come to Britain in case of a coup d'etat of the Falangists, led by Serrano Suner.

"It's hardly credible likely," McVane added, "that if the Germans did enter Spain the British could prevent it, with the presence of the representatives of Spanish democracy, for whose suppression Franco called in the Germans and the Italians."

Nazis Claim Speedboats Clash

Berlin, April 29—(AP)— D.N.B. Stat news and propaganda agency, claimed today that several British speedboats were damaged early this morning in a fight with the similar German craft which undertook an attack against the eastern coast of England.

(The clash has not yet been reported in London and no confirmation of the Nazi claim is available.)

(Apparently the Germans attacked under cover of, or benefited by, the blasting of German channel shore batteries aimed at the Dover, or southeast, English coast. London dispatches pictured the shelling as the heaviest of the war.

The two German actions together—speed boat and artillery—might indicate a testing attack of the sort likely to become general in case of an invasion attempt.)

D. N. B. also reported that speedboats returned unhindered to their base.

FIRST RECRUITING

"From time to time quotas were asked for to replace wastage and these were met. Up to October or November those quotas were supplied," said Mr. Ralston.

"Then we stopped asking for men and my honorable friend (Mr. Hanson) and some others in this assembly can be regarded as responsible for that. I refused to do so. We stopped because there were no ships to take men overseas.

"I've did not intend to ever begin again until, I think, February. At that time, I was told that quota to districts, a comparatively small quota to take care of wastage, that is to say men who had been discharged for medical reasons or because they were no longer fit and likely to make efficient soldiers."

Parallel with this recruiting has been reinforcements went the filling up of new units in Canada and the Home Guard coming out in full relief.

As the British Army went into action, observers in Folkestone looking over the Strait of Dover could see puffs of black smoke rising from time to time along the French coast. Boulogne, Calais and Cap Gris Nez as if from bursts of heavy bombs.

On another occasion, a great column of black smoke rose from the sea up from the direction of Calais harbor, the suggesting to observers that a German munitions ship was hit.

The bombardment developed into the most sustained cross-channel fire since the war began.

All entrances into Dover were marked by yellow notice boards bearing the warning: "Guns in Progress—Take Cover."

Most of the German shells were of a high explosive type which burst with a terrific crash, sending heavy metal splinters on a wide area with each burst.

PRIME MINISTER

To Bolster Recruiting

Apart from Mr. King's opening statement which included a brief review of war developments overseas and a reference to the significance of the Hyde Park declaration made jointly by himself and President Roosevelt on his recent visit to the United States, the first day's session of parliament brought the following developments:

Announcement by Defence Minister Ralston that citizens' committees would be formed in all provinces to aid in securing recruits for the armed forces;

Passage of amendment to the Conservative want of confidence motion on the budget debate, motion condemning the government's failure to implement the recommendation of proposals approved by the Saskatchewan Legislature calling for a wheat price of 90 cents plus proceeds of a 50-cent per bushel participation certificate (Social Credit in Canada);

Introduction in Conservative House Leader Hanson that Mr. King visit the United Kingdom and take the lead in calling a conference of Dominion Prime Ministers.

Mr. King's reference to Hyde Park declaration under which the United States and Canada have agreed which Canada is best fitted to produce and to supply the United States and act, parts entering into the production in Canada of war materials for Great Britain, declared that the Canadian war effort more effective but would not be until Canadian Canada had assumed voluntarily.

While it would go a long way to-ward solving the recruiting problem it offered little prospect of relaxation in the foreign exchange control regulations which the government had been compelled to impose.

"The Hyde Park declaration is more than an extension of the joint defensburg declaration for hemispheric defence," said Mr. King. "It is a joint agreement between Canada and the United States for aid to Great Britain."

Bloodless Conquest Failed

Failure of the Allies to withstand the onslaught of Germany's might in Jugoslavia was not a total loss as Hitler's bloodless conquest undoubtedly failed and a large part of the German army which might otherwise be available for operations in Libya, Syria or Egypt, is being held in check on Great Britain was employed.

The defeat of the Italian armies in Albania, long considered a direct threat the Germans now were offering to Egypt and the Suez Canal, Moreover, the German forces in North Africa might turn westward to form one wing of a pincher movement directed at Gibraltar.

The long, bloody struggle debate on agriculture started weeks ago by Hon. Norman McLeod Rogers, with an amendment to the motion to go into committee of supply, asking for parity between farm and other prices, was resumed by John Diefenbaker (Con. Lake Centre) who denounced the government wheat marketing policy as inadequate.

T. C. Douglas (C.C.F. Weyburn) agreed and declared emphatic disapproval of the wheat policy and suggesting the Saskatchewan proposal as an alternative.

GUN

After the Germans had fired single shells for three hours they stepped up the barrage, using four-gun salvos. The first salvo fell to the vale of about three minutes, then another and then one more minute. Flashes and columns of smoke spiralling upward across the English channel showed the German and Calais batteries were delivering the attack. Calais is situated 21 miles across the Channel from Dover.

The shelling continued without let-up after it had been in progress for nearly four hours. The last previous heavier, five-minute bombardment of Dover was last Fall.

The German shelling had been in progress nearly two hours at 10 a.m. (5 a.m., E.D.T.). It appeared to observers that at least a pair of cross-channel guns in the Calais area were being employed. Visibility was excellent. The French cliffs could be seen from the English coast standing out in full relief.

As the British fire went into action, observers in Folkestone looking over the Strait of Dover could see puffs of black smoke rising from time to time along the French coast. Boulogne, Calais and Cap Gris Nez as if from bursts of heavy bombs.

On another occasion, a great column of black smoke rose from the sea up from the direction of Calais harbor, the suggesting to observers that a German munitions ship was hit.

The bombardment developed into the most sustained cross-channel fire since the war began.

All entrances into Dover were marked by yellow notice boards bearing the warning: "Guns in Progress—Take Cover."

Most of the German shells were of a high explosive type which burst with a terrific crash, sending heavy metal splinters on a wide area with each burst.

BRITISH BOMBERS

Fourth Raid on Plymouth

Thousands of fire and oil bombs were showered by the Germans on Plymouth's raid area last night, and on that southwestern naval base the last several attacks, which are described as less severe than the preceding ones.

This latest assault came only a few hours after the victims of the attack Oslala in a mistake had been buried in a communal grave.

The shelling of Portsmouth and the naval base at Portsmouth on the south coast recently was the first time the Germans had turned on the battle of the Atlantic.

British anti-submarine warships —destroyers, corvettes and motor speedboats—lacking Irish ports used in the last war, are believed to be using these well-equipped bases, situated just 100 miles from German-occupied continental territory.

Other reports indicated that encountering Britain's big anti-submarine and anti-raider patrol by trying to knock out these bases.

Another reply has been the raids on the German battleship surface raiders Scharnhorst and Gneisenau in dock at Brest.

Informed quarters discounted a heavy toll from the Portsmouth and Plymouth raids, and also attaching significance to the fact that the Germans have been able to fly across the Channel to bomb the south coast seaports. Bristol is 120 miles from Brest, Plymouth 200 miles and Cardiff 300 miles.

Five hundred more shells were fired in Britain's retaliation last night which included a new big concentrations of barges and small craft in the French Netherlands and Belgian coasts.

Nazi bombers and Gen. Goering's fighters have been able to fly across the Channel to bomb the south coast seaports. Bristol is 120 miles from Brest, Plymouth 200 miles and Cardiff 300 miles.

Most of the German shells were of a high explosive type which burst with a terrific crash, sending 500 miles nearer its burning ground then Portsmouth.

Other attempts apots for bases in Eire would be even nearer the Germans, Plymouth is only 200 miles from Brest.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was walking along with Puds Simkins talking and arguing when we see Lucky Puds sitting on somebody's front steps by himself looking sad. So I says, "What is eating there for, I wonder? and Puds says, "I don't know, but I bet I find out doing it, it must be lucky, so I'm going to see what's wrong."

So I do the same way I felt, and we both sat down alongside of Lucky Puds and I says anyting. What's you doing here, Lucky, and Puds saying, "Yes you anyting the matter, Lucky?

Cant a guy sit down some place without being asked a lot of silly questions? I says.

Then Lucky Puds saying he wasn't, and I said, Whose steps are they?

How do I know? said Lucky, and I says, Somebody must be living in didn't, and I said, Well anyways, if you're sitting on them it's bound to be lucky.

Maybe it is if I'm sitting on them alone, Leroy said.

Being a hint that us 2 goolk me and Puds, and he got up and went down the street a little ways and started to bounce his golf ball, Puds saying, He dont need to think he can fool us, and me saying, Sure, he must think we're easy, if anything lucky happens we'll be the one it happens to, or let's just say I was on sitting here I said.

Then we sat for about 10 more minutes, and some lady came up and started to go in the house, saying, Where's the other boy? Oh well, it doesn't matter, the effect is the same, I just didn't want any prower to think nobody was home. I suppose the other boy promised you some of his 5 cents, she said.

Proving she had guess lucky 5 cents to sit there and here we were sitting on her low life while he was having fun with his golf ball, and we walked away disgusted. Lucky yelling at me. What's a matter, did the steps get too cold for you?

Soft Coal Mining Stoppage Hampers U. S. Defence Effort

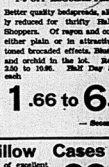
Felt Tired, Nervous, Rundown; Back Ached; Stomach Rebelled

Is Delighted with Improvement in Health and Recommends Tyntona to All Who Suffer Similarly. Says Stomach Felt Better from First Few Doses. Then Nerves Relaxed and Pains Went Away.



MRS. WESLEY HARRISON

"There has been such a definite improvement in my health since I've been taking Tyntona that I will be only too glad to have others know about this medicine," said Mrs. Wesley Harrison, 151 Tragina Ave. North, Hamilton, Ont., in a recent report.

"In the last year I was troubled constantly with a dull ache in my back and, to make matters worse, I couldn't get rid of it. I felt tired, nervous and rundown, bad and I suffered from bad headaches. I didn't work out right from the beginning of the day as I usually do and I never felt good and what little food I ate, ate sour on me. I had a bad stomach and caused me a lot of real trouble. I also suffered frequent headaches and I often felt light-headed and dizzy.

"My husband was using Tyntona and I decided to take it myself, and I noticed a change right from the first few doses. Now, after a few weeks, I am feeling ever so much better. My stomach is right, the pains have gone from my head, I can get a good night's sleep and I arise mornings feeling rested and ready for the day's work. I am free of those dizzy spells and headaches and I can enjoy my meals without all that bad indigestion."

Tyntona's producers these results without the aid of harsh drugs or depressors. It is made only from the pure extracts of herbs, roots and barks that have long been known for their medicinal value. Make up your mind to take Tyntona yourself. See how much better you can be feeling in just a short time.

Tyntona is sold and Recommended in Belleville by DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

SAW FIGHTING IN ALL MAJOR NAVAL BATTLES

Larry Allen, A.P. Correspondent, Relates Experiences Under Fire

SAILORS LIKE LETTERS

For the last year Larry Allen has been with the British fleet in the Mediterranean and watched every major engagement in the battle for sea supremacy along the empire lifeline. He was aboard the aircraft carrier Illustrious when it was bombed and British officers commented on his courage under fire. Allen has written an account of his experiences in the Mediterranean. This is the first of two daily installments.

By LARRY ALLEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Alexandria, April 30 (AP)—The blinding fire of 15-inch guns . . . a rain of bombs from the skies . . . torpedo attacks by Nazi dive bombers and submarines . . . and facing coastal defence barrages.

Getting Naval Education.

That's the way your correspondent is getting naval education.

I saw the fighting at Taranto, Narvik, Dakar, Matapan and Tripoli—all names were action carved new niches in Britain's naval history. But to date the most memorable experience was living through the Nazis' most relentless bombing of the Illustrious.

I cannot yet imagine any greater hell on earth than when the 1,000-pound bombs hit the warship. I saw killed close friends who stayed in certain parts of ships which in other instances had proven the safest areas.

Whatever the risks or the price paid in any naval action, the British officers and sailors seem more concerned about the homefolk, and those left behind in Britain and the other parts of the Empire. Whenever possible they listen to every new broadcast, anxious to hear of the safety of their loved ones.

I go with every fleet operation, preferably aboard a battleship or aircraft carrier, because more news is available aboard a vessel from which the widest sweep of the fighting can be observed.

But sometimes I've been aboard cruisers, destroyers and headquarters.

Writer Temporarily Blinded

Then, since I am known to have smoked goggles to protect my eyes, I've been given the battle of battleship's 15-inch guns shelling Tripoli temporarily blinded me with each broadside.

My first trip was aboard a destroyer escorting the Mediterranean Islands of Scarpanto. I thought it was the Illustrious we were escorting but it was not. But I learned there that such a thing as abnormal and that death could come from the near misses. Now I lie flat on the deck.

CLEAR EVIDENCE OF RESISTANCE TO NAZI RULE

Sabotage Suspected As Oslo-Bergen Railway Put Out Of Commission

FIRES IN THEATRES

New York, April 30 (CP)—The BBC said last night that the Oslo-Berge railway in German-occupied Norway "has been out of action since Saturday when a train was derailed" and that sabotage is suspected.

In a broadcast heard here by CBS, the BBC said that there was clear evidence of continued resistance to Nazi rule in Norway.

Fires broke out in a big theatre in Oslo and last night factory fires in Drammen Tuesday the BBC said.

The Minister for Ecclesiastical affairs has been saying "severe numbers of quisling's (fifth column) priests" are being thrown out of religious associations and church services and are being denied holy communion."

BBC quoted the Vatican radio last Friday as announcing a similar situation between the church and the Nazis in the Netherlands.)

Percentage Brackets Outlined In Finance Minister's Address

Ottawa, April 30 (CP)— Here are the new percentage brackets, outlined in Finance Minister Ilsley's budget speech, for persons subject to the national defence tax:

Single persons whose income exceeds $660 a year and does not exceed $1,200 will pay at the rate of three per cent of their salaries, while the rate will be seven per cent if the income exceeds $1,200.

Married persons for each have a separate income of more than $800 and not more than $1,200 per cent.

The rate will be five per cent on the income of married men in the case of a married person, widow or widower with dependent child or daughter or a person maintaining a self-contained domestic establishment over which presides such a dependent connected with him by blood relationship, marriage or adoption.

The rate's starting point for the tax was $600 or $50 lower than this year's rate for those who pay five per cent this year and two per cent last year and those who pay seven per cent this year paid three per cent last year.

U. S. Navy, Aircraft Playing Vital Role In Patrolling Ocean Stretches

Washington, April 30 (AP)—Warships of the United States navy patrol bombers, and in all probability carrier-based aircraft, informed sources reported today, are already playing a vital role in patrolling the ocean stretches which figure in the administration's "Atlantic."

This assertion was made after President Roosevelt had announced that United States naval vessels were not prohibited from entering combat zones by an executive order and that they would operate anywhere where deemed necessary for western hemisphere defence.

Mr. Roosevelt, in telling this to his press conference yesterday, said that in defining the Atlantic area for its are going into the European combat zone or that they would go in.

Nevertheless, apparently informed sources said it would be no surprise to them if the navy's patrol aircraft had been covering at least portions of area included in Germany's recently extended war zone over-the-ocean blockade zone westward. They emphasized meanwhile that part of the counter-blockade zone which stretches from Iceland almost to the coastal waters of Greenland, where the United States has "acquired certain base privileges. This has been a danger area for British shipping.

The potential effectiveness of the whole far-flung surface and air patrol is so great, in the opinion of these sources, that it may make the convoy question a dead issue.

45,000 British, Anzacs Successfully Evacuated After Greek Campaign

London, April 30 (CP)—Forty-five thousand British and Empire soldiers have been evacuated from Greece, Prime Minister Churchill announced in the House of Commons today.

Mr. Churchill said 50,000 troops, including one New Zealand and one Australian division, comprised the expeditionary force sent to aid Greece.

These had sustained about 2,000 casualties in killed and wounded, he added.

This would leave 13,000 troops still unaccounted for.

The prime minister held out hope that still more troops would be removed from Greece. Replying to one question he said:

"I believe that a good deal more than 45,000."

He said he believed the troops taken off the Hellenic mainland had safely reached their bases without mishap.

Preliminary Force Praised.

The prime minister spoke high words of the preliminary force of the British Expeditionary Force, declaring their operations "have been carried through around Mount Olympus, Grevena and Thermopylae, were a very small part of the loses inflicted on the enemy."

Mr. Churchill said the Yalias road last Friday, announcing a similar situation between the church and the Nazis in the Netherlands.)

He declared forces that the "conduct of the troops, and especially of the rearguards, fighting their way as many miles to the sea, merits highest praise.

"It is the first instance where air bombing prolonged day after day has failed to hinder the discipline and order of marching columns who besides being thus attacked from the air were followed by no less than three armored divisions as well as the whole strength of German mechanized forces which could be brought to bear."

Heavy Nazi Losses.

Without giving figures for German casualties, Mr. Churchill said the Nazis had suffered heavily in their offensive against the Greek and Yugoslav armies.

He said there would be a fuller account of the Greek campaign in the full dress debate scheduled for next week and the House cheered him when he said that, "as painful as are our losses we have much to be thankful for and the fighting forces have much to be proud of."

Asked if he meant that 45,000 had reached their bases successfully, the prime minister replied:

"I believe that is so. Indeed I think I am well within the figure.

"I say, I hope, I believe, but I frame in which it was given to me."

He questioned whether 45,000 men was the maximum number which could be evacuated, however, when he answered: "I think I said at least 45,000. Because the evacuation is still going forward, I naturally would not refer to it."

Describing heavy equipment, Mr. Churchill told another questioner, heavy equipment was not, of course, to be removed but the German armies are not short of heavy equipment."

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden replied to answer a question on what had become of Greece's navy that the House cheered when he agreed to convey to Greek Premier Tsouderos congratulations of the House and nation, our deep gratitude for the magnificent courage and endurance of the Greek army has shown and for their loyalty to the allies.

CANADIANS GREET BUDGET WITH MIXED FEELINGS

Some Expect Gas Tax Will Increase Cost of Highway Transport Also May Affect Tourist Trade

HEPBURN CRITICAL

By The Canadian Press
Canadians generally today appraised the third war budget brought down in the House of Commons and began calculating the effect of heavily increased taxes.

Premiers of Canada's provinces had little immediate comment to make on Finance Minister Ilsley's budget that the provinces leave the field of corporation and personal taxes to the Dominion government with adequate compensation, but cabinet meetings were planned.

Meanwhile, the man in the street and his wife, in many cases, could not reflect that more of his earnings would go for further prosecution of the war.

4-HOUR ATTACK ON PLYMOUTH DURING NIGHT

Fear Expressed That a Large Number of Persons May Have Been Killed

7 RAIDERS DOWNED

London, April 30 (CP)—Plymouth was the target of Nazi raiders in a four-hour assault again last night—the fifth in eight nights German planes have swarmed over the channel port—and the government expressed fear that a large number of persons" may have been killed.

Seven of the raiders were shot down, however, in the overnight attack, which lasted from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m.

Authoritative reports listed three of the raiders as bagged by Royal Air Force night fighters and three by the anti-aircraft defences.

During the night, Royal Air Force bombers attacked targets in the armaments manufacturing city of Mannheim, in southwestern Germany.

British authorities described this raid as of "medium strength", adding that it was the first attack on Mannheim since the night of Feb. 8.

(The Germans said R.A.F. units attacked several south German towns.)

A British communique said flights of Blenheim bombers also dropped explosives at scattered points in southern and southeastern England, East Anglia and South Wales. In the night's fighting, a number of casualties and some persons were killed.

R.A.F. night fighters were credited with destroying three German bombers in the night. Two of the raiders were shot down over England, and the third was sent crashing as it was about to land at an airfield in Northern France, the Air Ministry said.

Viscountess Astor sent this message to Lord Woolton, Minister of Food:

"Speaking as Lord Mayor of Plymouth, the worst blitzed town in England, I want to thank you for the help your Ministry has given. It has been magnificent and I am most grateful to you."

The Food Ministry has sent "fly-by-night" rations to the people in the hardest hit areas.

CONSTANT CONVOY PATROLS SEEN IN MEDITERRANEAN

Axis Air Attacks "Repeatedly Repulsed"— 515 Prisoners Taken In Ethiopia

BRITISH HOLD TOBRUK

Cairo, April 30 — (AP)— Axis air attacks have been "repeatedly repulsed" by Royal Air Force planes flying "constant convoy patrols" over certain areas of the Mediterranean, the Royal Air Force Middle East communique said today.

There was no further indication whether the war bulletin referred to the R.A.F. screening ships carrying Empire forces from Greece.

A communique from Middle East Army headquarters said the withdrawal from Greece is "continuing satisfactorily."

Italian forces, its war bulletin said, captured the Ethiopian town of Gimma and 515 prisoners—of whom 400 colonials troops volunteered to join the Ethiopian forces.

In North Africa, the situation at Tobruk, Libyan port where a British force is holding out against Axis forces which have been surrounded for months, was said to be unchanged.

The only word on Sahum, Egyptian outpost just across the frontier which this vanguards have reached, was that "patrol activities are continuing."

Training Plane Crashes At Cookstown Killing The Pilot

Cookstown, Ont., April 30 (CP)— A Royal Canadian Air Force Training plane from Camp Borden plunged into a farm field in mid-northeast of this Innisfil Township village today, killing the pilot, whose identity could not be learned immediately.

The plane struck the ground with terrific force, opening a crater five feet deep and 20 feet wide. It fell on the farm of Eldred Ley who tried in vain with Sandy Sutherland, a neighbor, to raise the plane and release the pilot's body.

Cookstown is 25 miles southeast of Camp Borden.

Flying Officer said he saw the plane at about 2,000 feet. It turned right on the main axis then went spiral to the ground, out of control.

The crash was heard for miles around this village.

42,000 Tons Axis Shipping Sunk Or Damaged In Week Of April 17-23

London, April 30 (CP)—Royal Air Force bombers operating in daylight sank or damaged 42,000 tons of enemy shipping in the Channel, Netherlands, French and Norwegian coasts during the week April 17-23, the Air Ministry News Service said today.

Most of the shipping, it said, was guarded by destroyers or other naval warships.

It cited as an example an incident on April 22 when a convoy was hit by when one of these offensive patrols sighted two German E-boats and sent each about 2,000 tons, moving west-

City Of Mannheim Showered With Many Fire Bombs

Havoc, New United States-Built Craft, Used For First Time In Raids Over Germany

RIVER DOCKS HIT

London, April 30 (CP)—Havoc planes carried out successful attacks last night on three airdromes in northern France from which German raiders fly against Britain, the Air Ministry News service said today.

One Nazi fighter was shot down when it attempted to engage a heavy United States-built craft.

The Ministry said a stick of high explosive and incendiary bombs dropped from a low level was seen to burst on an airdrome just as three German aircraft about to take off and two others were taxiing across the field.

Equipped For Night Fighting

The plane is a Douglas DB-7 equipped for night fighting. It is a light bomber, known in England as the "Havoc" or "Boston."

One plane, the service said, circled over the airdrome until the incendiary-bombed fire had burned out.

STRIKE ENDED AT STEEL PLANT

Government Comptroller Appointed to Take Full Charge at Hamilton

Hamilton, April 30—(CP)—Employees of the Stelco Steel Corporation plant here went back to work today after a strike which started Sunday night when members of the Hamilton local of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee protested what they said was a failure on the corporation to implement recommendations of a conciliation board.

The strike ended early today with the receipt of a message from the Department of Labor at Ottawa that E. J. Bradley, Toronto, had been appointed as controller of the plant to ensure its maximum effort in war production. Mr. Bradley, who crowded the roadway in front of the main gate here was told over a loudspeaker system by C. H. Millican, general director of the S.W.O.C., that their demands would be recognized.

The men were told that George Tanner, Regional Director of Hamilton local of S.W.O.C., would be in charge of negotiations, as the board had recommended and that a meeting would be taken in the plant to discuss grievances. It was stated the 2,700 employees supported the S.W.O.C.

Tanner was among the workers who addressed the crowd at the gate of the plant in the seven o'clock shift this morning. The company officials said "full speed ahead" was the order of the day as the big plant began to catch up.

29,000 KILLED IN RAIDS UP TILL THE END OF MARCH

235 Hospital Patients Killed in Greater London in Period Ending April 17

40 NURSES KILLED

London, April 30 (CP) —Health Minister Brown announced today 235 hospital patients had been killed and 195 injured in air raids in the greater London district up to April 17.

The figures, which covered 400 hospitals of all kinds in London, were given Mr. Brown said, to dispel public fears concerning risks incurred by hospital patients during air attacks. He said they run no more risk than other buildings.

Forty nurses and hospital receiving wards included in London's sheltered hospitals have been put out of action completely, he declared.

The Minister recalled that total fatalities, in the whole country up to the end of March were 29,000 and the number of injured about 40,000.

Only three doctors were killed and eight injured as a result of bomb damage to London hospitals, while of 5,000 nurses, 40 have been killed and 124 injured, he declared. Fifteen thousand porters or attendants were reported killed and 76 injured.

Mr. Brown said much the same situation in regard to casualties existed elsewhere in England. In one area, where two posts have been repeatedly bombed, six hospitals have been hit, but only one is still out of commission, he said.

Mr. Brown said about half of all raid casualties required operations. On the night of London's heaviest raid, he said, a system of switching patients prevented any hospital from being overwhelmed. All patients were "satisfactorily" dealt with within 13 hours and by late afternoon of the next day 75 per cent had been removed to the country, he declared.

The month of April, 1941, has been the best month for building in the City of Belleville since 1931. It was announced from the office of the city engineer, Charles Mott, this morning as permits for the present month were tabulated. A total of 27 building permits representing construction value amounting to $73,765 have been issued since the first of the month.

Although a great percentage of the permits issued were for minor alterations or for additions to present buildings, eight permits for dwellings were issued during the month, these ranging in cost as estimated $31,100. FIRE DEPT. MEMBERS JOIN THE R.C.A.F.

Two members of the Belleville Fire Department, Jack Thompson and Gerald "Wardy" O'Brien, have joined the R.C.A.F. in the fire service and will report for duty at Toronto between the 30th of May and the first of June. Mr. Thompson has secured a leave of absence from the city council for the duration of the war and upon his return will resume his former position with the fire department. In the interim his seniority will be continued. Mr. O'Brien will be granted the same rights.

When reporting for duty the two members of the local brigade will proceed to Manning Pool, Toronto, for a period of training and then will take a three weeks' instruction course at the Ontario station. Upon the completion of the course they will be given the rank of Sergeant, and will be posted where needed.

With the total contributions from Hastings County now between $34,000 and $35,000, officials of the General Committee of the War Services Organization Campaign, are now "cleaning up" the last few ends that are the inevitable aftermath of such a venture.

Judge Charles A. Cameron stated today that an official statement will now practically finished and will be published within a few days. Letters will be sent to all canvassers and others who assisted in the campaign. Returns from the drive, campaign conducted at the Trenton base of the Royal Canadian Air Force have yet to be added to the monthly crop report issued by the general figure, and this is expected to increase the fund by a substantial margin.

SPRING FARMWORK GREATLY ADVANCED

Spring work and seeding on farms throughout Ontario this season are about three weeks to a month earlier than last year, and from a week to two weeks earlier than normal, according to the Forecast Service issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Seeding in southwestern counties is practically completed while in Central Ontario it is proceeding rapidly.

The 1941 early potato crop is largely planted and by the first of May will be completed. It is expected that this is at least two weeks earlier than last year, while compared to early potatoes this year is expected to offer a considerable increase over 1940, while acreage of late potatoes will be about the same as last year. Dealers report a lively movement of certified seed to district potato growers.

Organizes Social Evening For British War Victims' Fund

Desire of Mrs. Albert Johnstone, Dundas Street, widow of the late Pipe-Major Albert Johnstone, to do something for the bomb victims of the British Isles resulted in the sum of $601 being sent to the British War Victims' Fund of the Toronto Telegram.

The amount was raised through the medium of a bridge, euchre and dance held in the Oddfellows' Hall this week, where forty-seven tables were in play. Thirteen prizes were distributed to the winners, these including a handsome door prize.

Following the serving of refreshments the members of Billy Grant's orchestra supplied rhythms for the dance that culminated a delightful evening.

A feature of the affair was the gift of a bouquet of a dozen roses, the gift of Miss Dorothy Quick to Mrs. Johnstone. The raffle netted $19 and the flowers were won by Mrs. Arthur Sills.

A large crowd who did not attend the card games arrived for the dancing later. Mrs. Johnstone has forwarded the proceeds of the affair to the War Victims' Fund in Toronto.

Big Island Farmer Suffers Loss Of Home, Barn And Sheds By Fire

Arthur Aman, well-known Big Island farmer, surveyed the charred remains of his house, barn and outbuildings completely destroyed with their contents in a $10,000 fire on Sunday, and decided to rebuild as soon as possible.

The loss was the result of a mantle fire which ignited the barn, threshing pigeon and other buildings, transforming them in a matter of fame. The barn contained hay, oats, and wheat. The house was the next to go and this in turn became a complete loss with its contents. Twenty cords of wood nearly were destroyed. No livestock was lost.

Hydro's high tension wires were missed by the heat of the conflagration and the district was without this service for some time. Hydro employees repaired the damage later. The loss was said to be covered by insurance to the amount of $5,600.

Local Opinion Unanimous In Approval Of The Budget

A cross-section of the city went on verbal record today as being solidly behind the 1941 budget of Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley which was brought down in the House of Commons last night.

An inquiring reporter interviewed a number of various walks of life on a main thoroughfare this morning and the consensus was that the budget is necessary if Canada is to do her bit in assisting Britain to win the war.

There was not a single dissenting voice. The common cost of the war has apparently sunk home in the minds of the general public and with this is the realization that those left at home must serve with their money in order to get behind the boys in uniform.

While some made remarks about the increase in taxes, they took it with the realization that the budget as handed down is vitally necessary. Here are some of the opinions:

Margaret Burrows, stenographer, "It is what we need to win the war."

Jean Redner, saleslady, "It is all right with me. Everyone must do their bit."

Jack McVeigh, store manager, "It is but part of a job which has got to do done."

Morley D. Pable Utilities Chairman, "We must face the facts that we all must help if we are to win the war."

Fred L. Benson, "Very effective, I'll was expected. We should give all we can to help the boys."

Ralph Hamilton, "It is lower than I expected and what it should be."

A bank manager who desires to remain anonymous, "It is justified. While it is a burden we must accept it and like it. We are the most fortunate people in the world to live in a country like Canada."

Fred Burley, laborer, "Sure, the budget's O.K. What's a few bucks to anyone if it means licking it . . . out of Stiller in the end."

Mrs. Johnson, housewife, "We don't get much money in our house, but we are willing to give whatever we can. The budget is alright."

POLICE BLOTTER

City police have been asked to ascertain the whereabouts of a Miss Amy Mercer, 20, who was born in the Belleville General Hospital in the month of March, 1909. She was the daughter of Donald Lamont and Gertrude (Mercer) Lamont, Chief Kidd was informed. The whereabouts of Miss Lamont is believed to be in Toronto following an inquiry from Ottawa.

Not a single arrest has been registered in the city police records but police are continuing their checking of trouble parking during the main thoroughfares of the downtown section of the city. Six truck or transport drivers were apprehended violating this particular parking by-law yesterday and all were warned against its future practice.

"Warnings will be given for a day or so, following which court proceedings will be preferred against those who consistently violate the trouble parking regulations," further added Chief Kidd as a final warning today.

GOOD WILL WEEK CELEBRATED BY KIWANIS CLUB

Program in Charge of Ormonde Butler Chairman of Public Affairs

U.S. LETTERS RECEIVED

Commemorating the feeling of neighborliness and good will which has existed between Canada and the United States for the past one and a quarter centuries, the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club, held at the Queens Hotel on Tuesday, took form in the observance of Canada-United States Goodwill Week, a Kiwanian movement, which saw its inception in 1921.

The program for the day was in charge of Ormonde Butler, chairman of Public Affairs Committee, and in the absence of a special speaker from the United States, letters received from various Kiwanis clubs throughout the United States were read, all extending goodwill greetings to the Belleville club. The sentiments of fellow-Kiwanian clubs, members of Kiwanis International, were contained in the quoted letters, all expressed in an eloquent manner the spirit of good will held by our neighbors to the south, and also gave promise of aid in the struggle for victory in which the democracies are now engaged.

The sentiments expressed in the letter from the Kiwanis club of Syracuse, New York, were particularly noteworthy especially from a Kiwanian viewpoint, inasmuch as it was inferred that if the world leaders of today used the "Golden Rule" motto, it would contribute greatly towards world peace. Following is the letter:

"A plane just flew over our office . . . practically unnoticed. In many countries, that drone spells death and destruction. It is a comforting fact to realize, that fear is not quite "born".

"This month we are celebrating a victory that is the envy of victory any nation could ever celebrate. A victory, not of conquest, but of peace. The love and friendship between Canada and the United States was sealed in the signing of the Rush-Bagot Peace Treaty 123 years ago this month.

Of Divine Guidance

"A peace of this type is guaranteed forever because you are not only our beloved Canadian neighbors, and we are not only your beloved neighbors of the States, but we are all Americans under one God. This treaty most certainly was of Divine guidance and it is well we pause a moment in commemoration of it in thank Him and all our friendly neighbors to the north.

"It is our regret, that all leaders today are not Kiwanians using the motto "Live to Build." Our sincerest appreciation and thanks go out to you today for all you have contributed toward Canadian and United States friendship. It is our hope and prayer that God's justice will have it that people in all nations soon can say the plane just flew over our office . . . practically unnoticed."

Signed

Kiwanis Club of Syracuse.

Other letters referred to the three thousand miles of unprotected border, which lies between the United States and Canada, one letter stating that "It takes a rainy day for us to appreciate the sunshine. It takes illnes for us to appreciate health. It takes a war for us to appreciate our good-neighbor nation to the north of us."

WAS TOSSED OUT

Pausing in his climb up the gang plank of the Spanish ship "Marques de Comillas," Admiral Alberto Lais, former naval attache of the Italian embassy in Washington, gives the Fascist salute to newsreel to the United States. Lais was asked to leave the U.S. by the state department. Other passengers on the Spain-bound vessel look on.

In the course of a short address introducing the topic for the program, Ormonde Butler referred to the Kiwanian-sponsored Hardinge International Goodwill Memorial at Vancouver and she made reference to the seventeen goodwill tokens placed at conspicuous points along the International Border.

Many Letters Received

Letters were received from the following Kiwanis clubs of the United States in commemoration of the United States-Canada Goodwill Week: From Hastings, Minnesota: Live Oak, Florida; Detroit, Mich.; Buford, Georgia: Morgan-town, W.Va.; Sinton, Texas; Billings, Montana; Anacortes, Washington; Springdale, Penn.; Sheldon, Iowa; Atlantic City, New Jersey; Okmee, Okla.; Syracuse, N.Y.; Seaford, Delaware; Kingsport, Tenn.; Marion, Kentucky; Cairo, Illinois; Logsport, Indiana; Danville, Penna.

No letters of any importance was brought up at the meeting, the highlight being the announcement by the Ways and Means Committee of the intention to hold a tag day in the near future for the benefit of the British War Victims' Fund. Mr. F. C. MacLaurin made the reference to a picture donated to the University Women's Club by Manly MacDonald upon which tickets are now being sold with proceeds to go to the Red Cross organization of two years. Mr. Ted Armand, of Lesaide and Dr. Doyle of the Ontario Hospital to the members of the club, with Mrs. Armand favoring with two solos "The Lilac Tree" and "Dolly" with Leo Riggs acting as accompanist on the piano, concluded the program. The spirit of international-ism predominant throughout the meeting was further enhanced by the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Oh Canada."

THE BUDGET

Canada's greatest war budget has been announced with the increases in taxation which were to be expected. The news of the revision of taxes upward to be the greatest in history was received with a calmness which shows the willingness and determination of the people to pay the costs of the war as far as possible out of current revenue. They have been told that the war effort must be strict effort and the new rates of taxation bring that very forcibly to mind. This war is being waged on an unprecedented scale, for which the last war gives little criterion or guidance. Mechanized and total war demands total effort and that includes total financial and economic effort.

The income tax will be more than doubled and income tax is about doubled in the lower brackets. These are the taxes which will affect the great majority of taxpayers the most. This year the federal taxes on last year's income brought in a large number of persons who, until this year, had paid little or no income. Last July the National Defence Tax was first levied.

The new budget brings many changes, a tax on gasoline of three cents a gallon, a twenty per cent tax on motion picture entertainment, a five per cent impost on race track wagers, a tax on automobiles valued up to $900 has been increased from 20 to 25 per cent, other groups are unchanged. The tax on sugar is up one cent. Radio and air travel is taxed ten per cent on tickets costing more than fifty cents. Tax on long distance telephone calls will be increased as well as the tax on carbonic acid gas used in the manufacture of soft drinks.

Federal succession duties will be levied for the first time. The Federal Government has asked the provinces to vacate the field of income tax as a temporary measure with certain compensation.

The budget's aim is to raise revenue, by far the greater part of which goes to the prosecution of the war, to preserve exchange, to facilitate the sale of British goods in Canada and to encourage economy among the people.

The public will manfully shoulder this task of raising the revenue sought and will do it with a will as a part of the war effort which all must make.

QUOTING THE POETS

The two great figures in the democratic world, Winston Churchill and Franklin Delano Roosevelt at momentous periods of this year have quoted from the poets. Mr. Roosevelt in bidding a safe mission to Wendell Willkie wrote words of cheer from the poet Longfellow to the British Premier. On Sunday Mr. Churchill quoted words from Arthur Hugh Clough, an English poet, from the poem "Say Not the Struggle Naught Availeth,"

> "For while the tired waves, vainly breaking,
> Seem here no painful inch to gain,
> Far back, through creeks and inlets making,
> Comes silent, flooding in, the main.
> And not by eastern windows only,
> When daylight comes, comes in the light;
> In front the sun climbs slow, how slowly,
> But westward, look, the land is bright."

It seems a characteristic of the English-speaking leaders, to delve in the poets. Mr. Churchill's quotation was a beautiful picture of the coming of light flooding the land. So it will be with the coming of victory.

This picturing in poetry shows an element in the nature of the democratic peoples. There is no avoidance of fact in this for any men are realistic they are so. Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt. But that does not prevent their use of the modulated phrase and the flow of noble thoughts to influence their lives and inspire their souls.

DR. BEST NAMED

Mankind is fortunate in that there is to be continuity of the work of research at the University of Toronto over which the late Sir Frederick Banting presided. Dr. Charles H. Best, who was associated with insulin research and discovery, has been named to the vacant post. Sir Frederick had always desired that his associate share the honor of the discovery of insulin which has been a benefit to so many thousands of persons.

THREE SISTERS

Three sisters — April, May and June—
The loveliest of all their kin;
Singers of many a lilting tune,
With cheeks aglow come dancing in.

Miss April had a winsome smile.
Showed her first long years ago;
Pickle of mood, but just my style,
And many a time I've told her so.

But always eyeing Mistress May,
The sister with the eyes of blue,
In admiration night and day
To be my heart in pawn, too.
And strange, though older grown am I,

And Time on me its stamp has set,
May still, with all the years gone by,
Is lovely as when first we met.

Should someone question me how old
The beautiful Miss June appears,
Insisting that the truth be told,
I'd say: "She lightly wears the years."
She's over forty-five, I know;
Yet, like a fairy, she will admit:
But lovelier she seems to grow,
And doesn't show her age a bit."

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Col. Lindbergh—Superman

Houston, Texas, April 30.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh should have resigned his commission as President of the United States. To refuse to do so in time of crisis, and to refuse to do so in peace is insubordination. The duties of an officer, like the duties of a soldier, are discipline and obedience before his superiors. The genius of an army officer publicly agitating against the policy of his commander-in-chief and of the Secretary of War, has long been a familiar one. The President's own comment at his press conference on April 25 apparently led the Colonel to take the step he should have taken some time ago.

* * *

But insubordination, in the exact and literary meaning of that word, is the clue to Mr. Lindbergh's unhappy and tragic personality. Mr. Lindbergh is a man who cannot endure to be a subordinate. He is not endure to be in an inferior or equal position to any other person. His environment, even at present, is a personality composed of national tendencies, childhood conditionings, and youthful glory, like the clue in the labyrinth of the Cretan myth. It is important to try to understand this because Mr. Lindbergh is not finished as a public figure. He has hardly begun.

Before he has finished he intends to re-write American history, according to the pattern of his own roots in the American past. He intends to get into the very centre of power (other than any strait-jacketed President) if he can't prevent him. If I am sure of anything in this life I am sure of the psychology of Mr. Lindbergh. Curiously enough the American people created the pattern of this man, and then made the man For the American people first made of a good aviator a superman.

* * *

Mr. Lindbergh's desire to be superior, to do what no one before him had done, is not unique. It is indicated by his whole history. He had an unhappy childhood in a divided family. He saw his father, who was a great liberal and critic of the times, persecuted for it. He was unpopular at school. He felt conspicuously lacked the social sense that makes a boy or a man a good mixer.

* * *

In a sensitive and ambitious nature this produces a desire to "show 'em". Young Lindbergh did show 'em. He was a brilliant, desirable aviator now a remarkable aeronautical engineer. His contributions to the science of aviation have been considerably less than those of numerous of his colleagues. He is not distract from his accomplishments by modesty, or by conscience, even cruel, self-discipline.

He trained himself into hunger, wakefulness, hardness to a dangerous and difficult task, and did it.

Also he did it first. A few months later another aviator, now practically forgotten, made a more sensational flight under more difficult circumstances than Lindbergh's. Chamberlain. But the first hero already occupied the field.

* * *

The response to Mr. Lindbergh's flight was a sense of love. Lindbergh was adored. For most people there is nothing sweeter on this earth than to be loved by their fellows. But Mr. Lindbergh does not yet know how to return his love—how to accept it, how to receive it, how to requite it, or how to be humble before it. He did not know how to be humble before the earth. What was given' him—the adoration of millions—he despised. It is the tragedy in their faces, it was explained that he was "shy" that he "hated" publicity." Did he? People usually get what they desire most in this world and the flight itself was engineered and financed for publicity.

* * *

From year to year, we have observed Lindbergh's inevitable spectacle of a man who hates publicity inevitably doing the most spectacular possible things, and inevitably getting the most spectacular results of those spectacular things.

I pass over the publicity about which was denounced in this column as a bid for the German Cup. Yet, this nation mourned with heartbroken sympathy when the tragedy of the Lindbergh child. And it was on Americans, not Germans, that the crime, but a German, and curiously enough, found the most sympathies. Again the nation offered Mr. Lindbergh a hero's role again he refused it. Because to accept the love and sympathy of one's fellows one must be at peace with one's fellows. Mr. Lindbergh knows the dirt of America off his feet.

* * *

England offered, and gave him, the opportunity that the United States refused to long for. Did he keep it? He did not. He could not, sustain it for more than a few months.

Suddenly he became a biologist, experimenting in the control of the world's most conspicuous scientists, Dr. Alexis Carrel, on the extremely dramatic problem — the "artificial heart." An attempt to keep a heart alive by circulating blood through tissues removed from the body.

Mr. Lindbergh had not gone at biology the hard way, by which ordinary mortals must enter science . . . step by step. He had been ushered into Dr. Carrel's laboratory from the airplane. And almost simultaneously, he began to boast about this new activity, it was announced that he might take up residence in Berlin—announced in the midst of the worst program that had happened in western civilization for about a hundred years.

Again, his attitude was one to set him apart from other men. Not that world of the superman, who make their own morals and their own laws . . . the world proclaimed by Nietzsche and sympathized with by Dr. Carrel . . . the world of those superior to humanity . . . the world which has let loose upon this earth death and destruction and chaos . . . the world that plants its flag on the Acropolis—dreadful symbol of the fate of the age of light imperishably associated—is anything but palatable, with the names of Aristotle, Aeschylus, Plato, Socrates, Pericles?

* * *

The most significant thing about the meeting in New York on April 22 was, again, the refusal of Lindbergh to accept competition under conditions imposed on other men.

Again his meeting had to be something apart, superior, differentiated, unique. It was a huge public meeting, but no one was allowed to boo, or hiss, or otherwise express disapproval.

* * *

The superman of the machine age is what the world of brotherly love has been and is fighting in the Norway fjords, and the Dutch fields and in the Greek mountain passes, and on the African deserts and in the streets of cities and in London, where the church spires tumble into rubble. The superman is the man who identifies himself with the soulless machine.

* * *

Beware of him, wherever you see him. Beware of the man who will have respect neither for man nor God. He man cannot accept an equal. He wants to be the only man in an Homeric tragedy, and if lifted on the arms of idolaters to make Hobson's tragedy his own tragedy, for his age.

Range Of Bombers Increases

By BASIL FULLER

The flight range of the biggest bombers in the Royal Air Force is now 7,500 miles. Only five years ago the maximum range of bombers was 1,000 miles; the tremendous increase which has been accomplished in this period is not generally appreciated. It is possible today not only for such bombers to reach the most distant places in German-occupied territory, but also for a machine to fly from Europe to America, drop its load of bombs and return again without refuelling.

At the present time it is useless for American citizens to think they are immune from air attack. More than this, in a year or two, they will be certain every big city in their country will also be within the range of huge bombers that could fly over from Europe. It is certainly not denied by several prominent aeronautical designers that within five years machines will be in the air which will be capable of flying 12,000 miles non-stop.

The circumference of the earth is only 24,902 miles, so that Canada is just slightly more than the estimated range of bombers within the next year. If all the present bomber has increased its range by more than seven times in the last five-year-old machine, it is quite reasonable to accept the world view that today's machines will be capable of flying three times that figure.

The same increase in performance will likewise apply to the speed of bombers. At the present time the latest bombers have a speed of over 350 miles an hour. This compares with a speed of close on 200 miles an hour for our fastest fighters. It is quite certain that in five years we shall see bombers carrying out their mission with a speed of over 400 miles per hour, with fighters touching the 550-mile per hour mark.

With present-day super-charged engines maximum power can sometimes be attained at a height of 26,000 to 30,000 feet, and the reason why machines should not be able to cross the Atlantic at this height, flying at enormous speeds. At an altitude of 30,000 feet there is also the advantage of winds which attain a velocity of 100 miles an hour. Then, at this height a pilot would find a perfectly clear atmosphere, for there is no snow, monsoons and ice formations which have such a deterrent effect upon safety and speed at lower levels.

Machines are now built with apparatus which pumps warm air into the enclosed cabins, and keeps at a pressure of about ten pounds per square inch. The cabin of a bomber being thus hermetically sealed, the pilot and crew would not feel the effects of the cold and rarefied atmosphere. This would also help to insulate them from the noise of the propellers and the engines, but not from wireless noise. The sunshine that came in through the cabin's transparent roof would be quite hot, yet, outside, the temperature would be many degrees below zero. Actually, if a speed of 400 miles an hour is kept up, the crew of the outboard engines would be subject to a wind pressure equivalent before it even had a chance of reaching shore to a speed of 500 miles an hour above the speed of sound may seem fantastic, but it may be by no means impossible. Since the outside pressure — or rather lack of pressure — at altitudes of twelve miles, is only three-quarters of that at sea level, machines would naturally be an enormous size, with room in the cabin. The machines of the future would have to be specially designed to suit the conditions.

The engines for these giant bombers will be of 2,000 horsepower. It has been found that the temperature of the air at a height of twelve miles above the earth's surface is 67 degrees Centigrade, 71 is slightly warmer than the climate between England or the United States and that is over the Equator. Aeroplanes of this type would be fitted with variable pitch propellers, the pitch of which would be altered to regain weight and speed in the rarefied air.

At the present time engine designers have made the petrol engine almost as perfect as human ingenuity is capable of. It is possible, then, that some new method of propulsion will be devised that will do away with the heavy engines and propellers unnecessary in aeroplanes. Such a development would greatly affect the performance of the aeroplanes of the future.

Several of Britain's leading designers have stated that in the next five years of 700 to 1,000 miles an hour. The time when 1,000 miles an hour is not will be possible for a person to be able to reach it is not far distant. For example, the pilot of a bomber will be able to fly at 30,000 feet altitude air-route, say at 5 a.m., and reach Montreal, Ottawa, New York or San Francisco at 8 a.m. of the same day, for the machine itself would be equal to the time taken to make the time-world, of course, be accounted for in the change of time.

Not only the United States, but the whole of the Western World come under the range of the giant bombers that have been described. Undoubtedly also there will be developed long flying aircraft which will accompany the bombers to protect them from attack. When the day comes if it has not already arrived, for the bombers do make such great flights, then it is quite certain that navies must become second line of defence to the air forces.

In the same way that America has developed the great aeroplanes of bombing attacks from Europe, she would also be a target for attack by giant bombers. Regardless of the future of bombing may not arise will have to be. It is useless to ignore the fact that they are liable to have been created, certainly unless the present condition of the world, with its threatening dictators, is remedied. Otherwise the bomber is going to be the Frankenstein monster which may well destroy the world's civilization.—Hamilton Spectator.

SEA WEED

Seaweed soup has made its appearance on the wartime menu of Britain.

British chemists have developed a synthetic ruzyan-like vitamin for use in supplementing vitamin deficient materials.

Recently a factory was established in Ireland to make meal for cattle and other livestock from common seaweed.

* * *

Mualiage from seaweed has been produced by a government chemist at the Osaka Industrial Experimental Laboratory.

There are more than forty varieties of seaweed in Japanese waters that have been used for food for centuries.

* * *

Agar-agar, a gelatinous substance used as a solidifying agent and as a laxative, is obtained from seaweed.

In the Orient agar-agar is also used in soups and jellies.

* * *

Seaweed contains potash and has been known as a source of iodine.

Common seaweed, also called kelp, is source of iodine and has been employed as a medicine in Ireland for hundreds of years.

Seaweed, the popular name for the algae, range in size from microscopic forms to plants the size of trees with trunks more than two feet thick.

They are one of the oldest forms of vegetation and are the only form found on the shores of the surface of the earth.

Forests of giant waters brown seaweed form large submarine forests.

Seaweeds perform an important service in protecting the coast from tides and in the Netherlands they have been long used in building dikes.

Fibre is used in stuffing upholstery.

Seaweed is also used in making wool and other artist textiles, in clarifying beverages and in making paper.

What Tool Kit Means To a Boy

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

Young children are apt to fight with weapons. When a youngster begins to use such tools as hammer and saw, with them a handy and adequate restraint, it may harm considerably.

Many a child from two to six is so full of fight all to play with in the home because he wants to say he would break up the furniture if he could. How do you feel about it? Why rob him of good educative fun in the use of tools and training in character?

Many times homes have failed to employ punishment intelligently. He needs careful supervision when he first is let loose.

When he strikes or threatens to strike another child or you, or hits or with any other object, he should be restrained—preferably gently, preferably a good sound spanking. Don't punish him for using the kit that he must never strike another except with his fists, and then only in self-defense. Do it a few times, however, when he should be engaged in the use of fists in self-defence, even shown how to do so.

Boxing Lessons

Some children, boy or girls under six, should be given boxing lessons as a good means of developing skill, poise, confidence and from being quarrelsome on account of physical fears. But draw the line at his striking or swinging at sweet peas and Mrs. Hudson in blue crepe and corsage of mixed sweet peas, received. Later the bride and groom left on their wedding trip to Toronto and western points, the bride travelling in a navy blue ensemble. Upon their return they will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Harry Ralph, Miss Flo Lawson and Mr. Jack Moore, all of Ottawa.

Disparity of Age Provided No Reason For Worrisome Engagement with Young Man

Several letters have come to me recently from young women who have fallen in love with younger men, saying that they're panic-stricken at the thought of marrying. I should like to tell all of them that the disparity between the age of a bride need not affect the success of a marriage. In choosing one's life partner, many points are of far greater importance than age.

Nancy, who is 31, is on the verge of breaking her engagement to Tom because she's afraid that he looks even younger than that. Tom is 25, and very manly and attractive, but Nancy thinks this one big fact as she knows, he hasn't a single fear or hesitation about their marriage. Shall she's in despair over the difference of ages. Will she be regarded by their friends as a "cradle snatcher"? Will she be able to hold him from the moment his eye lights on a woman of his own age? Will there be something a little ridiculous in allowing a husband to precede and set a wife who has a calendar advantage over him?

My advice to her is to stop worrying, marry her fiance and cut out all birthdays for the next five years. She can then continue life, overlooked.

April Showers — For May And June Brides

"April showers bring May flowers"—and June flowers too. From coast to coast this is the merry month that is being sung these bright April days, sung by and to starry-eyed brides-to-be who are looking forward to the Great Day in May or June.

"Love will find a way." In this case, the origin of bridal showers. Once upon a time, in Holland, a beautiful maiden fell in love with a miller. The miller, alas, was poor. The girl's father decreed, however, that she marry the son of a rich burgomaster. Both miller and maiden her a dowry if she married the poor miller.

As you know, in those days a girl could not marry without a dowry. What was to do, in this sad state of affairs? To the rescue of Romance came her friends—under understanding and ingenious friends. Hearing their gifts they came to her home—"showered" her with presents. Here was her dowry. Love conquered all and they lived happy ever since. Even the word "shower" is an enchanting one for this is the formal party given in honor of the bride-to-be, a merry gathering of her close friends.

In general, showers are of two kinds: a gathering of intimate friends with the addition of presents—gifts; or a party packed with stunts, as to decorations, games, presentation. Whichever kind is chosen, there are a few rules as attractive table-setting; an appropriate color scheme; interesting food.

The invitations are sent out about two weeks before the date of the party. The form of invitations? Friendly little notes may be written, to the intimate; may be engraved on the hostess' visiting-cards or informal, like a tea-invitation. Special shower invitations may be used in the shape of gifts. If there is a rhymester in the group, she may happily turn words to an invitation-jingle. Or, if there are few guests are to be invited, the invitations may be telephoned.

The shower may be a luncheon. The color scheme of the table, the conventional tea-menu; or an evening buffet supper with a dinner (actually buffet) is given; sometimes a late-breakfast ("brunch") shower; a card party; a tea; a picnic; a dessert-and-coffee (afternoon luncheon) party; a dance; a theatre party.

MOST ARRIVALS MYSTERY SHIPS IN EAST PORTS

Generally Some People Somehow Know of Their Coming but Zig-Zag Toward Greenland Make for Longer Waits.

An East Coast Canadian Port, (CP)—Humanity her cargo, a liner comes in off the Atlantic horizon and tugs snuggle her into a Canadian pier. It is wartime and her rails are probably lined with uniformed fighting men or with refugees from a crestfallen continent.

A voyage across an ocean fraught with perils is over. Hundreds of human beings and thousands of tons of shipping space have thwarted doom. In the face of wartime measures, of posters which preach silence and the danger of gossip from theatres, restaurants and store windows, it would be interesting to know just how many people knew this vessel was on the high seas and how long they had the information.

Welcoming Delegation

If the ship brings military men there will be army or navy or air force officials on hand to greet and welcome. Telegraph companies will have their men on hand and there will probably be delegates from food firms seeking to replenish the pantries.

Three classes of inevitables are the press, the dock-workers and representatives of the shipping concern that operate the ship. There may be a few relatives who board ahead of a newsboy who never fails to do a prosperous business when a ship Saturday's paper on Sundays. There will be immigration and customs officials, and, nearby, railwaymen ready to continue the passengers' journey overland, usually aboard special trains.

There may be others — say a taximan—but, roughly speaking, these are the regulars allowed on the pier after sailetying officials they have confirmed with wireless and tape. They all know a ship was coming in because they wouldn't be there if they did not. But, the point is, how many knew this when the vessel was first sighted out in the Atlantic to make such information dangerous?

Chances are there were few, if any. The military undoubtedly is in as good position as any to know, yet it is doubtful if they are aware of the approach of the ship until it is well within Canadian waters. Sailings of passenger ships from Britain are irregular to say the least and once they are on the high seas wireless is out.

Shipping companies literally are in the same boat and chances are the telegraph companies, the food firms, the relatives and the others are first to know when a ship arrives at her destination.

RONALD CAMPBELL NOW AT DURRAZO

British Minister and Staff Fall in Darling Plan to Escape Axis Armies ...

Durrazo, Albania, April 26 (Delayed)—(AP)—Ronald Sir Campbell, British Minister to Yugoslavia, is stranded in this Albanian port with his staff after failing in a daring plan to escape the invading Axis armies by submarine.

The British officials with their families and a sprinkling of Greek, Belgian and Polish diplomats from Belgrade—about 40 persons in all—were found in a Durrazo hotel by foreign correspondents who arrived here from Rome on their way to the former Italian-Greek war front.

The party had been at the hotel for three days, as exactly refugees or prisoners but a bit of both.

They were brought here by bus from the Yugoslav port of Dubrovnik, where they were found waiting on the dock for a British submarine when Mussolini's soldiers marched into the city.

While they were on the dock, the submarine sent to spirit them away poked its conning tower above the surface of the harbor, but the crew spotted the Italian soldiers on the dock, and the sub immediately submerged. That was the last seen of it.

Story Told by Italians

That is the story told by the Italians.

The British themselves refused to talk to the foreign correspondents who, with a dozen Germans and Hungarians, Bulgarians, met them in the lobby of the Hotel Durrazo.

It was only by accident that the correspondents found the diplomats.

The Americans, particularly, were keen to hear English spoken by clusters of men and women playing bridge in the hotel lobby. Instead, they found the refugees in their disconsolate but the men approached, and Sir Ronald, recognizing from the clerks up the scale to the ministers, the Greek diplomats present sent their cards with requests for an interview, all refused to talk.

The correspondents, on their conducted tour, saw Durrazo harbor in a ship that threaded British mines. The Italian fleet is in a hazardous night crossing from a southern Italian port.

GERMAN "FLAK" LOVELY SIGHT

But R.A.F. Men Find It's Easier on Eyes When Their Bombing Job Done

London (CP)—The "flak" was intense and fairly accurate. This phrase has become almost hackneyed in the Royal Air Force pilots' reports of bombing attacks on objectives in Germany and occupied France. But there is nothing hackneyed about "flak." Any of the thousands of men or other members of a bomber crew will tell you that.

"No one who has not really seen it from behind around can quite understand what 'intense' and 'fairly accurate' means," one pilot said on return from a raid on Brest harbor and airport.

"It was bright moonlight when we took off," he said. "We climbed high above the clouds, which looked like snow-capped peaks. It was so light that you could almost read the instrument dials by moonlight.

"The 'flak' started before we came within sight of our target, but reached its peak as we dropped our bombs on the dockyard, the railway sidings and the sardrome beyond.

"The sky seemed alight with multicolored flashes.

"At such times the upcoming tracers look like great Roman candles. Balls of fire, gold and rosy tinted, curve over as they reach each end of their trajectory and start dropping, just like a lilly stem bowed over by the weight of the flower. They seem to drift slowly as they curl inwards. Then they snuff out, one by one.

"Incendiary onions' are slightly different. They are bigger and brighter fire balls which spiral on instead of rising in a line. It is hard, at first, to realize just how dangerous the 'flak' is.

"Jerry seems to be trying out new-colored varieties of searchlights which probe the dancing shrapnel.

"There is quite a galaxy of color over Brest and the other 'invasion' ports these nights—much more spectacular than at any previous stage of the air war.

"But this kind of show is best appreciated on the way home. When the final run over the target has been made and the bombs released, and you can turn around and watch it all—then it really looks lovely."

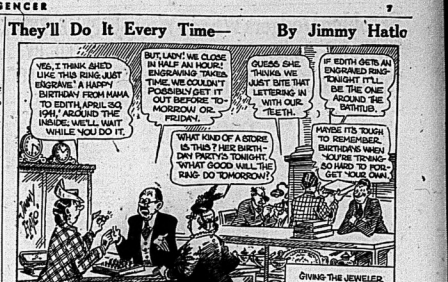
They'll Do It Every Time— By Jimmy Hatlo



Little Benny's Note Book

This morning at breakfast me said to pop, Willyum I had the most amazing dream last night. I dreamed I invented the most marvellous new weapon combining all the best modern features for making wars short, and the most amazing part is, I remember every single detail just as if it had occurred to me in a vision rather than a passing dream, and the weapon is just as practical as can be. Of course I wouldn't dream of trying to make any money out of such a terrible thing, but dont you think it's my patriotic duty to offer the idea to the government Willyum? she said. In the first place it contains such a powerful new explosive that nothing is safe in its entire radius, she said.

Do you remember the recipe for it? pop said. Yes, I think the war department might want to know how to make the stuff, he said, and me said, That's a side issue and a mere detail. The main idea is, when the bomb explodes it releases thousands of little rubber balls that go bounding all over the enemy territory, and each ball contains a propaganda leaflet. Do you see the point? You're always reading about one plane dropping leaflets while another drops bombs. Well, this why you can do both with one motion, for she said.

They clever. but dont you think our good enemies might not be quite in the humour to read propaganda just after a bomb of that sort has gone off in the immediate vicinity? pop said, and me said I'm glad you asked me that, because that's the final surprise. I mean besides the propaganda each rubber ball contains a cake of soap for the enemy and a tube of shaving cream for the men, the 2 most forbidden things in war countries, so you can imagine the shouts of joy from all sides and how simply they'll read the leaflet after that, she said.

Well gosh, pop said.

Being the end of the subject.

Engine Production Ahead Of Schedule

Hartford, Conn., April 30—(AP)—Eugene E. Wilson, President of United Aircraft Corporation, announced yesterday deliveries to the British and United States governments at the rate of 1,300 aircraft engines and 2,000 propellers a month, with shipments running by the hundreds ahead of schedule.

The company manufactures Pratt and Whitney engines of as much as 2,000 horsepower. It also makes Hamilton standard propellers. Both are used in combat planes of the United States army and navy.

At the present time, Pratt and Whitney are putting out more than 1,500,000 square inches a month, sufficient horse power, it was understood, to more than supply motive power for all the airplanes built in the United States annually up to two years ago. The East Hartford plant now covers some pennies more than a total which was reached since last summer from an original plant 400,000 square feet.

The Pratt and Whitney division of the corporation has been running far ahead of schedule since last July and now is 1,200,000 horsepower ahead of what it had promised Washington.

A little talk with myself on Income Tax Day.

"Among the problems presented by the war, the change brought about in my financial plans by increased taxes caused me real concern. Now, however, I figure it this way:

1. "The increase in my income tax is, after all, a part of my contribution to help win the war, and I should be glad to make it, to live in Canada under the Union Jack.

2. "While it is clear that I am not going to have much margin for savings and investment, it is still possible for me to build a measure of security. I can pay the premium on sufficient life insurance so that my wife and family need never be in want."

Example:

$10,000 Life Insurance, Earning Power 15 Year Term plan, can be secured for $96.50 at age 30. The annual dividend allotted in 1941 to a policy of this kind, which was issued in 1940, reduces the amount payable this year from $96.50 to $71.30.

Brooklyn Dodgers Whoop Way To Eighth Consecutive Triumph By Defeating Cincinnati 13 to 2

Share Top Rung of National Loop With Cards, Who Down N. Y. Giants

YANKEES THIRD

By JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer.

Last June Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin was fined by President Larry MacPhail of Brooklyn Dodgers for throwing a "bone run ball."

Specifically the charge was that the veteran righthander was not giving his best efforts when he blew a 4-0 lead against St. Louis Cardinals one humid afternoon at Ebbets Field. Hamlin refused to pay and went into hiding for six days, until meddlers patched up the breach between baseball revoked the fine.

Yesterday Hamlin fed the bone run balls in one game to the World champion Cincinnati Reds and nobody even as much as murmured. The circuit clouts, one by Lonnie Frey in the first inning and the other by Frank McCormick in the last frame, were nothing more than marks of identification to prove that it was Hamlin out there on the mound doing a splendid job of hurling his third straight victory.

In between the widely separated avats he allowed only two harmless singles and the Dodgers whooped their way to their eighth consecutive triumph 13-2.

The victory, second in a four-game series enabled the Dodgers to hold a half stem in first place in the National League. St. Louis Cardinals who opened their eastern invasion by edging out New York Giants 5-4 came out with the same percentage because they have played fewer games.

Hits Homer in 11th

Boston Bees, experts at prolonging games into extra innings, conquered Chicago Cubs 6-3 when Bob Sisti socked a homer in the 11th with two teammates aboard.

Rookie Bill Crouch, who was one of the anchors attached to the hulk ole of cash Brooklyn gave Philadelphia for Kirby Higbe, pitched fourhit ball as the Phils plastered Pittsburgh Pirates 6-2.

Cleveland Indians maintained their firm hold on the American League lead with their fifth straight victory swamping Philadelphia Athletics 7-2.

St. Louis Browns beat New York Yankees 3-2 in spite of the three-hit pitching of Letty Gomez, who previously had won twice without defeat. In Senior Games gave eight walks.

The defeat dropped the Yanks into third place as Chicago White Sox curbed Washington Senators 3-2 on the seven-hit pitching of Lefty Thornton Lee.

Detroit Tigers shattered the 15-year-old jinx of Lefty Grove to beat Boston Red Sox 5-3. Scoring all their runs off the veteran southpaw star in the first three innings Young John Gordica hurled eight-hit ball for the Tigers and smashed a late-inning homers by Ted Williams and Jim Tabor.

MAXIE BERGER EVENS ACCOUNT

Obtains Decision Over De Ruzza, who Beat Him Last Time Out

Cleveland, April 30—(CP)—Maxie Berger of Montreal has evened up another outstanding account and now can expect the title contender in the draw verdict Pete De Ruzza obtained the last time the welters met.

That decision, rendered last December when they met in White Plains, N.Y., over eight rounds rankled with Berger for it was only by staging a late rally that the Mamaroneck drew the verdict.

But Berger definitely showed his superiority over De Ruzza by taking a unanimous decision in a 10-round affair here last night. Four times while spotting his opponent six pounds, 142 to 148, was floored their preliminary meeting De Ruzza had a shade the advantage in the weights.

But while the Montreal fighter managed to settle on solid gone Billy Marquart, tough Winnipeg lightweight, failed in a return bout with Lenny (Boom Boom) Mancini, Youngstown, Ohio, slugger who gave him a beating in New York last April 1. Mancini was took the better over the 10-round route although this time the fight was close.

Fighting on the main event of the card before a crowd of 3,000 Marquart and Mancini slugged it out throughout the match and wound up with a split verdict.

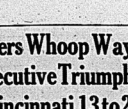
Fights Last Night

(The Associated Press)

Cleveland — Maxie Berger, 142, Montreal, outboxed Pete De Ruzza, 148, Mamaroneck, N.Y., (10); Lennie (Boom Boom) Mancini, 138, Youngstown, Ohio, outpointed Billy Marquart, 137, Winnipeg (10).

Providence, R. I.—Bobby (Poison) Ivy, 129 1-3, Hartford, Conn., outpointed Tommy Bilitz, 126, Providence (10).

New York — Scheduled eight-round bout between Antonio Fernandez, 131 3-4, Santiago, Chile, and Eddie Pierce, 137 3-4, Paterson, N.J., declared no contest in fifth by Referee Steve Hamas.



LOU STRINGER

Not as much publicized as his fellow teammate, Leo Nowikoff, the "Mad Russian," Lou Stringer, star second sacker of the Los Angeles Club of the Pacific Coast League, is expected to make a strong bid for a regular job with the Chicago Cubs this year.

Stringer's batting average, .326 with the Angels, is well worth attention as is his ability to hit in the pinches. Last year, Stringer managed to poke out some vital home runs in extra innings to win important games.

Born in Grand Rapids, Mich., Stringer went to school on the coast, graduating from Washington High in Los Angeles in 1937. Six short ten years at Pomona City before playing with the Angels for the last two seasons.

Stringer is a righthanded hitter, stands an inch under six feet, weighs 173 pounds and is 23 years old.

New York, April 30—Tattle tales: In six months as welterweight champ, Prittie Zivic has collected $63,100 for eight fights, which is nice clicking for the lighter division. . . . Bill Terry, who gets infield insurance, is looking longingly toward Chicago . . . Billy Herman.

Today's guest star:

John Drebinger, Boston traveller: "The Italian influence on the Boston Braves is plain to see, what with Joe DiMaggio, Marius Russo, Phil Masi and Manny Perretti. It wouldn't be diplomatic to ask any of 'em for hooks out to eat in a Greek restaurant. . . .

More tattle tales: Ted Lyons' game didn't require a brace, but he has a brace for good luck. . . . When Dempsey grossed $2,789 and $1,400 on two consecutive appearances in Los Angeles, Plenty of magic left in that right hand. . . . When fans saw Leo Durocher presenting a cheque to Dixie Walker they knew the other day they thought MacPhail was trying to help Jim Hay the Yanks. Turned out the check was the Dodgers' contribution to a New York charity in which Farley is interested. That was more like it.

SURPRISE ENTRY ACCEPTED BY SOFTBALL ASSOC.

Stephen-Adamson Accepted to Make Fifth Team in Loop

RULES EXPLAINED

A surprise fifth entry was accepted into the Belleville Senior Softball League last night when the Stephen-Adamson plant application was accepted into the fold, affiliating along with the Point Anne "Cementmen," Belleville Juniors and Corbys A.C. of last year's league, plus the Reliance Aircraft, that had been previously accepted into the organization.

Secretary Harry Knott tendered his report from the annual meeting of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association, revealing the accepted changes of playing rules and amendments to the provincial softball regulations. In his report Secretary Knott revealed the enlargement of the playing field had been passed, whereby the pitching distance shall be 40 feet from the pitcher's plate to the front of the home base, while the distance between bases shall be increased from 50 to 55 feet. "I feel these changes, while are of a 'longnurary nature and adopted primarily as an experimental venture, will ultimately prove advantageous to the game in general," commented Mr. Knott.

The speaker also congratulated the Belleville Association upon having their representative, Harry Hollins, elected to the position of second vice-president of the O.A. A. The parent body also voted to set aside one day during the season on which time softball will be played throughout Ontario and under the direction of the parent body with all receipts being devoted to the purchase of sports equipment for the fighting forces of Canada.

The meeting voted to open somewhat earlier this year, owing to advance weather conditions, May 24th being suggested as opening date. All league games will be played on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, holidays included.

Morley Reid was re-engaged as grounds-keeper the league will return to Coleman Flats Park as the home diamond for all games.

An identical committee to last year's was appointed to handle the league in the matter of naming umpires, only three names being submitted, Messrs. Bert Pointer, Josh Maracle and Cy Young, being those named as official league umpires.

Vice-President Hollins was also appointed to arrange for a softball tournament to be held during Dominion Day with the Centennial Cup being awarded to the winning club of the tournament, from which all receipts will be turned over to the Belleville and District Belleville Senior Softball League's efforts along these channels.

The league executive will be meeting the 1946 league schedule announced by President Clem Bowler later this week.

The club delegates representing clubs were:

Corby A.C.—Harold Bawden and Gerald Cassidy.

Reliance Aircraft—Nick Bero and B. Gaulin.

Juniors—H. Bradden and Mike Powers.

Reliance Company — Kenneth Gow.

S.-A. Co. — Ed De Leeuw and Dave Baichelor.

DECIDING GAME PLAYED TONIGHT

Bud Farmer Will Return to Lineup After Layoff of Three Weeks

Toronto, April 30 (CP)—The deciding game in a hockey series will come for Montreal Royals and Shawinigan Rangers here tonight when they meet in the fifth and final game of a best-of-five joust for the Canadian Junior hockey championship and Memorial Cup.

The odds are even for tonight's game, with both teams showing little change in conditions, which means that should it go past four games, of which each club won two, Baldy Northcott, the Winnipeg coach, said he would not start Ray as his extra forward, and that Hub Macey would be drafted because of a back injury which has bothered him all year. Defenceman Babe Holoday, who suffered concussion in the third game, has not play, but Bud Farmer, red-headed threat on the Montreal attacking forces, will be back in the lineup tonight after a layoff of several games because of a knee injury. Farmer's return will reunite a potent scoring trio in Jack Parmer and pivot between Bobby Carragher and Bruce Morrison.

If tonight's game ends in a tie, 10 minutes overtime will be played, with the winner announcement by George Dudley, President of the Ontario Amateur Hockey Association, last night. A sixth game will be played here Saturday night a tie in overtime ends with the teams still tied.

BROOKLYN ROOKIE HURT, GETS CHECK-UP

He was removed from the field on a stretcher, although not unconscious. The full force of the blow apparently was warded off by the player's protective cap—an innovation of the Dodgers. However, Pete suffered a fractured chest bone.

REGINA RANGERS ALL SQUARE WITH SYDNEY SQUAD

Extra Load of Old Moxie Helps Team Defeat the Millionaires 3-2

PLAY FRIDAY

By Lorne Bruce

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Regina, April 30 (CP)—An extra large load of the old moxie is the reason Regina Rangers are all square today with Sydney Millionaires in the battle for the Canadian Senior Hockey championship.

A lot of fighting spirit inflated the Rangers when over the eastern Canada champions here last night and they came through with five series for the Allan Cup at two wins apiece with one tie.

Coach Freddy Metcalfe has weeded his casteiks, gave a gigantic pep talk, plays into a smart hockey machine but the fighting spirit he instilled into the club was the deciding factor last night.

The sixth game will be played in Regina Friday night. The deciding factor between the two evenly matched games was made to allow Herman Gruhn of Calgary to replace the lament of his mother in Winnipeg Thursday and return to Regina in time to participate in the deciding game.

Sudden Death Friday

Friday's game will be a sudden death affair for the Allan Cup. If there is a tie at the end of 60 minutes, 10-minute periods will be played until one team is ahead at the finish of one of the extra sessions.

Rangers went ahead after six minutes of the first period when Gruhn broke up a play at the Sydney blue line and passed to Bill Gadsby and Garth Bush who beat the Sydney netminder from close in.

About the nine minute mark of the second period Mel Snowden Sydney captain, was sent off for roughing. In two seconds of play Rangers scored the two goals that gave them a win.

Scotty Cameron got the first on a rebound and Grant Warwick scored the other with a fast shot from the red line after sailing in from the faceoff.

Two minutes later Millionaires had the advantage of only checking lapse by Rangers and rattled in two goals in 37 seconds, both from scrambles at the edge of the Regina goal crease. Jack Atchison scored the first and he passed to Grant Hall for the second.

Only a few more hours to go, but before you younger trout addicts gnash off in the morning, here are a few tips for the fly casting beginner. "Remember, the fly cast averages much shorter than the bait cast. Twelve to 15 yards, including rod's length and leader, is rated as a good fly cast. Beginners should be cautioned indeed to learn that the game is usually picked up within a range of thirty feet or less along the streams. Long-arm tactics have no place in fly casting, but frequency in placing casts are paid extra dividends. Since the matter of frequency has been brought up, the beginner should know that the correct ed fly caster is usually peppering his fly in and out of his reachable rangs at a fast casting rate. The fly is fished quickly only for a few moments at a time, speedily withdrawn and retaid in a trice, thus giving great coverage from the shore line."

Fly caster beginners should realiza many fish abstain their rear in the sport is in the mind particularly in the early and dog-bear of long and discouraging practice. Moreover, these opinions can be learned in the period of becoming a practical, correct and successful fly caster but actually a single self-directed session. Further the beginner it has been said that with the proper start, he will find more pleasure and positive adding themselves almost automatically to his accomplishments without the disappointment in progress such might possibly face in the early his experiences with golf or billiards. Decidedly, the low beginner's first step is to eliminate all doubts and to accept a single assurance that learning fly-casting is truly easy—far easier, in fact, than ball casting—and that he cannot only readily master its mechanical principles but in an almost immediately catch fish.

Believe it or not.

Do you remember when Johnny Wilson hailed as Canada's greatest swimming coach, stated a great many times that he'd been in years ago today. His foremost protege, George Young, of Toronto, gained international fame when he won the Catalina Channel marathon in 1927.

The only foreign or imported horse to win the race was Omar Khayyam in 1917 . . . The race was a year old affair in 1875. If you are a stickler for history repeating itself.

A last-minute entry into the Men's C.A.H.A. softball loop was most graciously accepted last night when the Stephen-Adamson Company have into sight of the loop with an application for affiliation, bringing the league roster to five clubs. Only game of the opening night will be two, Point Anne, Junkers and Corby's meeting on the Bellevue Diamond.

Only a few more games remain to be played in the Men's C.A.H.A. softball league before the curtain falls on the season, with the schedule drawing to a close next week. At the recent annual meeting of the C.A.H.A. held in Calgary last week the Dominion Softball Rules were revised for the season and the new rules and regulations interpreted according to the little blue book in all districts across Canada, so that clubs, officials and even the fans would interpret the playing rules identically. This ultimission was broadcast the length and breadth of the Dominion and accepted with open arms by the majority of hockeyists in the game. It is also believed at last hockey would reach a common place and have, therefore, the pay-off came during the third Memorial Cup game, when Claude Small and Bert Hedges were fired as referees simply because they confirmed a ruling to the new regulations. Hedges and Small instructed to officiate according to the rule book, but when they put the rules into effect, they were promptly fired. If that isn't the height of inconsistency—what is?—what stand is an official to assume?

With their backs to the wall after being shut out in the first games of the Allan Cup series, Regina Rangers outfought every one of the entire senior hockey final picture with some spirited play in the second game. The Cup series all tied up at two games and a tie, with the Sydney Millionaires. After the "down east-erners" had taken the first two games and tied the third, the experts were calling for Minnie to win in the fourth. Last night the rejuvenated Regina sextette whipped the Sydney team in the second straight game, winning three out of four games. Regina Rangers have shown plenty of the old mettle in their last three stands.

THE COOK'S "FIRST AID"

"DAUGHTER OF DESTINY"

By ELEANOR ATTERBURY COLTON

CHAPTER IV

That moment Wong announced dinner—and I regret to say, Devona. The sudden stir of voices, the movement across the long drawing room to the big, cool dining room beyond gave her time to marshal her emotions. It was so ridiculous—being upset like this just because a man she'd met less than 12 hours before smiled at some other woman.

Still she couldn't smother the little hope that at least she would be placed next to Dale at the table.

"Dale, darling, take me in please," Vara said gracefully, high against the window frame, stood so that the heavy maroon velvet drape made startling background for her white gown.

"Sure." Dale smiled and slipped her arm through his.

Devona felt her heart plummet.

With Tal Again

"Tal, you'll take care of Devona, won't you, angel?" Vara smiled carelessly toward them.

Tal nodded. Then, to Devona, he said, "Looks like you're stuck," as he guided her toward the dining room. "And I'm rotten company these days, too."

"Don't be silly," Devona insisted politely and wished that they weren't seated at the opposite end of the table from Vara and Dale at an angle from which Devona couldn't help seeing how beautiful her mother was. And how obviously devoted Dale was.

Jerking back her jealousy, she turned to Tal and smiled encouragingly. "Tell me about your play."

"I wrote it just for her." His dark eyes burned feverishly. "If she can't put it over, nobody can."

"She will, I'm sure." Devona encouraged him. "After all, it must be good or she wouldn't have chosen to act in it."

And suddenly she really hoped it was good—terribly good. Enough to succeed. It would help to succeed if this strangely violent young brother of Dale's was to keep his sanity. Anybody could see that.

Her Heart Grown Cold

Devona found herself searching Dale's face hungrily as he leaned toward Vara to catch some half-whispered remark. If Dale were in love with Vara—

Dinner finally dragged to an end and dancing was begun on the long veranda, overlooking the garden.

At the end of the first number Talbot released her, stood looking down at her as if for the first time. The warm eyes were about as much glamour as cambric tea. Her chin tilted higher. "How do you know I don't—belong?"

Asks Dale to Dance

Barnard smiled indulgently. As if, she thought, suddenly angry, he were a little grandaughter begging to stay up past her bedtime.

"You're sweet, honest, unspoiled. That's why."

"And that makes me unwelcome?"

"Oh—unsafe," —dryly.

A cool little smile hid her inner fury. "I'll risk that. And now, if you'll excuse me—"

He bowed. "Certainly."

Then, deliberately, head very high, the cool little smile still in place, she crossed the room to where Dale stood talking to Vara.

"I want to be danced with, Dale." she dared and held out her hands to him. "You've talked to Vara long enough."

Vara covered surprise with a little smile. "Yes, dance with the child, Dale. And come talk to me about that other later."

"Child!" Devona echoed as Dale slipped his arm around her. "Do I look so terribly half-grown?"

"You look like a very stunning young woman," Dale smiled, his blue eyes warm.

The music stopped, and they stood watching the moon lay a shimmering ripple on the patio fountain.

"It's stuffy in here," she began calmly. "Let's go out."

Dale kept one slim hand in his as they strolled across the shadow-patterned lawn to the big pool.

"Gorgeous night, isn't it?" she said when the silence became unmanageable.

"Yes—gorgeous," but he was looking at her. "What are you like behind that pretty smile?" he asked, half serious, half joking.

"Just a sweet 18-year old who's never been kissed," she mocked with just a shade of bitterness.

"If you aren't just that, you're a swell imitation."

His arm slipped around her waist, drew her closer until their glances met, clung hungrily. For a long heart-stopping moment Devona thought he would kiss her, and the night stood still around them, breathless, expectant.

Then, from somewhere on the veranda, Vara's lovely silvery laugh trailed out across the garden. Dale released her abruptly. "Well—" he said, almost curtly, "shall we go in?"

Whirling earthward like a spent rocket, Devona nodded. Grateful for darkness to hide her embarrassment, Dale's cool indifference.

She didn't see Dale again until it was time to say good night. Most of the other guests had gone to their rooms, but Devona had lingered, hoping for a word, a gesture, some sign that Dale was just a little interested.

But his blue eyes were masked when he said, "Good night, Devona."

Sinister Foreboding

Long after she'd slipped into the bed taken bed she lay wide-eyed, staring into the darkness. Dale, she whispered, and the sound sent waves of trembling washing over her. His eyes, his deep voice, his smile—like warm refuge from the coolness of Vara's welcome.

He hated her. Dale—his eyes had said so. And yet—something this morning, higher. "How do you know I don't—belong?"

Asks Dale to Dance

Barnard smiled indulgently. As if, she thought, suddenly angry, Talbot took her back into his arms "You've had an unusual education, haven't you?"

"I've been exposed to education in some strange places, if that's what you mean." And she smiled. "Swiss convents, French boarding schools, English tutors and a father who thought a trip to Victoria Falls or a Summer's trek through German cathedrals more important than a college degree."

"And wasn't it?"

Vague Doubts as to Future

Dale, with Vara in his arms, danced past her shoulder. Maybe if she'd grown up to the more conventional sophistication of her mother's bright world it might have been different. "Sometimes—I wonder."

And when the dreamy waltz ended, Talbot looked at her, suddenly very serious. "How long are you staying here?"

Devona started. "Why—I don't know. Indefinitely, perhaps. This is to be my—home.

Talbot shook his head. "I'm not sure you should. I'm afraid all this may spoil you." His shrug included the crowded room, the shrill clatter of women's voices, the clink of thin-stemmed glasses. "You're rather perfect, you know, just as you are."

Devona flushed warmly, tried to read between the lines of his scowl. Just what did he mean, A child, was she, not grown up enough to be interested in her mother's worldly friends? Was this Tal's way of telling her she wasn't wanted here?

In the middle of that thought, George Barnard tapped Tal's shoulder.

She Dances With Barnard

"Having a good time?" Barnard slipped an arm around her waist. He danced well, with a smooth, old-fashioned precision. Devona, following easily, smiled up at him. "Lovely." Does Mother—Vara, I mean — have parties like this often?"

"Every night." Barnard grinned wryly. "Even when she's doing six evening and two matinee performances a week. None of us can see how she keeps it up."

Devona glanced toward Vara's laughing face. "Maybe because she's—happy."

"Happy? Vara" Barnard shook his head. "She'll never be happy."

"Why?"

"Ambition. I guess." Then, abruptly the smile disappeared. He hid a frown. "How long do you plan to stay here?"

Startled, Devona stared at him. "You're the second person this evening who has asked me that. Why?"

"Because this is no place for you."

"But why not?" Anxiously, she searched his face, as fears stalked into her mind, took possession.

"If you don't even belong to this generation—much less a gang like this—"

So that was it! That was probably what Talbot had meant, too. That she was just some one out of the Victorian era with about as much glamour as cambric tea. Her chin tilted higher. "How do you know I don't—belong?"

FOUR NAZI TROOP SHIPS LAND 12,000 MEN IN FINLAND

Moscow Reports Troops Are Equipped With Tanks and Artillery

LINK IN NAZI CHAIN

Moscow, April 30 (AP)—Pravda, Communist party organ, reported today that four German transports had landed about 12,000 German troops equipped with tanks and artillery at the port of Turku, (Abo), in southwest Finland April 26.

The troops proceeded northeast to Tampere April 28, Pravda declared in a dispatch from Tallinn, Estonia.

The report of the German troop arrivals was contained in the following nine-line dispatch printed at the top of Pravda's foreign news page without comment.

"According to reliable reports, on April 26 there arrived at the Finnish port of Turku four German transport ships from which about 12,000 German troops landed with arms, tanks, and artillery, etc. On April 28, the troops began to move to Tampere."

Germans here asserted the Nazi troop arrivals were merely part of a regular movement of troops through Finland to Norway which has been going on for some time under agreement with the Finnish government.

It was the first time, however, that notice of such movements had appeared in the Soviet press.

The occupation of Finland by German troops in Finland might force a new link in the Nazi chain extending from Norway following German's occupation of Rumania and Bulgaria and the Nazi threat against Yugoslavia and Greece to the islands of the Aegean Sea.

German Ambassador Count Friederich Werner Schulenburg is flying back to Moscow from Berlin. Diplomatic quarters wonder if he returns to learn whether there would be any new developments in Soviet-German affairs.

Comunol Pravda, organ of the Young Communist league, said: "As a result of last week's battles the British army's position in Greece, its position in Eastern Mediterranean, remains firm."

Hitler And Duce Butt Of Many Russian Jokes

By HENRY CASSIDY

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Moscow, April 30 (AP)). — The Russians, despite their worries about the war, have found time and the energy of their life at home, still find time to tell jokes.

The jokes they tell give an insight into what they are thinking, which you won't find reported in the political columns of Pravda or the Communist party organ of the Red Star, but which is an important part of the Soviet viewpoint.

The public and their government has been one of neutrality, and of economic aid to Germany, while pressing forward with a considerable defense preparation. The feelings of the people are not all in that direction.

Their jokes often are sympathetic to Britain.

There is, for example, the one about Hitler, Mussolini and Prime Minister Churchill going to ask a fortune-teller who would win the war.

The soothsayer produced two fishbowls, one full of water and fish, the other empty, and asked:

"The one who captures the fish first will win the war."

Hitler immediately plunged into the full bowl, splashing water around and grabbing for the fish, but got nothing. Mussolini danced around the edge, tried to get his hands wet, but hoping for Hitler to throw the fish to him.

Mr. Churchill produced a teaspoon, patiently dipped the water from the full bowl into the empty one, picked the fish out of the bottom and was proclaimed eventual winner of the war.

"But didn't it take a long time?" comes the tag-line.

"Sure," is the answer, "but Churchill's in no hurry."

The jokes often take the Italians as their butt.

There is the one about the "British communique":

"Ten thousand Italians and 2,000 mules have been taken prisoners in East Africa. The mules offered fierce resistance."

Perhaps these stories are old stuff elsewhere, but it is significant that they are being told now in Russia.

Text Of Churchill's Address To House

London, April 30 (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill made the following statement to the House of Commons today when asked by H. B. Lees-Smith, Labor, if he had any statement to give the House on the evacuation of British forces from Greece.

"As I am most anxious to give the House, nation and Empire the fullest possible facts at the earliest possible moment and also in view of extraordinary claims made by the enemy I think it right now to give figures so far as they are known to us on the evacuation of Empire forces from Greece.

"Up to the time when evacuation was seen to be inevitable we had landed about 60,000 men from Greece including one New Zealand and one Australian division.

"Of these at least 46,000 have been safely brought off.

"Considering our air force was through sheer lack of numbers once more compelled to leave the airfields from which it could alone effectively protect our troops and that only a small portion could be used to cover points of embarkation, this must be considered a satisfactory result.

"The conduct of the troops and especially of the rearguard in fighting their way 40 many miles to the sea calls for the highest praise.

"It is the first instance where all three services have acted after day, has failed to break the discipline and order of marching and fighting, but besides being assailed from the air, were pursued by no less than three German armored divisions as well as the Italian Julia division, the most specialized forces which could be brought to bear.

"In actual fighting, principally on Mount Olympus and round Greveena and Thermopylae, almost 3,000 casualties killed and wounded are reported to have been suffered by our troops.

"This was a very small part of the losses inflicted on the Germans who on several occasions, sometimes by the sheer dash of a few, were brought to a standstill by forces not five fifteen against one.

"Nor did it take any account of Greek troops who joined in the battle upon the Greek and Yugoslav armies.

"I dare say it will be possible to give a fuller account in debate next week but I think I have said enough to show the House that, although we are sour losers, we have to be thankful for and the Empire forces have much to be proud of."

QUEBEC LIQUOR LAW DRASTICALLY CHANGED BY BILL

Sale Would be Banned on Sundays and Holidays and Age Raised of Those Obtaining Liquor

HOURS SHORTENED

Quebec, April 30 (CP)—A bill that would make far-reaching changes in the present liquor law of the province received first reading without debate in the Legislative Assembly here today.

The bill proposes a division of the province into two areas, roughly generally speaking, the restrictions against sale of liquor would be less severe in region "A" than in region "B".

The counties coming within region "A" are listed in the bill, and include the Island of Montreal and the region westward to the Ontario border, the Laurentian district to the north, part of the eastern townships and extend northeast along the St. Lawrence as far as Three Rivers.

Region "B" is described as "the territory of the province not included in region A."

The bill allows liquor to continue to be sold in cafes, with a meal provided as food or drink, and beer and wine may still be sold in restaurants. Under the new bill, the Quebec Liquor Commission, but the provision that such a license may not be granted to hotels situated outside cities and towns or hotels in region "B" unless "it is established that such a hotel is needed for tourist-trade."

Status Remains Unchanged

The status of taverns where beer is now sold without a meal would remain unchanged. The bill would, however, ban the sale of liquor on Sundays and holidays and would prevent the selling of beer or liquor in taverns, hotels, inns, cafes and restaurants.

The measure would raise from 18 to 20 years the minimum age of persons to whom liquor may be sold, and would prohibit sales to persons who are obviously under the influence of alcoholic liquor.

Advertising would be restricted by two clauses in the bill. One provides that it be confined to "to represent that an alcoholic liquor is beneficial to health or that it possesses nutritive or curative value," and the other prohibits advertising "of any alcoholic liquor by means of signs or posters, unless they are placed within a building so as not to be visible from outside."

The hours during which liquor could be sold are made shorter. In place of the present system of selling liquor from eight in the morning until three in the next morning, the bill provides for a 2 a.m. deadline in Montreal, a 1 a.m. close in Quebec, and a midnight close in other parts of the province, with the 8 a.m. opening remaining unchanged.

SHAM BATTLE CARRIED OUT

Somewhere in England, April 30 (CP)—A British army of 75000 men, using hundreds of tanks and 10,000 other fighting vehicles, has been engaged in manoeuvres with the Anglia—regarded as a crucial invasion test—against the combined hordes of Nazi "invaders."

Under the Commander-in-Chief of the Home Forces, Sir Alan Brooke, looking on, "Germans" landing with tanks were "smashed back into the sea," with the help of home gunfarmers.

British soldiers playing the roles of German parachutists were dropped from planes and were rounded up. But it was admitted they succeeded in causing considerable trouble.

RUSSIA PLACES BAN ON TRANSIT OF WAR MATERIALS

British Hope Ban Will Result in Closing One of Germany's Supply Routes

SOME THINK IT BLUFF

London, April 30 (CP)—Reuters News Agency said today from Moscow said last night the Soviet Union has banned passage of war material in transit through U.S.S.R.

London—British circles expressed hope today that Russia's ban on transit of war materials across the U. S. S. R. would lead to the closing of one of Germany's vital supply routes.

Some quarters interpreted the Russian announcement as stated in Reuters News Agency dispatch from Moscow last night—as an expression of friendship between Russia and Germany expansion in south-eastern Europe.

Less optimistic observers, however discounting talk of cooling German-Russian relations, said they interpreted the ban's as "more window dressing than genuine action."

Despite this disagreement on the true significance, most economic circles here believed the announcement was loaded with potential importance.

Reuters said the official assertions here that large quantities of American and other war and commodities purchased by Russia from the United States were finding their way into Germany, thus circumventing the British blockade.

Sir Frederick W. Leith Dalton, Minister of Economic Warfare told the House of Commons that Russia was buying cotton, copper, machine-tools and wheat from the United States to replace huge consignments being sent from the Soviet to Germany.

Mr. Dalton said at that time he was conversations then were under way with the United States might lead to the reduction of American traffic with Russia.

He declared Russian imports of United States cotton during the last quarter of 1940 were 32,000 tons, and 100,000 tons of wheat to Russia in 1940, compared with only negligible amounts in previous years, he said.

Berlin Communique

Berlin, April 30 (AP)—The German High Command today claimed the sinking of 85,250 tons of British merchant shipping from "strongly-protected convoys" and one of the convoying vessels by U-boat attack.

It was further claimed that speedboats thrusting against the British southeast coast yesterday attacked another "strongly protected" convoy and sank three merchantmen totalling 9,500 tons.

Berlin, April 30 (AP)—The German High Command asserted today that Nazi motorized forces in Greece have advanced to the southern point of Peloponnesus, "cutting the British retreat to sea."

"In this action up to date," the communique said, "5,000 Britons, including one general, as well as numerous officers, whom were four generals and an additional 300 officers, were taken prisoner."

It was further claimed that speedboats thrusting against the British southeast coast yesterday attacked another "strongly protected" convoy and sank three merchantmen totalling 9,500 tons.

Berlin, April 30 (AP)—The German High Command asserted today that Nazi motorized forces in Greece have advanced to the southern point of Peloponnesus, "cutting the British retreat to sea."

STAKE MASTERY ON BATTLESHIPS

Seafaring British Say Never Has Battleship Been Sunk by Bombs

By NOLAND NORGAARD

Associated Press Staff Writer.

London, April 30 (AP)—Though battleship costs seem almost prohibitive, Britain considers the loss of the deadliest and most destructive fighting ship this nation of seafarers still is willing to stake mastery of the high seas on a few more wagons.

Most British seafaring men familiar with the world's waterways both in war and in peace, have a ready answer for those who think the millions spent for a single battleship had been acknowledged by the Royal Oak, sunk at Scapa Flow by a German submarine.

The battleship advocates point to prime Minister Winston Churchill's announcement on April 11, 1940, that the 31,500-ton, 23,000-horsepower battleship Rodney was hit directly by a very heavy aerial bomb, and that her deck armor resisted the blow.

So far as has been indicated, the Rodney's effectiveness as a fighting unit remained undiminished.

If an old vessel like the Rodney could withstand such a blow, it was reasoned that the newer battleships with heavier deck armor should survive a terrific pounding British convoys tend.

THE WAR TODAY

By GUY RHODES

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Russia announced today it had banned transit across its territories of military supplies and machinery to manufacture them destined for supplied for foreign countries and the move was believed directed mainly against Germany. The Soviets also declared transit of non-military materials for foreign countries would be subject to strict licence.

Some British observers expected to see in this move a mere "window-dressing" gesture, but the announcement was followed within a few hours by a publication of reports four German transports had landed 12,000 troops and mechanized equipment at Turku (Abo) southern Finland, on April 26.

Germany asserted that the action represented transfer of forces to Norway via Finland.

If the German troop movement was designed merely to take replacements to the Norwegian garrison there remained the question of why the new arrivals should take additional mechanized equipment with them. Such a move might be a gesture in retaliation for Russia's action in banning the flow of supplies, arming manoeuvre, for the shores of the Black Sea, not for the inner ivory through which German troops must pass if they aim to seize Iraq oilfields. The Russian forces also are within striking distance of Iran, the Persian granary which Germany is reported coveting.

It was suggested that the Germans, believing the Black Sea Russian forces have been withdrawn from the neighborhood of the Finnish frontier may have sought to create doubt in the Russian High Command's mind by sending fresh troops to that district.

BRITISH ADVISED TO LEAVE GREECE ON APRIL 21ST

Greek Gov't. on That Date Stated 'Further Sacrifice' Would be in Vain

WHY MESSAGE SENT

London, April 30 (CP) — The Greek government advised Britain on April 21 to withdraw her expeditionary force from Greece because "further sacrifice" would be in vain, it was disclosed today.

The Foreign Office's news department issued this translation of the Greek message to the British government:

"The Greek government, while expressing to the British government and to the gallant imperial troops fighting beside the Greek army the feelings which they have extended to Greece in this fateful moment of unjust aggression, are obliged to make the following statement:

"After having conducted for more than six months a heroic struggle and with splendid, strongly superior enemy forces, the Greek army has now reached a state of exhaustion and moreover finds itself completely deprived of certain resources indispensable for the pursuit of war, such as munitions, motorized vehicles, and airplanes—resources with which it was in any case hardly plentifully supplied from the outbreak of hostilities.

"This state of things makes it impossible for the Greeks to continue the struggle with any chance of success and deprives them of any hope of being able to defend with success their valiant allies."

"At the same time, in view of the circumstances, the Greek government considers that the British continents in view of the limited military forces in Greece and in view of the extent of the new theatre of war developing in the imperial forces have an absolute need for them, and that the Greek army without which they could not prolong their own resistance for more than a few days.

"In these conditions the continuation of the British effort is incapable of producing any useful effect would only have the result of leading to bring about the collapse of the Greek army and the consequent loss to the Allied forces.

"Consequently the Royal Government is obliged to state that further sacrifice of the British Expeditionary Force would be in vain and that its withdrawal in accordance with the requirement necessary by circumstances and by interests common to the struggle."

NEAR COMPROMISE ON SEIZED SHIPS

Britain Will Soon be Able to Use 160 Vessels Under Foreign Flags Seized by U. S. Government

Washington, April 30 (CP)—British and U. S. officials in American republics were reported near a compromise authorizing the use of more than a possible the mutually advantageous use of 160 vessels under foreign flags now idle refugees in western hemisphere ports.

Under it, it would enable Britain to acquire any "surplus" shipping above the amount the United States needs were met.

Pursuant to acceptance of such a working formula was imminent followed by a meeting of western hemisphere republics to seize foreign vessels immobilized by war and use them in the interests of defence and security of the continent". This is the right of pooling ships for inter-American economic and financial purposes represented all the American nations.

The American nations, the their part, would agree to negotiate for the sale or charter to Britain of such surplus ships as they found after enough of the seized shipping has been left to meet the requirements of inter-American trade, where a ship shortage exists.

NO CHANGE IN ATTITUDE

Berlin, April 30 (AP)—A Nazi spokesman asserted today that Germany's attitude toward the war zone or not it does not change despite the entry of the U. S. consequences.

The spokesman referred to a "categorical" declaration months ago that whatever goes into the war zone or not it does not change the fact of what flag ship his ship is flying.

A BREAK FOR DRUNKS

Tallahassee, Fla., April 30 (AP)—Florida's drunks have a champion, legally a bill to make an intoxicated person immune from arrest unless he creates some disorder. Senator Fred P. Parker, who died Sunday, sponsored the measure, explaining that he favored it because he once had a farmer friend who was arrested for intoxication while peacefully driving his mule-drawn cart and had to sell his 40-acre farm to pay his fine.

Crete Is Vitally Important To British Strength

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington, April 30 (AP)—Anglo-Greek success in holding the Greek island of Crete, which the Nazis say is their next "occupation objective" in the Mediterranean, must turn upon the extent to which the British can succeed in forcibly and garrison it since Britain took it over at the start of the Greek war.

Adequately manned and gunned, Crete could be made virtually impregnable to any invader. Presumably substantial forces of the British Empire are rallying there following evacuation of the Greek mainland. Their chief task is repelling invasion attempts, even of parachutists and airborne troops, attack, behind the seventy miles or so of sea between Crete and the nearest point on the Peloponnesus, would seem reasonably good by any realistic military test. These chances must be keyed to the actualities of the Allied retreat to the island. Much may depend upon the British Navy's ability to keep constant Nazi air attack.

British defense details of the evacuation. If the escape from Greece is being made on the same terms as the withdrawal from Dunkirk, the troops being ferried to Crete do not constitute an army. At Dunkirk the British and French troops left virtually all equipment they could not carry away in their hands. A third of a million men were put out of action until they could be reorganized and re-equipped.

Island is Important

Crete is important to British strength in the Eastern Mediterranean however, and its preservation for defense must have been a first consideration. Not even the exigencies of the Balkan campaign could have induced the London authorities to let the Mediterranean Command to overlook the strategic value of Crete. There have been eyewitness accounts of British artillery, both armor and landed into an Eastern equivalent of Gibraltar.

Part of the battle on the Greek mainland, Nazi forces are reported to be nearing the southern coast of the Peloponnesus and so the British Navy's task in Greek waters is at hand. There are intimations from both London and Washington that as British losses may be, the valiant and prolonged rear-guard stand of the British Expeditionary force in Crete of enough fighting men and munitions to make Crete a base holding it indefinitely. Spokesmen of the British Government say that there have declared that to be their intention and Britain can no more could, even if she would, could have refused to embark on the evacuation of her troops in the first place under pledges given to Greece.

A Nazi attempt to take Crete by invasion might be staged as a dress rehearsal for what they have in store the United Kingdom. Yet the risk of repulse would be great. It seems more likely that for the present the Nazi aim in the direction of Crete may be designed to any realistic form of pressure, possibly in the Sicilian Straits to enforce the stalled Axis drive on the Libyan-Egypt border.

NO RUSH TO BUY GAS

Local service station proprietors of Toronto and suburbs appear to resolute rush by district motorists seeking to hit their tanks with gasoline in an effort to beat the budget increase. Despite the sharp increase of three cents in the price of gasoline, Several motorists rushed into garages and service stations in evening after they had heard of the three cent increase in the Federal Government, but were somewhat taken back to learn the increase was not into effect at midnight on Tuesday, April 29, but immediately retaining 29 1-2 cents, this morning was marked at 32 1-2 cents and other grades were marked accordingly.

Shortage of fuel in Montreal has been reported by the Montreal out of commission and the remaining 50,- 000, of which a reduction has been operated on rationed automobiles.

Nazis 'Close Up Like Penknives' As RAF Attacks Junkers On Ground

London, April 30—(CP Cable)—A Canadian airman told how German soldiers "closed up like penknives and ran for cover" when the great Then Royal Air Force aircraft attacked Junkers transport planes disembarking troops at Benina, Airport, near Bengasi in Libya.

The Canadian, captain of a reconnaissance plane, gave his account of the attack after he had returned to base. He was quoted by the Air Ministry News Service in amplification of today's R. A. F. middle east communique.

"We had completed our recce," said the Canadian. "and were coming back over Benina when we were confronted by what looked like 100 planes lined up with the wing up.

"It was too good to miss but it is not our job to attack so I called the crew and asked them what they thought about it."

"Let's wreck 'em, Sir," they said.

"So I flew 2-3 miles up I pointed down our nose into a steep dive.

"There were groups of soldiers gathered about on the land ground. We dived to about 50 feet and flashed right along the line of aircraft, giving them all we had."

The Canadian whose name was not disclosed, said one aircraft burst into flames and smoke poured from others. The soldiers, too started to raise their rifles "and closed up like penknives and toppled to the ground."

"As we mowed through them at the bottom of our dive my air gunner said there must have been almost skimming the ground. My other gunner fired a burst into the Croud which was standing away from the aircraft.

The R.A.F. plane returned to base without a casualty and without thought about it."

NEW, INCREASED

If he builds a house he will pay sales tax on his building materials, hitherto exempt from that tax.

If he dies and leaves an estate he will pay increased succession duty as well as Provincial succession duty

(A one-cent a pound increase in the excise stamp tax on tea was announced but this will not affect the consumer since the price increase was effected on March 26 to forestall speculative pre-budget buying.)

After hearing the budget address the House turned to consideration of the government's resolutions.

Victor Quelch (N. D. Acadia) suggested if the government could not pay Prairie farmers more than 70 cents a bushel for wheat it should give them war savings certificates to bring the price up to a fair level.

Mr. Ilsley said he knew little of the regular debate which held main interest.

"The financial task of the Canadian people is to divert, by taxation or by any precedent, colossal but it is not an acute, impracticable," he said. "The rates are tones as he ended this two-hour financial recital in the house.

"It will require strict economy but not sacrifice of essentials.

"It will require hard work and the most patriotic spirit which passes through our treasuries into that of the nation but it will not endanger, but strengthen, the business structure nor the value of resources."

First Canadian Budget Tax

As forecast at the recent unprecedented Provincial Premiers' conference Mr. Ilsley found it necessary to step into the field of taxation occupied by the provinces. He announced the first Canadian inheritance tax in history. These are in addition to present provincial taxes and the Dominion itself were not a wartime expedient but a permanent measure.

He coupled the increases in income taxes with the statement that the provinces drop their income taxes and the corporations and individuals and in return offered them grants-in-aid equal to the amount collected last year or to the sum exercise on their debts less succession duty collections.

His three-cent tax on gasoline will cost motorists in Ontario, Quebec and some other provinces much higher imposts in others.

The budget proposals indicated a four-fold objective, the primary one being the securing of revenue. They were also directed toward securing foreign exchange, facilitating the sale of British goods in Canada and encouraging economy. Higher taxes would save money and avoid buying things which would cause a drain in industrial capacity.

The gasoline tax and amendments to the War Exchange Conservation Act were designed to check the outlay of foreign exchange on imports.

Business Tax Placed

To make it easier for Great Britain to sell goods here and so pay part of the bill for enlarged purchases of war materials a list of imports are made free under the preferential British tariff, and discounts of 26 or 50 per cent. on duties payable on all other British goods except tobacco, liquors, sugar and silk are provided.

Application of the eight per cent sales tax to building materials hitherto exempt is designed to check building activity. So is an order-in-council announced by the Minister which will require persons and firms enlarging, building or installing machinery in commercial or industrial establishments, to obtain a license from federal authorities.

The additional taxes are non-essentials, such as cosmetics, perfume, playing cards, soft drinks and chewing gum. All of these things have a similar objective as the gasoline tax—to raise revenue.

Much of us will be affected by one or more of these taxes," said the Minister, "but no one need pay all of them. Everyone can choose to avoid some of these taxes by saving and spending. I hope it will be satisfied."

Here is the financial picture put before the House by the Minister:

Revenue for the fiscal year, ending March 31 the government estimates $1,366,527,000 and collection of taxes already imposed will yield an overall deficit of $395,506,000;

In the present year expenditures will run from $1,768,000,000 to $1,800,000,000. Revenues of $1,400,000,000 are anticipated, leaving a deficit of $385,000,000 to $515,000,000;

Give to Canada Fund

In addition the government will have to find $90,000,000 for relief and $900,000,000 to meet the difference between the excess of the adverse balance of trade with the United States over the balance in favor of Canada on trade with the United Kingdom; interest-free loans to Britain and the acquiring by the government on account of annuities, civil service superannuation and unemployment insurance are expected to contribute $500,000,000 to this.

The balance, plus the budgetary deficit must be borrowed—totalling about $1,000,000,000.

Increases in the income tax and the national defence tax are expected to contribute the largest amount to the anticipated $395,000,000 increase in revenue. After deducting proposed payments to the provinces it was estimated that cutting out of the income tax field would yield $100,000,000 and increases profits tax taxes is placed at $90,000,000 and the succession national defence tax at $60,000,000.

The new succession duties were expected to yield $20,000,000 and the gasoline tax $20,000,000. Increased taxes on interest and dividends payable abroad are expected to bring in $30,000,000.

The new income tax rates start at 15 per cent on the first $2000 of taxable income and rise steeply. Where the national defence tax ends a two per cent levy starts on five per cent, and where it is three per cent it is levied in seven per cent.

Doubles the Imposts

The budget proposals call for doubling of the imposts on lower income and double increases on higher income, which bring correspondingly heavier taxes before the change.

Thus a single person earning $700 will pay the 1941 income payment of $14 on 1940; a single person with $1,000 income will pay $17.50 against $35; a single person with $2,000 will pay $540 against $90; a married person with $3,000 will pay $622.50 against $225; a single person with $5,000 will pay $1,322.50 against $705.

A married person with $1,350 will pay $50 against $26; A married person with $2,000 will pay $122.50 against $75; a married person with $3,000 will pay $422.50 against $225.

For each child $5,000 will pay $1,000 against $500.

Besides a former surtax on investment income, a new surtax on all investment income over $1,000 is imposed.

Illustrates the Effect

To illustrate the effect of the new rates on the new tax Mr. Ilsley said: "The very rich bachelor with a salary of $50,000 and investment income of $40,000 now pays us $362,555 and under the new rates would pay $1,000 more. The rich man with a net taxable income of over $500,000 pays one cent on his income from his investments in 1940 and will pay 12 cents.

The new surtax on investment income begins at $1,000 and the greater distinction between earned and unearned income. This will bring a surtax in every case where high income tax rates became a person unable to save. Investment will be the key something safe for the future while a person drawing income from investments always had his capital to rely on.

Elaborate Outline of Act

The budget contains an elaborate outline of the proposed Succession Duties Act. The corporation will apply to estates of different sizes and to beneficiaries calculated at varying relationship to the deceased person.

Taxes on non-residents drawing dividends and interest from Canada are raised from five to 15 per cent to keep them in line with taxes in Canadians.

The principal change affecting corporations is the increase from 15 to 22 per cent in the minimum rate under the profits tax. This is coupled with the Corporation Income Tax Act of 1940 which by what means a tax of at least 40 per cent on the income of all corporations.

Mr. Ilsley said there would be no exemption from the Provincial Income Tax to tourists, farmers or others. Mr. Ilsley said he did not expect it to affect tourist traffic as the United States was not proposing to levy a Federal Gasoline Tax of 2 1-2 cents per American gallon, the equivalent of three cents in Canadian money.

The tax on passenger automobiles valued at less than $900 is increased from 10 to 15 per cent with higher rates on higher-priced cars in like ratio, including the maximum limit of $250 to the five per cent rate on commercial cars. The new tax on railway, steamship and airline fares is 10 per cent and on all other new levy is a five per cent tax on amounts wagered at horse races.

U. S. NAVY

No Mileage Limits.

Mr. Roosevelt, in discussing the patrol yesterday, repeated time and again that operations were put under no mileage limits for its activities. A little earlier Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of Naval Operations, had disclosed that at some points ships of the fleet were patrolling as far as 1,000 miles offshore, but Mr. Roosevelt declined to comment on Admiral Stark's remarking that the 2,000 mile did once be depended on as the limit of operations.

Evidence of Axis interest in the wide patrol system was not slow in forthcoming. Several hours after Mr. Roosevelt's address, Dr. Otto Kiep, rector of the official board of information at Vichy, France, said the Atlantic patrols as "but one step from war."

He said in reply to a question that extension of the patrols was in the direction of a "real war" against "and very dangerous". The fact that a japanese admiral was concerning himself about naval operations in the Atlantic and pronouncing responsibilities in the Pacific did not go unnoticed here.

Patrols Hailed By Churchill

Prime Minister Churchill Sunday hailed the extended patrols as "tremendous decisions, representing naval support now for Britain, within the limitations of the patrol plan. Mr. Churchill spoke of American patrols and British convoy warships as if they were complementary units one serving in the Western Ocean and the activ along part of Britain's Atlantic lifeline, and the other as the Bills says she's strictly shanty Irish. the intensified danger zone around British ports.

On another phase of Maritime developments, Mr. Roosevelt told reporters yesterday that an announcement might be made soon concerning the transfer of coast guard vessels to the navy. The coast guard usually is taken only in time of war.

CANADIANS GREET

He will pay much highey income and national defence taxes; gasoline for his car will cost more, and so will movie tickets. He will also contribute to the Dominion treasury through increased rail, bus and transportation costs; higher prices for cosmetics, chewing gum, soft drinks, cosmetics and other tax provisions.

Minister Hepburn of Ontario said in announcing a special session of the provincial cabinet next week that the "sharp increase" in income and national defence taxes "will work a tremendous hardship on the small and middle income family." He also said the new gasoline tax would "hit at the little trade."

Quebec Cabinet is Meet

J. A. Mathewson, Quebec's provincial treasurer, said a cabinet meeting would be held next week to consider the budget. A similar statement came from Premier Hon. Mitchell F. Hepburn of New Brunswick. Other premiers promised statements later.

The Gasoline Tax "undoubtedly and unfortunately" will be used as propaganda by those interested in keeping American oil out of Canada, W. G. Robertson, General Manager of the Canadian Petroleum League said. "The higher it goes, naturally the more resistance to its use," he said. "The war undoubtedly will have the effect of raising the cost of living generally, affecting many basic and war industries."

J. G. Goodman, Manager of the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, said trucking rates will be increased. "The industry is to survive" the new Gasoline Tax.

The 20 per cent tax on motion picture entertainment was said by Famous Players Canada Ltd., to be "a complete surprise" in that it would be "such a high tax."

J. A. Hirsch, of Montreal, President of Associated Theatres, said the Motion Picture Tax would work a hardship on movie-goers, but "looking at it in other ways, we are lucky to be open."

This May Retard Trade

D. A. Thomson, Secretary-Treasurer of the Builders' Exchange, in Montreal, said the removal of building materials from exemption from the eight per cent sales tax would retard building activity. John E. Clarke of Toronto, President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said bullsing likely would continue at the present rate.

H. W. James, General Passenger Agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said the 10 per cent tax on railway and airplane passenger tickets would have little effect on travel, basing his belief on the fact that there was no fall-off in rail travel in the First Great War when there was no falling-off of ticket sales.

Tobacco men across Canada seemed little concerned over the increase of tax on cigarette tubes from five to 10 cents per package. Haltrecht, proprietor of the Oriental Tobacco Co., said it was "a fair tax."

E. A. Thomas of Niagara Falls, Ont. Chairman of the Association of the tax on wines would apply equally to Canadian brands, since wine-producers in Canada were "generally interested" in preventing any reduction in the present consumption of Canadian grapes.

Restrictions Against Use Of Foreign Exchange To Continue Says Ilsley

Ottawa, April 30 (CP)—Definite announcement that the restrictions against use of foreign exchange for travel would be made by Finance Minister Ilsley in his budget address today in the House of Commons.

"This administration would abandon that prohibition immediately if it could be done without injury to Canada's war effort," he said. He added, however: "If all restrictions are removed I am of the opinion that we would have to find more than $70,000,000 to $80,000,000 for pleasure travel."

American funds would be provided for necessary business travel, for students, for medical purposes, and for educational purposes, in certain cases.

If any Canadian arranges to visit United States relatives or friends who provide United States dollars for that purpose no objection will be raised, Ilsley said.

There had been criticism that some Canadians were going abroad to the United States, Mr. Ilsley said, but he had ascertained that travel had been "absolutely no discrimination" in dealing with applications for travel permits.

Mr. Ilsley said United States tourist travel in the last year or two had been disappointing. He expected next year's would open this year and stay for longer periods, but "it is probably not safe to count on net receipts from this source of more than $130,000,000."

He said that the Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimated that Canada's net receipts from tourist travel were $128,000,000 in 1940, while expenditures outside the Dominion by Canadian tourists, were estimated at $43,000,000, a favorable balance of $85,000,000.)

Egg Prices Slightly Lower

Toronto, April 30—Egg prices took a fractional drop on the Toronto open produce market yesterday while butter held steady to firm.

Slightly easier tone developed on the egg market in the afternoon when it was reported that purchasers were paying from 21 1-2 cents to 22 cents per dozen for Grade "A" large. Although receipts were on the light side there were no buyers in this grade, reported good demand.

Butter market was steady, but quiet yesterday due to a light demand. Some firmness was noted in the market resulted in a slow trade and the sales reported were in small lots of one pound.

Waitresses Having Afternoon Off Meet Lord Halifax and Malcolm MacDonald

Washington, April 30 (AP)—Gee, you shoulda been along when Elisabeth O'Connor and Ann Magnotta and Billie Young met His Lordship in Rock Creek Park yesterday.

Viscount Halifax, you know, the Ambassador.

It's their afternoon off from the Silver Cafe where they're waitresses, see, and they're taking in the zoo when this Lord Halifax comes along with some other guy. Well, they recognize him from his picture in the papers and run after him and ask for his autograph.

Nice as anything, he writes it right on the waitress's box. Then he introduces the fellow with him—"Oh, we have a colored orchestra and a little dance floor and a lot of Hitterbugs," she says. "You'd like it."

"I probably would," His Lordship says, "but I'm surprised if you see there some night."

But first Elizabeth asks His Lordship for a carnation he had in his buttonhole and he gives it to her and says: "I wish I had one for each of you." She put it in her memory book, when she got home.

Then he asks the girls their nationalities and Elizabeth and Billie tell him their people were born in Ireland and Ann says hers came from Italy and they say she's "Irish" strictly for Britain.

"But there are two kinds of Irish — shanty Irish and lace curtain Irish," cracks His Lordship. So Billie says he's strictly shanty Irish.

And Billie asks him why he don't come down to the Silver Cafe some night and he asks her what it's like.

"Oh, we have a colored orchestra and a little dance floor and a lot of Hitterbugs," she says. "You'd like it."

"I probably would," His Lordship says, "but I'm surprised if you see me there some night."

Officer In The Merchant Marine Will Long Remember Month Of March

Yarmouth, N.S., April 30 (CP)—Jack Ward, an officer in the merchant marine, will long remember the month of March in his career of the Atlantic for he had three ships sunk under him. Ward is spending a vacation with his family here before he rejoins another vessel.

The first ship met disaster, he said, when torpedoed and sunk without warning off the east coast of Britain. As second officer he was on watch when the firing broke out and fell unconscious from the concussion. The first officer gave him up for dead when the ship abandoned.

Ward said he awoke to the crashing of shellfire to find he was the only man left aboard. A Canadian built corvette was engaging several U-Boats and he was picked up shortly after the convoy's destroyer escort had passed. He returned to the ship and finally was picked up by the corvette.

Morning revealed the wreckage of the ship and the U-Boat, he said.

A few days later he was again on watch when his second merchant ship was struck by a torpedo. He was blown into the water while kept afloat by his life preserver. One of four men to survive, they were picked up by a small boat two hours later.

He was rescued also from another night attack when his vessel was torpedoed by a lurking submarine in the South Atlantic. The crew took to the lifeboats and were adrift for two days later and taken to the Canary Islands.

ASKS MORE AID

Viscount Halifax, ambassador from Great Britain to the United States, is shown as he delivered an address as guest of honor at a banquet of the Atlanta Bar Association, Georgia, during the need of more American aid for embattled Britain the ambassador said that "German efforts can be defeated only if we have the fullest help that you can bring." Although he avoided mention of American convoys, Lord Halifax said: "You are as much concerned as we in seeing that the material you strain every nerve to produce reaches its destination safely."

AT THE BELLE

"Come Live With Me"
Presenting a new romantic team which is destined to be one of the most popular in screen history, "Come Live With Me" has James Stewart and Hedy Lamarr, under the direction of Clarence Brown, opens today at the Belle Theatre.

Based on a story tailor-made for the pair, the picture has them as a beautiful Austrian refugee who is given the alternative of marrying an American citizen and thus obtaining a quota number, or being deported to her native Austria. Preferring the former she proposes marriage to Stewart, a fellow Austrian young author. Through a purely business arrangement, the marriage is to give Miss Lamarr her number and, of course, Stewart is to have his living expenses paid until he can sell one of his novels. The complications of this strange deal made more puzzling when the two actually fall in love, supplies the screen with one of its amusing stories.

Stewart as Author

Stewart, who stepped directly into this role from the lead opposite Katherine Hepburn in "The Philadelphia Story" bi-deadly suited for the characterization of the ambitious author who finally decides to write from experience rather than imagination. Miss Lamarr comes to the role fresh from her highly applauded appearance with Clark Gable in "Comrade X."

The supporting cast is headed by Ian Hunter, as the publisher. As his wife is Verree Teasdale, remembered for her work in "I Take This Woman," featuring Spencer Tracy and Miss Lamarr. Others in the cast are Donald Meek, Barton MacLane, Edward Ashley, Ann Sheridan, King Baggot and Mrs. Adeline Wah Reymolds, veteran stage actress who makes her screen debut in the role of Stewart's grandmother.

Pete Smith Specialty

Pete Smith's "Third Dimensional Murder," the new meticonopic thrill sensation to be seen through color glasses supplied by the theatre, a new edition of the March of Time and an unusual and entertaining animation miniature will also be exhibited.

Gasoline Tanker Goes Aground Near False Duck Light

Point Traverse, April 29—A large gasoline-laden oil barge, Philadelphia registry, far off its course, went aground on the head of the False Bar shoal, two miles off the False Duck light, during the early part of Monday morning, but freed herself with the assistance of the towing tug Opal.

No seas were running and visibility was clear at the time of the mishap.

It is believed by fishermen here that the ship's captain had mistaken the False Duck light for the beacon at the Main Duck island, which is nine miles distant.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Adam Had Four Sons"

"Adam Had Four Sons" will be presented next at the McCarthy theatre. Featuring outstanding performances by Ingrid Bergman, this adaption of Charles Bonner's recent best-selling novel, "Leaving" is an important addition to the new season's product. Dealing with a particularly different subject, and dealing with it frankly and openly, the picture is restricted to adult patronage, but it is an intelligently constructed and performed, that it should find a hearty response from critics and public.

Story opens in the year 1907, with the hiring by Adam Stoddard and his wife, Molly, of Emilie Gallatin as governess for their four sons. The new governess is an instant success, and father, mother and children come to rely on her more and more. Suddenly, Molly dies, and the shock started crash rules the Stoddard fortune. Adam is forced to let Emilie go, but promises her that as soon as he is back on top again he will return to her. Two years later that day has arrived, and Emilie returns to the Stoddard home, but this time as governess to four grown-up boys, all of them in the army. One, Adam, on the eve of leaving for overseas, gets married, and leaves his wife, Hester, with the family.

Hester turns out to be bad medicine, and although she is able to find the others she can't find Emilie, who is wary of her from the first. Hester has an affair with Jack the oldest brother, and the horror-
